NO BICENTENNIAL BABY – Symbolic of the new year that arrived at midnight is Randy Truman Babcock, born Dec. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesley Babcock of 547 Aliso Ave., Newport Beach. In his role as "Baby 1977" here he seems to be lustily yelling for his chance to fulfill promises and dreams at least as well as did 1976, the bicentennial year. Someone must have gotten a lot of use out of the well-worn high hat during the 200th anniversary year, but the condition of the hat and banner say that what is past is past. America's third century is under way. Happy New Year!

GG Seeks 2 Suspects In Coed Slaying Case

GARDEN GROVE – Police announced Friday they are seeking two suspects in the brutal rape-murder of pretty 19-year-old nursing student Janet Stallcup.

Homicide investigators declined to say how they determined the identities of the suspects, but issued the following descriptions:

– Male white adult, 22 to 24 years of age, about 5-foot-10, 185 pounds, round face, with frizzy, dirty blond hair parted in the middle. Possibly armed with a .38-caliber chrome revolver.

– Male white adult, 26 to 28 years of age, 6-foot, 180 pounds, unshaven, light brown kinky hair in a small pony tail.

Police say the suspects may have been driving a 1962 or 1964 Chevrolet two-door sedan, dirty white in color.

A $5,000 reward has been offered by the parents of Miss Stallcup for information leading to the arrest and conviction of her killer or killers. Information should be directed to Garden Grove police

Miss Stallcup, a part-time nurse at UCI Medical Center and Cypress College coed was found dead in her car Monday morning behind a Yockey Street apartment complex. Her neck was broken and she had been sexually assaulted.

She had been missing since Dec. 19, when she left home for a Christmas party. The county coroner's office estimated she had died Dec. 22.

30% Odds On Rains For Today

There is a 30 per cent chance of showers in Orange County today, the weather bureau predicts.

Skies should remain partly cloudy with temperatures ranging in the upper 50s, dropping to 52 to 45 degrees tonight.

A 20 per cent chance of rainfall is expected for the Rose Parade in Pasadena.

Travelers advisories stand for mountain areas, with chains required. Local heavy snowfall is expected down to 4,000 feet.

Police departments throughout the county reported numerous but minor traffic accidents Friday because of the rains.

Control One, a county emergency communications network, reports all its monitoring lines light up

Ford Plans To Propose Puerto Rico Statehood

VAIL, Colo. (AP) – President Ford said Friday that he will recommend legislation to grant statehood to Puerto Rico, a move that would make the island commonwealth the 51st state.

The "common bonds of friendship, tradition, dignity and individual freedom" that link Puerto Rico and the United States should be cemented "through statehood," Ford said in a statement.

If Congress should pass legislation granting statehood to Puerto Rico, the island's residents would have to vote approval of the commonwealth's entry into the Union, a move that would be opposed by some Puerto Ricans who seek independence.

Deputy Press Secretary John Carlson said Ford believes that Puerto Ricans, who are citizens of the United States, "should have all the rights and benefits that other American citizens have."

As a commonwealth, Puerto Rico has more autonomy than a mainland state, but is still subject to most U.S. legislation. Puerto Ricans do not pay income taxes, but the Caribbean island receives a large share of federal aid.

Puerto Ricans cannot vote in presidential elections, but possess most other rights and obligations of U.S. citizens.

If Congress acted swiftly, Carlson said, Puerto Rico could become a state within a year.

If granted statehood, Puerto Rico would become the first state admitted to the Union since Hawaii became the 50th state on Aug. 21, 1959.

The Caribbean island was ceded to the United States by Spain in 1898 and became a U.S. territory. It gained commonwealth status in 1952.

A White House spokesman said Ford's action "might be interpreted as an indication to Cuba's Fidel Castro that we value Puerto Rico and won't allow any tampering there."

Ford said he had reviewed recommendations from a Puerto Rican advisory group and the Cabinet that recommended "a new Compact of Permanent Union" aimed at giving the commonwealth

Water Rationing Warnings Sent

SACRAMENTO (AP) – Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Friday the state has asked 29 local water districts, most of them in small Northern and Central California communities, to prepare for water rationing because of the drought.

Brown's Water Resources director, Ron Robie, said the communities have been cooperating.

But Brown said the state has the constitutional power to prevent wasteful use of water. He didn't say whether the state could enforce a rationing program.

The governor also said the state is preparing guidelines for water conservation by all residents, including water-saving devices for toilets and showers.

The program includes water-sharing by counties with plentiful water. Robie said the state is willing to pay the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California to use more expensive Colorado River water rather than the Northern California water for which it has contracted.

Manson Girl's Bail Cut Bid Refused

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A Superior Court judge declined Friday to reduce bail for Leslie Van Houten, a former follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson.

Judge Jack E. Goertzen conceded Miss Van Houten had made progress in prison, but he said the "gravity" of the charges require bail to remain at $200,000.

The former Monrovia High School homecoming princess, now 27, faces a new trial next month on charges of murder and conspiracy in the deaths of grocery store owner Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, in 1969.

Miss Van Houten's 1971 conviction was overturned last month by the state Court of Appeal.

Her attorney, Maxwell Keith, told Goertzen he believed $50,000 would have been "a fair and reasonable bail even under the circumstances."

He added, "I do not believe she is a security risk."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Kay reminded the judge that the appeals court had reversed Miss Van Houten's conviction and also stressed that the evidence against her was very strong.

Kay said Miss Van Houten's alleged crime was "one of the most serious offenses Los Angeles has ever had."

During the hearing, Miss Van Houten agreed to waive any conflict of interest argu-

Release Of Sex Offenders Slated Under Law Change

By LARRY WELBORN
And CHARLES ROBERTS
Register Staff Writers

Several certified sex offenders will be entitled to release from state mental hospitals today because of a little-known change in state law.

Officials from state mental hospitals and the California Department of Health could not pinpoint the exact number of sex offenders immediately affected, but they gave "rough estimates" of between 10 and 30 patients.

Many more sex offenders will be entitled to release as they spend more time in mental hospitals, the officials said.

Changed is the state Welfare and Institutions Code, which deals in part with persons convicted of sex crimes. The law was changed by Assembly Bill 4285, introduced by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco.

Under the Welfare and Institutions Code, criminal procedings against a person convicted of a sex crime may be suspended in favor of what is known as mentally disordered sex offender procedings. Persons committed to mental hospitals under these procedings are known as MDSOs.

The change in the code se the state cannot keep MDSO in a mental hospital longer than the time he would have spent in prison under his

6 Youngsters Rescued After Night At Sea

DANA POINT – Six teenaged boys spent a rainy, windy night drifting offshore 13 hours in a boat until their rescue by the harbor patrol Thursday morning.

The boys had borrowed a 21-foot craft belonging to one boy's father at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, a harbor patrol spokesman said. They headed up the coast to Salt Creek, just north of the harbor, turned around and stopped. The boat had run out of gas.

Battered by heavy winds and five-foot swells, with no food or fresh water, the boys drifted more than a mile offshore.

Thursday morning, they were spotted by a passing commercial fisherman and the crew of a sailboat, who radioed for assistance.

TODAY'S REGISTER STOCK LIST BECOMES DOCUMENT

By terms of the "Tax Reform Act of 1976," the profit for estate purposes of any stocks and bonds that you own will be determined on the basis of Friday's sales prices.

For instance, if 1,000 shares of a corporation traded Friday at a high of $10.375 per share and a low of $10.125, the average would be $10.25. In the future, should an heir sell the stock, the profit on the sale will be computed bu using the $10.25 figure as the basic price of acquisition.

For that reason, The Register's stock list today includes Friday's high and low prices instead of the usual week's high and low. Today's stock list, therefore, becomes a document valuable for filing with stock certificates that are likely to be passed on to future heirs. It becomes a record for tax purposes in years to come.

This provision of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 applies to marketable securities acquired before 1977 and inherited after 1976. It is not retroactive to previous inheritances. Other provisions of the new law apply to other estate situations.

Register's Monday business section will include the complete yearly stock lists for the New York and American stock exchanges plus the National over-the-counter list.

Amish Religion, Indiana Milk Regulation Collide

SHIPSHEWANA, Ind. (AP) – Hundreds of Amish dairy farmers, unwilling to compromise their religious beliefs, are being forced out of business by a state regulation requiring them to cool their milk by modern means.

The regulation, going into effect March 1, requires that warm, fresh milk be cooled to 50 degrees Fahrenheit within two hours after it leaves the cow, a process that can only be accomplished by refrigeration. The rapid cooling is intended to prevent growth of bacteria.

But the Amish, who traditionally have cooled their milk with cold water or ice, are forbidden by their religion to use electricity, the source of power for most milk cooling systems. The old method with cold water or ice can only cool milk to 70 degrees within two hours.

As a result, many Amish are having to sell their herds of dairy cows and many are either planning to raise chickens or hogs or are seeking employment in the mobile home factories dominant in the area.

"We know there's going to be some economic loss involved," said Herbert W. Koenig, chief of the milk production section of the State Board of Health. "But we think it's a valid law.

"We're not unsympathetic to the Amish," he explained, noting that enforcement of the regulation, passed in 1973, has been held up so that some accommodation could be worked out with Amish leaders.

But he added: "Modern cooling procedures have been shown to reduce the bacteria content of milk and that can cut down on intestinal diseases."

Some Amish, caught between their beliefs and the prospect of losing their source of income, are trying to comply as best they can.

Gasoline-and diesel-powered cooling systems could hold the key for some of those trying to stay in business.

"Using electricity is being like the rest of the world and Scripture teaches them not to conform to the rest of the world," explained Paul J. Miller, owner of Wana Hardware in this small northeastern Indiana community.

"For the past two years, we've hooked up many mechanical coolers with gas engines," said Miller, whose customers are predominately Amish.

"Basically, they're saying 'We'll do what we can to conform.' They're going to do what's required as far as their consciences will let them go."

However, the mechanical coolers are expensive since there is only a limited market for them and many of the Amish dairy farmers affected by the regulation cannot afford them.

Officials of the County Line Cheese Co. in Auburn, Ind., which did $3 million worth of business with Amish dairy farmers in 1975 and expect about the same for 1976, said no bad or inferior products were produced on Amish farms that did not refrigerate.

The cheese firm tried to set up receiving stations for morning and evening pickup so the milk could be taken to its plant and cooled quickly. But company officials said the plan was not economically feasible.

"I think the regulation is unnecessary," Fred Marolf Jr., president of County Line, said Friday. "I'd like to see the State Board of Health put that regulation on the shelf and forget about it."

He said his company and others in the area have dealt with the Amish for 50 years and "there has never been a problem with their milk."

Marolf added: "I think they're getting a raw deal."

Sansinena Yields Fifth Body

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Salvage crews trying to untangle the wreckage of the oil tanker Sansinena, which was ripped apart by an explosion two weeks ago, have uncovered a fifth body.

The bodies of four other men were found immediately after the Dec. 17 blast, and four others remain missing and are presumed dead.

The body found Thursday night was in the radio shack in the ship's mangled superstructure, which was ripped off the ship by the explosion and hurled nearly 75 yards inland.

The dead man's name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Pair 'Rescued' From Crowd In Purse Snatch

MIAMI (AP) – Two teenagers who allegedly stole a woman's purse welcomed police after an impromptu posse of 30 irate citizens chased them down, hogtied them with a chain and sat on them, authorities say.

"The robbers were glad to see me," said Police Maj. Philip Doherty after he "rescued" Johnny Battle, 19, of Miami, and a 14-year-old boy whose name was not released.

"It was heartwarming to see the citizen response," added Doherty. "Young, old, black, white, everybody in the neighborhood joined in. In this case they overwhelmed them with numbers."

It all began Wednesday night when Rose Marie Vernell, 50, of Miami Beach, was knocked down by two youngmen who took her purse, police said. The victim, described as having a "good set of lungs," began yelling.

"They grabbed her purse and took off running," said Thomas Hill, a department store salesman who started the chase, which was quickly joined by fellow employe Jack Carr.

Rudolph Shoucair was across the street. He, too, starting running and screaming. By now, Ms. Vernell – the title she prefers – was also after the thieves while continuing her call for help.

The chase went by a rooming house where about 30 residents were relaxing on the porch.

One elderly man jumped up, shouting that the fleeing teenagers were the same persons who had robbed him earlier. He and others on the porch joined in the pursuit, which ended abruptly when the fleeing suspects ran up a dead-end street.

Hill grabbed one by the feet "and the old man wrapped a chain around his neck.

"They sat on him, and I went and grabbed the other one," he added.

When Doherty arrived, everyone was yelling for help, including the suspects.

Vatican's Art Sale Rejected

VATICAN CITY (AP) – A Vatican prelate in charge of sacred art on Friday rejected suggestions that Michelangelo's Pieta sculpture and other priceless Vatican art objects be put on sale for funds to aid the needy.

Bishop Giovanni Fallani, writing in the Holy See's weekly magazine L'Osservatore della Domenica, said to sell the Vatican's riches would be tantamount to "the triumph of materialism over spiritualism."

The Pieta, marble statue of the Madonna holding the dying Jesus, was on view at the New York World Fair in 1964, reportedly insured for $10 million.

Some Vatican observers said the article appeared designed to counter recent "criticism and observations on the conspicuous property of the Vatican state."

Barges Laden With Salt For Icy Roads Blocked

LOUISVILLE (AP) – The blockage of barge traffic on the Ohio River by a wrecked set of locks is delaying shipments of salt destined for icy, mountain roads in West Virginia.

Hugh Bosely, city manager of Charleston, W. Va., said the city will be out of salt for its streets after just one more snowfall. About two inches of snow blanketed the city on Friday and the national weather bureau said more snow was likely today.

A major dam on the river near Paducah, Ky., was damaged last Monday when a barge slammed into the lock gate.

About 50 towboats and barges passed over the dam on Wednesday when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers temporarily raised the water level. But that can't be done again because the river is low.

Don Burkhart, a lockman at Dam 51 near Golconda, Ill., said 12 towboats, each pushing at least 10 barges, were blocked at the dam, unable to pass either up or down the river.

One of the waiting tows includes barges carrying salt for West Virginia highways, he said.

"He's on the south end, three barges of salt with a total tonnage of 4,200 pounds," he said. "We're working on the dam now, but as far as passing traffic, it's hard to say. It will be at least Monday or Tuesday, probably later than that before the lock is actually repaired."

He said it probably will be Wednesday before the northbound barges can pass through the lock.

"We've got a new shipment of salt scheduled to arrive by barge Monday or Tuesday," Bosely said. "But the company we buy from – Cargill Salt Co. of Cincinnati – has 37 salt barges blocked at Paducah ....

"We're hoping that they can get the lock opened temporarily by the first of the week so our salt can arrive."

Burkhart said he could not confirm that 37 salt barges were blocked, but said some tow captains were "out of the pilot house" and couldn't be reached.

Bosely said the cities of St. Albans and South Charleston also are dependent on the salt shipment. And it's also needed for the mountainous West Virginia Turnpike, a major north-south artery.

West Virginia Highway Commissioner William S. Ritchie Jr. said the state is nearly out of salt because low water on the Mississippi River has forced tow companies to use small barges that can't carry as much.

Bosely said Cargill mines its salt in Louisiana and ships it to Charleston by barge up the Mississippi, Ohio and Kanawha rivers.

Hiker Rescued After Injury

ASH MOUNTAIN (AP) – A San Jose youth was rescued after being stranded overnight in freezing temperatures and snow in Sequoia National Park.

Park officials said Chris Blanchard, 20, suffered a broken leg but was otherwise in good condition.

They said Blanchard was reached by a ground crew Thursday after a helicopter rescue attempt was aborted because of poor visibility, wind and snow at the 7,500-foot elevation.

Park spoksman Hank Jones said Blanchard was hiking with two companions when he apparently slipped on icy rocks near a stream on Wednesday. One companion stayed with him while the second walked for help.

Millionaire Buys Santa Claus (Town, That Is)

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) – If you were thinking about buying Santa Claus, Ariz., as an early Christmas present for next year, you're too late.

It's been sold to a millionaire businessman and his wife who split their time between the northern California wine country and Honolulu.

An escrow account has already been set up, and the only thing remaining is the signing of the contracts. Terms of the sale were not announced, but the asking price was $52,500.

Santa Claus, the town that is, gained national attention when it was revealed on Christmas Day that its owners, Peter and Mary Stanovich, had put the property up for sale.

Included in the package was a service station, a cafe called "The Christmas Tree Inn," a curio shop, four acres of desert along U.S. 93 about 85 miles southeast of here and a curious history dating back to 1937.

The Stanovichs, who love to travel, said they have grown tired of operating cafes.

The buyer is Larry Wilson, 39, president of Larry Wilson and Associates of Santa Rosa, who used to own the town of Healdsburg, a tiny community in the California wine country near Santa Rosa.

Wilson read of the "For Sale" sign on Santa Claus, and it interested him because he had just sold half his interest in Healdsburg.

"This one sort of amused me," said Wilson, adding that perhaps he will be able to develop some of his ideas with the new town that he wasn't able to do in Healdsburg because of opposition from local residents.

"Everybody should have a town called Santa Claus for their family," said Wilson, who claims he is not a chronic town buyer.

Although he has not seen his new property, Wilson said he sees potential, but his plans are still up in the air.

"We might decide to keep it just the way it is, or we might decide to do something with it, or we might just hang on to it. I can't really say at this point," said Wilson, who classifies himself as an "idea man" and real estate investor.

"I like to get into things that are fun to do, but at the same time make some money in it. I like projects that are imaginative and different, and that lend themselves to creativity and a little individualism," Wilson explained in a telephone interview from Lake Tahoe where he is vacationing with his family.

But Wilson said it's really "no joke" to him. "There's a possibility there of something. It's a speculative gamble, that's what it is. I think maybe I have a fettish for towns. I just want to develop a town. Maybe that's what my problem is."

The Stanovichs have owned Santa Claus for the past three years, and have lived there for about 1½ years.

Since the town caught the national eye, business has never been so good.

1974 Postal Boost Illegal, Court Says

WASHINGTON (AP) – A federal appeals court has ruled that first-class postage rates were increased illegally in 1974 when they were raised from 8 cents to 10 cents.

But the U.S. Court of Appeals, in an opinion released this week took no action to roll back the rate, which has since been increased to 13 cents.

The same method used as the basis for the 1974 increase was used to support the latest rate hike. The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, which challenged the 1974 increase, is also contesting the jump to 13 cents in a separate case still pending before the appeals court.

The court ruled that the increase to 10 cents was not legal because users of first-class mail bore more than their share of postal costs under the plan.

The Postal Rate Commission justified the 1974 increase on the grounds that raising first-class rates would not discourage use of the mails as much as raising rates for the other three classes of mail, the appeals court said. The law requires each class of postal service to bear its own cost, the court said.

The commission recommends rate increases to the U.S. Postal Service.

Commission attorneys contended there was nothing in the decision to stop the commission from setting rates based on other methods. They said no decision has been made on whether to appeal the court's ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Most mail – cards and letters – is sent first-class. Secondclass mailcovers newspapers and magazines, third-class is for advertising circulars and fourth-class is for packages.

TASK FORCE TO PROBE OIL SPILL PREVENTION

WASHINGTON (AP) – Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. has established a task force to study U.S. marine safety regulations intended to prevent oil spills.

"While I have no reasons to doubt that the recent heavy incidents of marine casualties resulting in pollution of our waters is anything more than a sinister coincidence," said Coleman, "I look to the task force to determine whether every reasonable effort has been made to both prevent these accidents and to minimize their damage."

Coleman also said he wanted to make sure that lessons learned from those accidents are used to head off future spills.

The Secretary appointed his chief counsel, Donald Bliss, as chairman of the task force. The other members are Adm. Owen Siler, commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard; Judith Connor, an assistant secretary of transportation, and Rear Adm. G.H. Patrick Bursley, chief counsel of the Coast Guard.

The task force will examine recent oil spills that polluted waters off Nantucket Island and in the Delaware River at Marcus Hook, Pa.

It will also look into the tanker explosion in the Los Angeles harbor and the tanker grounded off Puerto Rico.

The task force will determine if more legislation is needed to avoid such disasters and to minimize environmental damage after a spill has happened.

Coleman instructed the task force to submit an interim report by Jan. 8, 1977, and a final report upon completion of the study.

Attica Book Closed; 8 Convicts Cleared

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) – Declaring that he was "finally and firmly closing the book" on the 1971 Attica state prison uprising, Gov. Hugh Carey this week granted clemency to the last eight inmates facing penalties for their role in the revolt.

At the same time, Carey announced that the state would take no disciplinary action against 20 law enforcement officers who had been cited by a special prosecutor for possible punishment.

Forty-three men died in the uprising at the fortress-walled prison, including 39 killed by state police gunfire when authorities retook control of the facility from the rebellious inmates.

It was America's bloodiest prison rebellion. It was followed by a long investigation which charged dozens of inmates but never fixed responsibility for what prosecutors said may have been "unjustifiable homicides" by police during the retaking.

Carey said he granted clemency because the state's investigation had been so "one-sided" that it made "the principle and practice of even-handed justice" impossible.

The investigation produced indictments of 62 inmates and only one state trooper. Except for the cases of the eight inmates affected by Carey's clemency, all of the indictments have since been dismissed or have resulted in acquittals.

Dissident Gets Added Sentence

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) – A South Korean dissident already serving a life term for antigovernment activity was sentenced Friday to another seven years in prison on the specific charge that he is a Communist.

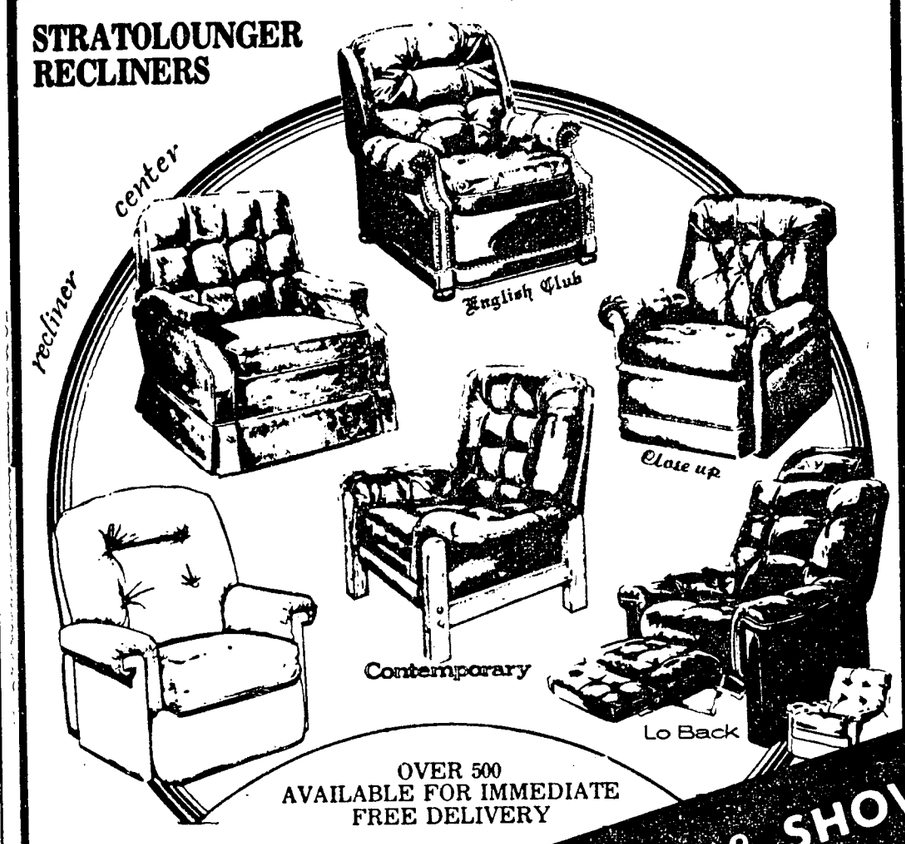

The Seoul District Criminal Court convicted Kim Chi-ha on an indictment charging that the 35-year-old internationally known poet entertained Communist class struggle theories and helped the cause of the North Korean regime in violation of South Korea's anti-Communist law.

Kim's lawyers said he would appeal even though the additional penalty is technically meaningless since he is already serving a life term.

FDA Requests Extension In Laetrile Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) – The federal Food and Drug Administration has asked for more time to produce material to support its position that the so-called cancer drug Laetrile is a "new drug" and therefore correctly labeled as illegal.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered in October that such a determination be made. Until that determination, the FDA's designation of Laetrile as illegal remains in effect.

The appeals court acted in a government appeal of decisions by U.S. District Court Judge Luther Bohanon of Oklahoma City permitting cancer patients who filed federal suits to import the substance for their own use. The appeals court did not disturb Bohanon's earlier rulings.

Attorneys for the patients had asked the court to order the FDA to provide them with documentation on the reasoning behind its ban on Laetrile.

THERE'S A LIMIT EVEN FOR LINE MARKERS
Road Crew Blunder Cost Two Men Jobs

Chief Draws Line, Fires Road Crew

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) – Two state employes have been fired over a painted road line that zig-zagged for parts of a nine-mile stretch almost two feet off the highway and onto dirt, ice and snow.

The crooked paint job wasted $460 in paint, a Transportation Department spokesman said.

"I could excuse negligence in the sense that someone made a mistake," said Transportation Secretary William Sherlock, explaining why he fired the foreman of the road-painting crew and the operator of the painting vehicle. "But I don't consider nine miles to be a minor mistake. I won't put up with it."

It was not known why the white line, which was sprayed by machine Dec. 6, missed the shoulder on some portions of the road in Crawford County.

"I already got my reprimand from the newspapers," Sherlock said in an interview. "I think PennDOT employes have to recognize that this kind of stuff has got to stop." Photographs of the crooked line appeared in many newspapers across Pennsylvania.

Two PennDOT supervisors for that region also were reprimanded, although they were not directly involved with the line painting, department spokesman Charles Wilson said.

The firings apparently are part of Sherlock's continuing efforts to make PennDOT more efficient and improve its image of being a haven for corruption and do-nothing patronage jobs.

Last June, Sherlock fired five transportation officials under a code of ethics he imposed after assuming the secretary's post in April.

"There's lot of dedicated employes in PennDOT, and I won't let a few ruin the entire reputation of the department," he said.

The fired foreman had been told several times to use more control over his crews, said John Harhigh, director of personnel at PennDOT.

MARINE VS. LAWYER

Pendleton Hearing Stirs Up Tempers

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) – A civilian lawyer has been reprimanded 14 times by a woman Marine handling the pretrial hearing of a black charged with conspiracy and assault.

In response to that, John Murko accused Capt. Nancy York of adopting an "accusatory attitude" and hamstringing his cross-examination.

Murko took nearly four hours cross-examining one prosecution witness, Lance Cpl. Billy J. Lee.

The heated exchange took place Thursday at a hearing for Cpl. Anthony Matthews, 19, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of 13 black Marines charged in the Nov. 13 invasion of a room where they say they believed Ku Klx Klansmen were meeting.

The hearing was continued to Monday along with those of two other blacks, Lance Cpl. Ricky C. McGilvery, 23, of Huntsville, Ala., and Lance Cpl. Gregory Coffee, 21, of Wellston, Mo.

The pretrial hearing for Cpl. Curtis Jones, 21, of Seale, Ala., has been continued to Jan. 18, and the hearing for Sgt. Herman Fletcher, 23, also of Huntsville, was postponed indefinitely. His military attorney was reported ill.

No decision has been made on whether courts-martial trials will be held for the blacks. In the only trial held so far Cpl. E. F. Henry pleaded guilty Wednesday to assault and was sentenced to three months at hard labor, a $600 fine over four months and reduction in rank to private.

Attorney Keith represented both Miss Van Houten and Watson during the LaBianca-Sharon Tate murder trial in 1970.

Miss Van Houten was not charged in the murders of Miss Tate and four others at the home of movie director Roman Polanski the night before the LaBiancas were stabbed to death.

KUSC Seeks Whistlers For Show Sunday

KUSC-FM 91.5 and its listeners will take part in a live, two-hour nationwide broadcast from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, designed to create a composition of listeners' whistles modified electronically under the direction of composer Max Neugaus.

Entitled " Radio Net, " the program will present the sounds of listeners transmitted over thousands of miles of phone lines which connect 190 stations.

Nehaus will direct the program from NPR headquarters in Washington, D.C., Requesting listeners to call in whistles to five regional locations, he is arranging automatically answered phones to transmit the sounds through frequency shifters inserted on the network interconnect.

The telephoned sounds will multiply as they circle the network and will shift as they pass each intersection point. In addition to KUSC, other insertion locations are in Atlanta, Minneapolis, Dallas, and New York City.

Nehaus was an internationally - known percussionist in the mid - 1960's before he dropped mallets and sticks in favor of encironmental electronics and circuit design. Since then his " new music " compositions have been realized in underwater concerts, sidewalk installations, along roads, and at New York subway.

In 1966 he performed his first radio composition, " Public Supply," using listener sounds telephoned in to a single station and broadcast live. The production won a 1973 Peabody Award when it was presented at WFMT in Chicago.

Release Of Sex Offenders

conviction for the sex crime.

In the past, an MDSO commitment was indeterminate, and a person could be kept in a mental hospital until deemed no longer a danger to himself or society.

Don Kiel, liason officer at Patton State Mental Hospital in San Bernardino, said there are many persons, mostly men, now in custody at the hospital who have served more than the maximum time they would have spent in prison on the original conviction.

These men, he said, are entitled to be released under the law change.

A spokesman for the Department of Health said that the problem of releasing the mentally ill sex offenders will be even more acute on July 1, when the new determinate sentencing bill, passed by the state legislature this year, goes into effect.

That bill lowers the maximum time a convict can spend in prison.

For example, under the old sentencing law a man convicted of forcible rape could be sentenced to state prison for 15 years to life.

Under the new determinate sentence bill, the same man would face a prison term of only three, four or five years.

Therefore, Kiel explained, sex offenders originally convicted of forcible rape and then declared MDSO can now spend a maximum of five years in a mental hospital.

After that he must be released even if he is not cured.

Kiel said there are ways to attempt to keep the mentally ill sex offender off the streets longer, but he said these probably will not work effectively.

For example, Kiel said, the jurisdiction which originally sentenced the sex offender could institute a conservatorship hearing for the individual in an attempt to have him declared unable to care for himself and thus require convalescent home commitment.

However, Kiel said, "90 per cent" of the MDSOs at Patton are legally sane and able to care for themselves. He said the requirement to force a conservatorship on an individual is that he be deemed unfit to provide food, clothing and shelter for himself.

"Just because he is a mentally disordered sex offender does not mean that he cannot provide food, clothing and shelter," Kiel said.

Another problem, said an Orange County official who asked not to be identified, is that a convalescent home is not a mental hospital, and a person can easily escape.

Kiel said there are approximately 700 persons now in state mental hospitals under an MDSO commitment, including about 45 from Orange County.

All will have to have their commitments recomputed by the courts to establish the date they are entitled to be released.

The exact procedure for that recomputation, Kiel said, has not yet been determined. "The law is very vague," he said.

Most of the work on the recomputation will be done by Superior Court Judge James H. Walsworth, presiding judge of the court's criminal division, and Deputy Dist. Atty. Paul Meyer, who will make recommendations as to the ultimate disposition of the case.

Also expected to be called into the problem are the public guardian, if conservatorship procedings are instituted: the county director of mental health, and state mental hospitals.

Larry Smith of the state public defender's office, is given credit by Assemblyman Brown's office for drafting the bill that changed the law.

Smith, contacted in Sacramento, said intent of the law was to clean up MDSO procedures, and to update state law in line with recent state Supreme Court decisions

Smith said that for many years MDSO was used to lock up misdemeanor offenders for life. For example, Smith said, a person committed as an MDSO is sent to a state hospital for treatment. If that hospital determines the person cannot be treated, the person could be placed in a state prison on an open-ended sentence.

Puerto Rico

maximum self-government and self-determination.

But the chief executive said the proposed compact would not "advance as rapidly as it might freedom and opportunity for the American citizens of Puerto Rico."

Ford's proposed statehood legislation would have to be approved by the new Congress, which convenes Tuesday. It could not complete action on the legislation before Ford leaves office Jan. 20.

Puerto Rico's governor-elect, Carlos Romero Barcelo, said Friday the main task of his administration will be to advise Puerto Rican voters on the advantages of statehood.

Romero, who will be installed Sunday as Puerto Rico's fifth governor, made the statement in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press shortly before President Ford announced he would recommend legislation to make Puerto Rico the 51st state of the United States.

"We will talk. We will educate. We will try to convince people this (statehood) is best for them," Romero said.

He said he favors statehood as the best solution to Puerto Rico's "status dilemma," but added, "I have a commitment not to be pushing for statehood until we are well on the way to economic recovery."

Puerto Rico currently suffers from over 20 per cent unemployment, declining local and foreign investments and a low economic growth rate.

Court Retains Ban

SAN DIEGO (AP) – A federal judge refused Friday to issue a temporary restraining order lifting the ban on porpoise deaths which has kept U.S. tuna fishermen in port.

Tanker Grounding Incident Outlined

NEW YORK (AP) – The engine-room flooding that lodged the tanker Argo Merchant helpless on a shoal occurred when the captain slammed the ship full speed in reverse, the chief engineer testified Friday.

Deep water in the engine room was a critical factor in preventing rescuers from freeing the loaded tanker before it broke in two and gushed out its cargo, the Coast Guard has said.

The engineer, Panagiotis Sotiriou, testified at a hearing in New York's Southern District federal court about the shipwreck Dec. 15 off Nantucket Island.

He said that when the tanker struck the shoal, the captain reversed engines to try to free it. But the ship shook so violently that a valve burst and sea water poured into the engine room.

The engine room was in the very rear of the ship, and the vessel grounded just forward of it.

The Coast Guard said the weight of the water in the engine room prevented it from floating it free of the shoal and the water's weight contributed to the eventual break up of the vessel.

The crew and later the Coast Guard tried unsuccessfully to pump out the water. But Sotiriou said that after a few hours, oil began to seep in and mix with the rising water.

The valve that broke brought in sea water to cool steam that had passed through the ship's turbines.

Repaired Tanker Led To Anchorage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) – The Liberian tanker Olympic Games was escorted by the Coast Guard on Friday to an anchorage in the Delaware River, where it spilled 134,000 gallons of oil last Monday.

Before moving to the anchorage, the ship underwent repairs at the BP Inc. refinery in Marcus Hook, 15 miles south of here, for a six-inch hole ripped in its hull as it maneuvered Monday to a BP dock.

The Coast Guard said the ship apparently lost power in the maneuver. Light Arabian crude oil spilled from the hole created a 34-mile slick at the height on the incident.

Minor power outages were reported late Friday by the Edison Co.

Five Edison service areas in Garden Grove suffered outages because of lightning striking transformers. Four were immediately back in service with emergency back-up systems. Power in the fifth service area was down for 30 minutes and affected approximately 1,700 customers, according to a company spokesman. More outages are expected and service crews are on the job to repair them the spokesman said.

MANY GET HONORS

Militant Unionist Knighted By Queen

LONDON (AP) – One of Britain's toughest trade union chiefs and militant president of the 130,000-member Boilermakers' Union was knighted Friday in Britain's New Year's Honors list to become Sir Daniel McGarvey.

From the other end of Britain's social spectrum, Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth II, was named Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order – a personal knighthood from the Queen.

Most of the New Year Honors, as is the custom, are conferred by the queen on the advice of the prime minister, currently Laborite James Callaghan, but the Order of the Garter, the Order of the Thistle, the Order of Merit and the Royal Victorian Order are at the queen's personal discretion.

An OBE – Order of the British Empire – went to Douglas Hughes, director of the White-chapel Bell Foundry which made the five-ton bell that was a bicentennial gift to the United States.

The honors were widely spread, from Brian Faulkner, former premier of Britain's strifetorn province of Northern Ireland, who was made a baron for life, to comedian Frankie Howard, who got an OBE.

Elevated to the Privy Council, a top British advisory and judicial body, were Sir John Robert Kerr, controversial governor-general of Australia; John Michael Manningham Adams, premier of Barbados; Eric Matthew Gairy, premier of Grenada; Philip Reginald Lynch, treasurer for Australia; Ian McCahon Sinclair, Minister for Primary Industry of Australia; Michael Thomas Somare, premier of Papua New Guinea, and Brian Edward Talboys, deputy premier of New Zealand.

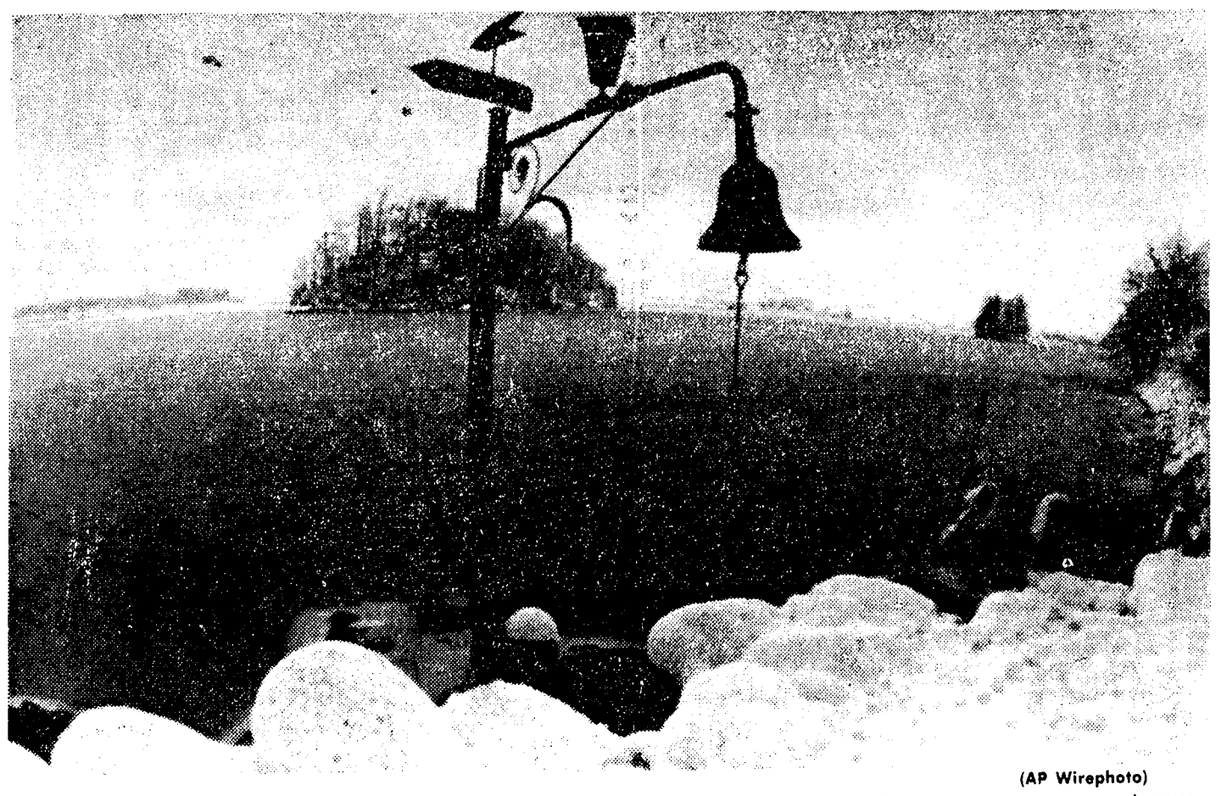

Peter Wakefield, British ambassador who proposed a toast to Queen Elizabeth on the balcony of his Beirut residence while a battle raged in the city last July, was knighted. Lancelot Victor Dawson, who holds the ancient title of Yeoman Bed Hanger, was honored by the queen with the gold Royal Victorian Medal. His title dates from the time when the yeomen of the guard were personally responsible for the sovereign's comfort while traveling the realm.

Frederick John Turk, keeper of her majesty's swans and cygnets on the River Thames, was made a Member of the Royal Victorian Order – MVO – as was Capt. James Robert Mason, Royal Marines, director of music in the royal yacht Britannia.

Samuel Twining, ninth generation member of the Twining tea merchants family, who says he drinks 12 cups of tea each day, was appointed an Officer of the Order of the British Empire – OBE – for his services to exports.

An MBE – Member of the Order of the British Empire – went to Reginald White, a British gold medal winner at the Montreal Olympics, where he skippered the British boat to victory in the Tornado class.

Fred Titmus, one of the greatest all-round cricketers of modern times, who went on playing after losing four toes in a boating accident, also was made an MBE. Titmus, who scored more than 20,000 runs and took 2,700 wickets in a career that included 53 test matches for England, played for Middlesex for 28 seasons.

Cabs Rolling Again In Oceanside, San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Yellow Cabs will roll again today in both San Diego and Oceanside after having been idle for a month, the president of the Westgate-California subsidiary says.

Sale of the companies for $839,000 was approved Thursday by Bankruptcy Judge Herbert Katz.

The buyer, Western States Transportation, Inc., a subsidiary of Ocean Salt Co., won transfer of the 280 cab permits from the San Diego City Council on Wednesday. Donald Swortwood and his wife Letitia are listed as owners of Ocean Salt.

An application for renewal of Yellow Cab's five-year franchise in Oceanside was filed Thursday with the Oceanside City Council after the council threatened to award the franchise for 23 cabs to another taxi company.

Yellow Cab halted operations in six California cities and Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 1 when it was unable to obtain liability insurance. The 12 subsidiaries filed for bankruptcy court protection Dec. 21.

The bankruptcy judge ordered Westgate trustee Herbert Kunzel to impound $200,000 of the proceeds for former owners of the San Diego and Oceanside companies, who sold them to Westgate in 1973 and have yet to be paid.

At least $67,000 of Swortwood's down payment also was ordered set aside to pay back wages and vacation pay due drivers

Carter Asks Backing In Holiday Message

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) – President-elect Carter arranged for a quiet New Year's Eve celebration at home Friday after asking the American people for support "in the new responsibilities I soon will assume."

Carter also is seeking suggestions from the public at large on how he can remain in contact with ordinary citizens to avoid the isolation from popular opinion experienced by many occupants of the Oval Office.

HEADED COMPANY

Israel Embarrased By Nazi Incident

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) – Israel has been embarrased and outraged to discover that an ex-Nazi served until recently in the management of a company controlled by the Israeli government.

Wolfgang Wick was a member of the Austrian Nazi party and served in Nazi elite SS forces during World War II. Later he invested heavily in Israel, visited the Jewish state frequently and served for five years as chairman of the board of Periclass, an Israeli chemical company.

Wick's Periclass appointment was a blunder, Minister of Commerce and Industry Haim Bar-Lev said in parliament this week when three resolutions condemning Wick's involvement with Israel were submitted.

One member of parliament suggested that the government should have moved to arrest Wick when he visited Israel in November.

"We have a law calling for apprehension and trial of Nazis and their collaborators," said parliamentarian Shmuel Tamir in debate. "Why wasn't this law enforced with Wick?"

Wick resigned his position when he retired from business last July. His Nazi past had come to light five months earlier, and Tamir demanded to know why Wick wasn't immediately dismissed from Periclass.

"The main problem is how he could continue to serve after documents were found showing his Nazi party membership," said Hillel Seidel, of the independent Liberal party.

Seidel, like thousands of Israelis, is a survivor of the Nazi death camps. "I lost my entire family to the Nazis," he said in an interview. "I can never accept Wick's involvement in Israel."

Mordecai Makleff, who heads the Israeli government company which controls Periclass, said the incident has been blown out of proportion. "Wick represented Austrian interests which owned 30 per cent of Periclass," Makleff said in an interview.

"He came to us highly recommended by two leading Austrian Jews, and anyway he retired five months ago. The whole thing is past history."

Wick's Nazi past was revealed last February when he ran for president of Rotary International. Dutch Rotarians who had belonged to the underground in World War II bitterly opposed his nomination, and Israeli Rotary clubs joined the fight. Wick withdrew his nomination, but did not cut his business ties with Israel.

"If a Nazi says, 'I'm sorry. I made a mistake,' I can accept that," said Seidel. "But Wick tried to hide his Nazi involvement, and it was only discovered by chance."

Wick found no supporters in parliament, and Israeli business leaders preferred not to comment.

New Law To Limit Mexicans In U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) – A new U.S. immigration law goes into effect today sharply reducing the number of Mexicans allowed to reside in the United States and disqualifying thousands of others in the Western Hemisphere who would have been eligible for U.S. residency under the outgoing law.

The new law cuts from 40,000 to 20,000 the number of Mexicans allowed each year to receive residency visas for the United States.

The new law also omits from immigration preference the alien parents of children born in the United States.

A similar law for the Eastern Hemisphere has been in effect for several years.

Until now if a mother from a country in the Western Hemisphere were visiting the United States and gave birth to a child while there, the parents were given preference over many other applicants in applying for U.S. residence visas.

Under the new law, the child of the alien parents will still be considered a U.S. citizen, but the child itself must apply for U.S. residence status for the parents, and that cannot be done until the child is 21.

Under the new law, the children of U.S. citizens born abroad and who became foreign nationals will be given the highest preference in applying for U.S. residence visas.

A permanent residence visa in the United States is much sought after in Latin America. The visas do not have to be renewed each year and such visas usually lead to aliens becoming naturalized U.S. citizens.

There are 300,000 persons in Western Hemisphere countries now on waiting lists for U.S. residency visas. The number of Western Hemisphere aliens given U.S. residency visas each year – 120,000 – will remain the same.

After children of U.S citizens, those given preference for visas would be:

– The spouse or unmarried children of resident aliens.

– Persons with highly important professional status, such as doctors.

– Adult married children of U.S. citizens who hold foreign citizenship.

– Brothers and sisters of adult U.S. citizens.

– Skilled or unskilled labor applicants.

– Refugees.

An Austin, Tex., lawyer, Jim Tom Haines, who handles immigration cases, said in Mexico City that the 20,000 quota for Mexico probably would already be filled by the time skilled or unskilled labor applicants would be considered.

Jailed Americans End Hunger Strike

MEXICO CITY (AP) – Most of the 100 Americans who went on a hunger strike Dec. 4 in Mexican prisons to protest the lack of paroles for drug offenders have ended their fasts, a spokesman says.

At least five other inmates continued not eating or subsisting on a daily diet of a few pieces of fruit.

"Almost all of us have started eating again," said Phillip Millard of Alameda, Calif., at Mexico City's Santa Marta prison.

Millard said the strikers started eating again when it was learned that the Mexican congress would not pass the parole legislation before the current session ends Dec. 31.

About 20 hunger strikers started eating earlier this week when a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy told one prisoner Mexican officials had indicated the legislation would be passed by week's end.

Another prisoner, 38-year-old Jim Otani of Hilo, Hawaii, said he and at least four other prisoners were continuing to fast in hopes the Mexican congress might act or that a special session might be called this month.

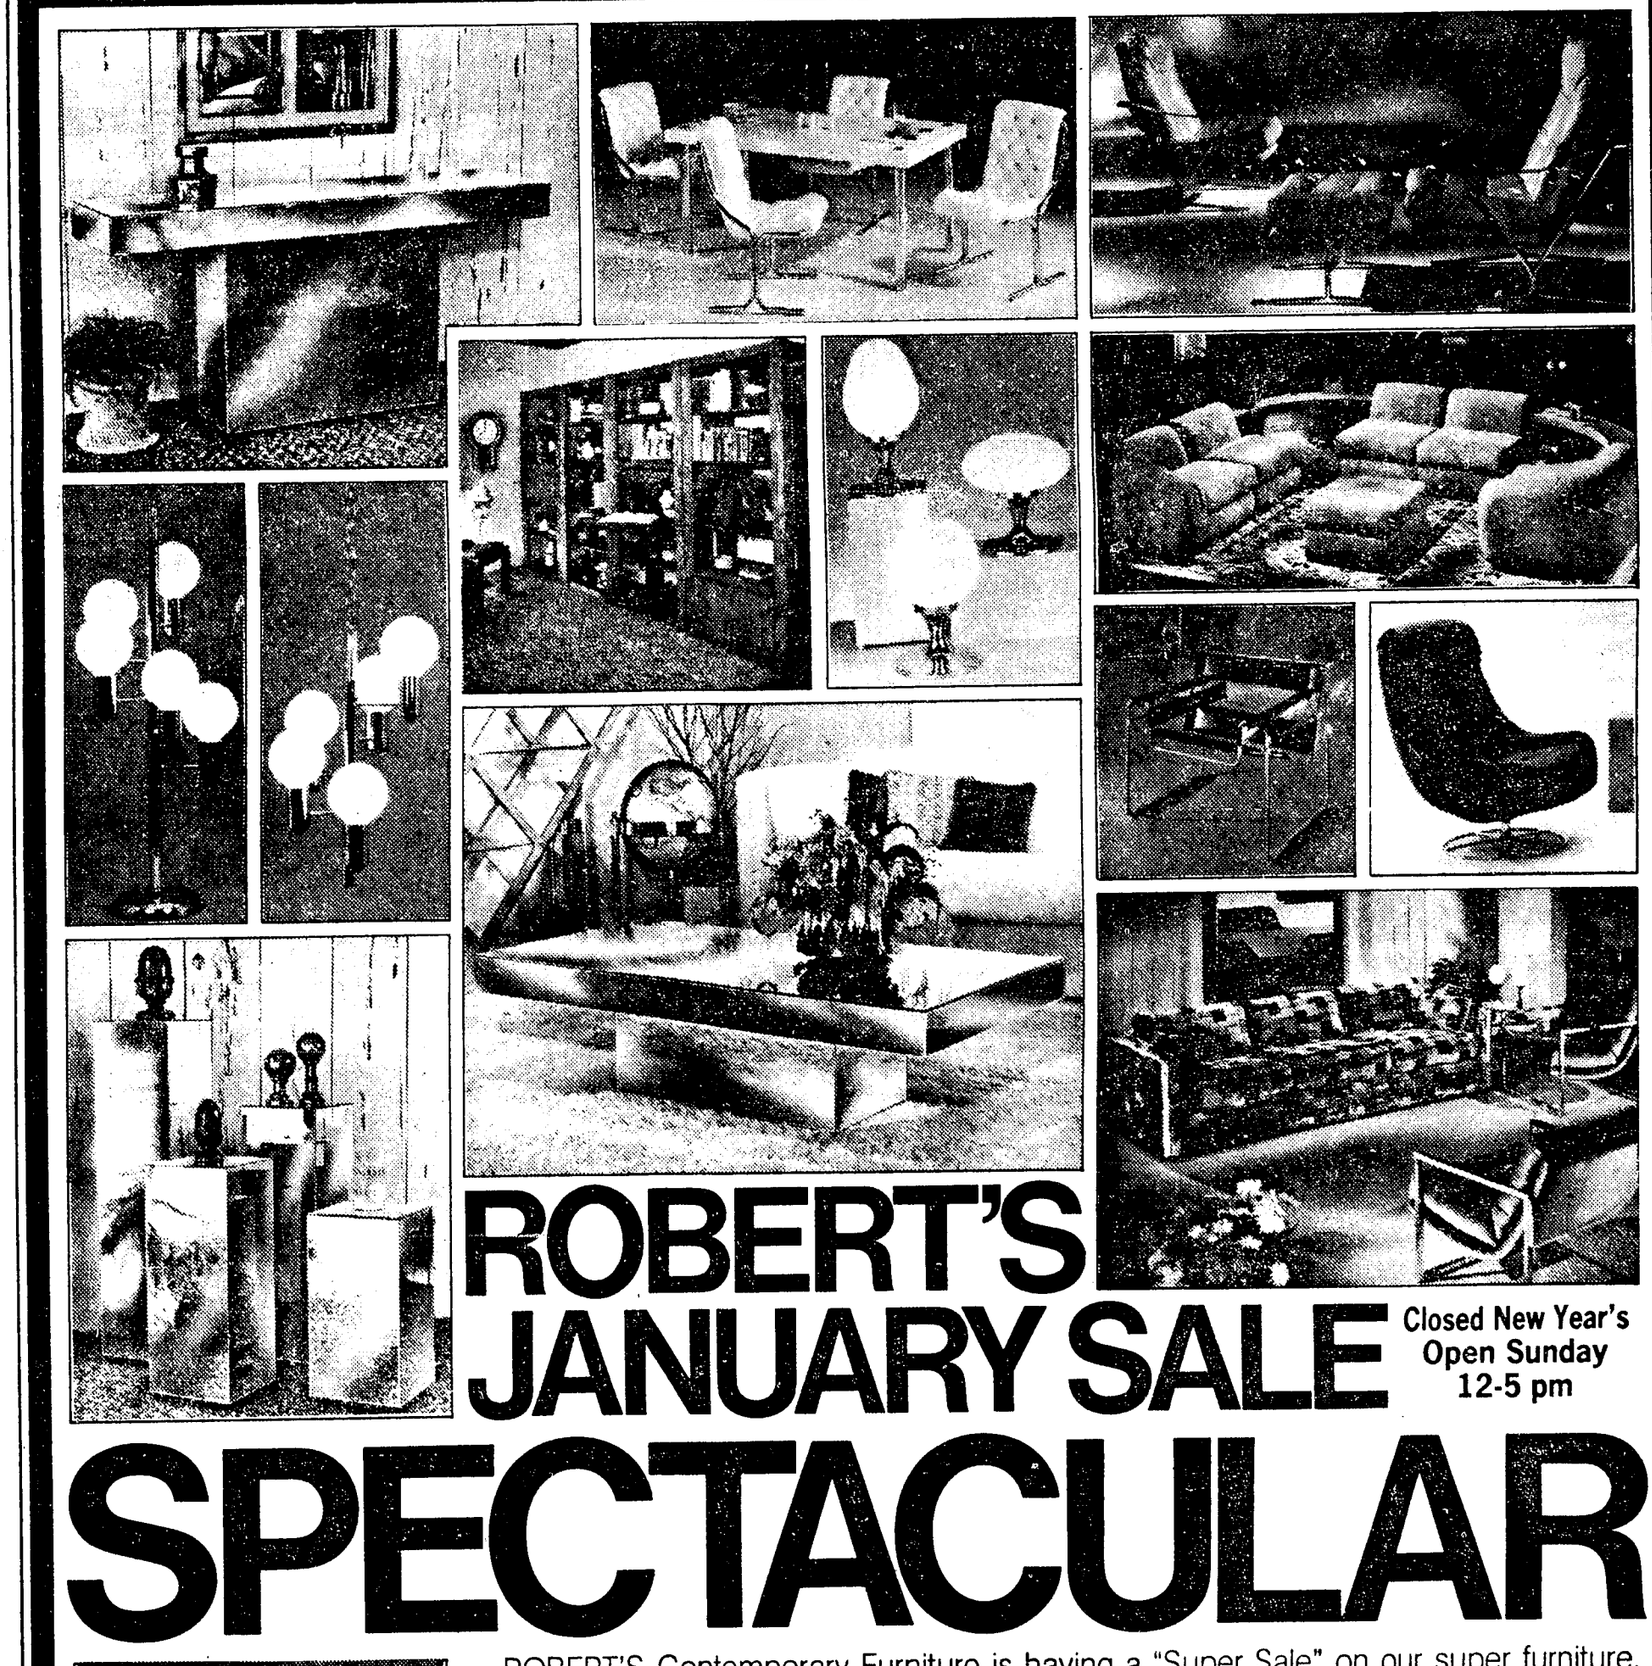

Otani said others he knew to be fasting were Ernie Machado of Los Angeles, Fred Ostikoff of Vancouver, Canada, James Dean Brown of San Francisco, and Robert Fischer of Omaha, Neb.

"There may be others still on the strike, but we haven't checked with everyone yet," Otani said.

Otani, whose skin hangs on his bones, said his weight has fallen from 135 to 95 pounds. He is also breaking out with a rash.

"My bones and my muscles ache all the time, so I've started eating soup and drinking fruit juices," he said. "I'm not a martyr. I'd like to live. But I'm doing this sincerely.

"We've paid for our crimes and now we're just wasting away here and getting farther and farther way from every being able to be normal people out on the street again," he said.

Gas, Oil Under Canada's Arctic Ice, Development But Costly

By PETER ARNETT
Last In A Series

MELVILLE ISLAND, Arctic Sea (AP) – It's down there somewhere, under land permanently frozen half a mile deep: 20 billion barrels of oil, and 40 trillion to 240 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. That is what the geologists claim.

But increasing numbers of Canadians are beginning to realize that their dreams of vast, needed energy resources waiting to be plucked from the barren icelands by modern technology are still largely wishful thinking.

There has been dramatic exploration. Oil rigs have been tussling with 700-foot tall floating ice mountains in "Iceberg Alley" off the Labrador coast. Divers have been on the ocean floor 1,000 feet below the surface of the Arctic Sea to emplace equipment.

There have been some tantilizing finds to justify some of the hundreds of millions of dollars sunk into the search. What is described as one of the best gas wells in the world has been drilled on King Christian Island in the High Arctic. When it is flared for visitors, the flame can be seen from 50 miles away. The Mackenzie River Delta quickly revealed a billion barrels of oil when exploration moved into high gear three years ago.

The unhappy reality for Canadians and the multinational companies financing the work, however, is that the finds so far are nowhere near as significant as fields in the Alaskan North Slope, and the British North Sea. None of the energy resources so far discovered in northern Canada can yet be economically marketed, a situation also disquieting to northern-tier Americans who have grown totally dependent on Canadian natural gas.

The situation could further deteriorate for these reasons, according to oil industry and government officials:

– A money shortage. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent on Canadian arctic exploration so far for no dollar return, and much more capital is required, particularly to build the pipelines to bring it to markets in the south.

– There are serious questions about whether there will be enough oil and gas up there to justify the enormous exploration costs.

– Canadian federal government moves to chop away at foreign ownership of the oil companies with tough new regulations is lessening industry enthusiasm for the energy search.

– Emerging political awareness of the native Indians and Eskimos who populate part of the sparse arctic lands threatens to delay or stop exploration and transportation plans.

"In Canada many people still think that great multinational companies are jostling each other to invest in Canadian energy," U.S. Ambassador Thomas Enders told an Ottawa audience recently. "In fact, the energy opportunities and returns are more attractive elsewhere, including the United States," he said.

Huge costs, staggering even to the multinational corporations, are common in the inhospitable arctic. Drilling in the Beauford Sea off the Mackenzie Delta cost the industry $30 million per hole, the most costly single projects ever drilled, according to the Bank of Montreal.

Dome Petroleum this year began a $500 million project, gambling that oil and gas lie under the Beaufort Sea, but other multinationals have cooled off to the once-golden Mackenzie Delta region, and are considering joining the Canadian government in the High Arctic archipelago.

"Just $100 million more and we could cross our gas threshold of 20 trillion cubic feet needed to justify a pipeline," said Charles Hertherington, president of Panarctic Oil, a consortium of 29 companies that has spent half of the $500 million already invested in High Arctic exploration. Panarctic claims to have tapped 15 trillion feet of gas so far.

Other companies have dropped out of the Arctic Islands. Drilling in 1976 was around 75,000 feet compared to 220,000 feet in 1973. "But the expenditure so far is a mere pittance compared to what future costs are going to be," said I. H. Mackay, oil and gas manager of the Bank of Montreal in Calgary, Alberta.

The Polar Gas pipeline, one of five proposals for transporting oil and gas south from the arctic, would cost $10 billion for the 3,000-mile trip to Canadian and American natural gas markets. Multibillion dollar sums are also mentioned for the other four pipeline proposals, including the once-favored joint Canada-U.S. pipeline down the Mackenzie River Valley that seems to have fallen into disfavor.

Exploration attention is now centered on two arctic regions – the islands, and the eastern coastal waters off Labrador. The Arctic Islands are one of North America's last frontier regions. They sit almost at the top of the world, encased most of the year in ice. Polar bears amble across the generally monotonous landscape of flat and rolling terrain, sometimes attacking man. Four oil workers have been killed by polar bears in the past three years.

White wolves frolic with dogs in the drilling camps.

Musk ox appear on distant ridge lines. One new well on Cameron Island was to be drilled 100 feet from the large bleached skeleton of a whale that a government naturalist said had probably lain undisturbed for 5,000 years.

Cairns of rocks left by explorers dot some of the coves. A Panarctic drilling crew recently found a bottle left on a beach by a French explorer in 1906 containing his last will and testament addressed to his daughter, and a St. Christopher medal.

Seven large gas fields have been discovered so far, and one well on Cameron Island yields around 5,000 barrels of oil a day.

Headquarters for Panarctic exploration is Rea Point on Melville Island, 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The camp is a cluster of mobile homes and house trailers, sealed together to ward off the winter cold of 40 degrees below zero.

For the workers, two weeks of duty in the High Arctic is followed by a week at home. A top equipment operator can make $30,000 a year.

Off the Canadian east coast, exploration has been moving steadily northward after disappointing results off Nova Scotia and the Grand Banks.

Discoveries in the deep and hostile waters in "Iceberg Alley" off Labrador have been more optimistic, and Eastcan Ltd., a consortium, has made two gas strikes from four wells, and hopes for a commercial discovery within the next five years.

The area is aptly named. An estimated 400 icebergs, some a mile long, others up to eight million tons in weight, travel each year down the Labrador coast. One like these sank the Titanic in 1912.

Canadian nationalism has directly affected the oil industry. The government is seeking a major part of the Canadian oil industry, 90 per cent of which is currently owned by foreigners, mainly Americans.

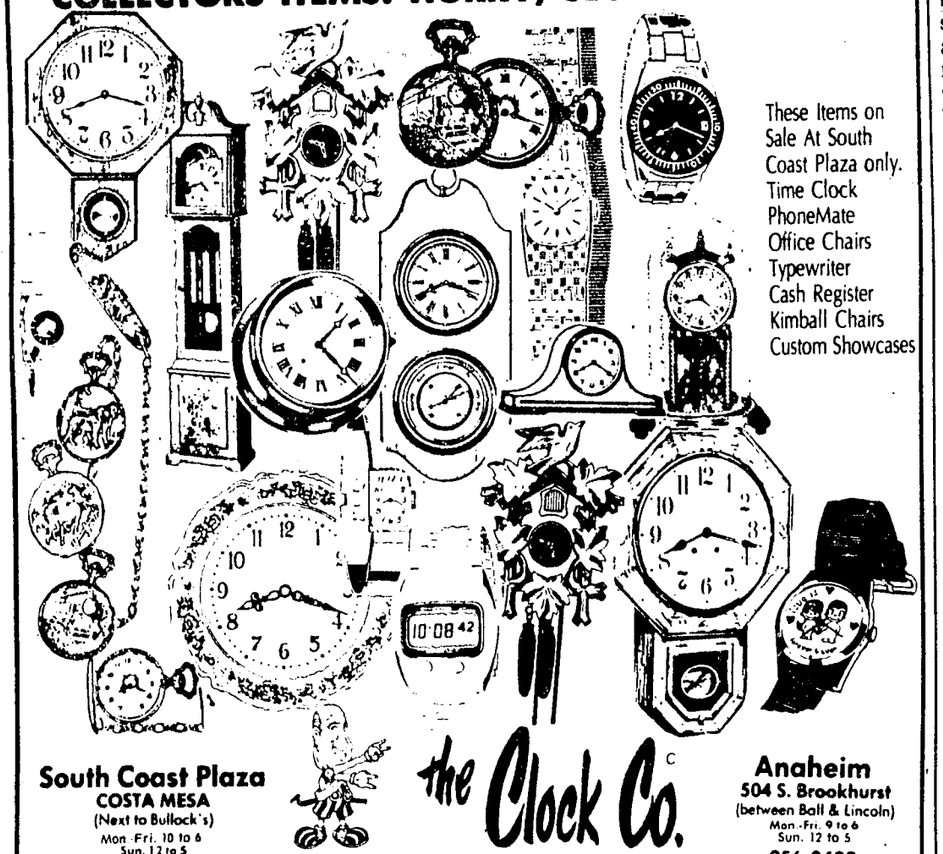

Canadian partners must now be taken to produce newly found fields. Long-term leasing has ended, and royalty payments have been altered. "The government has just pulled the rug from under northern development; drilling on federal land will almost come to a halt," complained one industry observer.

Preferential treatment is being given Petro-Canada, a government-owned energy corporation, that is moving into exploration on a large scale.

The political awareness of the Indians and Eskimos in the Arctic region have been heightened by the energy search. Peace treaties did not give the federal government full title to the land, and now both the Eskimos and Indians have asked for provinces of their own. If both claims were granted, more than a third of Canada would revert to the indigenous peoples.

Water Project Hearings Set

LAGUNA NIGUEL – A series of public hearings will be held Jan. 19 to discuss a supplemental project report and supplemental environmental impact report dealing with construction of the Aliso Water Management Agency (AWMA) regional wastewater treatment project.

The hearings will be held at 3:30, 6, 7:30 and 10 p.m. in Niguel Hills Junior High School, 29071 Paseo Escuela.

The reports outline the pros and cons of the two major alternatives for construction of wastewater facilities.

One of the alternatives calls for centralized treatment facilities and the other outlines plans for a decentralized system.

Recently, AWMA awarded Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Arcadia a $5,285,000 contract for construction of a 48-inch ocean outfall to be located off South Laguna's Aliso Beach. Work is expected to begin soon after the first of the year and take one year to complete.

AWMA members include Los Alisos Water District, El Toro Water District, Moulton Niguel Water District, South Coast County Water District, Laguna Beach, Emerald Bay Service District and Irvine Ranch Water District.

CARING FOR YOUR CAR

Emergency Tools A Motoring Must

By RAY HILL

Emergency tools – most people don't have them. But they should. By carrying just a few basic items in the trunk of your car, you're more likely to be able to take care of a breakdown (or at least rig up a temporary fix that will put you on the road again).

If you don't have these items lying around, you don't have to go out and buy them all at once. You can collect them gradually, say one a week, until you have them all.

First off, locking pliers. You've probably seen these before. Basically it's just a set of pliers with gripping jaws that can be adjusted to varying widths and then locked in position. You can adjust them so that the clamping force exerted by the jaws is very strong.

It's amazing how versatile locking pliers are. They can be used for everything from holding up an exhaust system with a broken hanger to acting as a temporary replacement for a broken pulley bracket in the engine compartment. In cross-country motorcycle competition, where bikes naturally tend to get battered and bent, I've seen locking pliers used for a multitude of purposes, including being a substitute rear brake lever, and as a replacement nut to hold an axle in.

Locking pliers are one of the best investments you can make. Their versatility is unexcelled, both at home and as an emergency tool on the road.

And get a small roll of wire – five or 10 feet – at your local hardware store. It costs only a few cents, and can be used for everything from a temporary hose to a temporary replacement for a broken gasoline tank strap, the strap that holds the gas tank up. On older cars it sometimes breaks due to rust.

DUCT-TAPE. This stuff is so versatile that it belongs in any tool kit. It's the silver-color tape used in working with heating ducts. But it probably gets used more for other purposes than that.

It's available at hardware stores and auto-parts stores. You can use it to hold components in place, tape broken glass, hold things closed, temporarily fix a leaking water hose, and so forth. If you use it as a temporary fix for a broken water hose, be sure to loosen the radiator cap so that pressure can't build up and force water through the tape. Remember, if you have to remove the radiator cap to add water and the engine is hot, use a rag to cover the cap, and turn it clockwise slowly until the first click. Wait till all the pressure is released from the system before removing the cap.

REFLECTORS OR FLARES. You want something to warn other motorists that you've broken down. They're not just for nighttime use, either. In daylight, if you happen to be parked just around a blind curve and aren't off the road, you'll want to put them out around the curve to warn other motorists something's wrong ahead, right?

Reflectors or flares are inexpensive. And if you don't think they're a good investment, just look up the statistics on how many people are injured and killed each year because they were pulled off to the side of the road and didn't warn approaching motorists of their presence.

FLASHLIGHT. And in addition to the flashlight, another useful item is one of those clamps that photographers use to hold lights in place. They're available in some photography stores and some department stores. If you can't find one, you can usually use duct tape to hold the light in place (for example, taping the light to the hood or the side of a fender or even to a rock).

Also it's a good idea to include an adjustable wrench, a few screwdrivers (both Phillips and standard), pliers and a first-aid kit. Yes, a first-aid kit. That way you can take care of any little scratches or knicks you may incur while fumbling around in the dark. The first-aid kit can also be useful for small injuries you might receive in minor fender benders.

Old Man Avon

The word "avon" originally meant "river" or "stream" in Celtic. It is today the name of several rivers in England and Scotland, including the one which flows through Stratford, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

Headline Makers Emerge

Unknown When Year Began, They Became Newsworthy In 1976

NEW YORK (AP) — From Peking to Stockholm and from Montreal to Washington, new faces — unknown to most of us on Jan. 1, 1976 — made headlines during the bicentennial year.

Here is a sampling of them — many young and many still newsworthy on Jan. 1, 1977.

A Capitol Hill secretary raised a bigger stir in Washington than anyone else unknown when 1976 began.

Last May, Elizabeth Ray said that Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio was her lover and had fixed her up with a job where she did no typing and took no dictation.

Democrat Hays, one of the most powerful men in Congress, lost the chairmanship of the House Administration Committee, nearly died of a drug overdose and finally retired.

As for Liz, she got $12,500 for a ghost-written, fictionalized version of her experience — "The Washington Fringe Benefit," covered the Republican convention for Genesis and flopped in a Chicago stage revival of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

"1977 has got to be better," she says. "If things don't go well for me in acting, I have no alternatives. I'll starve."

On the international scene, 1976 saw the emergence of Hua Kuo-feng — who met his first American last January — as successor to Mao Tse-tung in the post of chairman of the Chinese Communist party.

Although little known in the West, Hua, 57, had been a longtime protege of Mao who admired his work in improving agriculture in central Hsiangtan county during the 1950's.

Last February he became acting premier upon the death of Chou En-lai and was named last October to succeed Mao who had died the month before.

The youngest new star of 1976 shot over the Iron Curtain at the Montreal Olympics. She's Nadia Comaneci, 15, whose perfect 10 on the opening night of the gymnastics schedule was the first ever awarded in Olympic competition.

The pony-tailed Romanian went on to win three gold medals, one silver and one bronze. Now she's a Heroine of Socialist Labor in her native land and starred here in an hour-long television special about women's gymnastics.

Bruce Jenner used to think it was a good day if 125 people came out to watch him compete in a track meet. But 68,000 were in the Montreal stadium and millions of others watched on television as he won the 1976 Olympics decathlon with a record total of 8,618 points.

The gold medal for the 10 events carried with it the title World's Greatest Athlete, but Jenner, 25, settled down to train for the 11th event – his future.

He and his wife Crystie say they plan to be very careful and not jump too fast on the money-wagon as some other sports stars did.

"I feel I've built up a lot of credibility as an athlete," he said. "I don't want to do anything to tarnish that."

Just a year ago, Dorothy Hamill was on the ice practicing seven hours a day, six days a week.

"On the seventh day I took ballet lessons," said the 19 year-old skater from Riverside, Conn., whose skill and dedication led to the Olympic gold medal and the world championship.

The grueling practice sessions behind her, she's making $2 million a year skating five minutes a show, nine shows a week, 25 weeks a year in the Ice Capades.

Chevy Chase, long a wellknown suburb of Washington, D.C., became a well-known suburb of prime-time television this past year in the person of a 33-year-old comedian known to his friendly tax collector as Cornelius Crane Chase.

The pratfall king, whose philosophy is "nothing is offensive if it's laughable," became the nation's arbiter of bad taste on NBC's "Saturday Night."

As he clowned his way to shine as a top new TV star, he also established a new theory – a lot of people will watch television at midnight on Saturday if there is something worth watching.

From Moscow, Soviet pianist Lazar Berman burst on the American musical scene in 1976 with greater impact than anyone since Vladimir Horowitz.

"He accomplishes his miracles with a minimum of fuss," wrote Harold Schonberg in the New York Times after Berman's first Carnegie Hall concert, "but he has the ability to drive audiences into a frenzy."

Berman, who made his debut in Leningrad in 1934 when he was only 4 years old, came to the United States in January 1976 and was such a sensation that he is already making his third American tour.

Silvia Sommerlath made the most spectacular social leap of the year – from West German commoner to Queen of Sweden.

The 32-year-old dark-haired beauty is the daughter of a retired German businessman and a Spanish noblewoman. Brought up in Brazil, she became fluent in Portugese, Spanish, English and French as well as German.

Her language skills helped get her the job of chief hostess at the 1972 Olympic games in Munich and indirectly her new rank.

It was at the Olympics that she met King Carl XVI Gustav who wooed her in a jet-set courtship all over Europe. They were married last April.

Broadway discovered during 1976 that black is beautiful at the box office, too, and with seven black shows on the boards – four more open soon – some are calling it "The Great Black Way."

It's a whole new theatrical kingdom and its queen is the high-kicking Vivian Reed who belts out songs in "Bubbling Brown Sugar" with a vim and verve that could shake chandeliers.

A year ago the daughter of a Pittsburgh maintenance worker lived in three small Harlem rooms – seeking out a living singing pop after studying for three years at Juilliard.

Now she's a Broadway star, a guest on television shows, a model for fashion magazines and veteran of a command performance for princess Grace of Monaco.

Up in her 38th floor luxury apartment, she enjoys an ultimate status symbol – reading and rejecting movie scripts.

Residential Units Slated In 'Minster

WESTMINSTER – Commercial development and high density multiple residential units are planned for nearly 19 acres northeast of Westminster Avenue and Edwards Street.

Rezoning 15.6 acres of the property for residential planned development with 19 to 24 units per acre and 3.3 acres to general business has been approved by the city council. The commercial development is planned along Westminster Avenue.

The multiple residential units will be built east of Edwards in the area being rezoned from single family residential and low density multiple units.

Spokesmen for the property owners favoring rezoning said the residences were getting old and dilapidated and the cost to rehabilitate them would be high. The rezoning to high density multiple units would give the owners an opportunity to develop their properties, they said.

The rezoning was initiated by the planning commission which favored a slightly lower density of 15 to 18 units per acre. A petition requesting heavy multiple zoning for their properties had been signed by 34 land owners and presented to the commission.

Orange Okays End To Fire Boundaries

ORANGE – The city council has authorized an agreement between the city and county to eliminate fire jurisdiction boundaries in east Orange.

The agreement will go before the Orange County Board of Supervisors Tuesday where it is expected to be approved, said a city official.

The council vote was 3 – 0 with councilmen Jess Perez and Don Smith absent. Monthly reports on a one – year trial of the program will be made to councilmen.

Dropping the boundary has been discussed since July and approved by council, but it ran into snags in its bid for approval by the board of supervisors.

The boundary elimination is expected to save $500,000 in tax funds the first year by making construction and staffing of a new fire station unnecessary.

Councilman Jim Beam said about $150,000 for operating costs would be saved annually by utilizing the existing county station in east Orange and retaining the Villa Park Volunteer Fire Department.

SA To Eye Adult Show Moratorium

SANTA ANA – A proposed moratorium on expansion or construction of "adult" facilities in the city, including movie theaters, book stores and massage parlors, is scheduled to be considered by city councilmen Monday.

The proposed moratorium would also include hotels and motels that show adult films.

City Attorney Keith Gow said the proposed four-month moratorium is designed to give councilmen time to decide if they want to enact permanent amendments to the zoning code regulating adult uses.

Brea and Buena Park, Gow said, have adopted similar moratoriums but have not yet adopted permanent zoning regulations.

The moratorium stemmed from "indications" from the council that they might be interested in zoning measures adopted in Detroit and Boston, according to Gow.

The Detroit measure imposes distance requirements between adult theaters and adult bookstores, for example, while the Boston measure concentrates adult-type uses in one particular zoning area, Gow said.

The coat of arms was originally a coat of silk or linen used to protect a knight's armor from the heat of the sun or from rust and dirt. It was colorfully embroidered with the distinguishing emblem of the wearer.

Economy Topic Of Conference Set In Tustin

TUSTIN -- The first annual Tustin Economic Outlook Conference, to discuss issues of countywide concern, will be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Jan. 21, at the city hall community center.

Sponsored by the city chamber of commerce, the conference will feature Dr. Elizabeth Lenche, associate professor of economics at Pepperdine University ; Donald Bryd, realtor, Richard Cannon, president of the Irvine Industrial Complex; Hans Dybing, manager of the Broadway Store in Anaheim, and W.G. Colbern, formely of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce.

The public, in addition to chamber members, is invited to the conference.

Underground Power Line Budget Set

SAN CLEMENTE — The San Diego Gas & Electric Co. which supplies electricity to a portion of southern Orange County has budgeted $129,887 as 1977 contribution toward undergrounding electric lines in San Clemente, $62,025 for San Juan Capistrano, and $194,830 for adjacent unincorporated areas.

Under procedures approved by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC), city councils and county boards of supervisors determine where they want utilities converted to underground and set priorities for the projects. The electric company and the telephone company do the work while homeowners and businesses pay for the trenching and underground hookups on their own properties.

The total of $386,742 budgeted for Orange County is part of a record $7.3 million budget presented by San Diego Gas & Electric Co. for approval by the PUC for converting overhead lines to underground. The request represents a $947,000 increase over the 1976 budget of $6,350,000.

Santa Ana Okays Attorney Fee Plan

SANTA ANA – Six months after the court order, city councilmen have agreed on a method of paying $125,000 in interim attorney's fees in a hiring discrimination suit.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson ordered the city to pay the interim fees in July but set strict conditions on his ruling to guarantee repayment in case the city wins its appeal.

Ferguson last March ruled the city had discriminated against Mexican-Americans in police and fire personnel hiring.

Should the city lose its appeal of that ruling, it would have to make back pay awards that could total $500,000 in addition to estimated total attorney's fees of $300,000.

Councilmen have approved a method which involves a trust agreement for paying the interim fees. The $125,000 (budgeted in the council emergency fund) will be placed in a savings account from which the money cannot be withdrawn, said City Atty. Keith Gow.

The money will earn seven per cent interest which will go to whomever wins the appeal, Gow said.

Los Angeles-based Center for Law in the Public Interest represented plaintiffs in the suit.

The city's appeal still is in the preliminary stages, Gow said.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JANUARY 2

Your birthday today: Finds you in a relatively quiet developmental phase while you become familiar with the ins and outs of a local system. Late in the year the tempo of daily living picks up as you simplify your approach, focus on whatever you value most. Relationships follow a similar pattern. Today's natives are noted for great and sustained power in politics once motivated to try. Those born this year are guided by intuition and a resolve to meet all challenges. Their education should be well rounded.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Renew acquaintances with those just back from journeys. Keep on the move, but be thrifty. What you hear provokes serious thought. Evening is for romance.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Remnants of holiday activities cause outlays beyond your current budget. Draw the line or else resolve to economize for some time to come.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Friends wait for you to set the pace or will let you modify what they're doing if you speak up. Youngsters need advice and protection. Take several breaks.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Today's influences favor solitary meditation. Later hours offer reconciliation with older people, as well as an inspiring view of an old problem.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Competitive instincts run strong. If you can afford to outspend neighbors, do so on projects that are constructive. If you lack cash, be innovative.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Intuition arrives belatedly. Follow it, contrary to advice you get from friends. It's okay to bend the rules temporarily.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Do what comes naturally, within reason, to the limits of the present situation. Decisions make themselves within the context of current relationships.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Ask good questions, listen carefully to the answers. Experts base opinions on precedents set long ago. Translate them into contemporary terms.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The day goes smoothly, as you conserve energy and take time to consolidate plans. Gather your resources for the greater task ahead.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Pursue a leisurely course. If you've done your work, luxuriate in the preview of what's coming. If you fell down on the job, don't dawdle.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Enjoy vicarious participation at public or sports events. Learn by example. Use a chance to set somebody straight on a story mixup.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Keep life simple. Once you fulfill your usual Sunday responsibilities, enjoy watching the passing scene. Try to improve your perspective.

Nurse Heroine In Saving Of Invalid Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A 55-year-old live-in nurse led her invalid patient onto a narrow 10th-floor ledge outside their burning Santa Monica apartment building and clung there for more than an hour until rescuers arrived.

Firemen termed the nurse's efforts "heroic."

"There's no railing out there," said Battallion Chief Lynn Wallace. "You'd have to see it to appreciate it."

Nurse Kay Cray said afterward that she led 56-year-old Joann Del Mar onto the two-foot-wide ledge of the 19-story oceanfront apartment because "there was nothing else to do."

Miss Del Mar suffers from multiple sclerosis and normally is confined to a wheelchair.

"Flames were coming out all of the windows and sparks were flying all over," Miss Cray said.

When Someone Needs Help, NY Cabbie Simply Has To Get Involved

By SIDNEY FIELDS
New York News

NEW YORK – One midnight, cab driver Solly Reiss heard his radio bark that a cabbie a block away was being held up. Reiss hit the gas pedal, spotted three fleeing men, hopped out to chase them. He pinned one against the wall, while policemen and other cabbies responding to the radio call caught the other two.

"One was freed in a few hours, the second in two days," Reiss says in deep disgust. "The third was extradited to Canada. He was wanted for attempted murder."

Reiss, who's been driving his own cab for 27 years, always seems to be helpfully near the scene of the city's minor or major calamities. He's received ten Police Department commendations. One of his colleagues, Milton Spitzer, says that "Solly is the city's only cabbie who cruises for commendations, not passengers."

"Milt is kidding," says Reiss. "I just happen to be there, but when I am, I don't look the other way. It's not in me."

He's a stocky 59, owns a brown belt in Judo, has four grandchildren and three sons: Paul, 37, a computer programmer in the Yonkers, N.Y., school system; Martin, 35, a driver for United Parcel; Richard, 26, who has two college degrees, served in Vista and is teaching economics in Israel. Reiss is immensely proud of them; he's also proud of being elected to his second term as president of the 5,000-member United Taxi Owners Guild.

His commendations, all ten of them, are framed and hang on the walls of his Bronx apartment. He got the first when he continued giving artificial respiration to a woman who had collapsed on the sidewalk, even though a passerby had told him, "She's finished."

"When the ambulance came she was able to walk to it," Reiss says. "The crowd applauded. That was nice."

He's also played Samaritan to strangers for which there were no commendations. He hauled a man who had put his head in the kitchen oven with the gas on into the street; and once borrowed a scarf and used his pencil to apply a tourniquet around the shattered leg of a woman who had been hit by a bus.

On his way home at 2 one morning on the Cross Bronx Expressway he saw one speeding car crash into the back of a stalled car. It began burning. Reiss raced to pull a woman out.

"She was wedged under the dashboard. I kept pulling until my arms were scorched. I got a fire extingquisher from an interstate bus that stopped. But the contents lasted about 30 seconds. Are they all like that? But nothing could have helped the woman. She was gone."

While hacking at JFK Airport Reiss heard a woman's scream, then saw her running out of the terminal. He rushed to her. She pointed to a man running away. Reiss chased him, and quickly subdued him.

"A peeping Tom. The woman was changing her clothes in the ladies room when she looked up and saw this guy watching her over the top of the booth. She wouldn't press charges because she had to fly off to Colombia. She was a nun."

One day two men, flashing police badges, charged him with blocking the street. Reiss thought the badges weren't quite right. He tightened when the men moved towards him, preparing for a stickup.

"So a prowl car drives into the street, and I began yelling. The cops got both guys for impersonating an officer. One was fined $50 and the other, $25."

In his early days as a cabbie Reiss spotted two men beating up a third in a hallway. He drove until he found a policeman, told him about it, and suggested that the officer summon assistance. But the cop hurried to the scene to break up the fight himself. Reiss used a police call box to get help, then turned to see the three men beating up the cop.

"So I had to join the fight until the other cops got there."

There's no doubt that Reiss is moved by good and kind motives, but being human, when he talks of his deeds they somehow come out a bit larger than life.

Not too long ago he had to fight his way through a crowd to get at a man lying on the street. Reiss assumed it was a heart attack, and roared for someone to call the police emergency, and began pounding on the man's chest. He was credited with saving the man's life.

"He looked me up and thanked me. I went to see him in the hospital a couple of times."

It was one of the rare times that he was thanked.

"But I still wouldn't pass any of them by," Reiss says.

Bandit Pair Robs Five At HB Hostelry

HUNTINGTON BEACH – Two armed bandits robbed four employes and one customer at the Sheraton-Huntington Beach hotel early Friday before taking $1,500 from the firm's safe, police report.

Police said the two armed men, believed to have stolen a car in Anaheim about 11 p.m. Thursday, entered the hotel about 1:30 a.m. demanding money.

The bandits also forced four employes and one customer to lie on the floor and then stole approximately $90 from their wallets.

Police said the two suspects are believed to have stolen a car from John Bastian of Los Angeles earlier in the evening.

Police said Bastian and the two suspects drove together into Orange County before the men took the car at gunpoint.

NB Motorist Slams Into Van; Trapped 1 Hour

COSTA MESA – A Newport Beach man was trapped for an hour inside his small sports car Friday after he smashed into the rear of a parked van, police said.

Taken to Hoag Memorial Hospital with head injuries was Walter E. Sullivan, of 2115 Sharington St. Hospital officials said he was transferred to the intensive care unit following surgery.

Traffic investigators said Sullivan's slow-slung car plowed under the parked van near 16th Street and Irvine Boulevard, spewing gasoline about the area and trapping the driver inside. The impact shoved the dashboard back almost against him.

Fire rescue personnel from Newport Beach were summoned to use their "jaws of life" tool to remove Sullivan from the tangled wreckage.

The crash occurred about 12:40 a.m.

Eight Hunted After 2 Knifed

ANAHEIM – Police Friday were seeking eight male Latins as suspects in a knife attack on three men Thursday night in a bar at 3456 W. Orange Ave.

Reported in critical condition at Anaheim Community Hospital was Stanley E. Porter, 35 of Anaheim. His brother, Lawrence, 38, of Cucamonga, was described as guarded.

Both men were treated at the scene by Anaheim paramedics.

A third man, John G. Bartlett Jr., 23, also of Anaheim, was not injured, according to reports.

Police said they had only sketchy details on the stabbings which occurred about 11 p.m. Thursday.

Cecil Who? New Secretary Of Interior Just an Idaho 'Potato Man'

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer

When Gov. Cecil Andrus of Idaho attended the Celebrity Golf race at Sun Valley, a woman stopped him in the lobby of the resort and said: "I know you. You're somebody; aren't you? Who are you?"

The governor smiled modestly and replied: "I'm Cecil Andrus."

The woman, a newspaper society editor from Detroit, stared at him blankly and said, "Who?"

As Robert Redford passed through the lobby on one side and Joan Kennedy strolled unchalantly nearby, Andrus repeated his name and, still not gaining recognition, asked if perhaps she had seen him in a TV commercial.

"Of course," she said quickly: "That's it. You're the potato man."

Not the chief executive of Idaho or the future Secretary of the Interior or the chairman of the National Governors Conference.

The potato man.

Andrus, named by President-elect Carter as secretary of interior, has made five nationally broadcast television commercials and too many speeches to count extolling the virtues of his state's No. 1 agricultural product -- Idaho potatoes.

Whether fresh, frozen, processed, potatoes are a $550 million a year industry in Idaho. It's been estimated that as much as 70 per cent of the state's workforce depends on the industry.

"Such a large segment of our population revolves around the potato portion of agriculture that if something's good for the potato farmer it's good for everbody else -- the people who sell automobiles, who sell home appliances -- because that money goes right back into the state's economy," Andrus said in a recent interview in New York.

Andrus, a 45-year-old Democrat who won re-election to a second term in 1974 by the widest margin in state history - 71 per cent of the vote in the gubernatorial contest - has gained nationwide recognition as the Idaho potato salesman.

In 1973, he spent two days taping the TV commercials in an Idaho potato field, in a potato warehouse, in his office, at a farm family picnic and in the kitchen of the governor's mansion.

He had to become a member of the Screen Actors Guild for the filming, and arrangements for payment of his dues were made by the Idaho Potato Commission and the advertising agency.

In the commercial filmed in the kitchen, Andrus appears in a pink, frilly apron, preparing potatoes for dinner.

"I swore I'd quit if they put that one on nationwide TV," he joked, "but I guess they did it anyway, and it's gotten tremendous response."

He said he receives "just bundles and bundles of mail every day" because of the commercials.

"The main thing is that they remember my name, what we're selling, and they can recite a great deal of the words from the commercials," said Andrus, 6 foot-2 and amazingly slim for someone who eats potatoes several times a day.

One of his favorite stories comes from a friend who made a trip to the East and stopped in the bar at his hotel before retiring one night. The bartender paused in his work to watch and Andrus commercial and then said, "Gee, you'd think they'd pay that guy enough to be governor that he wouldn't have to moonlight."

Andrus grinned as he told the story and said, "I really enjoy the TV work, but of course I don't get any monetary compensation for it.

"I was hesitant at first. My only question was would or would it not be helpful to the sales of an agricultural product. I think it's now been proven in three years time that, yes, it's very successful."

In his commercials, network talk show appearances -- he was interviewed on NBC's "Today" show and on ABC's "Good Morning, America" recently - and speeches, Andrus plugs potatoes as nonfattening, nutritious food.

He argues that Idaho potatoes - as opposed to Long Island or Maine potatoes - are fluffy and mealy, not soggy, because "we have a unique environment for raising our potatoes.

"This environment can't be duplicated anywhere in the world - proper elevation which results in warm days and cool nights; high volcanic content in our soil, and the purest, cleanest water."

Idaho produces about one-fourth of the nation's potatoes - eight billion pounds a year. About 70 per cent of the crop is sold as processed or packaged potatoes. The strain is the Russet Burbank, developed by Luther Burbank in the 1870s.

Andrus said he has never felt less a governor because of his salesman's role. In fact, he believes he's done more for his state and his state's economy than he ever could have done hanging around the statehouse signing proclamations.

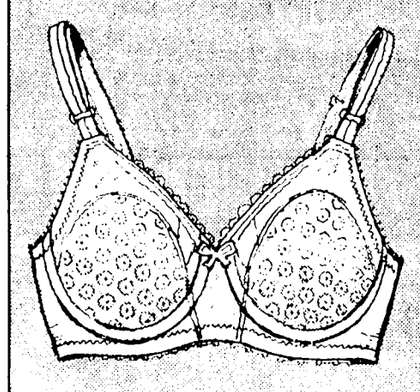

But Andrus has not shunned controversy. During his second term, he opposed plans by the Idaho Power Co. to build an $800 million, coal-fired electrical generating plant 24 miles from Boise, the state's capital and population center.

Andrus acknowledged the project would generate jobs and stimulate the economy, but he said it was the wrong location. The Idaho Public Utilities Commission eventually rejected the proposal.

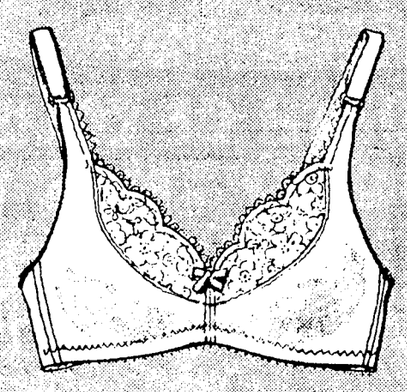

Andrus, who has appeared to disdain some of the trappings of high office, often traveled alone on state business on commercial airlines, and drove a Chevrolet this year rather than the state's traditional Cadillac limousine.

He is married and has three daughters.

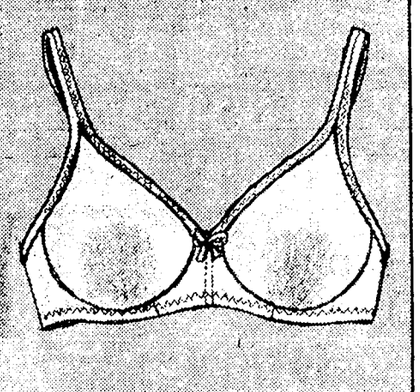

Rhubarb, meaning a noisy argument or quarrel, comes from the custom in the theater, radio and movies of saying "rhubarb" over and over again to stimulate angry and menacing talk in crowd scenes. scenes.

Asian Eyes On Carter

But U.S. Watching New Leaderships In Red China, Japan

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) – Once again Asian eyes will turn toward Washington in 1977.

What the administration of Jimmy Carter does – and how it does it – will have a general impact on a politically sensitive region where Americans have fought three major wars in 31 years.

But Asian and U.S. eyes also will be on the new leaderships of Red China and Japan, the area's two most powerful nations, and on South Asia where full representative government has been suspended in India, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, formerly Ceylon.

Insofar as President-elect Carter is concerned, Asians will want to determine whether he intends to continue, or dismantle, the power equilibrium put together by two U.S. Republican administrations and mainland China.

This balance of power formula envisages continued close U.S.-China ties as a counterweight to the massive Soviet military presence on the Chinese-Soviet borders.

Carter has an opportunity to strengthen the Washington-Peking link by extending full diplomatic recognition to China, a move which some analysts say would improve its bargaining position in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Recognition of Peking would entail withdrawal of the U.S. Embassy from nationalist Chinese-governed Taiwan.

Although China reserves the right to use force in settling the Taiwan problem – the island is recognized by both Taipei and Peking as part of China – the Chinese have shown no sign of belligerence since the beginning of Asian detente in 1971.

Taiwan continued to boom economically during the year – showing a $4812 million trade surplus in the January-November period – and, on the surface at least, remained politically stable through the momentous leadership changes on the mainland.

Another China neighbor, Hong Kong, continued to demonstrate its stability with Chinese relations described by the government as "excellent." One government official said with the change of leadership in China, Hong Kong can look forward to even better relations in the years to come.

American recognition of the still unproven moderate regime in Peking of Hua Kuo-feng would shore it up against party radicals hostile to its policy of rapprochement with Washington.

Closer ties between Peking and Tokyo are seen as a result of the Japanese general election Dec. 5, which left the long - governing Liberal-Democratic party in precarious control.

The outstanding bilateral problem in an otherwise healthy U.S.-Japan relationship is that of fisheries. Japan, which depends heavily on fish protein for its 110 million people, reacted with dismay to U.S. proclamation of a 200-mile limit. Though adjustments may be made to permit continued Japanese fishing, this normally cheap food staple will almost certainly become a more expensive item for the Japanese.

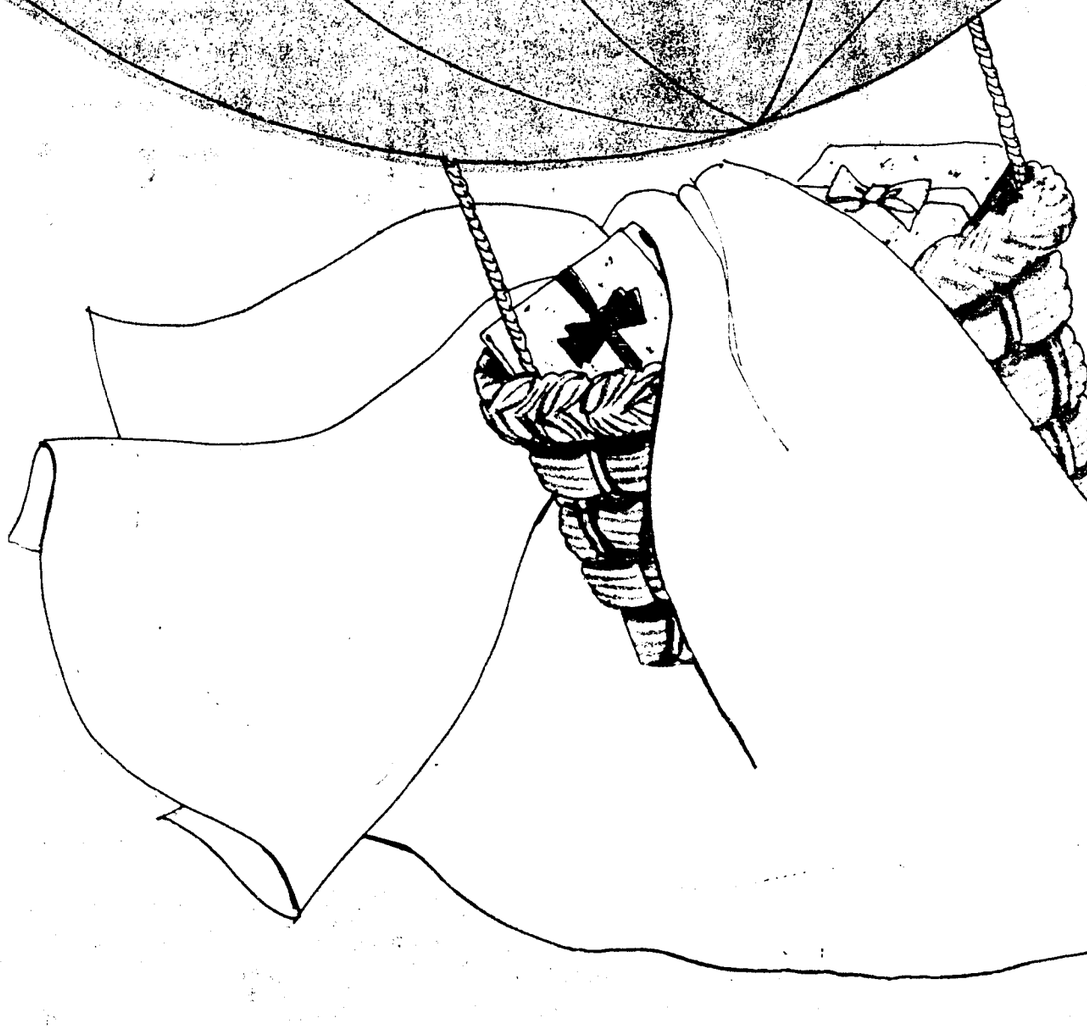

Tokyo also awaits a signal from Washington over the question of withdrawal of the 42,000 U.S. troops in South Korea.

Both Tokyo and Seoul fear a hardening in the U.S. resolve to phase out the American forces by an administration critical of the denial of human rights by South Korean President Park Chung-hee, and, more recently, of South Korean efforts to influence U.S. congressmen.

Strained U.S.-Korean relations could have an adverse effect on Park's personal hold on power. His failure to maintain friendly links with Washington could erode his support within the army, his chief pillar of support.

The impact of the Carter administration on events in South Asia can only be guessed at. The India-Pakistan war over Bangladesh turned New Delhi away from Washington and toward Moscow.

Irvine Celebrates Its Fifth Birthday

By ART BARRETT
Register Staff Writer

IRVINE – Councilman John Burton broke out a bottle of champagne and toasted the city's birthday at a council session here this past week while reminding one and all that a state of Camelot had not been achieved by government officials in the past five years.

The regular meeting of the council fell on the same date the city was incorporated in 1971. Burton waived drinking in public regulations by personal fiat to hoist his toast to Irvine's five years and kicked off a round of political if not eloquent, oratory.

"I remind you," he said, mixing a dash of cold water with the champagne, "that five years ago you could buy a house (in Irvine) for $30,000." Then, he blamed the city's bureaucracy for being a costly obstacle which has prevented developers from building inexpensive homes.

Councilwoman Gabrielle Pryor joined the chorus by jumping on what she called the "liberal progressives" who "just can't stand the low-income category" and who "shout bigot when they see a blue collar" in the city.

Mayor David Sills blamed the county for, among other things, not asking the city for input prior to expanding the housing ban around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station and hoped that it would not lead to the military base becoming a commercial airport.

Despite Burton's reminder of what had not been accomplished in the past five years and Pryor's warnings of corruption in government and bigotry in regard to blue collars, the mayor declared that the city's future will continue to be decided by the council and not, as he said, in a corporate board room in New York or somewhere else.

After Councilwoman Mary Ann Gaido hoped that Irvine wouldn't become a community for persons fleeing Los Angeles and Councilman Bill Vardoulis confessed to nine months of "enlightenment" during his tenure, former councilman Ray Quigley stood to add a final flourish.

"Happy Birthday. Dear Irvine. . . ." sang Quigley.

ONLY GOOD CHARACTERS CAN DRINK

IRVINE – Drinking liquor in the city's tax-supported recreation facilities now will be permitted if the drinker is of "good character."

With the approval of the city police chief, the city council has voted unanimously to expand the uses of the facilities to include drinking.

But, "no such permit shall be issued to a person who is not of good character or reputation in the community in which he resides," according to a staff report.

SA Postpones Changes In EIR

SANTA ANA – Balking at what they say could be added city costs, councilmen have delayed action on changing city environmental impact report (EIR) procedures to conform with new state guidelines.

Councilmen this week were expected to adopt a resolution that would bring city procedure into line with state requirements by the Jan. 1 deadline.

Basically, the state changes would:

– Make EIR's shorter and limited to detailed discussion of significant effects.

– Make negative declarations (statements that a project will have no significant effect and therefore does not require a full EIR) longer.

– Require the city to give public notice, through newspaper ads, of proposed action on negative declarations and draft EIRs.

Councilman David Brandt proposed that the council take no action on the resolution because the new state procedures will cost the city more. He cited the required newspaper advertisements as an example.

"In light of SB 90, which says if state requirements will cost local agencies extra money, the state will pay for it, I think we should disapprove it," Brandt said.

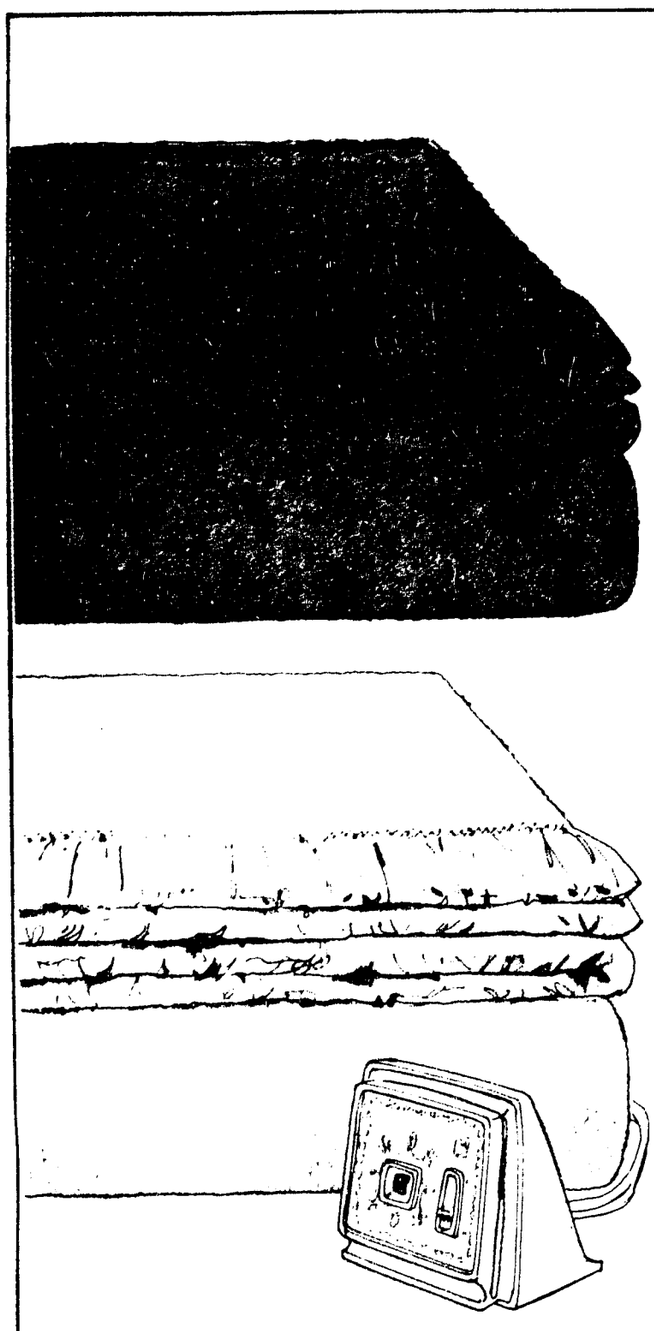

City Manager Bruce Spragg objected, saying that such a move might jeopardize the city's chances of getting tax grant applications funded and said it might be difficult to substantiate claims of actual added costs of the new procedures.

Councilmen decided to continue the matter until Jan 3 in hopes the staff can gather more information on the proposed changes and their costs.

Councilmen also instructed the city staff to send a letter to the state treasury secretary citing the added costs and copies of the letter to the league of cities.

Now going on.

LATIN NATIONS RELEASE PRISONERS IN GESTURE TO U.S.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) Latin-American governments have freed thousands of prison inmates, ranging from petty thieves to ex-cabinet ministers and top Communists. The amnesties are seen partly as steps by the countries to improve their image and win favor with the new U.S. administration.

A survey by The Associated Press shows amnesties have been declared for at least 3,000 persons in the region in recent proclamations. Some were announced in the year-end period but actually covered several months.

Most of those freed were common criminals doing time for minor crimes, but a significant number were political prisoners.

Diplomatic observers said some of the political releases stem as much from the self-interest of Latin-American governments as from their compassion. A Democratic administration takes over in the White House next Jan. 20 and President-elect Carter has stated that future relations between the United States and other countries will be influenced by how those countries respect human rights.

Such human rights organizations as Amnesty International, with headquarters in London, also keep up foreign pressure for the release of political inmates.

Here is a country-by-country report.

– ARGENTINA. The ruling military government, a target of international criticism for alleged human rights violations since seizing power in a coup last March, announced last week 1,537 political prisoners have been released in the last nine months. It said 559 of them had been freed since the beginning of November.

Political analysts saw the announcement as a goodwill gesture to the Carter administration. Before, the Argentine authorities maintained near-silence about political prisoners.

Security sources say 3,000 political prisoners are still being held, including ousted President Isabel Peron.

– BRAZIL. President Ernesto Geisel, handpicked by the country's military rulers, announced a general Christmas pardon to benefit prisoners serving sentences for various common crimes.

Although thousands reportedly fall within the scope of the pardon, a Justice Ministry official said it was not possible to determine immediately to how many the pardon would apply. Authorities in the State of Rio de Janeiro estimated that 900 prisoners would be released there. The pardon did not include political prisoners.

The Brazilian government does not consider alleged subversives in custody as political prisoners, and numbers are hard to come by.

Amnesty International estimated in its 1976 annual report, however, that 800 political prisoners are currently under detention in Brazil.

– CHILE. In mid-December the ruling military junta announced it had released 300 political prisoners. It also announced the expulsion of 17 others from the country. All were being held without charge.

One of those expelled was Luis Corvalan, 60, secretary-general of the Chilean Communist party. He was arrested during the September, 1973, military coup that toppled the Marxist government of the late President Salvador Allende. Corvalan was freed in exchange for the release by Moscow of Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukowsky, a swap reportedly negotiated with U.S. help.

Gen. Augusto Pinochet, president of the Chilean junta, claimed the releases had been planned since September and

FEC Passed Up Probes Of Alleged Violations, Files Show

WASHINGTON (AP) – Newly released documents show the Federal Election Commission passed up opportunities to investigate alleged violations of campaign laws.

The FEC released files on 245 cases of possible election law violations on which it has taken final action.

Eleven cases were referred to the Justice Department, most because the commission lacked jurisdiction. In other cases the commission declined to investigate where violations within its jurisdiction were alleged.

– The FEC decided last February, after making one telephone call, not to investigate allegations published by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Monsanto Co. illegally coerced executives to donate to its $1 million political fund.

– The commission refused to investigate a report last year by New Times magazine that a campaign aide to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, sought an illegal campaign donation from a representative of a foreign country. An FEC memo said the allegation was vague and that an investigation might embarrass Bentsen, who was seeking the Democratic nomination for president at that time.

– The FEC refused on Sept. 23 to investigate a public admission by Armco Steel Corp. that it made about $167,000 in indirect corporate political donations between 1968 and 1974. The FEC said the three-year federal statute of limitations may have expired.

FEC spokesman David Fiske said the commission didn't want to pressure reporters for identities of confidential sources, but also is hesitant to launch wide investigations based only on news reports, especially when they lack specific information.

He also said the commission has relatively few investigators – 11 out of a staff of about 180 – and that the commission's enforcement authority is limited.

Fiske said that in the commission's formative months it was busy defending a Supreme Court suit and writing basic election regulations.

The files on the closed cases, which were released Friday, filled a large cardboard box.

One hundred cases still are under FEC investigation, Fiske said.

The Monsanto allegation came to light in a Post-Dispatch story Aug. 24, 1975. It quoted unnamed Monsanto executives as saying they were pressured into authorizing the company to deduct money from their paychecks for its political fund.

Under federal law, pressured donations are an illegal, indirect use of corporate money for political contributions if the money goes to federal candidates.

The story estimated that the company, which has its headquarters near St. Louis, had deducted $1.25 million from its executives' checks for the political fund since its inception in 1968.

Two days later, the newspaper reported that Republican senatorial candidate Thomas B. Curtis had received $4,240 from 55 Monsanto executives during his unsuccessful 1974 campaign. Curtis, a former congressman, was at the time of the story chairman of the FEC.

Fiske said the donations to Curtis had nothing to do with the commission's later decision not to probe the alleged pressure on company executives.

Commission records show no effort to investigate the stories until Sept. 23, 1975, almost a month after they were published.

The case was closed Feb. 9, 1976, without the FEC making any attempt to contact Monsanto executives directly, Fiske said.

Starts Sunday, January 2.

Latin Prisoner Release Seen As Move To Improve Relations With Carter

that the election of Carter had nothing to do with them.

Legal sources close to the Roman Catholic Church in Chile, said earlier this month, that 524 persons were known to be serving sentences for politically related offenses and that 61 others awaited trial by military courts.

The president of the International Committee of the Red Cross said in an interview with The Associated Press last week that conditions in Chile have improved to the point where the committee will end its services to political prisoners there in the next six months. Red Cross President Alexandre Hay said the country still has 700 to 800 political prisoners, but their release depends largely on the willingness of other countries to accept them as refugees.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass quoted Corvalan as saying Tuesday there are 3,300 political prisoners still in Chilean prisons and that more than 2,000 "patriots" are missing. He claimed "only a small portion of inmates had been wrested from the junta's prisons," Tass said.

– BOLIVIA. The military government announced amnesty for a record 70 persons detained in Bolivian jails or living in exile, including two former cabinet ministers.

– ECUADOR. The military junta declared a Christmas amnesty for 24 persons accused by the authorities of fomenting subversion. Twenty-two of them – all members of the National Democratic Union political party – had been arrested a month before. The other two belonged to the Nationalist Revolutionary party.

– HAITI. President Jean Claude Duvalier reportedly ordered freedom for 140 prisoners, both political and criminal, in a Christmas-season gesture. One of those favored was banker Clemar Joseph-Charles, jailed during the regime of the president's father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier, for alleged antigovernment plotting.

A Haitian police spokesman said jails in that Caribbean country are virtually empty with the exception of "some vagabonds and tramps." Amnesty International estimated political prisoners in Haiti could number as few as 400 and as many as 3,000.

–-PERU. A year-end amnesty by the Pervian military government favored 197 persons and the prosecution was dropped in 39 pending court cases. Several former civilian government ministers were included in the pardon. Observers in Peru said the conciliatory gesture was aimed at improving the government's domestic image and that it had nothing to do with Carter's election.

– URUGUAY. The military controlled government lowered the penalties for crimes connected with alleged subversion. Legal sources said an undetermined number of the estimated 1,800 political prisoners being held by the government, would benefit from the lowered sentences since most of them have been in jail since 1972-1973. The government has not made any announcements of pardons but relatives of prisoners said some detainees were already being released.

Amnesty said 5,000 political prisoners were under detention in Uruguay.

– VENEZUELA. President Carlos Andres Perez, the leader of one of a handful of democracies left in Latin America, signed a Christmas pardon for approximately 100 prisoners serving sentences for common crimes.

Venezuelan government sources said a small number of persons accused of guerrilla or subversive activities, are being held for trial. Amnesty reported that 83 political prisoners are being held in Venezuela.

Amnesty International in London gave this rundown in its 1976 annual report of what it says are estimates of political prisoners held in other Latin-American countries:

Colombia, "some hundreds;" Cuba, 4,000; Dominican Republic, situation "bad" but no estimates; Guatemala, about 190; Honduras, about 100; Mexico, 500; Nicaragua, 500; Paraguay, 338 to 450.

Kallah Retreat Shared by two Jewish Groups

"The Relevance of Ancient Law to Contemporary Jewish Life" was the theme of a Kallah Retreat jointly sponsored last weekend by Israel Academy and Temple Sharon at Camp Malibu.

Eighty people spanning three generations welcomed the Sabbath on Friday evening with candle blessing, worship, blessing of wives by husbands, blessing of children by parents and the kiddoosh over the Sabbath wine goblet. Following a festive Sabbath eve meal, replete with Sabbath table hymns, folk songs and the chanted grace-after-meals.

Well, would you like a fresh understanding of God, and of yourself, and of your place in His creation?
"Sure, but how is that going to help me?"
It gives you a sense of direction and purpose. And as your knowledge of God grows, this becomes the basis of everything you do.

Ordination Of Women Top Religion Story

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) – The ordination of women by the Episcopal Church was voted the top religion story of 1976 in a Religion Newswriters Association poll of newspaper, magazine and news service religion reporters.

The story gathered 35 first- or second-place votes from the 45 writers polled. The 2.8 million member Episcopal Church voted last September to allow women to become priests.

The presidential election victory of Jimmy Carter, who describes himself as a "born again" Christian and has long been active in Southern Baptist evangelism, placed second in the top 10 religion stories chosen for the year.

The third-ranked story was an October conference sponsored by the nation's Roman Catholic bishops as a Bicentennial project. The 1,340 delegates to the Detroit meeting urged the church to make major changes in church policies relating to birth control, divorce, the role of women and social activism.

Other stories listed in order of their selection were:

4. The deepening schism in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

5. The controversy surrounding the Rev. Sun Myung Moon and his Unification Church.

6. The International Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia last August.

7. Abortion as a presidential campaign issue.

8. The New Jersey Supreme Court decision allowing comatose Karen Anne Quinlan to be removed from a mechanical respirator.

9.-10. (tie) The Gallop Poll report that more than one-third of all Americans say they have had a "born again" experience and the movement to allow Roman Catholics to divorce and remarry.

Country Western Dance Scheduled

FOUNTAIN VALLEY – – A country western dance will be sponsored by Temple B'Nai Tzedek Social Club and held in the Fountain Valley Recreation Center, 16400 Brookhurst St., Fountain Valley, at 7 p.m. Jan. 16.

Terry Whittaker To Address SB Church

Terry Cole-Whittaker, associate minister of the Whittier Church of Religious Science Sunday, at 11 a.m. her topic will be "How To Get What You Want in 1977".

Executive director of her own firm, Success Plus, Ms. Whittaker serves as a management consultant on human potential development. She conducts many classes on successful living. She is a popular speaker in Southern California and has appeared on numerous television and radio programs.

Appearing at the 9 a.m. service will be the Rev. Theodora Dyrenforth.

The Church has now moved into its own new Sanctuary at 500 Marina Drive. There are two services regularly: 9 a.m. and at 1 a.m. A pre-service meditation is held at 10:45 a.m. conducted by Janet Taylor.

Lutherans Split

CHICAGO (AP) – A new Lutheran denomination has been formed by those called "moderates" who have broken away from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in reistance to its conservative leadership.

The rift had been threatening since 1974, when most of the faculty of the church's leading seminary, Concordia and St. Louis, quit and formed a breakaway seminary in protest against pressures on teaching by the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Preus.

The new denomination, the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, includes initially about 75,000 members in 1,950 congregations from coast to coast. They pledged efforts for unity with two other major Lutheran bodies, the Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Dr. William Kohn of Milwaukee was elected president.

Ripley's Believe It or Not

The Church of Densus in Rumania was constructed by making use of the stone ruins of an ancient Roman town wall.

UNUSUAL GROUNDBREAKING – Unusual groundbreaking services were held for the Cypress Holy Cross Lutheran Church Youth Center. Dimensions of the building were outlined. Teens played games in the recreation room, guest sat in the social lounge, a Christian folk music group performed on the area designated for the stage. Leading these services were (from left) Lowell McMillen, congregational chairman; Dan Ihasz, youth director; Vince Mariner, planning director, and the Rev. Elmer D. Thyr, pastor.

CONDUCTOR – Joseph R. Abston, former member of Anaheim First Baptist Church and music teacher in the Anaheim School District, led a chorus of 200 voices in singing Handel's Messiah on Christmas Day in Jerusalem. The singers were recruited from colleges throughout the Southwestern United States. They were accompanied by the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra in their symphony home in a Jerusalem theater. Abston is now director of music for the Tyler Street Methodist Church in Dallas, Texas, and has his own academy of music with 125 students.

Performing Arts Center to Begin Winter Term

Extensive instruction in the arts for children will highlight the classes offered this winter by the Performing Arts Center.

A self-supporting, non-profit organization located on the Garden Grove Community Church campus, the Performing Arts Center begins its winter term the week of Jan. 3. In addition to offering a variety of instruction for children, the center also features classes for adults and year-round, private instruction in vocal and instrumental music.

Highlighting the winter schedule are specialty courses in dance, mime and pantomime for both children and adults.

Registration and complete class scheduling information is available from the Performing Arts Center, 12141 Lewis St.

JOYCE COTTON
(Pre-school Teacher)

Euclid Baptist Has Center For Pre-Schoolers

The Euclid Street Baptist Church of Anaheim has opened a new preschool at 1408 South Euclid Street under the directorship of Joyce Cotton. Registration is now open for children age 2 to 5 years old. Some classes are already limited.

Hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. for working parents. The preschool provides a "Home away from Home" in a christian atmosphere. Morning Enrichment hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Joyce Cotton has had 6 years of pre-school experience; 3½ years as the director of the Trinity Baptist Church Preschool in Westminister where there were as many as 150 children enrolled with a waiting list. She also served on the preschool advisory committee for the Westminster School District and is active in the "church related nursery director fellowship of Orange County." In addition she is a member of SCAEYC (Southern California Association for Education of Young Children).

The curriculum provides many activities in art, literature, music, dramatic play, motor development, cooking, field trips, and science.

Learning to eat the right food is recognized as a necessary part of every childs education. Balanced hot meals are provided daily. They are served homestyle and children are encouraged to serve themselves and to eat as many servings as they want.

Staff members are mature Christians, qualified to work with young children.

SEMINARY TEACHER – Dr. G. William (Bill) Schweer will teach a course on "Building An Outreach Church" at the Southern California Extension Center of Golden Baptist Theological Seminary, 12311 Chapman Ave., Garden Grove, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., each Tuesday, beginning Jan. 4. Designed to get stalled churches moving, the class is open primarily to pastors and staff workers but others will be accepted. Dr. Schweer will teach a class on evangelism, from 7 to 10:30 p.m. Mondays, beginning Jan. 3. Call the Center to learn cost or for more information.

Ask FBI Files

WASHINGTON (AP) – Several religious groups, in the wake of revelations about surveilance and manipulation of organizations by U.S. intelligence agencies, have filed suits under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain files mentioning the religious groups.

They say that several requests for the files had been turned down. The data collected reportedly focuses mainly on church groups active in civil rights causes and in opposition to the Vietnam war.

Among the groups pressing for their files are the U.S. Jesuit Conference, the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), the United Church of Christ, the Mennonites, the Church of Scientology, the Zion Methodist Church and the Mosque of Islam.

The bell in the tower of the Monastery of Hersfeld in Germany has been rung periodically for 919 years.

The Church of Christ in Bassendean, Australia, was constructed in a single day. It was built by 120 volunteers on Jan. 4, 1913 and services were held in it the next day.

Dr. Schuller Enters Float In Pasadena Rose Parade

In the Pasadena Rose Parade today will be a float entered by the "Hour of Power," a television program emanating from the Garden Grove Community Church where Dr. Robert Schuller is pastor and minister for the "Hour of Power" broadcast. Dr. Schuller wanted a float which would visualize his message in a universal and non-denominational manner, he wanted the float to be elegantly beautiful and he wanted it to express this year's parade theme "The Good Life," he said.

Result was an entry entitled "Faith, Hope and Love," measuring 50 feet long, 18 feet wide and 16 feet high – maximum dimensions for any Rose Parade entry. The float will appear to be a vibrant, radiating Cross of Christ. White and orchid rays will seem to emanate outward from a centralized, brilliant white Cross. Bells will ring out loudly as the float glides down the street and past TV cameras, which will beam its message to more than 150 million viewers worldwide.

Since every visible inch of a Rose Parade float must be covered in floral material, and "Hour of Power's" entry will primarily be white, more than 500,000 blossoms will be required for its decoration. The rays – consisting of 48 large, rotating cones and 98 smaller ones – will be covered in petals from white gladiolas and white carnations, plus Vanda orchids, blue iris and coral gladiolas. The Cross itself will be decorated using white Phaleonopsis orchids. And base gardens around the Cross and stretching the entire length and width of the float will consist of white roses, white Cattleya orchids, white chrysanthemums and white carnations.

The float was designed by Don Davidson and made by Festival Artists of Pasadena.

Sinatra Schedules Regular Playdates At Caesars Palace

By SHIRLEY EDER
Knight News Wire

For those who like to keep tabs on Frank Sinatra, it will be nice to know he will be playing one week every other month at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, where he has performed these past few years without ever having signed a contract. A handshake, I'm told, between Sinatra and Sid Gathrid, vice-president in charge of entertainment, was all that was necessary.

I still don't know if there's been a formal contract signed for his new deal there, but Sinatra will play there starting Jan. 6, six times a year, one week (two shows a night) every other month. After January, Sinatra will appear in March, May, July, September and November.

SHIRLEBRITIES: Many newspapers ran the story that Jack Cassidy bequeathed nothing to former wife Shirley Jones and nothing to his eldest son (by a former wife), David Cassidy. There was no reason for Cassidy to leave anything to Jones, since they had been divorced for some time. Also, Jones has been, and still is, a big earner.

An insurance policy for more than $100,000 was all that Cassidy left. His will stipulated that each of his children under the age of 18 was to receive $50,000. David, well past 18, has been self-supporting for several years, and Cassidy knew that he was financially sound. Shaun, his and Jones' eldest son (they have three), recently turned 18. He had not reached that age when his father's will was made, but, just like David, Shaun won't inherit anything.

Since Cassidy was 49 when he died in a fire, I'm sure he felt that he would be able to change that will many times over. Although there were times that he and David had not gotten along well, at the time of his death they had begun to make up their differences. Cassidy had to support himself when he was very young, and possibly he felt that, if at 18 a boy was considered man enough to vote, he was also man enough to fend for himself.

DIDYA KNOW DEPT.: Sidney Sheldon ("Face in the Mirror," "Other Side of Midnight") tossed a regal banquet at a 60-room castle in Rome for the Bill Duftys (Gloria Swanson), James Mason and Linda Wertmuller. Then they all headed for the little town of Licce, Rudolph Valentino's birthplace, to observe the 50th anniversary of Valentino's death.

Talia Shire, who's so good in the movie "Rocky," may turn up on the other side of the camera next. Roger Corman has a film that he would like to have her direct.

Marge Champion will wed "Moneychangers" director Boris Sagal on New Year's Eve. The ceremony, witnessed by family only, will be at 8 p.m. At 10 all the film folk will arrive at the Sagal home for a combination wedding reception-New Year's Eve bash.

Mort Sahl Sees New Conspiracy

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) – There is a general consensus that Mort Sahl, no matter whether or not you agree with his politics, is innately one of the wittiest men of our age.

Still, he says, he can't work where he'd like to work. In his new book, "Heartland," a combination autobiography - philosophy book, he describes the conspiracy which he says has kept him off the network air.

"Almost every author with a new book," he says, "gets a shot on the big talk shows. But I haven't had one. My old friends – Tom Brokaw and Tom Snyder – hem and haw when I ask them about it, and they give me excuses, but they won't put me on."

He's still very active, of course, but his sphere of activity has shifted. Now he performs, mostly at college concerts, and he's turned to writing. There's his book, a few other books he's planning, two screenplays in progress.

Mort Sahl is sad about one thing. He doesn't see any young humorist coming up, doing the things and saying the things that Sahl used to do and say. He says there is no witty spokesman for the present younger generation.

"It seems to me that everything is frozen in the '60s. Comedians are still poking fun at the same things I used to poke fun at 10, 12 years ago.

"I really doubt that I could break in today, doing what I do. I was just talking about this the other day, about how nowadays there's little chance of anyone breaking in with my kind of humor, my sense of justice."

Sahl has been called an intellectual comedian, but he doesn't think that's an appropriate label.

"I don't consider myself an intellectual among comedians," he says. "At least, not compared to someone like Sid Caesar, although maybe compared to Laverne and Shirley."

Stanley Kramer will make what will certainly be one of the most ambitious pictures of 1977. It's "Raise the Titanic," based on Clive Cussler's adventurous book of the same name. And, unless the movie script differs widely from the book, this will be old-fashioned in one respect.

"In my books," Cussler says, "the hero always wins. I think that's the trouble with movies today – too often, the hero loses. The public likes to see the hero win."

Cussler will have nothing to do with the movie – he just sold it for a whopping $450,000 – but he says he did extract a promise from Kramer.

"I made him promise," the author says, "that he would not inject a message into the story. It's strictly an adventure story, solely for the purpose of entertaining."

"Raise the Titanic" – the gimmick in the story is that the Titanic is, indeed, raised – features Cussler's continuing hero, Dirk Pitt.

HERE WE GO AGAIN – Pasadena's historic Rose Bowl will be the site today for the 63rd annual college football classic. This New Year's Day the matchup is Michigan's Big 10 champions and USC's Pacific 8 champions. Michigan is ranked second nationally, USC third. Pittsburgh is No. 1.

10-1 Records Matched

Rose Bowl Day: SC, Michigan Hope It's No. 1

By JACK STEVENSON

Michigan's Wolverines and the Trojans of Southern California, each with a 10-1 record and a possible national college football crown, battle in the 63rd Rose Bowl today at 2 p.m., with the Midwesterners favored.

To make it a national title game, the Rose Bowl will need the cooperation of Georgia in the Sugar Bowl. Unbeaten and top-ranked Pittsburgh faces No. 5 Georgia at New Orleans prior to the Rose Bowl.

"We're bigger and they're quicker," said USC Coach John Robinson in sizing up his game.

Robinson succeeded John McKay this season as Trojan head coach, and not since Chuck Taylor and Stanford 25 years ago has a first-year Pac-8 coach brought a team to the bowl game.

"I don't think there should be a favorite in this game," Robinson said of the six-point advantage accorded Michigan. "I think it should be even."

Coach Bo Schembechler, seeking his first victory after two unsuccessful Rose Bowl tries, also discounts the odds.

Whether the weatherman will cooperate remains to be seen. Weeks of sunny warmth came to a halt Thursday with a rainstorm, and there could be more on game day.

Both teams boast All-American running backs – Rob Lytle for the No. 2 ranked Wolverines and Ricky Bell for the No. 3 Trojans. Lytle, a 195-pounder, can operate at either tailback or fullback. Bell, 218, also can play either position, but he has been working out only at tailback in current preparations.

Bell has been hampered since midseason with an ankle injury, and he admits "it isn't as strong as it was before."

With Vince Evans at quarterback, the Trojans appear to have a stronger passing attack. Evans hit 81 of 157 throws, 10 for touchdowns during the 1976 regular season when USC won its final 10 games after being upset by Missouri in the opener.

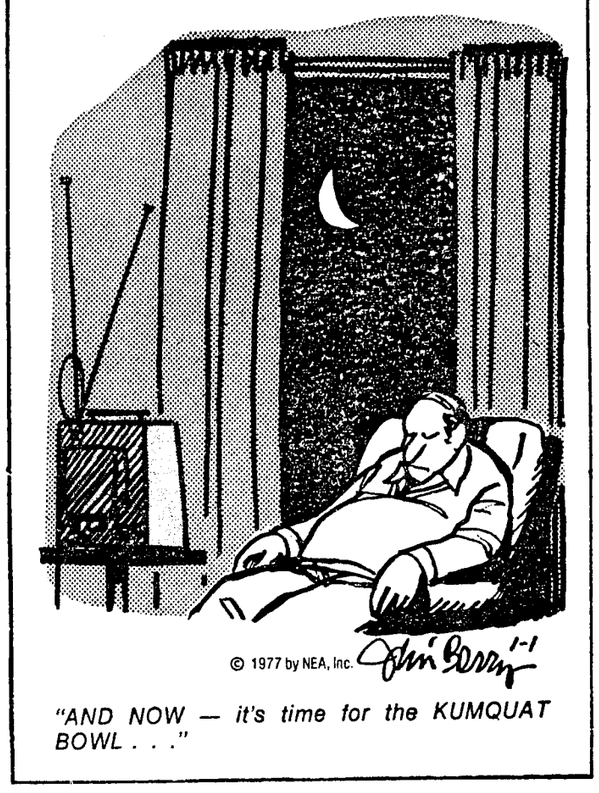

Sophomore Rick Leach, a starter as a freshman a year ago, operates at quarterback in the Michigan option offense. He completed 46 of 93 passes with 13 going for touchdowns.

"We try for the big play when we pass," commented Schembechler, who terms his flanker back Jim Smith, also an All-American, as probably the finest receiver in college football.

Southern California boasts an All-American on its defensive team – free safety Dennis Thurman. His pass interception return yardage of 170 led the nation.

The Big Ten and the Pac-8 signed their Rose Bowl pact starting with the 1947 game. Of 30 games played, the Big Ten has won 18 and the Pac-8 has won 12, including seven of the past 10. The Pac-8's Stanford beat Michigan 13-12 in 1972 and a Southern Cal beat the Wolverines 10-3 in 1970, the year Schembechler suffered a heart attack just prior to the game.

"I hope this third time is the charm," said Schembechler.

Pittsburgh, Dorsett Risk Top Ranking In Sugar

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – The University of Pittsburgh and all-time rushing king Tony Dorsett put their No. 1 ranking on the line in the Sugar Bowl against fifth-ranked Georgia in a dramatic rags-to-riches bid for college football's national championship.

It will end an era since a dozen starters, including Dorsett, will be playing their final game, and miracle-worker Coach Johnny Majors is leaving for the University of Tennessee.

In the four years since they arrived, Dorsett and Majors revived Pitt from a 1-10 record in 1972 to a 11-0 mark this year. The Panthers are one step from their first national title in 39 years and their first perfect campaign since 1918.

"We have the right to claim the No. 1 ranking at this stage and a final chance to prove it or not to prove it," Majors said Friday after canceling Pitt's final scheduled workout because of windy conditions.

The weather, however, will have no effect Saturday on the second Sugar Bowl game inside the gigantic New Orleans Superdome, and a strike by the stadium's service employes has been limited by law to an area where it won't threaten the nationally televised ABC-TV, 12:30 p.m., EST game.

Dorsett, Majors and the cinderella Panthers have commanded most of the headlines, but Majors said he doesn't plan to make his imminent departure "a big emotional deal. That's not my cup of tea, although I'm a naturally enthusiastic guy. Whether I go out on a winning note is not important. The national championship is the most important thing."

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley thinks his club should be considered for the national championship if it knocks off Pitt. The Bulldogs, 10-1 and champions of the Southeastern Conference, have plenty of weapons of their own.

"We're very similar to Pitt from the standpoint that we're both extremely well-balanced," Dooley said. "We're very close in scoring offense and scoring defense and we both have excellent kicking games.

"The one difference is that they have a Superman and we don't. That's the only description I can find for Dorsett because he's super in every respect."

In setting a single-season NCAA record of 1,948 rushing yards this fall and a career mark of 6,082, Dorsett set or tied 18 NCAA standards. He also won the Heisman Trophy in a landslide.

In the national rushing statistics, Pitt is seventh with 290.7 yards a game while Georgia is 11th at 279.5. Pitt is sixth in scoring with a 32.2-point average and Georgia is 11th at 29.5. And both have solid defense, with Pitt among the top 10 in total defense and rushing defense and Georgia listed among those teams allowing the fewest points.

"Georgia's defense team comes up with a lot of big plays," Majors said, "and that's our biggest concern right now. I think the winner will have to score at least three touchdowns."

Georgia has at least one problem besides trying to stop Dorsett, even though the Bulldogs held him to 101 yards in 1973 – his collegiate debut – and 104 in a 1975 meeting. Dooley is concerned about the Superdome's artifical turf.

"The turf will be a help to Pitt because it tends to make fast backs even faster," he said. "Why doesn't it makes the pursuing defenses faster, too? I don't know. We've only played one game on artificial turf all season. It was Georgia's only loss, 21-17 to Mississippi and there's a difference in the way the ball bounces. You've also got to learn how to fall on the turf because it's different if you're not used to it."

Pitt, on the other hand, played all but three games on artificial turf and practiced on it almost every day.

"We've played well on all surfaces," Majors said, a remark to which an 11-0 coach is entitled. "We try to make as little a deal as possible out of different conditions."

The shot at the national championship caps a rebuilding program Majors began when he brought more than 70 newcomers to Pitt for the 1973 campaign.

"We talked about a national championship, but I don't know if I really believed it," he recalled. "But you've got to have something to shoot for. Pitt had been there before, and that was a base to build on, or I wouldn't have taken the job. But I didn't really start to believe it until last year."

Meanwhile, Majors put in a plug for Georgia and Dooley, an old friend. "Georgia should get due consideration for the No. 1 ranking if they win," he said.

"Pittsburgh has every claim to be No. 1...right now," Dooley replied.

Kings, Bruins At Forum

INGLEWOOD – Still trying to snap a slump, the Los Angeles Kings go from one eastern power to another when they host the Boston Bruins tonight at 8 at The Forum.

Los Angeles is 12-16-10 after losing two straight and 2-0 to Philadelphia Thursday night. Boston brings a 23-11-3 record into the New Year's Night contest.

The Bruins, who are on a 16-day road trip, defeated the Kings 4-2 Oct. 23 and have dominated the series by 35-11-3.

'Just Another Game' Could Be Classic

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) – The national collegiate football championship is at stake Saturday in the 63rd Rose Bowl game, head coaches of the competing teams contend, no matter what top-ranked Pittsburgh does in the Sugar Bowl against No. 5 Georgia.

Whether it works out that way in the final poll remains to be seen. But indications are the Rose Bowl matchup between second-ranked Michigan, 10-1, and third-ranked Southern California, 10-1, could be a classic.

And if Pittsburgh happens to lose to the Bulldogs – or even tie or win by a narrow margin – the winner of the Wolverines -TROJANS Tussle in Pasadena could very well determine the mythical national title.

"It's not just another bowl game," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler. "I think the national championship is in the balance."

He said he told his players if Pittsburgh beats Georgia, "It doesn't make any difference. The two best teams in the country are playing in the Rose Bowl.

"I can't hardly believe Pittsburgh can beat Southern Cal," he said. "So if we beat Southern Cal, we'll definitely win the national championship. Southern Cal is one of the great, great teams we ever played against ... If we win, we'll be No. 1 and nobody will ever convince me otherwise."

John Robinson, in his first year as Trojan coach, conceded that the "whole national championship thing is subjective. But I can say if we beat Michigan, we'll be national champion, just like Michigan can say it is the national champion if it wins.

"It's not that big a deal, but I'd be glad to be No. 1," Robinson added.

A record Rose Bowl Stadium crowd of nearly 107,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. PST game, which will be televised nationally.

Michigan is making its first appearance since 1972, when it lost 13-12 to Stanford on a field goal by Rod Garcia in the final 12 seconds. Two years earlier, the Wolverines lost to Southern Cal, 10-3, while Schembechler – former Miami of Ohio coach and then in his first year at Michigan – lay hospitalized with a heart sttack suffered the night before. Defensive coordinator Jim Young ran the team.

The Wolverines own a 4-2 Rose Bowl record, including a 49-0 drubbing of Stanford in the 1902 inaugural game.

The Trojans will be extending their record to 21 appearances. They've won 14 and lost six, the last setback coming in 1974, 4221 to Ohio State. They won the next year 18-17 over the Buckeyes, Big Ten Conference representatives the past four years.

Ohio State and Michigan tied for the conference title this year with a 7-1 record, but the Wolverines earned the trip by trouncing the Bucks 22-0.

Southern Cal beat out UCLA for the Pacific Eight championship to earn its spot in the "granddaddy" of the bowl games.

The Wolverines left in a snowfall from Ann Arbor and arrived in Pasadena Dec. 20 to begin preparations.

Kentucky Peachy In Second Half

ATLANTA (AP) – Bowl-starved Kentucky, making its first appearance in a post-season classic in 25 years, took charge in the second half behind an aroused defense and three touchdowns by Rod Stewart for a 21-0 victory over North Carolina Friday in the ninth annual Peach Bowl football game.

Stewart, a sophomore fullback from Lancaster, Ohio, snapped a scoreless tie when he plunged over from one yard out early in the third period. He scored again on a 13-yard burst early in the fourth period and added his third TD on a three-yard run with 3:04 left to play.

Mike Voight, North Carolina's running back who gained 1,407 yards this year and was voted the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, missed the contest after spraining an ankle in practice Wednesday.

Without Voight, 19th-ranked North Carolina, 8-3, could generate little offense. The Tar Heels gained only 76 yards and three first downs in the first half.

They gained only five yards in the third period when Kentucky took charge of the contest.

Kentucky, 8-4, was led on defense by linebacker Jim Kovach and defensive end Art Still.

North Carolina Quarterback Matt Kupec, harassed all day by the aroused Wildcats defenders, was intercepted three times and fumbled once.

Kupec's fumble led to Kentucky's first touchdown.

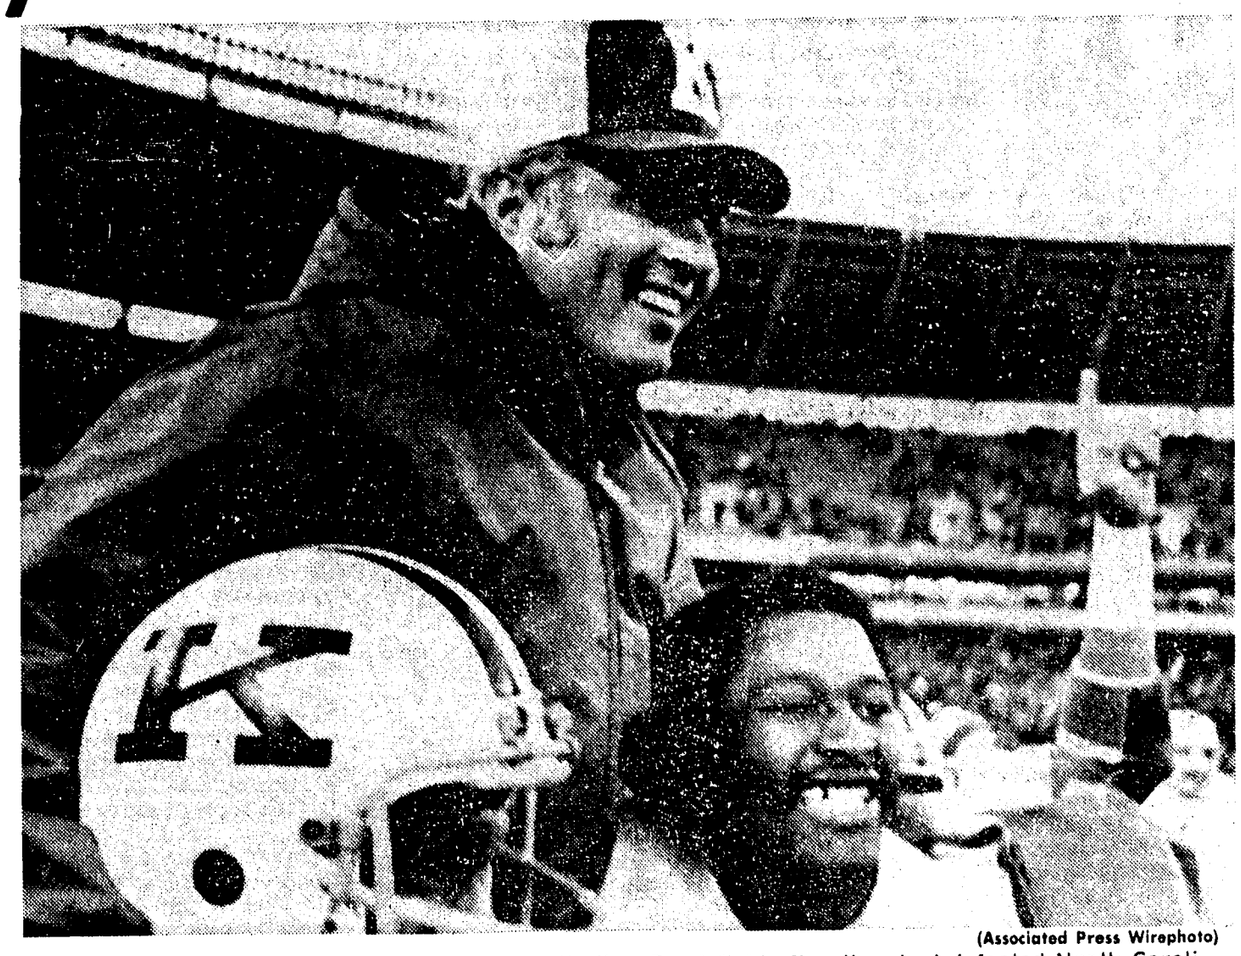

Early in the third period the freshman quarterback fumbled while attempting to pass and defensive tackle James Ramey recovered for the Wildcats on the North Carolina 21.

Seven plays later, Stewart, who was voted the game's outstanding offensive player and led the Wildcats with 104 yards in 19 carries, scored from one yard out after 5:05 of the period.

Kentucky quarterback Derrick Ramsey, who led the nation's quarterbacks in rushing, then engineered a 57-yard scoring drive in nine plays. Stewart blasted through the middle from 13 yards out after 1:59 of the final period.

Stewart scored his third touchdown of the game with 3:04 left as Kentucky moved 47 yards in 10 plays.

Kentucky missed another scoring opportunity early in the last quarter when Greg Woods fumbled on the one-yard line.

YEAR END REVIEWS

Sports Had a Whacky Time During 1976

By FRANK H. ECK
AP Newsfeatures

Sports in 1976 had its wackiest year ever. Professionals played baseball 10 days short of November in a revamped stadium costing $100,000,000 without a roof, hockey went into the merry month of May, basketball barely beat June graduations, pro football began in July, ended in January, and the world's heavyweight boxing champion tangled with a wrestler in a farce and later retired for the fourth time. At year's end the champ talked of unretiring. The Olympics? They were held in Montreal during the United States' bicentennial year.

Most of the year's highlights follow:

JANUARY

Alabama 13, Penn State 6 in Sugar Bowl. Arkansas trims Georgia in Cotton Bowl 31-10. UCLA upsets No. 1 unbeaten Ohio State 23-10 in Rose Bowl. Oklahoma 14, Michigan 6 in Orange Bowl. Coach Paul Brown quits Cincinnati Bengals post, names Bill Johnson coach.

Is Maryland Really 4? Houston Asking

DALLAS (AP) – No matter which tailback is carrying the ball, fullback Tim Wilson will be throwing most of the blocks for fourth-ranked Maryland in today's Cotton Bowl game.

The tailback carries the ball on more than half the running plays in Maryland's Slot-I formation, and Wilson has helped clear the way for four of them to gain a whopping 1,714 yards this season.

But if sixth-ranked Houston ignores Wilson while keying on the tailback, the Cougars could be in for a rude awakening.

Carrying the ball 138 times this season, 56 more attempts than last year, the 215-pound Wilson has gained 610 yards – only 68 fewer than the team leader – and paces the unbeaten Terps with seven touchdowns.

"Of course, I'd like to carry the ball more," said Wilson. "But I look on it like a job. If they tell me to carry, I try to pick up yards. If they tell me to block, I try to get somebody on the ground.

"I'm like an offensive guard, only I touch the ball once in awhile."

Steve Atkins, a sophomore who appears headed for stardom if he can avoid further injury, opened at tailback for Maryland this season.

He gained 517 yards in the first three games, setting a school record with 215 against Syracuse, and was among the national leaders with 621 yards when a knee injury cut him down in the second quarter of the fifth game.

Alvin "Preacher" Maddox, another sophomore, was hustled in to replace Atkins and in the second half of the same game picked up 138 yards.

Maddox went out with a leg injury the following week, opening the way for freshman George Scott to pound out 83 and 96 yards from tailback in the next two games.

Maddox returned later to gain 129 yards against Kentucky and 132 against Clemson before Scott joined the 100-yard club with a 124-yard performance against Virginia in the regular season finale. Tony Black, a sophomore, added 46 yards in a reserve role during the season.

"All three are good runners," Wilson said, "but don't forget to give the offensive line credit. Those guys take as much pride in their blocking as I do. We all feel bad if we miss a block."

"A victory over Houston would help Maryland football a couple of light years," added Maryland quarterback Mark Manges. "For one thing, the Southwest Conference is tougher than the Big Eight Conference. It would be a big boost for Eastern football."

Texas Aggies' Muscle Vs. Florida Speed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) – It's 10th-ranked Texas A&M's muscle against Florida's speed in the 42nd annual Sun Bowl on Sunday.

Florida features a big-play offense out of the Wishbone with a quarterback, Jimmy Fisher, who led the Southeast Conference in passing.

The Aggies rely more on ballcontrol offensively because of an intimidating defense headed by All-American middle linebacker Robert Jackson.

"Florida depends a lot on the big play, and we've got to keep them fenced in," says Aggie Coach Emory Bellard.

Florida Coach Doug Dickey has one word to describe A&M's defense: "Awesome."

Dickey said he sent a delegation of assistant coaches to A&M in the spring to learn something about the Aggie defense.

"I guess they didn't quite tell us everything because our defense hasn't been that good this year," said Dickey. "Maybe it's the people they've got playing for them....They've got a lot of talent on defense."

Bellard said Florida can score from anywhere, anytime.

"Their quarterback does a good job of throwing the ball, and that Wes Chandler is as good a receiver as there is in the country," said Bellard.

The 42nd annual "Fun Bowl," as El Paso officials like to call it, is a sellout with a standing room crowd of some 36,000 expected along with the millions of national television viewers.

Florida was 8-3 overall and 42 in the SEC.

The Texas Aggies finished 9-2 and were 6-2 in the Southwest Conference. Both lost in bowl games last year – Florida to Maryland in the Gator and Texas A&M to Southern California in the Liberty.

The Aggie Wishbone features massive 240-pound fullback George Woodard, something of a human sledgehammer who bulled and bowled his way four and five yards a carry to more than 1,000 yards this season.

Bellard also boasts one of the finest freshmen in the country, halfback Curtis Dickey, a sprinter with tremendous moves.

Dickey says "A&M is probably the best team we've seen since we played Nebraska in the 1974 Sugar Bowl."

The oddsmakers rate the Gators a six-point underdog to the Aggies.

Eddie Edwards Knows About Needy Children

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) – Eddie Edwards, one of several All-Americans who will be playing in Sunday's Shrine East-West Game for the benefit of crippled children, has a houseful of children to take care of at home in Florida.

"This whole thing has had me kind of worried," says Edwards, the All-American defensive tackle whose mother was killed by a hit-and-run driver two months ago.

Now Edwards, the University of Miami star, is the head of a household in Fort Pierce, Fla., composed of six children including his brothers and sisters, nieces and a nephew. They live in a rented two-bedroom house.

"If I make it in pro ball, I'll have enough money to take care of things at home," said Edwards, a 6-foot-4, 248-pounder with good speed who is sure to be high on National Football League teams' draft lists.

Sunny weather has been forecast for the 52nd East-West Game at Stanford Stadium. The all-star clash, with its usual gigantic pregame and halftime pageants, drew a crowd of 76,000 fans last year and the Shriners are hoping for a similar turnout Sunday.

The East, coached by Joe Yukica of Boston College, is expected to rely more on its running game than the West, coached by Grant Teaff of Baylor.

One of the East running backs is Purdue's Scott Dierking, the star of the Boilermakers' upset victory over then top-ranked Michigan in 1976. Blockers include highly regarded linemen Steve Schindler of Boston College, Bill Bryan of Duke and David Garasimchuk of Alabama.

West quarterbacks Joe Roth of California and Mark Jackson of Baylor will be working behind a line including two All-Americans, Ted Albrecht of Cal and John Yarno of Idaho. The pass receivers include Tony Hill of Stanford, and the running back corps is led by Wendell Tyler of UCLA.

Griffin In Bowl Game; Know Any News?

MIAMI (AP) – For the fifth straight season, a Griffin will start in a major college football bowl game today.

Archie Griffin played in the spotlight of a record-shattering tailback and the lone two-time Heisman Trophy winner for Ohio State in four Rose Bowls.

His brother, Ray, will perform in relative obscurity in the Orange Bowl Saturday night. The 5-foot-9, 182-pound junior will start at defensive safety for the Buckeyes.

All but vanished are the dreams – those of his mother, Margaret, and his own – of duplicating Archie's feat, winning a Heisman. Ray is a realist. He knows defensive players just don't get the coveted award these days.

Still, the fifth of seven football-playing sons of a Columbus, Ohio, laborer does not want to return to his old spot at tailback.

"At the time I made the move to defense," recalled Ray, "I felt it was the right move for only one year. I was hesitant to stay on defense. Now there's no question. If I had a chance to go back to the offense, I wouldn't go."

The younger Griffin credits Dick Walker, the team's defensive backfield coach, for his talking him into staying with the defensive platoon.

Walker had good reasons. "Ray is the hardest-hitting safety I've ever had," said the Buckeyes' coach.

Ray said of Walker, "He knew I wanted to play pro ball. He told me about our defensive backs in the pros. He told me they have no ability that I don't have."

The little safety ticked off the names of former Ohio Staters in the National Football League – Jack Tatum, Neal Colzie, Tim Fox, Mike Sensibaugh and Doug Plank.

Why is Griffin so enamored with the defense?

"It's more of a challenge," he said. "As a running back, you know which direction you're going. On defense, you have to react. You never know which way they're going. And when you stick somebody, you feel good inside."

Ray's 1976 statistics are deceiving: 11 tackles per game and only one interception and one fumble recovery all season.

Said George Hill, the team's defensive coordinator, "He doesn't have statistics others do because other teams run away from him. That's a real tribute."

Ray would rather be where the action is. "It was disappointing, frustrating to me," he said of this fall.

Duncan Griffin, a sophomore defensive back, is following in the Ohio State footsteps of Archie and Ray. The other brothers are James Jr., who played at Muskingum College; Daryl (Kent State), Larry (Louisville) and Keith (a ninth grader). The lone daughter is Crystal.

'Gentlemen' In Tough Race

Southern Gentlemen, a finalist in the 1976 Champion of Champions faces a strong field of allowance speedsters tonight as Los Alamitos gets 1977 under way with the Happy New Year Purse.

One of the nominees to the prestigious Vessels Maturity next summer, Southern Gentlemen will start his four-year-old campaign against the likes of Cadillaking, Vidon, Rigadoon, Ed Dee, Triple Beat, Hyjonijet, Lassie's Top Man, Dr. Twiehaus and Tita Mia.

Breezing Man is on the also-eligible list.

"Did Secretariat race any after his three-year-old year and did he win all three Triple Crown events? What is his complete racing record – races won and money earned?" – George Levinson, Santa Ana.

Secretariat, the ninth horse to sweep all three Triple Crown events – the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes – retired from racing after his easy victory in the Canadian International championship stakes on Oct. 28, 1973. The great son of Bold Ruler started 21 times, winning 16 rces, three seconds, one third and was unplaced but once with earnings of $1,316,808.

"Why is it that whenever an apprentice rider wins a few races the owners and trainers all seem to fight for his services, even over the more experienced jockeys? Is the five-pound apprentice allowance that valuable?" – Lawrence Woods, Buena Park.

It's hard to say what makes some go for the apprentice over more experienced riders but, in my opinion, they will go for the "hot" rider whether he is an apprentice of a journeyman jockey because of his experience and ability to judge pace and conserve a horse's energy better than a less experienced rider.

Personally I believe the light weighted apprentice rider is a boon to a fast-starting sprinter but that older riders with their experience have a definite advantage gained in the longer route races, a factor which may overshadow any weight advantage gained by using an apprentice.

As to how much value the five-pounds is, you will find a difference of opinion among the experts. It's this difference of opinion that makes horse racing and in the long run it's only the results that count so who is to say what advantages the apprentice or journeyman have over each other?

"I recently bet on a horse that broke down soon after leaving the starting gate. Why is it we never hear what happens to a horse when it breaks down unless it happens to be one of the "big name" horses?" – Ralph Selden, Fullerton.

In most cases it is a lack of space that prevents following up any happenings to the average race horse and, just like in all other sports or everyday life, it is the "big names" that get all the headlines.

Majors, Bo Remember When

By Associated Press

Two of the four bowl games on New Year's Day most likely will decide college football's national championship. All the same, two of the four coaches involved can't help but dally a while in the past.

Johnny Majors, whose top-ranked Pitt Panthers face No. 5 Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, and Bo Schembechler, whose No. 2 Michigan meets No. 3 Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, have been there before – one could almost add, "unfortunately."

The last time Majors was involved in the Sugar Bowl was 20 years ago, as a runningback for Tennessee. He had had a brilliant year, finishing second to Notre Dame's Paul Hornung in the Heisman Trophy balloting.

But this day was not to be his.

Tennesse, leading 7-6, was driving for a touchdown in the third quarter when Majors' teammate, guard Bruce Burnham, was kicked in the head.

"But I look on it like a job. If they tell me to carry, I try to pick up yards. If they tell me to block, I try to get somebody on the ground.

"I'm like an offensive guard, only I touch the ball once in awhile."

Steve Atkins, a sophomore who appears headed for stardom if he can avoid further injury, opened at tailback for Maryland this season.

He gained 517 yards in the first three games, setting a school record with 215 against Syracuse, and was among the national leaders with 621 yards when a knee injury cut him down in the second quarter of the fifth game.

Alvin "Preacher" Maddox, another sophomore, was hustled in to replace Atkins and in the second half of the same game picked up 138 yards.

Maddox went out with a leg injury the following week, opening the way for freshman George Scott to pound out 83 and 96 yards from tailback in the next two games.

Maddox returned later to gain 129 yards against Kentucky and 132 against Clemson before Scott joined the 100-yard club with a 124-yard performance against Virginia in the regular season finale. Tony Black, a sophomore, added 46 yards in a reserve role during the season.

"All three are good runners," Wilson said, "but don't forget to give the offensive line credit. Those guys take as much pride in their blocking as I do. We all feel bad if we miss a block."

"A victory over Houston would help Maryland football a couple of light years," added Maryland quarterback Mark Manges. "For one thing, the Southwest Conference is tougher than the Big Eight Conference. It would be a big boost for Eastern football."

Texas Aggies' Muscle Vs. Florida Speed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) – It's 10th-ranked Texas A&M's muscle against Florida's speed in the 42nd annual Sun Bowl on Sunday.

Florida features a big-play offense out of the Wishbone with a quarterback, Jimmy Fisher, who led the Southeast Conference in passing.

The Aggies rely more on ballcontrol offensively because of an intimidating defense headed by All-American middle linebacker Robert Jackson.

"Florida depends a lot on the big play, and we've got to keep them fenced in," says Aggie Coach Emory Bellard.

Florida Coach Doug Dickey has one word to describe A&M's defense: "Awesome."

Dickey said he sent a delegation of assistant coaches to A&M in the spring to learn something about the Aggie defense.

"I guess they didn't quite tell us everything because our defense hasn't been that good this year," said Dickey. "Maybe it's the people they've got playing for them....They've got a lot of talent on defense."

Bellard said Florida can score from anywhere, anytime.

"Their quarterback does a good job of throwing the ball, and that Wes Chandler is as good a receiver as there is in the country," said Bellard.

The 42nd annual "Fun Bowl," as El Paso officials like to call it, is a sellout with a standing room crowd of some 36,000 expected along with the millions of national television viewers.

Florida was 8-3 overall and 42 in the SEC.

The Texas Aggies finished 9-2 and were 6-2 in the Southwest Conference. Both lost in bowl games last year – Florida to Maryland in the Gator and Texas A&M to Southern California in the Liberty.

The Aggie Wishbone features massive 240-pound fullback George Woodard, something of a human sledgehammer who bulled and bowled his way four and five yards a carry to more than 1,000 yards this season.

Bellard also boasts one of the finest freshmen in the country, halfback Curtis Dickey, a sprinter with tremendous moves.

Dickey says "A&M is probably the best team we've seen since we played Nebraska in the 1974 Sugar Bowl."

The oddsmakers rate the Gators a six-point underdog to the Aggies.

Eddie Edwards Knows About Needy Children

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) – Eddie Edwards, one of several All-Americans who will be playing in Sunday's Shrine East-West Game for the benefit of crippled children, has a houseful of children to take care of at home in Florida.

"This whole thing has had me kind of worried," says Edwards, the All-American defensive tackle whose mother was killed by a hit-and-run driver two months ago.

Now Edwards, the University of Miami star, is the head of a household in Fort Pierce, Fla., composed of six children including his brothers and sisters, nieces and a nephew. They live in a rented two-bedroom house.

"If I make it in pro ball, I'll have enough money to take care of things at home," said Edwards, a 6-foot-4, 248-pounder with good speed who is sure to be high on National Football League teams' draft lists.

Sunny weather has been forecast for the 52nd East-West Game at Stanford Stadium. The all-star clash, with its usual gigantic pregame and halftime pageants, drew a crowd of 76,000 fans last year and the Shriners are hoping for a similar turnout Sunday.

The East, coached by Joe Yukica of Boston College, is expected to rely more on its running game than the West, coached by Grant Teaff of Baylor.

One of the East running backs is Purdue's Scott Dierking, the star of the Boilermakers' upset victory over then top-ranked Michigan in 1976. Blockers include highly regarded linemen Steve Schindler of Boston College, Bill Bryan of Duke and David Garasimchuk of Alabama.

West quarterbacks Joe Roth of California and Mark Jackson of Baylor will be working behind a line including two All-Americans, Ted Albrecht of Cal and John Yarno of Idaho. The pass receivers include Tony Hill of Stanford, and the running back corps is led by Wendell Tyler of UCLA.

But this day was not to be his.

Tennesse, leading 7-6, was driving for a touchdown in the third quarter when Majors' teammate, guard Bruce Burnham, was kicked in the head. "It was the most horrible thing I've ever seen."

In the fourth quarter, Majors dropped a punt deep in Tennessee territory, and Baylor went in for the winning touchdown.

The Sugar Bowl will be Majors' last game with Pittsburgh. He will become head coach at Tennessee next season.

If Pitt, 11-0, loses to Georgia, the winner of the Rose Bowl – Michigan or Southern Cal – probably will be voted national champion.

Michigan's last trips to the Rose Bowl were in 1970 and 1972, both unsuccessful outings. In 1970, Schembechler had guided the Wolverines to a 9-1 record, but on New Year's Eve, he had a heart attack that was termed "mild."

The next day, Michigan lost 10-3 to Southern Cal.

Schembechler went into this season recovering from open heart surgery last May. But he says he doesn't let it worry him.

"Oh, I don't think much about it," he said. "You don't go into retirement today with open heart surgery."

Before deciding on surgery, Schembechler said he "went around to a lot of people and studied this thing. I kept coming back to the same team (of surgeons) in Ann Arbor."

While awaiting the operation, Schembechler says he psyched himself up.

"One of the doctors was making his rounds and I told him, 'Hey, I'm all jacked up for this operation. I hope you are.' He said, 'Coach, I'm ready. I've been practicing all day.'"

In other bowl games Saturday, No. 4 Maryland, 11-0, meets Southwest Conference cochampion Houston, ranked No. 6 with an 8-2 mark, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and No. 11 Ohio State, 8-2-1, faces No. 12 Colorado. Big Eight cochampion with an 8-3 mark, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

On Sunday, No. 10 Texas A&M, 9-2, meets Florida, 8-3, in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. Also, two college all-star games are on tap Sunday.

Bud Tucker's TODAY
For Auld Lang Syne

Should old acquaintance be forgot and never brought to mind? Should old acquaintance be forgot and days of Auld Lang Syne...

As the glasses are raised this New Year's, the toast is to the good guys from the world of fun and games who left us during the 12 months just past. This earth was better off for having known them and their acquaintance will not be soon forgotten.

Should old acquaintance be forgot...

Danny Murtaugh was a dedicated subscriber to theory that one good story deserves another. Whenever you brought him a joke in the dugout, he would lay one on you in return and his was usually the topper.

Danny managed the Pittsburgh Pirates four or five times, off and on. He was often sick and tired when he came back to game he loved and the people he loved and the people who loved him.

Far more than most, Danny Murtaugh's favorite young man. He was a good pitcher but he was far more. The moose was a fun guy, one of those you like to have around.

A car crash is far too violent a way to end a young life.

Should old acquaintance be forgot...

Teddy Bentham, the old fight trainer, looked after a thousand warriors but still found time to write his own epitaph:

"He did his job and kept his mouthshut."

And days of Auld Lang Syne...

Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom fought a hell of a fight. He went right down to the final bell and kept getting up at the nine count until his passing was a mercy.

Maxie took his sense of humor with him. The last time I saw him, he was in bed terribly ill and said, "I'm lying on my back so you'll recognize me."

For Auld Lang Syne, my dear...

John Korallis operated the press box elevators at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita for 25 years. A delightful man, John had a daily release and damned if it didn't win once in awhile.

John always said all his touts wore guaranteed because "if it doesn't win, I'll give you another one."

For Auld Lang Syne...

Paul Russo, the former Indianapolis race driver was one of the great practical jokers of all time. You can bet me right now that Russo isn't putting starch on the wings of such angels as Jimmy Bryant and Eddie Sachs.

We'll take a cup of kindness yet...

Danny Thompson, the Texas Ranger infielder, was only 29 when the crawling disease took him. He was one of those quiet kids who do not demand a great deal.

Danny just wanted a chance to play baseball and listen to his beloved music and lead a decent life. The box score in this game never shows the tragedy.

The tragedy is shown when a young man goes out like Blenda Gay, senselessly and violently. The search for the proper words is altogether in vain.

For Auld Lang Syne...

New York Jets players who had dealings with the owner said only of Phil Iselin, "he was tough but he was fair and he was honest."

There is a sickness in sports today which might be cured by more attention to such a testimony.

It is of the tough guys and happy guys and gentle guys and sad guys that the legends of sports are made. It is of the good guy who are gone that memories are made.

Should old Acquaintance be forgot? And never brought to mind...

No, not this year. Or any other.

Ohio St. In First Bowl Game (Except Rose)

MIAMI (AP) – Ohio State, ranked 11th nationally and holding a share of the Big Ten championship, makes its first post-season appearance away from the Rose Bowl today night when the Buckeyes tangle with No. 12 Colorado in the Orange Bowl football game.

The 43rd annual event has lost some of its prestige since neither team is in the running for the national championship, but both coaches – Bill Mallory of Colorado and Woody Hayes of Ohio State – contend that aspect has been overplayed.

"We look at it with a lot of respect," Mallory said. "You are going to always find some people downgrading something. We are both cochampions. I think that's a pretty darn good accomplishment in two excellent leagues."

"I second what Bill said," Hayes added.

The Buckeyes, 8-2-1, are a one-touchdown favorite to win the nationally televised battle (NBC, 8 p.m., EST) before an expected sellout crowd of 79,000.

Mallory, a former assistant under Hayes at Ohio State, reported the only casualty. Both teams enter at virtually full strength. Reserve tailback Howard Ballage underwent surgery Thursday and won't be available to relieve Tony Reed, the All-Big Eight tailback who rambled for 1,210 yards in the Buffaloes' 8-3 campaign.

Hayes remained noncommittal concerning his starting quarterback, but Mallory had no doubts, saying, "I think he'll start Jim Pacenta."

Pacenta passed for 400 yards in Ohio State's run-oriented attack. The other quarterback under consideration, Rod Gerald, was the team's No. 3 rusher with 384 yards behind Jeff Logan's 1,169 and injury-plagued Pete Johnson's 698.

Johnson, having scored a school-record 57 career touchdowns, is reported to be back in form after being slowed throughout the year, spraining both ankles in the Missouri game.

Both coaches said the key will be stopping the other team's running game. Hayes added that Colorado was more versatile than his team because of the passing of Jeff Knapple, who threw for just over 900 yards.

Mallory said his team would have to be ready for anything, however, and Hayes quickly quipped, "You may be right, Bill. We may pass you right off the field."

Hayes was in a jovial mood, often smiling as he and Mallory held their final news conference Friday. No one expects a passing show from the man who has won 221 games primarily with a strong running game.

"We've gotten to the place now where neither Bill nor I will tell you much," Hayes said.

Hayes Claims Pitt 'Played Safe'

MIAMI (AP) – Ohio State's Woody Hayes said Friday top-ranked Pittsburgh played it safe in accepting a Sugar Bowl matchup with Georgia rather than an Orange Bowl bid to meet Colorado.

"Pittsburgh had a chance to come here but they backed off," Hayes said at a joint news conference with Colorado Coach Bill Mallory. "That's the reason we're here. We're the second choice. The only question I have is, why?"

Hayes refused to elaborate on his statement. When asked for an opinion on the poll ratings, he said, "I have feelings about everything. But sometimes I find it better if I keep them to myself."

Mallory didn't comment on the poll argument, which heated up Thursday when Bo Schembechler of No. 2 Michigan and John Robinson of No. 3 Southern California claimed that the winner of their Rose Bowl game should be the national champion.

Pittsburgh Coach Johnny Majors called that claim "the most ridiculous farce ever perpetrated."

Mallory did defend the Orange Bowl matchup which will draw a capacity crowd, but he has been criticized because of the low ratings of the teams. Big Eight tri-champion Colorado (8-3) is rated 12th, Big Ten co-champion Ohio State (8-2-1) is 11th.

"I don't care what they say. You're always going to have people downgrading something," said Mallory. "I think it's going to be a heck of a football game. We're both cochampions. I think that's a darn good accomplishment for both teams.

"I think there's undoubtedly prestige involved in the outcome," said Mallory. "We talk in recruiting about our conference being as good as there is. The Big Ten will do the same thing When we match up, it's important we win."

Indiana's Knight Critical Of His All-American

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) – Bobby Knight, disappointed by his young Indiana team's 5-4 record, has criticized All-American center Kent Benson for not carrying his share of the load.

"Benson has been playing very poorly," Knight said Thursday night after Indiana lost 52-43 to No. 5 Cincinnati in the finals of the Sugar Bowl college basketball tourney. It was the Hoosiers' lowest point total since 1951.

"There's a tremendous burden on his shoulders with all the underclassmen, and he's just not carrying it." the coach said of his 6-foot-11 center.

Benson is the only returning starter from the Hoosiers' unbeaten team which won the NCAA championship last year. This year, Indiana has been dropped from the rankings.

Thursday night, Benson was good for just eight points, 11 under his average entering the game.

Knight's unhappiness with his star player was evident when he benched Benson for 10 minutes, including nine in the second half.

But the perfectionist coach, whose team this year already has lost more games than his past two teams combined, is unhappy about other things as well.

"We're making mistakes again and again. And it's not because of youth. It's because of a lack of concentration," he said. "Until our kids know what's wrong and realize it, we're not going to be good. It's playing as well as we can that concerns me."

To which he added: "We're going to be a very mediocre team the way we've been playing, and I for one don't like being mediocre."

One of Knight's problems has been finding the right starting lineup. He has tried seven combinations in nine games so far, but none has met his expectations.

Freshman guard Bill Cunningham, awarded a rare start against Cincinnati, led the Hoosiers with 16 points, almost all of them on long jumpers over the Bearcats' zone defense. But two of Indiana's starters – Jim Wisman and Derek Holcomb – failed to score.

Smith Boys Battle For Scoring Lead

Orange County's JC basketball scoring derby has turned into a contest between the Smiths.....Steve Smith of Santa Ana College and Dennis Smith of Saddleback College.

Both sophomores, the Smiths look like they may stay at the top of the county's scoring sheets after a hot December. Smith of the Dons has a firm grip on the No. 1 spot with a healthy 25.3 average.

Smith of Saddleback, the defending scoring champ after a sensational frosh start, is averaging 21.9 after 15 starts in his sophomore season.

Tyrone Branyan, a consistent scorer at Cypress College, ranks No. 3 with a 19.3 average followed by freshman Tim Smith of the Gauchos at 18.2.

Bourbon Street 'Out' For Pitt

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – After a week of hard work and some equally intense partying, the Pitt football team settled down for a restful New Year's Eve away from the revelry on Bourbon Street.

"There's a time for fun and a time for football," said 255-pound tackle Don Parrish. "No Bourbon Street tonight. When midnight comes, we'll all be in our beds dreaming."

Dreaming perhaps of the No.1 ranking Pitt has at stake in the Sugar Bowl.

"We all know what this game means. We can do our partying tomorrow night," Tony Dorsett said.

The team did have time to sample the night life earlier this week. There were no curfews Sunday or Monday and post-midnight curfews the next two nights. "Coach (Johnny) Majors treats us like mature individuals, and we respond to that," said end Jim Corbett.

Six years ago, Georgia's players whooped it up the week before the Sugar Bowl and were upset by Arkansas. There was hardly a chance for a encore this time. Coach Vince Dooley put an 11 p.m. curfew on his team for the week.

Majors stressed he was not critical of Dooley's curb on hours. "There are a lot of ways to skin a cat. You have a curfew according to how the situation fits you," he said. "If this were a young team, I'd have to tuck them in, but it's an experienced team and they behave themselves."

Sporting Crowd In Mourning For Phil

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) – It was a sporting crowd, but it was in a mourning mood.

It had come Friday to bury Philip Iselin, president of the New York Jets and Monmouth Park racetrack, who died of a heart attack in New York Wednesday.

"We are all gathered here, friends of Phil Iselin, and instead of grieving I propose we celebrate Phil Iselin and the fact he graced this earth for 74 years," said sportscaster Howard Cosell, who delivered one of two eulogies during a 30-minute service at Temple Beth Miriam.

Cosell said Iselin was a man of "unbounded compassion, warmth and generosity almost to a fault.

"Those of us in the sports world knew of Phil as president of Monmouth racetrack and the New York Jets. At Monmouth Park he was known as the small gentleman with the shock of white hair who would be up at 5 a.m. in the stable area. He was a contemporary man.

"And the New York Jets; I look out at Winston Hill, Randy Rasmussen, and Joe Namath and I remember when he reached the pinnacle. He won the Super Bowl. And now they come because of love.

"Phil Iselin was indeed a great man because he was a man of love."

Among the mourners was National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who before the service described Iselin as a"very caring, warm man."

Wellington Mara, president of the New York Giants; Jets running back Ed Marinaro; former Giants coach Ali Sherman, and racing stable owner James Cox Brady Jr., also were there.

So were a handful of backstretch employes from Monmouth Park.

Rabbi Joseph Goldman said Iselin "was able to provide warmth and nourishment of the spirit," and that the inscription in Iselin's Super Bowl ring was apropos: "Style and execution."

He said that "Phil Iselin loved the sporting event that was life."

Iselin suffered a heart attack Sept. 19 at a football game in Denver. He had been on a reduced work schedule when he died in his office at the Jets' Manhattan headquarters. He is survived by his wife, Betty, a son and a daughter.

Pickets Up But They Won't Stop 'Sugar'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – Pickets were up Friday but though the Superdome might look like a litter-bug nightmare on New Year's Day, officials said a strike would not interfere with the Sugar Bowl football game.

The strike involved the cleanup crew and 75,000 fans of Pittsburgh or Georgia will arrive shortly after the departure of 50,000 music lovers from an Earth, Wind and Fire concert Friday night.

Almost any crowd leaves the $163 million sports palace strewn with paper cups and other debris, and rock concerts leave more than most.

Pre-strike plans by Superdome Services, Inc., the dome's service contractor, were to clean up the mess with an all-out effort during the wee hours and present a fresh face to the football crowd.

Exactly how many of SSI's cleanup and field arrangement crew joined the strike was not known. SSI officials said those who do not show up would be replaced. In any case, officials said the critical moment already had been dealt with.

It came when the walkout began a few hours before crews had to rearrange the moveable stands and lay down the football "turf" after Thursday night's Sugar Bowl basketball final.

The basketball configuration uses just one corner of the field, with stands moved in close from the opposite side.

With National Labor Relations Board directives already issued, pickets were limited to pacing back and forth in front of one out-of-the-way entrance used by personnel employed by Superdome Services Inc. (SSI), the dome's service contractor.

"They got us tied in knots, legally," said Mark Kosterich, a picket-line captain. "We are restricted to picketing this one entrance that nobody but the service employees use."

Thus the strike apparently could not create complications by putting picket lines in front of other unions, including ABC-TV crews setting up to televise the football game.

The walkout was called by the Service Employees International Union, and United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, which have been trying for a year to negotiate a contract with SSI.

SSI handles cleanup, field arrangements, ushering, ticket-taking, security, some maintenance, and other service work. The unions claim about 100 of SSI's 200 full-time employees.

Michigan Announcer Has 'Blue' Blood

PASADENA (AP) – Probably nowhere in the nation is there a more partisan college football announcer than Bob Ufer, who for more than three decades has been broadcasting University of Michigan games.

He is so partisan that it is said he has maize and blue blood. Maybe not, but he does have a maize (that's yellow, folks) and blue telephone, maize and blue rug, maize and blue lamp and a blue car with a maize vinyl roof.

Despite his biases, NBC Radio has asked Ufer to join Stu Nahan of California in handling color and play-by-play of Saturday's Rose Bowl game between the No. 2 maize-and-blue Wolverines and the No. 3 cardinal-and-gold Trojans.

"They told me I'm not just broadcasting to the great state of Michigan," Ufer said. "There are 49 other states that'll be listening. They said I should be impartial and unbiased.

"I said I'd try my best, but after 32 years and 313 consecutive broadcasts of Michigan football games it's going to be hard not to say: 'Bo George Patton Schembechler's disciplined troops did it again!'"

Ufer, 56, often compares Michigan Coach Schembechler to the crusty World War II Army general.

Although this is Ufer's first Rose Bowl broadcast assignment, he said he has worked at every Rose Bowl game Michigan has played since 1948.

"I spotted in 1948 for Bill Stern, in 1951 for Red Barber, in 1965 for Lindsey Nelson on TV and for Curt Gowdy on TV in 1970 and '72," he said.

Last year he broadcast Michigan's Orange Bowl game in Miami against Oklahoma.

Legions of Old Blues – Michigan alumni – wouldn't miss Ufer's broadcasts, not everyone appreciates them.

A recent Detroit newspaper editorial described Ufer as "hysterical, moronic and tasteless. Probably most rabid fans prefer a 'homer,' an announcer who 'lives and dies' with the local heroes, but really, now, shouldn't there be limits to cheerleading in the broadcasting booth?"

Ufer's career began in 1940 at Evanston, Ill., when he was asked to replace an ailing spotter for sportscaster Bill Stern at a Northwestern game.

He was so successful that by 1945, when WPAG first went on the air in Ann Arbor, Mich., he was the broadcast voice of Michigan football. He has been ever since and plans to remain so "Till I die, which a lot of people say will be any Saturday.

"I guess I feel about broadcasting Michigan football like Woody Hayes feels about coaching. I love it so much. If you've got to go you might as well go doing something you like."

Pros Vs. College On TV

NEW YORK (AP) – The battle of the baskets, network-style, begins Sunday with the pros going against the amateurs for supremacy in the ratings.

NBC begins a run of 10 straight national college basketball Sunday telecasts with a doubleheader featuring No. 1 ranked Michigan against South Carolina and Houston against UCLA. CBS counters with a lineup of NBA games that will run through the playoffs. The first two games will be televised nationally and then the network will go with regional games the rest of the way.

It will mark the first time that college sports have been pitted against pro sports on a regular basis on television and will doubtless renew age-old arguments over which version is more fun to watch.

NBC is betting that viewers will prefer the scramble and passion of the collegiates over the more reserved, orchestrated play of the pros. CBS is hoping fans will turn to the more recognizable names and higher level of talent in the pros.

NBC, working in conjunction with the TVS network, made the plunge into a full-time Sunday schedule on the basis of an experiment last season. The network televised two national college games on Sunday last season and outdid the NBA in the ratings both times.

On Jan. 25 Maryland-North Carolina pulled a 23 per cent share, meaning 23 per cent of television sets in the United States that were on were tuned to NBC, as opposed to an 18 share for Buffalo against the Knicks on CBS. On March 7 the Marquette-South Carolina game got a 24 share compared to 18 for the Knicks against Washington.

NBC also points to the fact that seven of the top ten basketball audiences of all time, including the top four, have been for college games, starting with UCLA against Kentucky in the 1975 NCAA championship game.

"We don't look at it as a fight against the NBA," insists TVS President Eddie Einhorn. "The NBA will be there, sure, but we think there is a big enough audience for both of us."

CBS has countered by revising its NBA plans. This time around there will be four regional games most Sundays, giving telecasts a more local flavor, with an occasional national doubleheader game thrown in. "Red On Roundball", a halftime feature in which Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach explains the fine points of the game, returns and the package will be further enhanced by a slam dunk contest to run throughout the season.

The network will have its "Challenge of the Sexes" show as a lead-in every week and telecasts, for the most part, will start the same time every Sunday. "Last year we had games starting at 1 p.m., games starting at 4 and so on. This year, with most of the games starting at the same time and with a solid lead-in, it will work," says Herb Gross, CBS sports director.

Brent Musberger, Don Criqui, Gary Bender and Jerry Gross will announce the four regional games and Mendy Rudolph, Lenny Wilkins, Billy Cunningham and a player to be named later will be the color men.

NBC offers Dick Enberg and Billy Packer, an excellent team, for its college package.

While all of this is going on, ABC will not be showing test patterns. ABC will have its Wide World of Sports, its successful Superstars show, the American Sportsman and a few golf tournaments lined up to lure viewers. The suspicion persists that with NBC and CBS splitting up the basketball audience, ABC could be a big winner

"We could be making a mistake," admits Einhorn. "We could be dividing up the basketball audience, and ABC could get everyone else. I hope not..."

Some notable quotes from the World of Sports:

"Sport must remain a universal, sound gymnastics for human capacity and daring." – Enzo Ferrari, grand old boss of the Italian auto racing factory. ---

"We bring out the best in everybody." – Seattle Coach Bill Russell, after the SuperSonics lost another basketball game. ---

"The world's full of mediocre people. Coach Lombardi taught me that you can rise above that with hard work." – Cleveland's Forrest Gregg, the National Football League Coach of the Year, on what he learned from the late Vince Lombardi.

"By God, he'd listen to me 'til I was through with him." – Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, joking about what he would do as a sports writer interviewing Ohio State's cantankerous football coach, Woody Hayes. ---

"We talked about life and what God can do for you. We never discussed basketball. I kind of think it takes the pressure off the players." –

Coliseum Sets Concessions

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Volume Services Co. of California has won the snack concession for 15 years at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, a spokesman has announced.

The Coliseum Commission, which accepted the company's bid Thursday, will receive 35.1 per cent of the firm's sale and $1.75 million to improve the sports facility's concession services.

The action is subject to approval by city, county and state agencies. Last week, Los Angeles County supervisors said they planned to give the concession award close scrutiny. A letter from Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp said a background check had disclosed nothing negative about Volume Services.

Saban Selects 4 Assistants

MIAMI (AP) – Lou Saban, recently named University of Miami football coach, picked four assistant coaches Friday,including two already on the Miami staff.

Saban, hired earlier this month, named Buffalo Bills assistant coach Ed Cavanaugh as offensive line coach. Cavanaugh, 48, had been with Buffalo since 1972.

My Juliet, winner of an Eclipse award as the nation's top thorougbred sprinter of 1976, heads the field for today's $40,000-added Las Flores Stakes at Santa Anita.

She will carry 128 pounds, including jockey Tony Black, in the six-furlong test for fillies and mares 4-year-olds and older. Just A Kick, who won this event last year at a $71 payoff, and Modus Vivendi are among the top contenders. Laffit Pincay Jr. has the mount on Just A Kick and Jerry Lambert rides Modus Vivendi.

My Juliet, who turns 5-years-old on Saturday, won six of eight starts in 1976, including the last five.

The new year also will usher in Chicago's refurbished Washington Park, which will present thoroughbred racing for the first time since 1970. The $10,000-added New Year's Handicap will head the card.

Victorian Prince carries top weight of 122 in heading the field of 12 for the $75,000-added W.L. McKnight Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at Calder. Visier is second high weight at 120 and Hall of Reason is next at 119 in the about 1 1/8 mile turf course event.

Pistol White, winner of five straight, totes 120 pounds in topping the field for the $34,600 Germantown Handicap at Keystone. Eleven are scheduled to go in the 1 1/16 mile test for 4-year-olds and older.

Tijuana To Tax Races, Jai Alai

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) – A proposed city tax would take up to 5 per cent of the winnings of bettors at Agua Caliente racetrack and the jai alai palace in Tijuana.

Mayor Fernando Marquez Arce said Mexico's treasury secretary is expected to rule on the tax within two weeks.

If approved in Mexico City, Marquez Arce said it would be the first municipal tax on a Mexican race track. It would produce $1 Million annually, he said.

The tax would apply to horse and greyhound racing, foreign book and jai alai events but not to the national lottery, raffles or other charity fund-raising events. Tijuana's city treasury has suffered under the recent peso devaluations.

Marquez Arce said a federal study indicates the tax would be feasible, but the president of the Baja California legislature said it might deter tourists.

No discussion of the proposal was held with California or jai alai officials before he submitted it to Mexico City this week, the mayor said Thursday.

The thoroughbred track, which is owned by 10 stockholders, is reported to be in debt by $15.5 million as a result of a 1971 fire and subsequent rebuilding program. A spokesman said its gross profits reach $1.5 million weekly with 80 per cent of that returning to bottors in winnings. Another 4 per cent goes to the federal government and 10 per cent to the track owners for expenses and profit, the spokesman said.

Fighting Saints Meet Payroll

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) – The Minnesota Fighting Saints have met their payroll and the World Hockey Association club will continue to operate on a regular basis, President Bob Brown said Friday.

"We considered several options and the one that was most obvious was the one that was overlooked," Brown said. "That was simply to make the payroll ourselves, which we did."

Venezuelan Jockey Ace Joins 'Anita Colony'

An international aspect will be injected into the already seemingly boiling competition for riding honors at Santa Anita with the arrival Tuesday of Venezuelan champion Jose Luis Vargas to free-lance.

Vargas was the leading apprentice of 1969 at Caracas and annually was at or near the top of the journeyman list until five months ago, when he came to the United States to try new challenges. He has ridden more than 50 winners on the East Coast since his arrival, his two most noteworthy efforts being in the Marlboro Cup and Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park – two great stakes in which he failed because as he puts it, "too much Forego."

Vargas, 28, has had 11 years of experience and has ridden as Venezuela's representative in Panama, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Puerto Rico.

Dubbed a "natural athlete" by his countrymen in South America, Vargas decided at age eight he would become a baseball player. He was pronounced good, but too small. He next turned to bull fighting, with the same verdict – promising, but too small.

His friends advised him that the race track was a natural for his talents and size (currently 109 pounds), and after a year's apprenticeship he became an almost instantaneous success.

The son of a carpenter, Vargas has a "racing" family in his two younger brothers. One is a successful trainer in Caracas, the other a veterinary student at the University of Minnesota.

Five months ago Vargas left Venezuela for New York to ride a horse as a favor to a trainer friend, but in the race another horse fell in front of him, and he went down in the tangle. Chagrined at his debut, he decided to stay on to prove to Americans that he was a top rider.

He engaged Mario Ignacio Velasquez, who has handled such as Eddie Belmonte and Fernando Alvarez, as his agent and decided on a Santa Anita winter campaign.

Market On High Note

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-- The stock market came on strong in the last week of 1976, inspired by growing optimism about economic prospects for the new year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 19.03 to 1,004.65, extending its gain for the yearend rally that began Nov. 10 to 80.61 points.

Thanks to a 5.56-point rise on Friday, the average stood above 1,000 at New Year's for only the second time in market history.

The first came four years ago, when it finished at 1,020.02 as it approached the record closing high of 1,051.70 set on Jan. 11 of 1973.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index picked up 2.62 to 107.46, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 1.39 to 57.88.

The one missing element in the market's New Year's celebration was the heavy trading volume that usually accompanies significant rallies.

Turnover on the NYSE averaged 22.14 million shares, down from 24.15 million in the previous week and the slowest pace set all month.

Since Friday's prices are to be used as a base for figuring taxable capital gains in estates from now on, the rally of the past several weeks amounted to something of a tax break for many heirs of the future.

They won't have to pay capital gains taxes on whatever ground their stocks gained before Dec. 31. Estate taxes, of course, are not affected.

The belief seemed to grow on Wall Street during the week that the economy was gathering momentum heading into 1977, after a sluggish spell since last summer.

The government reported at mid-week that its index of leading economic indicators rose 1 per cent in November for its strongest showing since June.

Investors apppeared satisfied ith the restrained pace of inflation of late, and with the relatively low level of interest rates.

And Wall Street was assuminghat President-elect Carter would push for whatever stimulus the economy might need from Washington in the months ahead.

For the year the market fell well short of matching its spectacular 1975 showing, when the Dow soared 38.3 per cent.

But te average did manage to gain 152.24 points, or 17.9 per cent, and many of the secondary stocks not represented by the Dow did exceptionally well in t.e closing stages of the year.

Meat Animals Jump In Price

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prices for meat animals rose an average of 7 per cent on the government's latest monthly farm price report, heralding increases for consumers in meat prices over current levels.

The prices received by farmers were up 3 per cent between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday. Higher prices for cattle and hogs helped increase the average, which had dropped in four of the five previous months.

The department said Thursday that prices of beef cattle were up $1 to an average of $32.10 a hundredweight, and hogs rose $5.20 to $36.30 a hundredweight.

Despite those increases, livestock prices still were 11 per cent below a year ago. Including all commodities, farm prices were down 4 per cent from Dec. 15, 1975.

Higher cattle prices mean beef will cost consumers more next year. Anticipating the increase, the department last month predicted that beef will average 10 cents a pound more in 1977 than in 1976.

Despite the increase in live hog prices, they still are well below levels of a year ago. According to the department, consumers can expect pork prices in 1977 to average about five cents a pound less than in 1976.

Today's Stock List A Document

For estate purposes, today's New York and American stock lists become a document valuable for filing with currently owned stock certificates that is likely to be passed on to future heirs.

By terms of the "Tax Reform Act of 1976," an average of the high and low prices during Friday's transactions becomes the basis for computing the profit on future stock sales by heirs.

For example, if 1,000 shares of a corporation traded Friday at a high of $10.375 per share and a low of $10.125, the average would be $10.25. In the future, should an heir sell the stock, the profit on the sale will be computed by using the $10.25 figure as the basic price of acquisition.

For that reason, The Register's stock list today includes Friday's high and low prices instead of the usual week's high and low.

This provision of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 applies only to marketable securities acquired before 1977 and inherited after 1976. Other provisions of the new law apply to other estate situations.

Heileman Acquires Rainier Brew

LA CROSSE, WIS. (AP) - G. Heileman Brewery Co., Inc., of La Crosse, has completed its agreement to acquire the Rainier Brewing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

Heileman President Russell B. Cleary and Edwin S. Coombs Jr., president of The Rainier Companies, Inc., announced Friday that a definitive purchase agreement had been signed and ratified by directors of both firms. Tentative agreement was announced Nov. 29.

The agreement, scheduled for completion in late February, will be presented to Rainier shareholders for approval. The transaction involves the brewing company and certain real estate and other assets related to brewery operations.

The agreement provides a purchase price of $6.3 million, plus an estimated $1.7 million in working capital for a total of $8 million.

Rainier has a capacity of over one million barrels a year, and its sales for the fiscal year ended last March 31 totaled over $42 million. The company has 119 independent wholesalers selling in Washington, Oregon, California, Alaska, Idaho, Montana and Hawaii. Cleary and Coombs said the Rainier Brewery would continune to operate in Seattle as a separate entity.

Heileman, which through a series of acquisitions in recent years has become the nation's eighth largest brewery, had sales of $197.5 million for the first nine months of 1976, a 22 per cent increase. Earnings were $9.2 million, a 116 per cent increase. i

Heileman, founded in 1853, has breweries at La Crosse, Newport, Ky., Evansville, Ind. and St. Paul, Minn. It also owns six bakeries selling principally in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois, and owns Machine Products Co., Inc., a manufactuer of precision jet engine parts.

British Pound Unchanged At Close

LONDON (AP) - The pound closed unchanged from Thursday in year-end trading Friday on the London foreign exchange market.

Trading was at a virtual standstill in the pre-holiday lull.

Sterling closed at $1.7020, unchanged from its London overnight level.

Although the pound has risen fairly steadily since it plunged to a historic low of less than $1.57 on Oct. 28, it remains over 30 cents below the $2.03 mark prevailing at the beginning of 1976.

One dealer at a major British bank was bullish for sterling over the near-term, predicting the pound would hold steady for a few months before firming to about $1.75-$1.80 by late spring.

In other trading Friday, the dollar:

-Rose against the West German mark to 2.36 marks to the dollar from Thursday's 2.3555.

-Gained against the Swiss franc from 2.4457 Thursday to 2.4505.

-Was up against the French franc from 4.9615 to 4.9650.

-Edged up against the Japanese yen from 292.80 to 293.17.

Year-End Stock Tables Monday

Monday's financial section of The Register will carry a complete listing of the New York, American and National Over-The Counter stocks' price ranges over the past year. The tables will include, in addition to the high and low for the year, the price-earnings ratio, closing price and last change. The section will also carry other indicies concerning stock market activity.

The Register BUSINESS-FINANCE

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Economy Perks Up

NEW YORK (AP) - The American economy showed new signs of life in the last week of 1976.

There were a number of encouraging reports on sales and production in key industries and business leaders seemed hopeful that President-elect Jimmy Carter's economic proposals would be sound.

Among developments:

-The Commerce Department's index of leading economic indicators rose a strong 1 per cent in November to 127.5 per cent of the 1967 average. The index, considered an important forecast of business trends, had gained 0.6 per cent in October, an upward revision from 0.2 per cent.

-November contracts for new construction throughout the nation rose 37 per cent in November to $7.69 billion, according to McGraw-Hill's F.W. Dodge unit. There was a big increase in apartment building, which had been down.

George Christie, Dodge's chief economist, said, "It appears that the recovery of the construction industry is back on the track."

-Some of the nation's retailers said their Christmas business exceeded the strong totals of the 1975 holiday season.

-Detroit's automakers said that production in January will exceed the year-earlier month by 21 per cent.

-The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, a barometer of stock market activity, broke the 1,000 barrier again in the past week.

-Democrats in the House of Representatives said President-elect Carter was partial to a plan to double or triple the $2 billion public-works program enacted last fall.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said the nation's basic money supply rose $700 million in the week ended Dec. 22 to $311.1 billion. Some money market analysts had expected a large drop in the supply of cash in circulation and in checking accounts.

Illegal Aliens Get Blame For Job Scarcity

HOUSTON (AP) - Some 80,000 jobs in southwest Texas that could be filled by American citizens currently are held by illegal aliens, a district director of the U.S Immigration and Naturalization Service says.

If employers would stop hiring the illegal aliens, "we could create about 30,000 jobs in the Houston area and up to 80,000 in the 30 counties in our district," G. W. Heston said.

He said he agrees with Labor Secretary-designate F. Ray Marshall that businessmen should be discouraged from hiring foreign laborers and that those who do should be penalized.

"We could create jobs for the unemployed and maybe even create better jobs for some who are underemployed," Heston said.

Lear Siegler Pact

SANTA MONICA - Lear Siegler, Inc. has received a $25.2 million air force contract for production of digital naviation/weapon delivery systems for Phantom jets.

The award is the first production contract for the advanced airborne system, which was developed by Lear Siegler for the Air Force to improve guidance and weapon delivery capabilities of military aircraft. It will be installed on RF-4D and F-4E Phantom jets in the Air Force's inventory.

EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

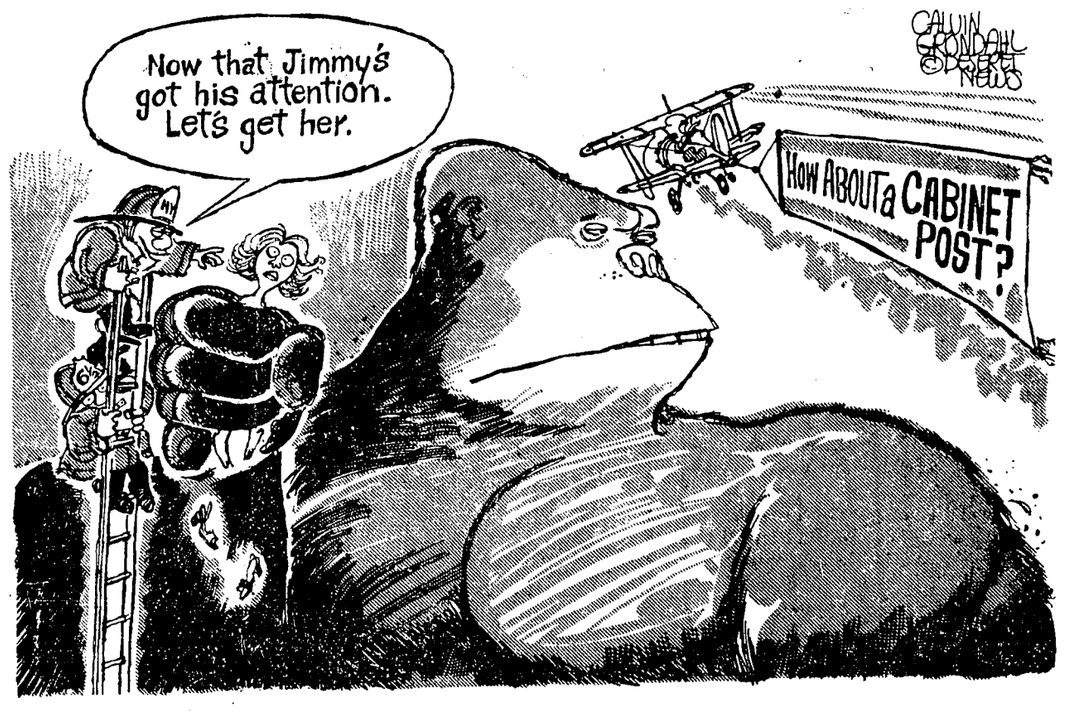

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Smile

So closes the bicentennial year, when Jefferson's clarion to the world was noted with a remarkable sense of American community; when, despite the homages to liberty, a miniscule segment of the voters prepared the way for an administration impervious to the spirit of minimal government; when some rain and snow came in time to be recorded in California's annals.

Trite to say, an eventful year. Mao Tse-tung, the greatest butcher of the modern age, and probably of all ages, died, leaving the largest country to turmoil and Western political leaders and journalists pronouncing the most inane sentimentalities over his mortal bones. The New Man promised by the 1948 communist revolution? He was as permanent as a wall poster; as starved, as ignorant and as shabbily sheltered and clothed as any peasants from time immemorial.

The Soviet Union, except for its party elite, is poor still; its barbarism is not terribly distinguishable form the reign of Ivan the Terrible. Party boss Leonard Brezhnev appears destined to the same fate he engineered against Nikita Krushchev. Popular faith in the Kremlin is at a low ebb; dissidents are emboldened as never before.

In Southern Africa the ancestral home of Anglican settlers is about to be upheaved, owing to American diplomatic hypocrisy, in time for a black mobocracy. That is not, we hasten to say, a racist judgment, but an assessment of political values. In Mozambique the black Marxist dictatorship sends its guerrillas to machine-gun to death some 20 black workers for the simple crime of working on a farm across the southern border. There are more black prisoners, under the "poet" dictator Machel, than before the Portuguese exited. So much for Bob Dylan's cherry ditty, its historical reference unclear, about Mozambique.

In Cambodia the genocide continues. In America the silence, with few exceptions, continues. In Vietnam brutality is the rule, with "re-education camps" an unsuccessful euphemism for concentration camps. The Saigon of Ky and Thieu was corrupt. "Ho Chi Minh City," Hanoi South, is totalitarian. The Rev. Andrew Young, the ambassador-designate to the UN, thinks America should nurture a "strong Vietnam." So much for the consciences of Christendom.

In New York 90 erstwhile anti-war activists – Joan Baez, Roger Baldwin, Allen Ginsberg among them – condemn the new communist government of Vietnam for its brutal practices. The temptation is to wonder why they didn't support America's clumsy attempt to rescue Vietnam, in the sixties, from its fate. And yet there is an admirable consistency about their communique. The "Baez faction," for lack of a better description, has always opposed military might and political repression. Now the singer takes her cause to Ireland, where she joins a peace mavement – one of the noblest and most hopeful developments of the year.

The American business community is uneasy about the Carter team's awful misapprehensions of how an economy works. The Wall Street Journal reports predictions that food prices will hold about the same in 1977; Colonel Sanders announced a roll-back of the price of a bucket of fried chicken.

The Liberian tanker Sansinena blew up, sending a ball of red flame 10 stories above Los Angeles harbor, killing four crewmen and shattering windows throughout San Pedro. The Liberian tanker Argo Merchant fouled the waters off Nantuckett, killing birds. The incontinent supership, Olympic Games, did the same in the Deleware River. Politicians and the sages of Times-Mirror Square have called for mandatory shipboard inspections on boats about to be retired anyway, while dragging their feet on nuclear energy – the speedy development of which would assign oil tankers to the natural history museums.

In California the governor and his creative finance director have teased property taxpayers with a revolutionary plan to subsidize some of them. Surely Jefferson didn't anticipate such brilliant revolutions each generation anew? In the Orange County Jail there has been no perceptible detente among partiaans in the nightly slugfest, and the Sheriff-Poet has not acted exactly lightning fast to correct the situation.

OCTD has doubled its bus service, and Freedom House estimates there are fewer countries, since it began making these estimates three decades or so ago, enjoying liberty and civility.

Smile. There's rain this New Year's.

The Chimes Of Justice

Griffin Bell, named by Jimmy Carter to be the new attorney general, casts additional doubt over the new cabinet. A law partner of the president-elect's closest palitical advisor, Atlanta's Charles Kirbo, Bell scarcely reassures those Americans with fresh memories of two attorneys general convicted of cronyism-related felonies. Some clean-up.

Possibly a radical change from the old years is precisely what Carter wanted to avoid, it may be argued in his defense. Richard Nixon, campaigning in 1968 for "a new attorney general" to replace the ultra-liberal Ramsey Clark, used great hooplah in announcing as his choice a two-fisted law-and-order advocate. What we got was John Mitchell, another law partner; he turned criminal. And so did Richard Kleindienst, Mitchell's hapless replacement.

Did Carter suppose starting with suspicion would prevent the same kind of comparisons?We mean: comparisons of promise with fulfillment. Were Americans to lower their expectations of the appointee? Probably nothing so Machiavellian.

Alas, the selection of Griffin Bell was, precisely, unclever. It is time – even now, even before Jan. 20 – to stop thinking of Jimmy Carter as some sort of political genius. There will be plenty more mistakes, of nuance as well as of strategy and morality, to come from this bankrupt administration.

Today In History

Today is Saturday, January 1, the first day of 1977. There are 364 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

On this date:

In 1531, the Brazilian city of Rio de Janeiro was established.

In 1735, the American patriot Paul Revere was born in Boston.

In 1863, the Homestead Act went into effect. A soldier in the Union Army staked out the first claim to a tract of land near Beatrice, Neb.

In 1901, the Commonwealth of Australia was proclaimed.

In 1959, the Cuban revolution led by Fidel Castro triumphed. Dictator Fulgencio Batista fled the island.

In 1970, Israeli jets were striking Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: Kurt Kiesinger succeeded Ludwig Erhard as West German Chancellor.

Five years ago: The United States began its 12th year in the Indochina conflict with troop cutbacks and heavy air strikes.

One year ago: A Lebanese airliner crashed in the desert in Saudi Arabia, killing the 82 passengers and crew members.

Today's birthday: Republican Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is 66.

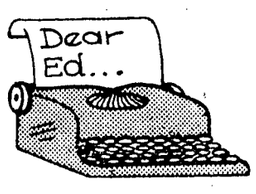

Thought for today: Years, as they come, bring blessings in their train. Years, as they go, take blessings back again. – Horace, poet and satirist of ancient Rome.

Volunteering

"An individual favors a war only if he will volunteer to risk his own life in it. He favors going to the moon only if he would freely invest in the venture. He favors paying farmers not to farm only if he would make such payments out of his own pocket. Otherwise, pay no heed to what anyone says he favors; it is double talk!

"Focus" On Assessor

I noted with interest the Dec. 26 Focus section of The Register re-capping the Orange County ten top stories of the year. Regrettably, seven of the stories deal with outright criminals. This is in keeping with the news media's obsession with, and aggrandizing of criminals and the macabre.

I think that, perhaps, high on the list of "top ten stories" should have been the O.C. tax hastle. Total coverage of which, and intensity of interest thereof, exceeded some of the stories included in the list.

Also, in the same issue of The Register, quite a spread was devoted to our dazzling O.C. assessor, Bradley Jacobs. I could not determine which staff was dazzled: The Register staff, or the assessor's staff.

In either case, I myself was bedazzled, bedimmed, bedevilled, befuddled and bedraggled, (the latter as a result of my confiscatorial tax burden).

There are some revealing facets of Mr. Jacobs tenure as assessor. (I commend Sandi Moseley for an excellent job of reporting, and no way, no how, do I cast any aspersions her way regarding Mr. Jacobs as he appears under her illuminating by-line).

1. "Jacobs says he didn't know much more than the average taxpayer about property assessments when he took the job a little over a year ago." Join the club, good buddy; and since my taxes are indeed placing me in a bind, would you like an equally innocent tyro as an assistant to help with your department's ball of wax?

2. "Mr. Jacobs was surprised when he received his card in the mail." But which way surprised? Was it pleasant? After all, in the small community of Mission Viejo, some homeowners experienced increases of 40 per cent or so, while Mr. Jacobs' was up 25-1/4 per cent. Dear, dear, Mr. Jacobs. The average increase county-wide was a "record" 18-plus per cent. The increase in my assessment is 47 per cent. Mr. Jacobs' appraisal was up 14 per cent plus; my appraisal is up 35 per cent plus.

3. Besides, the above figures, when applied to Mr. Jacobs' concern for equity, are cause for more bedazzlement when he says: "Under the plan (to freeze assessments until property is resold) a homeowner might wind up paying twice the taxes that his neighbor pays, because the latter has lived there longer." The article also points out that Mr. Jacobs is the only government official fighting any property tax reform measure that would freeze assessments.

Obviously, the way to get around the inequity that Mr. Jacobs stresses in the foregoing is to increase taxes for everyone, leave no one trailing behind. And on the basis of his 25-1/4 per cent increase, as compared to others in his community of 40 per cent increase, and my own of 47 per cent, his solution is to hold down some, while raising others: the unequal equalizer.

4. Though Mr. Jacobs claims not to have known what his tax assessment was until he was told by his wife, nevertheless he did say, as reported in the Sept. 17 Register, that "the taxpayers would have the hell scared out of them" when they received their tax notices. It's hard to believe that Mr. Jacobs didn't know what was going on. Anyway, I'm still "scared" at his attitude in the above quote.

5. The article, excellently written, winds up with Mr. Jacobs declaiming, "I took the job because I wanted to see if things that work in all the rest of the world can work here." He adds, "They do." What, and where, in the world, do you use as a frame of reference? England? Italy? France? Timbuktu? The rest of the world?

6. And for the rest? Mr. Jacobs says he doesn't know if he will seek election in 1978. "I'm a novice when it comes to politics. I wouldn't know how to start, but I wouldn't want to see anybody undo the good things I've done here."

That merits a good belly-laugh, if it wasn't for the spectre of my spring of '77 tax payment rising up to take the joy out of Mr. Jacobs' success story.

On Defending KKK

No one ever has, or should ever dare, suggest a relationship with, an admiration for, an iota of anything but disgust by our organization for the Grand Exalted Cyclops and his pathetic gang at Camp Pendleton.

Few of us can, after any soul searching, see any justifiable reason for the existence of the Ku Klux Klan and the depraved minds supporting it. The basic tenets of the organization remind us of Bergen-Belsen, Auschwitz-Birkenau, Babii Yar and Wounded Knee. We would simply be a far finer society were we rid of them. Then why defend them?

It has been our unfortunate history to be the refuge of last resort for all those in our society who legitimately enjoy the protection of the Constitution, from the deprived unfortunates of minority races and creeds to the depriving miserables of such as the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party. I say unfortunate history because, despite the legitimacy of those Constitutional guarantees, it never fails to steep us in divisive controversy. High school civics classes simply didn't do the trick. And why do we insist on defending the rights of both ends of the spectrum? It should be obvious enough to stop the ridiculous dispute now smoldering in our midst. Free speech for all is the law, not the exception!

Ramona Ripston's response to the San Diego/Ku Klux Klan debacle was dead accurate about one point – our past defenses of other such bigots as George Lincoln Rockwell were no less controversial and no less correct.

Our organization's strength, indeed our country's strength, is based on a concept of no exceptions to the laws embodied in the Bill of Rights. That we've occasionally fallen short is lamentable; that we've constantly striven to correct our shortcomings is laudible. Our shibboleth is civil liberties for all. Any exceptions to that rule will lead us down the broad path to more Bergen-Belsens, Auschwitz-Birkenaus, Babii Yars and Wounded Knees, or to paraphrase George Santayana's proverbial statement: those of us who refuse to learn from history are surely doomed to repeat it.

War Declared?

Have the Liberians declared war on the United States?? If so they sure have a "slick" way of going abour it!!

Like most Americans I can understand the need for the import of foreign oil in this country. But how much of our environmental standards must we give up to satisfy our needs?I don't know whether Liberians think they're doing us a good deed by placing their oil directly on our shores, but we as Americans would rather have it placed in storage tanks.

Its about time our government took another look at our maritime rules and regulations regarding oil tankers of foreign registry shipping oil to U.S. ports.

ACCURACY IN MEDIA

Enemy Espionage Gets Little Attention

By REED IRVINE

WASHINGTON – American news media for some time have had an obsession for revealing secret deeds and misdeeds of the CIA and FBI. More recently a great deal of attention has been focused on the South Korean CIA, and the intelligence services of Chile and Iran have also come under media investigation.

What is striking is the almost total lack of interest in the activities of intelligence services of countries hostile to the United States.

For example, on Dec. 20, the Anderson-Whitten column came up with some very interesting information bearing on the activities of Fidel Castro intelligence operatives in this country. The story seemed to be particularly newsworthy since it involved very sensitive documents found in the attache case of Orlando Letelier, the former Chilean ambassador and cabinet officer who was killed by a bomb in Washington, D.C., last September.

Police took Letelier's attache case from his bombed automobile and made photocopies of the contents. The documents have not been made public, but a few of them have been leaked to Jack Anderson.

One is a letter to Letelier from Beatrice Allende, daughter of the late Marxist president of Chile, who is married to Luis Fernandez Ona, the No. 2 man in Castro's spy agency, the DGI. The letter, dated May 8, 1975, informed Letelier that he would be getting $5,000 to support his work, to be followed by monthly payments of $1,000. The money was to be channeled through the East Berlin headquarters of the Chilean Socialist Party. The letter did not say who was providing the money, but Anderson said that intelligence sources said it could not have been transmitted without the approval of the Cuban government.

Who was paying Letelier? Was it the DGI? What services was he performing for his $1,000 a month? This cries out for investigation. Anderson could get no satisfactory answers from either Mrs. Letelier or from Beatrice Allende. He tried, but neither the AP nor the UPI picked up the story. The media organs that had given such extensive coverage to Letelier's murder showed no interest at all in the embarrassing contents of his attache case.

Another document in the case was a letter written by one of his associates addressed to Emillo Brito, a Cuban intelligence functionary. The letter thanked Brito for "scholarly material" received from Julian Rizo. Rizo is the first secretary of the Cuban mission to the United Nations, but he is actually one of Castro's top intelligence officers in this country. The writer of the letter, whose identity was protected by Anderson, promised to send "academic information" to Brito through Rizo. Letelier was to leave for Cuba the day he was killed. He evidently planned to deliver this letter to Brito personally.

Anderson said that the author of the letter denied knowing that Brito and Rizo were intelligence officers. But again there are unanswered questions. What was the academic material that was being exchanged? Why did it have to go through the Cuban UN mission rather than through the mail? Why was a letter mentioning this exchange so sensitive that it had to be hand-carried rather than entrusted to the mails?

These are but two of the many documents found in Letelier's attache case. They are being held by the Justice Department. We have seen no demands in the press that all the documents be made public or that the Cuban DGI activity in this country be investigated. Indeed, the wire services and the leading papers have not even carried news stories about Anderson's revelations. They have shown little interest in digging deeper into the case themselves. Now if Letelier had been getting the money from the South Korean entrepreneur, Tongsun Park, that would be different.

INSIDE LABOR

A Boycott Of South Africa?

By VICTOR RIESEL

UNITED NATIONS – Strong foreign Socialist and Communist labor leaders, many of whom personally control powerful nations, are whipping up a global whirlwind of selective indignation against the Republic of South Africa.

This unprecedented campaign crackles at this very critical moment when African racial conflicts finally have an outside chance of settlement without the bloodletting of razor-edged pangas, machetes and international proletarian Cuban-wielded, Soviet-Skoda-made machine guns.

This new drive is no mere outpouring of mimeographed anti-apartheid rhetoric. This is the real thing – the grounding of South African commercial aircraft, the ban on turning around Pretoria's ocean-spanning freighters and tankers in world harbors, the refusal to move cargo on land, sea or in the air to or from southern Africa and the call for worldwide strikes against the Republic of South Africa.

The summons for a full hemisphere by hemisphere boycott of the Afrikaan government, its industry, mining and transcontinental commerce, was launched a few weeks ago by the high command of the Brussels-based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions (ICFTU). This powerful supra-labor government is about as known in the U.S. as is orchid-growing in Alaska.

But this ICFTU can be powerful. It has networks within networks of labor organizations, the leaders of which are prime ministers, chancellors or chiefs of runner-up opposition parties.

It's this network which now has called a week-long "full action" and consumer boycott of the Republic of South Africa beginning Jan. 17.

Though ostensibly opposed to the Soviets' own secret-police controlled global labor network, known as the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) headquartered in Prague, the Socialist and organized labor chiefs appear to have parlayed concerted action with the Communists.

First the ICFTU met late in November in Brussels and called for the crippling action. This socialist high command was aware that the Stalinist-controlled WFTU was set to meet two weeks later in New Delhi. Of course, with the Socialists on record, it was a simple matter for the Communist bloc to fall into line. Thus, the global boycott, which will whip up anger and rip up the peaceful interracial Geneva conference, is ostensibly not Communist-tainted.

So, the global central labor organization in Brussels (speaking for such unions as the German DGB, the British TUC, etc.) is coordinated in this week of action against the Republic of South Africa with the Soviets and their client army, the Cuban expeditionary force, now killing villagers in southern Africa.

This is harsh, but true. Bloodily so.

But one powerful organized labor force will be missing. The AFL-CIO, led by George Meany, rejected an invitation to join with the ICFTU, which it bolted in 1969. Most American organized labor repudiates selective indignation.

It wants action against the Soviet Union, which has now acknowledged by its release on Dec. 19 of the world famous dissenter, biologist Vladimir Bukovsky, that it runs slave labor camps and imprisons freedom fighters in insane asylums.

When the former German labor union chief, Otto Kersten, now ICFTU general secretary, cabled Meany an urgent appeal to join in the worldwide boycott, the American organized labor leader replied last week:

"Reference, your cable concerning Human Rights Day and a week of trade union activity against South Africa, please be adivsed that the AFL-CIO will continue its public and long-standing opposition to the apartheid policy of the governments of Rhodesia and South Africa.

"However, the AFL-CIO will not join in any momentary activity which indicates the misconception of, or blindness to, the double standard of selecting certain repressive regimes for attack and others for currying favor.

"The AFL-CIO will support measures which apply sanctions against regressive regimes when those actions are taken with the full understanding that coercive and brutal political systems are indivisible in the eyes of free working men and women the world over. Any other position mocks the grave and perilous conditions of millions of workers in bondage to dictatorial and minority regimes on every continent and would aid and encourage oppressors not the oppressed." Signed George Meany, president.

What the Socialists seek is to pressure the world in general, and specifically the International Labor Organization (ILO) and its parent United Nations, into "an embargo of all economic, social, cultural and sporting contacts with South Africa." There isn't a whisper about boycotting the world Olympics because it's being held in Moscow in August 1980.

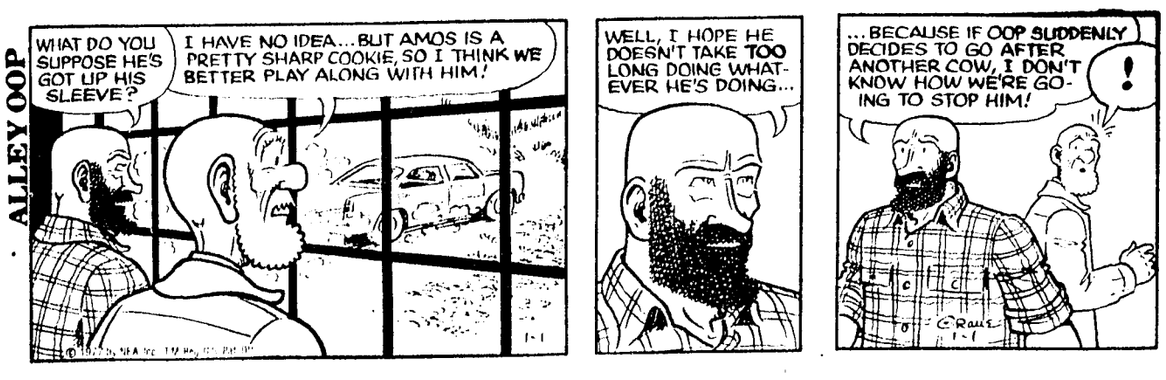

Nor is there recognition of the pragmatic fact that the Republic of South Africa deals commercially with 19 black African nations – all the way from Angola to the Malagsy Republic. And points north and south.

And, grounding South African scheduled and chartered airplanes would affect airports in at least five black African lands. South Africa's exports to the rest of Africa came to over $493 million in 1975. This increased in 1976. Further, black African nations sold the Republic of South Africa some $133 million worth of exports during the first five months of 1976.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

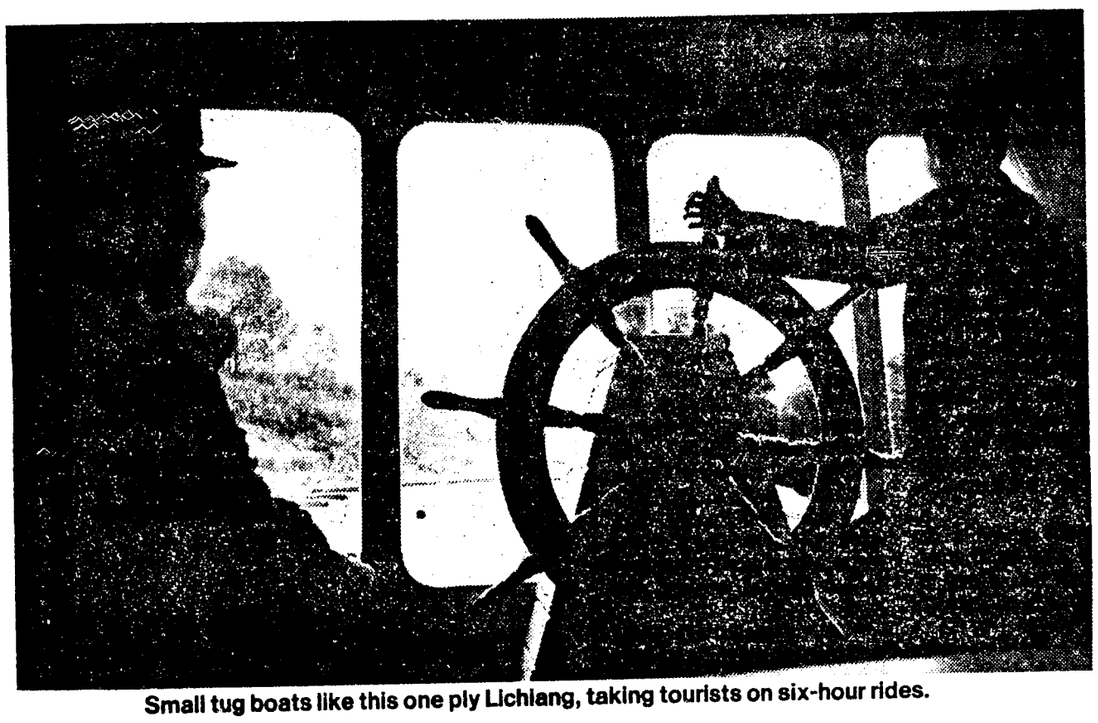

Boat homes of river people lie along banks of China's Lichiang River.

AP Newsfeatures.

Small tug boats like this one ply Lichiang, taking tourists on six-hour rides.

Glimpsed through trees: tranquil charm of curving river in China's Kwangsi province.

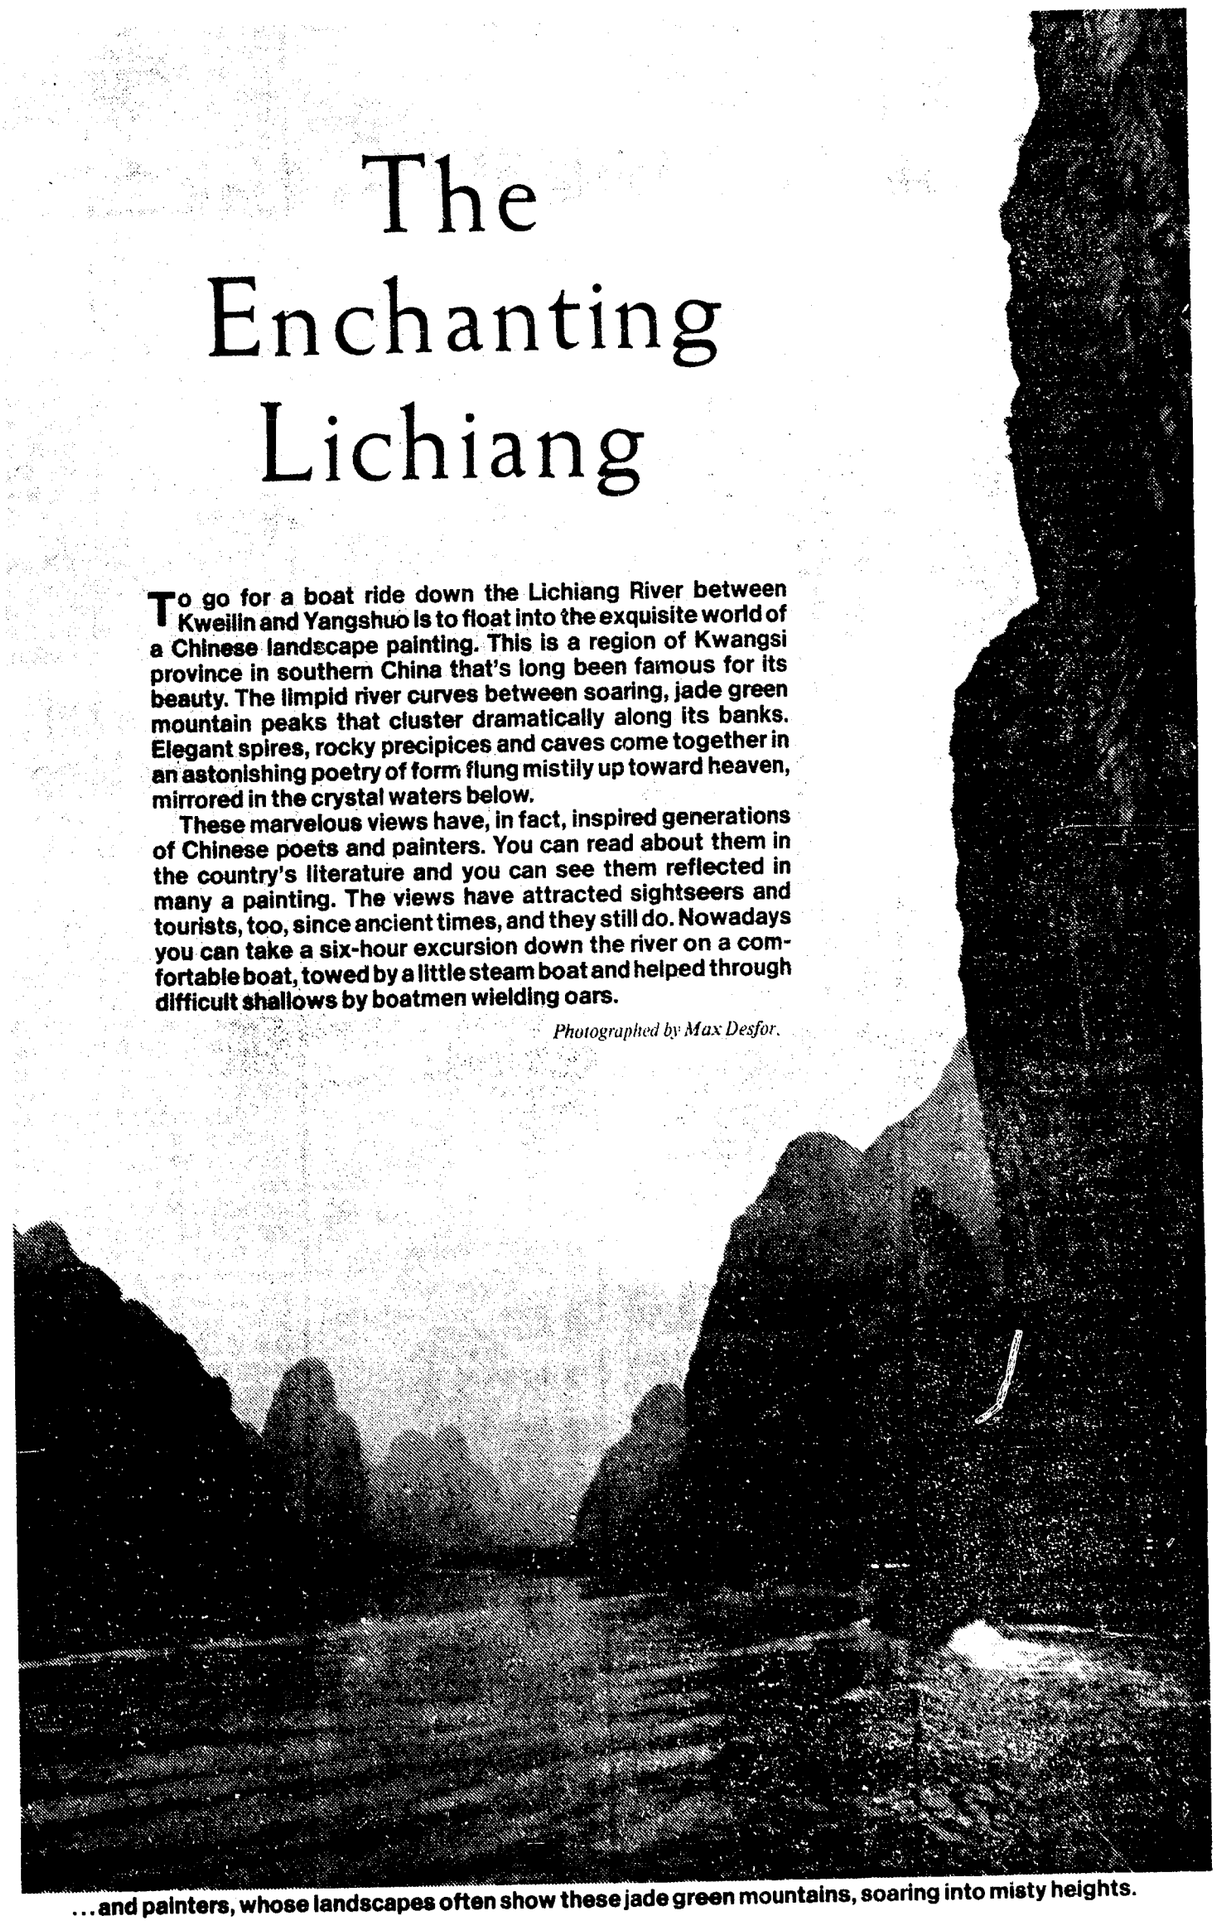

This is the exquisitely undulating river that inspired Chinese poets...

The Enchanting Lichiang

To go for a boat ride down the Lichiang River between Kweilin and Yangshuo is to float into the exquisite world of a Chinese landscape painting. This is a region of Kwangsi province in southern China that's long been famous for its beauty. The limpid river curves between soaring, jade green mountain peaks that cluster dramatically along its banks. Elegant spires, rocky precipices and caves come together in an astonishing poetry of form flung mistily up toward heaven, mirrored in the crystal waters below.

These marvelous views have, in fact, inspired generations of Chinese poets and painters. You can read about them in the country's literature and you can see them reflected in many a painting. The views have attracted sightseers and tourists, too, since ancient times, and they still do. Nowadays you can take a six-hour excursion down the river on a comfortable boat, towed by a little steam boat and helped through difficult shallows by boatmen wielding oars.

Photographed by Max Desfor.

...and painters, whose landscapes often show these jade green mountains, soaring into misty heights.

The Register ENTERTAINMENT

HOT POTATO – Gene Wilder, right, acts like gun being handed to him by Richard Pryor is a hot item in this scene from "Silver Streak." The 20th Century-Fox film, currently playing in Orange County, has large doses of romance, adventure and comedy served aboard a Los Angeles to Chicago train. The climax of the film features a spectacular train crash at the Chicago station.

'Silver Streak' Director Calls For American Locales

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Ever hear of an express train that made the run from Los Angeles to Chicago via the Canadian Rockies?

That's what happened with the production of the new 20th Century-Fox film, "Silver Streak," and its makers are distressed by the roundabout route. Says director Arthur Hiller, "I think it's terrible when, at a time when the film industry is trying to keep production in this country, other industries help send production elsewhere."

"Silver Streak" concerns intrigue and murder aboard a crack Los Angeles-Chicago train, and it climaxes when the runaway engine crashes into the Chicago terminal. The obvious place to film it would have been along the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe route. But Santa Fe said no thanks.

"Maybe they didn't like the script," suggested Hiller. "I also heard the Santa Fe had a serious accident during the filming of a movie a few years ago and was leery of any more film connections.

"Amtrak was agreeable for cooperation, but it only owns trains, not roadbeds. We couldn't find any railroad that offered the locales we needed: mountains, desert, prairies and Illinois farmland. So we had to go to Canada."

For Hiller, that wasn't a sacrifice. He was born in Edmonton, Canada, got his start as a director with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation; he enjoyed working with Canadian actors and set workers, who comprised one-third of the crew.

"It was fun in that respect," said Hiller. But he added that it meant loss of money to American film workers and suppliers who would have had a bigger share of the film's $6-million budget. Hiller filmed scenes of the Silver Streak leaving the Los Angeles Union Station and arriving in Chicago, but the journey between was shot in Calgary, Toronto and along the route of the Canadian Pacific.

The climactic scene of the locomotive plowing through the terminal was filmed at Burbank's Lockheed Aircraft plant, of all places.

"That was entirely the work of the production designer, Al Sweeney," said Hiller, 53. "We had talked about using miniatures or matte shots, but Al said, 'Why not go full-scale)' We laughed, but Al was serious. He built portions of the station and the gift shop in two hangars at Lockheed, then constructed a full-scale mockup of the engine, just the front itself, nothing on the other side.

"The mockup was placed on a truck bed, and a stunt man crashed it through the set, driving without seeing where he was going. All the angles were worked out with a half-dozen cameras. Fortunately, we only had to do it once."

Hiller, whose credits include "The Americanization of Emily," "Love Story," "The Hospital, "Plaza Suite" and "Man of La Mancha," remarked that "Silver Streak" proved his toughest film. Not because of the actors, who included Gene Wilder, Jill Clayburgh, Richard Pryor, Patrick McGoohan, Ray Walston and Ned Beatty. The hard part was directing the trains, which could take hours to be turned around for another take.

"Silver Streak" was Fox's holiday attraction and will continue in release around the country into January.

Hiller said initial reviews have been disappointing. "I'm depressed," said the director.

Billie Jean Seeks More Work On TV

NEW YORK – Billie Jean King, the tennis pro, is now volleying with the TV networks about a new contract as a sports commentator. Her two-year contract with ABC expires Friday and there is some doubt that it will be renewed, although negotiations are continuing. So far, Miss King's dynamic accomplishments on the tennis courts have not led to similar stardom as a TV commentator, although it is not necessarily her fault (no pun intended).

In December 1974, ABC announced with great fanfare the signing of Billie Jean King. Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports, fronted a press conference at the 21 Club where was gathered a large contingent from the Fourth Estate, especially women who were aware of Billie Jean's work in women's lib.

Discussing her new ABC job at upwards of $125,000 a year, Billie Jean said: "If I don't have what it takes, I'll get out." Well, Miss King so far has not displayed as a TV sports commentator that she has what it takes but neither is she ready to get out. Billie Jean was never a quitter.

It's understood that in the King-ABC negotiations for a renewal of contract, the ball is now in Billie Jean's court. This could mean that ABC has no real enthusiasm for a renewal, but has made a limited offer with the attitude of take-it-or-leave-it.

Meanwhile, Barry Frank, vice president of CBS Sports, said he was scheduled to meet with Billie Jean or her representatives early next month.

SUCCESS OF 'COUSIN, COUSINE'

By JERRY OSTER
New York News

NEW YORK – In a Plaza Hotel room 16 floors above the Paris Theater, where "Cousin, Cousine" is on its way to becoming the most popular foreign film ever shown in this country, Victor Lanoux said that the movie's success was "a miracle."

Lanoux, a 40-year-old dolefull-looking motorcycle buff and mushroom expert whose portrayal of Ludovic has made him a star here and in France, was paying brief respects to New York on the way back to Paris from a tour to promote 'Cousin, Cousine" in the Midwest and South.

In an interview conducted in equal parts execrable English (his) and execrable French (mine), he speculated for probably the hundredth time in the past few days on the reasons for the movie's popularity.

"Nobody expects this phenomenon," said Lanoux, whose 11 films before "Cousin, Cousine" cast him in secondary roles. "Not because we don't think it's a good movie, but because it is, well, foreign. Still, there are some qualities in the film that all publics can see. There is the quality of freedom. There is the quality of rapport between two lovers that is very sympathetic."

The fact that he, Marie-Christine Barrault, Marie-France Pisier and Guy Marchand were all little known worked in the picture's behalf in several ways, Lanoux said.

"When you have big stars in a picture, the work is not the same. I just finished a big production – I even had a double – and we only worked when we were acting. In "Cousin, Cousine," which was, how you say, a cheap budget – Ah, low budget – there was a climate, a rapport among the players and the technicians.

"We were happy to make this film. We were not happy – because they were making no money and we were very uncomfortable, but we were also happy. Maybe an audience feels that."

SOPHISTICATED APARTMENTS

The Happy Alternative

Imagine—garden grounds with streams and ponds, a great swimming pool, two therapeutic pools, barbeques, sand volleyball court, billiards—and you don't have to lift a finger to keep it all up!

Picture—bright, airy apartments with patios and balconies, fireplaces, airconditioning, color-coordinated shag carpeting and drapes, lots of closets and storage space; and gas kitchens with dishwashers, continuous cleaning ovens (gas and water included in rent!)

Plus—attentive management, eager to help you, to assume responsibility for all the upkeep.

All this and prime location—seconds-close to Santa Ana and Newport Freeways, the routes to everywhere!

Move to Cabrillo Park—The Happy Alternative!

Two bedrooms and two bedroom townhouses.

Rents start at $285.

NO BICENTENNIAL BABY – Symbolic of the new year that arrived at midnight is Randy Truman Babcock, born Dec. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesley Babcock of 547 Aliso Ave., Newport Beach. In his role as "Baby 1977" here he seems to be lustily yelling for his chance to fulfill promises and dreams at least as well as did 1976, the bicentennial year. Someone must have gotten a lot of use out of the well-worn high hat during the 200th anniversary year, but the condition of the hat and banner say that what is past is past. America's third century is under way. Happy New Year!

GG Seeks 2 Suspects In Coed Slaying Case

GARDEN GROVE – Police announced Friday they are seeking two suspects in the brutal rape-murder of pretty 19-year-old nursing student Janet Stallcup.

Homicide investigators declined to say how they determined the identities of the suspects, but issued the following descriptions:

– Male white adult, 22 to 24 years of age, about 5-foot-10, 185 pounds, round face, with frizzy, dirty blond hair parted in the middle. Possibly armed with a .38-caliber chrome revolver.

– Male white adult, 26 to 28 years of age, 6-foot, 180 pounds, unshaven, light brown kinky hair in a small pony tail.

Police say the suspects may have been driving a 1962 or 1964 Chevrolet two-door sedan, dirty white in color.

A $5,000 reward has been offered by the parents of Miss Stallcup for information leading to the arrest and conviction of her killer or killers. Information should be directed to Garden Grove police

Miss Stallcup, a part-time nurse at UCI Medical Center and Cypress College coed was found dead in her car Monday morning behind a Yockey Street apartment complex. Her neck was broken and she had been sexually assaulted.

She had been missing since Dec. 19, when she left home for a Christmas party. The county coroner's office estimated she had died Dec. 22.

30% Odds On Rains For Today

There is a 30 per cent chance of showers in Orange County today, the weather bureau predicts.

Skies should remain partly cloudy with temperatures ranging in the upper 50s, dropping to 52 to 45 degrees tonight.

A 20 per cent chance of rainfall is expected for the Rose Parade in Pasadena.

Travelers advisories stand for mountain areas, with chains required. Local heavy snowfall is expected down to 4,000 feet.

Police departments throughout the county reported numerous but minor traffic accidents Friday because of the rains.

Control One, a county emergency communications network, reports all its monitoring lines light up

Ford Plans To Propose Puerto Rico Statehood

VAIL, Colo. (AP) – President Ford said Friday that he will recommend legislation to grant statehood to Puerto Rico, a move that would make the island commonwealth the 51st state.

The "common bonds of friendship, tradition, dignity and individual freedom" that link Puerto Rico and the United States should be cemented "through statehood," Ford said in a statement.

If Congress should pass legislation granting statehood to Puerto Rico, the island's residents would have to vote approval of the commonwealth's entry into the Union, a move that would be opposed by some Puerto Ricans who seek independence.

Deputy Press Secretary John Carlson said Ford believes that Puerto Ricans, who are citizens of the United States, "should have all the rights and benefits that other American citizens have."

As a commonwealth, Puerto Rico has more autonomy than a mainland state, but is still subject to most U.S. legislation. Puerto Ricans do not pay income taxes, but the Caribbean island receives a large share of federal aid.

Puerto Ricans cannot vote in presidential elections, but possess most other rights and obligations of U.S. citizens.

If Congress acted swiftly, Carlson said, Puerto Rico could become a state within a year.

If granted statehood, Puerto Rico would become the first state admitted to the Union since Hawaii became the 50th state on Aug. 21, 1959.

The Caribbean island was ceded to the United States by Spain in 1898 and became a U.S. territory. It gained commonwealth status in 1952.

A White House spokesman said Ford's action "might be interpreted as an indication to Cuba's Fidel Castro that we value Puerto Rico and won't allow any tampering there."

Ford said he had reviewed recommendations from a Puerto Rican advisory group and the Cabinet that recommended "a new Compact of Permanent Union" aimed at giving the commonwealth

Water Rationing Warnings Sent

SACRAMENTO (AP) – Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Friday the state has asked 29 local water districts, most of them in small Northern and Central California communities, to prepare for water rationing because of the drought.

Brown's Water Resources director, Ron Robie, said the communities have been cooperating.

But Brown said the state has the constitutional power to prevent wasteful use of water. He didn't say whether the state could enforce a rationing program.

The governor also said the state is preparing guidelines for water conservation by all residents, including water-saving devices for toilets and showers.

The program includes water-sharing by counties with plentiful water. Robie said the state is willing to pay the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California to use more expensive Colorado River water rather than the Northern California water for which it has contracted.

Manson Girl's Bail Cut Bid Refused

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A Superior Court judge declined Friday to reduce bail for Leslie Van Houten, a former follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson.

Judge Jack E. Goertzen conceded Miss Van Houten had made progress in prison, but he said the "gravity" of the charges require bail to remain at $200,000.

The former Monrovia High School homecoming princess, now 27, faces a new trial next month on charges of murder and conspiracy in the deaths of grocery store owner Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, in 1969.

Miss Van Houten's 1971 conviction was overturned last month by the state Court of Appeal.

Her attorney, Maxwell Keith, told Goertzen he believed $50,000 would have been "a fair and reasonable bail even under the circumstances."

He added, "I do not believe she is a security risk."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Kay reminded the judge that the appeals court had reversed Miss Van Houten's conviction and also stressed that the evidence against her was very strong.

Kay said Miss Van Houten's alleged crime was "one of the most serious offenses Los Angeles has ever had."

During the hearing, Miss Van Houten agreed to waive any conflict of interest argu-

Release Of Sex Offenders Slated Under Law Change

By LARRY WELBORN
And CHARLES ROBERTS
Register Staff Writers

Several certified sex offenders will be entitled to release from state mental hospitals today because of a little-known change in state law.

Officials from state mental hospitals and the California Department of Health could not pinpoint the exact number of sex offenders immediately affected, but they gave "rough estimates" of between 10 and 30 patients.

Many more sex offenders will be entitled to release as they spend more time in mental hospitals, the officials said.

Changed is the state Welfare and Institutions Code, which deals in part with persons convicted of sex crimes. The law was changed by Assembly Bill 4285, introduced by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco.

Under the Welfare and Institutions Code, criminal procedings against a person convicted of a sex crime may be suspended in favor of what is known as mentally disordered sex offender procedings. Persons committed to mental hospitals under these procedings are known as MDSOs.

The change in the code says the state cannot keep an MDSO in a mental hospital longer than the time he would have spent in prison under his

6 Youngsters Rescued After Night At Sea

DANA POINT – Six teenaged boys spent a rainy, windy night drifting offshore 13 hours in a boat until their rescue by the harbor patrol Thursday morning.

The boys had borrowed a 21-foot craft belonging to one boy's father at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, a harbor patrol spokesman said. They headed up the coast to Salt Creek, just north of the harbor, turned around and stopped. The boat had run out of gas.

Battered by heavy winds and five-foot swells, with no food or fresh water, the boys drifted more than a mile offshore.

Thursday morning, they were spotted by a passing commercial fisherman and the crew of a sailboat, who radioed for assistance.

TODAY'S REGISTER STOCK LIST BECOMES DOCUMENT

By terms of the "Tax Reform Act of 1976," the profit for estate purposes of any stocks and bonds that you own will be determined on the basis of Friday's sales prices.

For instance, if 1,000 shares of a corporation traded Friday at a high of $10.375 per share and a low of $10.125, the average would be $10.25. In the future, should an heir sell the stock, the profit on the sale will be computed bu using the $10.25 figure as the basic price of acquisition.

For that reason, The Register's stock list today includes Friday's high and low prices instead of the usual week's high and low. Today's stock list, therefore, becomes a document valuable for filing with stock certificates that are likely to be passed on to future heirs. It becomes a record for tax purposes in years to come.

This provision of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 applies to marketable securities acquired before 1977 and inherited after 1976. It is not retroactive to previous inheritances. Other provisions of the new law apply to other estate situations.

Register's Monday business section will include the complete yearly stock lists for the New York and American stock exchanges plus the National over-the-counter list.

Amish Religion, Indiana Milk Regulation Collide

SHIPSHEWANA, Ind. (AP) – Hundreds of Amish dairy farmers, unwilling to compromise their religious beliefs, are being forced out of business by a state regulation requiring them to cool their milk by modern means.

The regulation, going into effect March 1, requires that warm, fresh milk be cooled to 50 degrees Fahrenheit within two hours after it leaves the cow, a process that can only be accomplished by refrigeration. The rapid cooling is intended to prevent growth of bacteria.

But the Amish, who traditionally have cooled their milk with cold water or ice, are forbidden by their religion to use electricity, the source of power for most milk cooling systems. The old method with cold water or ice can only cool milk to 70 degrees within two hours.

As a result, many Amish are having to sell their herds of dairy cows and many are either planning to raise chickens or hogs or are seeking employment in the mobile home factories dominant in the area.

"We know there's going to be some economic loss involved," said Herbert W. Koenig, chief of the milk production section of the State Board of Health. "But we think it's a valid law.

"We're not unsympathetic to the Amish," he explained, noting that enforcement of the regulation, passed in 1973, has been held up so that some accommodation could be worked out with Amish leaders.

But he added: "Modern cooling procedures have been shown to reduce the bacteria content of milk and that can cut down on intestinal diseases."

Some Amish, caught between their beliefs and the prospect of losing their source of income, are trying to comply as best they can.

Gasoline-and diesel-powered cooling systems could hold the key for some of those trying to stay in business.

"Using electricity is being like the rest of the world and Scripture teaches them not to conform to the rest of the world," explained Paul J. Miller, owner of Wana Hardware in this small northeastern Indiana community.

"For the past two years, we've hooked up many mechanical coolers with gas engines," said Miller, whose customers are predominately Amish.

"Basically, they're saying 'We'll do what we can to conform.' They're going to do what's required as far as their consciences will let them go."

However, the mechanical coolers are expensive since there is only a limited market for them and many of the Amish dairy farmers affected by the regulation cannot afford them.

Officials of the County Line Cheese Co. in Auburn, Ind., which did $3 million worth of business with Amish dairy farmers in 1975 and expect about the same for 1976, said no bad or inferior products were produced on Amish farms that did not refrigerate.

The cheese firm tried to set up receiving stations for morning and evening pickup so the milk could be taken to its plant and cooled quickly. But company officials said the plan was not economically feasible.

"I think the regulation is unnecessary," Fred Marolf Jr., president of County Line, said Friday. "I'd like to see the State Board of Health put that regulation on the shelf and forget about it."

He said his company and others in the area have dealt with the Amish for 50 years and "there has never been a problem with their milk."

Marolf added: "I think they're getting a raw deal."

Sansinena Yields Fifth Body

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Salvage crews trying to untangle the wreckage of the oil tanker Sansinena, which was ripped apart by an explosion two weeks ago, have uncovered a fifth body.

The bodies of four other men were found immediately after the Dec. 17 blast, and four others remain missing and are presumed dead.

The body found Thursday night was in the radio shack in the ship's mangled superstructure, which was ripped off the ship by the explosion and hurled nearly 75 yards inland.

The dead man's name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The search for the missing men was resumed last weekend after a temporary halt in salvage operations.

Pair 'Rescued' From Crowd In Purse Snatch

MIAMI (AP) – Two teenagers who allegedly stole a woman's purse welcomed police after an impromptu posse of 30 irate citizens chased them down, hogtied them with a chain and sat on them, authorities say.

"The robbers were glad to see me," said Police Maj. Philip Doherty after he "rescued" Johnny Battle, 19, of Miami, and a 14-year-old boy whose name was not released.

"It was heartwarming to see the citizen response," added Doherty. "Young, old, black, white, everybody in the neighborhood joined in. In this case they overwhelmed them with numbers."

It all began Wednesday night when Rose Marie Vernell, 50, of Miami Beach, was knocked down by two youngmen who took her purse, police said. The victim, described as having a "good set of lungs," began yelling.

"They grabbed her purse and took off running," said Thomas Hill, a department store salesman who started the chase, which was quickly joined by fellow employe Jack Carr.

Rudolph Shoucair was across the street. He, too, starting running and screaming. By now, Ms. Vernell – the title she prefers – was also after the thieves while continuing her call for help.

The chase went by a rooming house where about 30 residents were relaxing on the porch.

One elderly man jumped up, shouting that the fleeing teenagers were the same persons who had robbed him earlier. He and others on the porch joined in the pursuit, which ended abruptly when the fleeing suspects ran up a dead-end street.

Hill grabbed one by the feet "and the old man wrapped a chain around his neck.

"They sat on him, and I went and grabbed the other one," he added.

When Doherty arrived, everyone was yelling for help, including the suspects.

Vatican's Art Sale Rejected

VATICAN CITY (AP) – A Vatican prelate in charge of sacred art on Friday rejected suggestions that Michelangelo's Pieta sculpture and other priceless Vatican art objects be put on sale for funds to aid the needy.

Bishop Giovanni Fallani, writing in the Holy See's weekly magazine L'Osservatore della Domenica, said to sell the Vatican's riches would be tantamount to "the triumph of materialism over spiritualism."

The Pieta, marble statue of the Madonna holding the dying Jesus, was on view at the New York World Fair in 1964, reportedly insured for $10 million.

Some Vatican observers said the article appeared designed to counter recent "criticism and observations on the conspicuous property of the Vatican state."

Barges Laden With Salt For Icy Roads Blocked

LOUISVILLE (AP) – The blockage of barge traffic on the Ohio River by a wrecked set of locks is delaying shipments of salt destined for icy, mountain roads in West Virginia.

Hugh Bosely, city manager of Charleston, W. Va., said the city will be out of salt for its streets after just one more snowfall. About two inches of snow blanketed the city on Friday and the national weather bureau said more snow was likely today.

A major dam on the river near Paducah, Ky., was damaged last Monday when a barge slammed into the lock gate.

About 50 towboats and barges passed over the dam on Wednesday when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers temporarily raised the water level. But that can't be done again because the river is low.

Don Burkhart, a lockman at Dam 51 near Golconda, Ill., said 12 towboats, each pushing at least 10 barges, were blocked at the dam, unable to pass either up or down the river.

One of the waiting tows includes barges carrying salt for West Virginia highways, he said.

"He's on the south end, three barges of salt with a total tonnage of 4,200 pounds," he said. "We're working on the dam now, but as far as passing traffic, it's hard to say. It will be at least Monday or Tuesday, probably later than that before the lock is actually repaired."

He said it probably will be Wednesday before the northbound barges can pass through the lock.

"We've got a new shipment of salt scheduled to arrive by barge Monday or Tuesday," Bosely said. "But the company we buy from – Cargill Salt Co. of Cincinnati – has 37 salt barges blocked at Paducah ....

"We're hoping that they can get the lock opened temporarily by the first of the week so our salt can arrive."

Burkhart said he could not confirm that 37 salt barges were blocked, but said some tow captains were "out of the pilot house" and couldn't be reached.

Bosely said the cities of St. Albans and South Charleston also are dependent on the salt shipment. And it's also needed for the mountainous West Virginia Turnpike, a major north-south artery.

West Virginia Highway Commissioner William S. Ritchie Jr. said the state is nearly out of salt because low water on the Mississippi River has forced tow companies to use small barges that can't carry as much.

Bosely said Cargill mines its salt in Louisiana and ships it to Charleston by barge up the Mississippi, Ohio and Kanawha rivers.

Hiker Rescued After Injury

ASH MOUNTAIN (AP) – A San Jose youth was rescued after being stranded overnight in freezing temperatures and snow in Sequoia National Park.

Park officials said Chris Blanchard, 20, suffered a broken leg but was otherwise in good condition.

They said Blanchard was reached by a ground crew Thursday after a helicopter rescue attempt was aborted because of poor visibility, wind and snow at the 7,500-foot elevation.

Park spoksman Hank Jones said Blanchard was hiking with two companions when he apparently slipped on icy rocks near a stream on Wednesday. One companion stayed with him while the second walked for help.

Millionaire Buys Santa Claus (Town, That Is)

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) – If you were thinking about buying Santa Claus, Ariz., as an early Christmas present for next year, you're too late.

It's been sold to a millionaire businessman and his wife who split their time between the northern California wine country and Honolulu.

An escrow account has already been set up, and the only thing remaining is the signing of the contracts. Terms of the sale were not announced, but the asking price was $52,500.

Santa Claus, the town that is, gained national attention when it was revealed on Christmas Day that its owners, Peter and Mary Stanovich, had put the property up for sale.

Included in the package was a service station, a cafe called "The Christmas Tree Inn," a curio shop, four acres of desert along U.S. 93 about 85 miles southeast of here and a curious history dating back to 1937.

The Stanovichs, who love to travel, said they have grown tired of operating cafes.

The buyer is Larry Wilson, 39, president of Larry Wilson and Associates of Santa Rosa, who used to own the town of Healdsburg, a tiny community in the California wine country near Santa Rosa.

Wilson read of the "For Sale" sign on Santa Claus, and it interested him because he had just sold half his interest in Healdsburg.

"This one sort of amused me," said Wilson, adding that perhaps he will be able to develop some of his ideas with the new town that he wasn't able to do in Healdsburg because of opposition from local residents.

"Everybody should have a town called Santa Claus for their family," said Wilson, who claims he is not a chronic town buyer.

Although he has not seen his new property, Wilson said he sees potential, but his plans are still up in the air.

"We might decide to keep it just the way it is, or we might decide to do something with it, or we might just hang on to it. I can't really say at this point," said Wilson, who classifies himself as an "idea man" and real estate investor.

"I like to get into things that are fun to do, but at the same time make some money in it. I like projects that are imaginative and different, and that lend themselves to creativity and a little individualism," Wilson explained in a telephone interview from Lake Tahoe where he is vacationing with his family.

But Wilson said it's really "no joke" to him. "There's a possibility there of something. It's a speculative gamble, that's what it is. I think maybe I have a fettish for towns. I just want to develop a town. Maybe that's what my problem is."

The Stanovichs have owned Santa Claus for the past three years, and have lived there for about 1½ years.

Since the town caught the national eye, business has never been so good.

1974 Postal Boost Illegal, Court Says

WASHINGTON (AP) – A federal appeals court has ruled that first-class postage rates were increased illegally in 1974 when they were raised from 8 cents to 10 cents.

But the U.S. Court of Appeals, in an opinion released this week took no action to roll back the rate, which has since been increased to 13 cents.

The same method used as the basis for the 1974 increase was used to support the latest rate hike. The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, which challenged the 1974 increase, is also contesting the jump to 13 cents in a separate case still pending before the appeals court.

The court ruled that the increase to 10 cents was not legal because users of first-class mail bore more than their share of postal costs under the plan.

The Postal Rate Commission justified the 1974 increase on the grounds that raising first-class rates would not discourage use of the mails as much as raising rates for the other three classes of mail, the appeals court said. The law requires each class of postal service to bear its own cost, the court said.

The commission recommends rate increases to the U.S. Postal Service.

Commission attorneys contended there was nothing in the decision to stop the commission from setting rates based on other methods. They said no decision has been made on whether to appeal the court's ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Most mail – cards and letters – is sent first-class. Secondclass mailcovers newspapers and magazines, third-class is for advertising circulars and fourth-class is for packages.

TASK FORCE TO PROBE OIL SPILL PREVENTION

WASHINGTON (AP) – Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. has established a task force to study U.S. marine safety regulations intended to prevent oil spills.

"While I have no reasons to doubt that the recent heavy incidents of marine casualties resulting in pollution of our waters is anything more than a sinister coincidence," said Coleman, "I look to the task force to determine whether every reasonable effort has been made to both prevent these accidents and to minimize their damage."

Coleman also said he wanted to make sure that lessons learned from those accidents are used to head off future spills.

The Secretary appointed his chief counsel, Donald Bliss, as chairman of the task force. The other members are Adm. Owen Siler, commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard; Judith Connor, an assistant secretary of transportation, and Rear Adm. G.H. Patrick Bursley, chief counsel of the Coast Guard.

The task force will examine recent oil spills that polluted waters off Nantucket Island and in the Delaware River at Marcus Hook, Pa.

It will also look into the tanker explosion in the Los Angeles harbor and the tanker grounded off Puerto Rico.

The task force will determine if more legislation is needed to avoid such disasters and to minimize environmental damage after a spill has happened.

Coleman instructed the task force to submit an interim report by Jan. 8, 1977, and a final report upon completion of the study.

Attica Book Closed; 8 Convicts Cleared

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) – Declaring that he was "finally and firmly closing the book" on the 1971 Attica state prison uprising, Gov. Hugh Carey this week granted clemency to the last eight inmates facing penalties for their role in the revolt.

At the same time, Carey announced that the state would take no disciplinary action against 20 law enforcement officers who had been cited by a special prosecutor for possible punishment.

Forty-three men died in the uprising at the fortress-walled prison, including 39 killed by state police gunfire when authorities retook control of the facility from the rebellious inmates.

It was America's bloodiest prison rebellion. It was followed by a long investigation which charged dozens of inmates but never fixed responsibility for what prosecutors said may have been "unjustifiable homicides" by police during the retaking.

Carey said he granted clemency because the state's investigation had been so "one-sided" that it made "the principle and practice of even-handed justice" impossible.

The investigation produced indictments of 62 inmates and only one state trooper. Except for the cases of the eight inmates affected by Carey's clemency, all of the indictments have since been dismissed or have resulted in acquittals.

Dissident Gets Added Sentence

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) – A South Korean dissident already serving a life term for antigovernment activity was sentenced Friday to another seven years in prison on the specific charge that he is a Communist.

The Seoul District Criminal Court convicted Kim Chi-ha on an indictment charging that the 35-year-old internationally known poet entertained Communist class struggle theories and helped the cause of the North Korean regime in violation of South Korea's anti-Communist law.

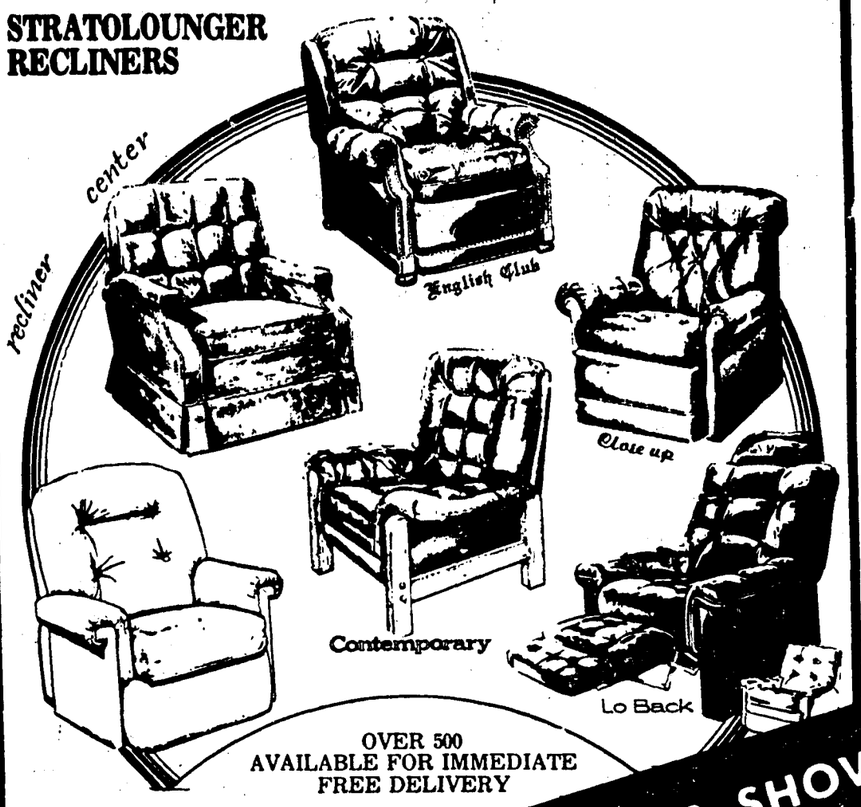

Kim's lawyers said he would appeal even though the additional penalty is technically meaningless since he is already serving a life term.

FDA Requests Extension In Laetrile Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) – The federal Food and Drug Administration has asked for more time to produce material to support its position that the so-called cancer drug Laetrile is a "new drug" and therefore correctly labeled as illegal.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered in October that such a determination be made. Until that determination, the FDA's designation of Laetrile as illegal remains in effect.

The appeals court acted in a government appeal of decisions by U.S. District Court Judge Luther Bohanon of Oklahoma City permitting cancer patients who filed federal suits to import the substance for their own use. The appeals court did not disturb Bohanon's earlier rulings.

Attorneys for the patients had asked the court to order the FDA to provide them with documentation on the reasoning behind its ban on Laetrile.

THERE'S A LIMIT EVEN FOR LINE MARKERS
Road Crew Blunder Cost Two Men Jobs

Chief Draws Line, Fires Road Crew

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) – Two state employes have been fired over a painted road line that zig-zagged for parts of a nine-mile stretch almost two feet off the highway and onto dirt, ice and snow.

The crooked paint job wasted $460 in paint, a Transportation Department spokesman said.

"I could excuse negligence in the sense that someone made a mistake," said Transportation Secretary William Sherlock, explaining why he fired the foreman of the road-painting crew and the operator of the painting vehicle. "But I don't consider nine miles to be a minor mistake. I won't put up with it."

It was not known why the white line, which was sprayed by machine Dec. 6, missed the shoulder on some portions of the road in Crawford County.

"I already got my reprimand from the newspapers," Sherlock said in an interview. "I think PennDOT employes have to recognize that this kind of stuff has got to stop." Photographs of the crooked line appeared in many newspapers across Pennsylvania.

Two PennDOT supervisors for that region also were reprimanded, although they were not directly involved with the line painting, department spokesman Charles Wilson said.

The firings apparently are part of Sherlock's continuing efforts to make PennDOT more efficient and improve its image of being a haven for corruption and do-nothing patronage jobs.

Last June, Sherlock fired five transportation officials under a code of ethics he imposed after assuming the secretary's post in April.

"There's lot of dedicated employes in PennDOT, and I won't let a few ruin the entire reputation of the department," he said.

The fired foreman had been told several times to use more control over his crews, said John Harhigh, director of personnel at PennDOT.

MARINE VS. LAWYER

Pendleton Hearing Stirs Up Tempers

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) – A civilian lawyer has been reprimanded 14 times by a woman Marine handling the pretrial hearing of a black charged with conspiracy and assault.

In response to that, John Murko accused Capt. Nancy York of adopting an "accusatory attitude" and hamstringing his cross-examination.

Murko took nearly four hours cross-examining one prosecution witness, Lance Cpl. Billy J. Lee.

The heated exchange took place Thursday at a hearing for Cpl. Anthony Matthews, 19, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of 13 black Marines charged in the Nov. 13 invasion of a room where they say they believed Ku Klx Klansmen were meeting.

The hearing was continued to Monday along with those of two other blacks, Lance Cpl. Ricky C. McGilvery, 23, of Huntsville, Ala., and Lance Cpl. Gregory Coffee, 21, of Wellston, Mo.

The pretrial hearing for Cpl. Curtis Jones, 21, of Seale, Ala., has been continued to Jan. 18, and the hearing for Sgt. Herman Fletcher, 23, also of Huntsville, was postponed indefinitely. His military attorney was reported ill.

No decision has been made on whether courts-martial trials will be held for the blacks. In the only trial held so far Cpl. E. F. Henry pleaded guilty Wednesday to assault and was sentenced to three months at hard labor, a $600 fine over four months and reduction in rank to private.

Attorney Keith represented both Miss Van Houten and Watson during the LaBianca-Sharon Tate murder trial in 1970.

Miss Van Houten was not charged in the murders of Miss Tate and four others at the home of movie director Roman Polanski the night before the LaBiancas were stabbed to death.

KUSC Seeks Whistlers For Show Sunday

KUSC-FM 91.5 and its listeners will take part in a live, two-hour nationwide broadcast from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, designed to create a composition of listeners' whistles modified electronically under the direction of composer Max Neugaus.

Entitled " Radio Net, " the program will present the sounds of listeners transmitted over thousands of miles of phone lines which connect 190 stations.

Nehaus will direct the program from NPR headquarters in Washington, D.C.. Requesting listeners to call in whistles to five regional locations, he is arranging automatically answered phones to transmit the sounds through frequency shifters inserted on the network interconnect.

The telephoned sounds will multiply as they circle the network and will shift as they pass each intersection point. In addition to KUSC, other insertion locations are in Atlanta, Minneapolis, Dallas, and New York City.

Nehaus was an internationally - known percussionist in the mid - 1960's before he dropped mallets and sticks in favor of encironmental electronics and circuit design. Since then his " new music " compositions have been realized in underwater concerts, sidewalk installations, along roads, and at New York subway.

In 1966 he performed his first radio composition, " Public Supply," using listener sounds telephoned in to a single station and broadcast live. The production won a 1973 Peabody Award when it was presented at WFMT in Chicago.

Release Of Sex Offenders

conviction for the sex crime.

In the past, an MDSO commitment was indeterminate, and a person could be kept in a mental hospital until deemed no longer a danger to himself or society.

Don Kiel, liason officer at Patton State Mental Hospital in San Bernardino, said there are many persons, mostly men, now in custody at the hospital who have served more than the maximum time they would have spent in prison on the original conviction.

These men, he said, are entitled to be released under the law change.

A spokesman for the Department of Health said that the problem of releasing the mentally ill sex offenders will be even more acute on July 1, when the new determinate sentencing bill, passed by the state legislature this year, goes into effect.

That bill lowers the maximum time a convict can spend in prison.

For example, under the old sentencing law a man convicted of forcible rape could be sentenced to state prison for 15 years to life.

Under the new determinate sentence bill, the same man would face a prison term of only three, four or five years.

Therefore, Kiel explained, sex offenders originally convicted of forcible rape and then declared MDSO can now spend a maximum of five years in a mental hospital.

After that he must be released even if he is not cured.

Kiel said there are ways to attempt to keep the mentally ill sex offender off the streets longer, but he said these probably will not work effectively.

For example, Kiel said, the jurisdiction which originally sentenced the sex offender could institute a conservatorship hearing for the individual in an attempt to have him declared unable to care for himself and thus require convalescent home commitment.

However, Kiel said, "90 per cent" of the MDSOs at Patton are legally sane and able to care for themselves. He said the requirement to force a conservatorship on an individual is that he be deemed unfit to provide food, clothing and shelter for himself.

"Just because he is a mentally disordered sex offender does not mean that he cannot provide food, clothing and shelter," Kiel said.

Another problem, said an Orange County official who asked not to be identified, is that a convalescent home is not a mental hospital, and a person can easily escape.

Kiel said there are approximately 700 persons now in state mental hospitals under an MDSO commitment, including about 45 from Orange County.

All will have to have their commitments recomputed by the courts to establish the date they are entitled to be released.

The exact procedure for that recomputation, Kiel said, has not yet been determined, "The law is very vague," he said.

Most of the work on the recomputation will be done by Superior Court Judge James H. Walsworth, presiding judge of the court's criminal division, and Deputy Dist. Atty. Paul Meyer, who will make recommendations as to the ultimate disposition of the case.

Also expected to be called into the problem are the public guardian, if conservatorship procedings are instituted: the county director of mental health, and state mental hospitals.

Larry Smith of the state public defender's office, is given credit by Assemblyman Brown's office for drafting the bill that changed the law.

Smith, contacted in Sacramento, said intent of the law was to clean up MDSO procedures, and to update state law in line with recent state Supreme Court decisions

Smith said that for many years MDSO was used to lock up misdemeanor offenders for life. For example; Smith said, a person committed as an MDSO is sent to a state hospital for treatment. If that hospital determines the person cannot be treated, the person could be placed in a state prison on an open-ended sentence.

Puerto Rico

maximum self-government and self-determination.

But the chief executive said the proposed compact would not "advance as rapidly as it might freedom and opportunity for the American citizens of Puerto Rico."

Ford's proposed statehood legislation would have to be approved by the new Congress, which convenes Tuesday. It could not complete action on the legislation before Ford leaves office Jan. 20.

Puerto Rico's governor-elect, Carlos Romero Barcelo, said Friday the main task of his administration will be to advise Puerto Rican voters on the advantages of statehood.

Romero, who will be installed Sunday as Puerto Rico's fifth governor, made the statement in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press shortly before President Ford announced he would recommend legislation to make Puerto Rico the 51st state of the United States.

"We will talk. We will educate. We will try to convince people this (statehood) is best for them," Romero said.

He said he favors statehood as the best solution to Puerto Rico's "status dilemma," but added, "I have a commitment not to be pushing for statehood until we are well on the way to economic recovery."

Puerto Rico currently suffers from over 20 per cent unemployment, declining local and foreign investments and a low economic growth rate.

Court Retains Ban

SAN DIEGO (AP) – A federal judge refused Friday to issue a temporary restraining order lifting the ban on porpoise deaths which has kept U.S. tuna fishermen in port.

Tanker Grounding Incident Outlined

NEW YORK (AP) – The engine-room flooding that lodged the tanker Argo Merchant helpless on a shoal occurred when the captain slammed the ship full speed in reverse, the chief engineer testified Friday.

Deep water in the engine room was a critical factor in preventing rescuers from freeing the loaded tanker before it broke in two and gushed out its cargo, the Coast Guard has said.

The engineer, Panagiotis Sotiriou, testified at a hearing in New York's Southern District federal court about the shipwreck Dec. 15 off Nantucket Island.

He said that when the tanker struck the shoal, the captain reversed engines to try to free it. But the ship shook so violently that a valve burst and sea water poured into the engine room.

The engine room was in the very rear of the ship, and the vessel grounded just forward of it.

The Coast Guard said the weight of the water in the engine room prevented it from floating it free of the shoal and the water's weight contributed to the eventual break up of the vessel.

The crew and later the Coast Guard tried unsuccessfully to pump out the water. But Sotiriou said that after a few hours, oil began to seep in and mix with the rising water.

The valve that broke brought in sea water to cool steam that had passed through the ship's turbines.

Repaired Tanker Led To Anchorage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) – The Liberian tanker Olympic Games was escorted by the Coast Guard on Friday to an anchorage in the Delaware River where it spilled 134,000 gallons of oil last Monday.

Before moving to the anchorage, the ship underwent repairs at the BP Inc. refinery in Marcus Hook, 15 miles south of here, for a six-inch hole ripped in its hull as it maneuvered Monday to a BP dock.

The Coast Guard said the ship apparently lost power in the maneuver. Light Arabian crude oil spilled from the hole created a 34-mile slick at the height on the incident.

Minor power outages were reported late Friday by the Edison Co.

Five Edison service areas in Garden Grove suffered outages because of lightning striking transformers. Four were immediately back in service with emergency back-up systems. Power in the fifth service area was down for 30 minutes and affected approximately 1,700 customers, according to a company spokesman. More outages are expected and service crews are on the job to repair them the spokesman said.

MANY GET HONORS

Militant Unionist Knighted By Queen

LONDON (AP) – One of Britain's toughest trade union chiefs and militant president of the 130,000-member Boilermakers' Union was knighted Friday in Britain's New Year's Honors list to become Sir Daniel McGarvey.

From the other end of Britain's social spectrum, Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth II, was named Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order – a personal knighthood from the Queen.

Most of the New Year Honors, as is the custom, are conferred by the queen on the advice of the prime minister, currently Laborite James Callaghan, but the Order of the Garter, the Order of the Thistle, the Order of Merit and the Royal Victorian Order are at the queen's personal discretion.

An OBE – Order of the British Empire – went to Douglas Hughes, director of the White-chapel Bell Foundry which made the five-ton bell that was a bicentennial gift to the United States.

The honors were widely spread, from Brian Faulkner, former premier of Britain's strifetorn province of Northern Ireland, who was made a baron for life, to comedian Frankie Howard, who got an OBE.

Elevated to the Privy Council, a top British advisory and judicial body, were Sir John Robert Kerr, controversial governor-general of Australia; John Michael Manningham Adams, premier of Barbados; Eric Matthew Gairy, premier of Grenada; Philip Reginald Lynch, treasurer for Australia; Ian McCahon Sinclair, Minister for Primary Industry of Australia; Michael Thomas Somare, premier of Papua New Guinea, and Brian Edward Talboys, deputy premier of New Zealand.

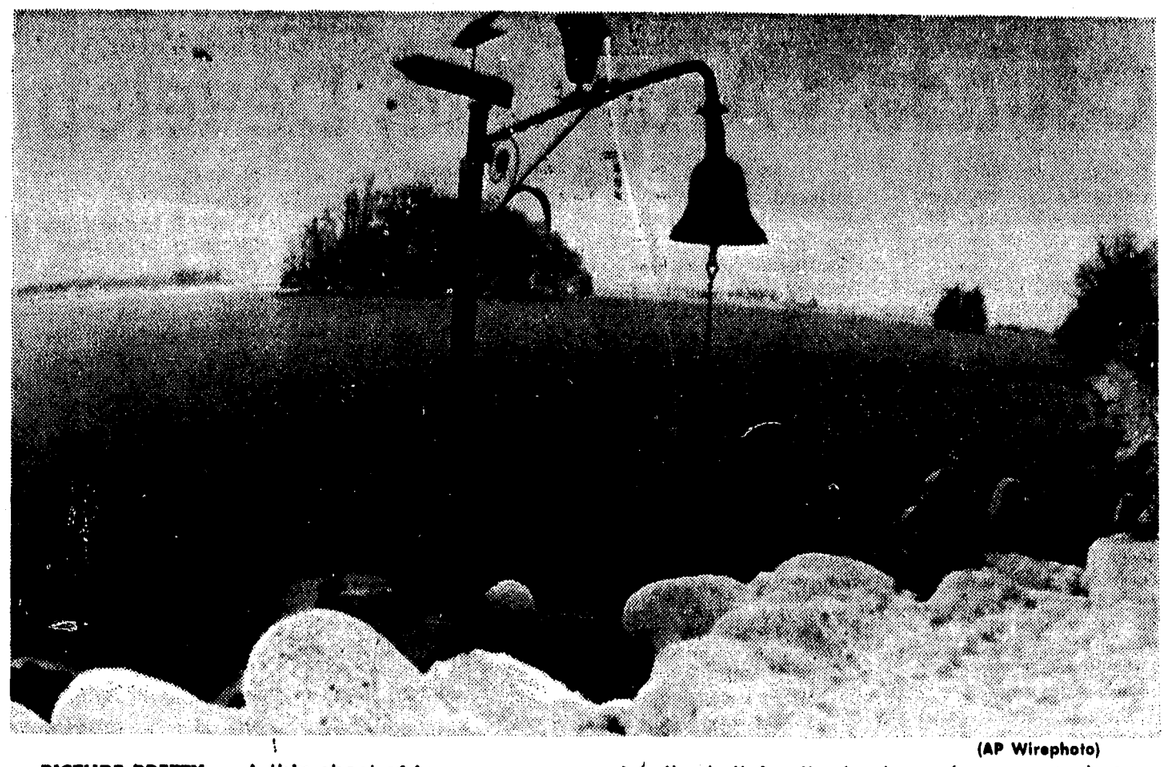

Peter Wakefield, British ambassador who proposed a toast to Queen Elizabeth on the balcony of his Beirut residence while a battle raged in the city last July, was knighted, Lancelot Victor Dawson, who holds the ancient title of Yeoman Bed Hanger, was honored by the queen with the gold Royal Victorian Medal. His title dates from the time when the yeomen of the guard were personally responsible for the sovereign's comfort while traveling the realm.

Frederick John Turk, keeper of her majesty's swans and cygnets on the River Thames, was made a Member of the Royal Victorian Order – MVO – as was Capt. James Robert Mason, Royal Marines, director of music in the royal yacht Britannia.

Samuel Twining, ninth generation member of the Twining tea merchants family, who says he drinks 12 cups of tea each day, was appointed an Officer of the Order of the British Empire – OBE – for his services to exports.

An MBE – Member of the Order of the British Empire – went to Reginald White, a British gold medal winner at the Montreal Olympics, where he skippered the British boat to victory in the Tornado class.

Fred Titmus, one of the greatest all-round cricketers of modern times, who went on playing after losing four toes in a boating accident, also was made an MBE. Titmus, who scored more than 20,000 runs and took 2,700 wickets in a career that included 53 test matches for England, played for Middlesex for 28 seasons.

HEADED COMPANY

Israel Embarrased By Nazi Incident

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) – Israel has been embarrased and outraged to discover that an ex-Nazi served until recently in the management of a company controlled by the Israeli government.

Wolfgang Wick was a member of the Austrian Nazi party and served in Nazi elite SS forces during World War II. Later he invested heavily in Israel, visited the Jewish state frequently and served for five years as chairman of the board of Periclass, an Israeli chemical company.

Wick's Periclass appointment was a blunder, Minister of Commerce and Industry Haim Bar-Lev said in parliament this week when three resolutions condemning Wick's involvement with Israel were submitted.

One member of parliament suggested that the government should have moved to arrest Wick when he visited Israel in November.

"We have a law calling for apprehension and trial of Nazis and their collaborators," said parliamentarian Shmuel Tamir in debate. "Why wasn't this law enforced with Wick?"

Wick resigned his position when he retired from business last July. His Nazi past had come to light five months earlier, and Tamir demanded to know why Wick wasn't immediately dismissed from Periclass.

"The main problem is how he could continue to serve after documents were found showing his Nazi party membership," said Hillel Seidel, of the independent Liberal party.

Seidel, like thousands of Israelis, is a survivor of the Nazi death camps. "I lost my entire family to the Nazis," he said in an interview. "I can never accept Wick's involvement in Israel."

Mordecai Makleff, who heads the Israeli government company which controls Periclass, said the incident has been blown out of proportion. "Wick represented Austrian interests which owned 30 per cent of Periclass," Makleff said in an interview.

"He came to us highly recommended by two leading Austrian Jews, and anyway he retired five months ago. The whole thing is past history."

Wick's Nazi past was revealed last February when he ran for president of Rotary International. Dutch Rotarians who had belonged to the underground in World War II bitterly opposed his nomination, and Israeli Rotary clubs joined the fight. Wick withdrew his nomination, but did not cut his business ties with Israel.

"If a Nazi says, 'I'm sorry. I made a mistake,' I can accept that," said Seidel. "But Wick tried to hide his Nazi involvement, and it was only discovered by chance."

Wick found no supporters in parliament, and Israeli business leaders preferred not to comment.

Cabs Rolling Again In Oceanside, San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Yellow Cabs will roll again today in both San Diego and Oceanside after having been idle for a month, the president of the Westgate-California subsidiary says.

Sale of the companies for $839,000 was approved Thursday by Bankruptcy Judge Herbert Katz.

The buyer, Western States Transportation, Inc., a subsidiary of Ocean Salt Co., won transfer of the 280 cab permits from the San Diego City Council on Wednesday. Donald Swortwood and his wife Letitia are listed as owners of Ocean Salt.

An application for renewal of Yellow Cab's five-year franchise in Oceanside was filed Thursday with the Oceanside City Council after the council threatened to award the franchise for 23 cabs to another taxi company.

Yellow Cab halted operations in six California cities and Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 1 when it was unable to obtain liability insurance. The 12 subsidiaries filed for bankruptcy court protection Dec. 21.

The bankruptcy judge ordered Westgate trustee Herbert Kunzel to impound $200,000 of the proceeds for former owners of the San Diego and Oceanside companies, who sold them to Westgate in 1973 and have yet to be paid.

At least $67,000 of Swortwood's down payment also was ordered set aside to pay back wages and vacation pay due drivers

Carter Asks Backing In Holiday Message

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) – President-elect Carter arranged for a quiet New Year's Eve celebration at home Friday after asking the American people for support "in the new responsibilities I soon will assume."

Carter also is seeking suggestions from the public at large on how he can remain in contact with ordinary citizens to avoid the isolation from popular opinion experienced by many occupants of the Oval Office.

New Law To Limit Mexicans In U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) – A new U.S. immigration law goes into effect today sharply reducing the number of Mexicans allowed to reside in the United States and disqualifying thousands of others in the Western Hemisphere who would have been eligible for U.S. residency under the outgoing law.

The new law cuts from 40,000 to 20,000 the number of Mexicans allowed each year to receive residency visas for the United States.

The new law also omits from immigration preference the alien parents of children born in the United States.

A similar law for the Eastern Hemisphere has been in effect for several years.

Until now if a mother from a country in the Western Hemisphere were visiting the United States and gave birth to a child while there, the parents were given preference over many other applicants in applying for U.S. residence visas.

Under the new law, the child of the alien parents will still be considered a U.S. citizen, but the child itself must apply for U.S. residence status for the parents, and that cannot be done until the child is 21.

Under the new law, the children of U.S. citizens born abroad and who became foreign nationals will be given the highest preference in applying for U.S. residence visas.

A permanent residence visa in the United States is much sought after in Latin America. The visas do not have to be renewed each year and such visas usually lead to aliens becoming naturalized U.S. citizens.

There are 300,000 persons in Western Hemisphere countries now on waiting lists for U.S. residency visas. The number of Western Hemisphere aliens given U.S. residency visas each year – 120,000 – will remain the same.

After children of U.S citizens, those given preference for visas would be:

– The spouse or unmarried children of resident aliens.

– Persons with highly important professional status, such as doctors.

– Adult married children of U.S. citizens who hold foreign citizenship.

– Brothers and sisters of adult U.S. citizens.

– Skilled or unskilled labor applicants.

– Refugees.

An Austin, Tex., lawyer, Jim Tom Haines, who handles immigration cases, said in Mexico City that the 20,000 quota for Mexico probably would already be filled by the time skilled or unskilled labor applicants would be considered.

Jailed Americans End Hunger Strike

MEXICO CITY (AP) – Most of the 100 Americans who went on a hunger strike Dec. 4 in Mexican prisons to protest the lack of paroles for drug offenders have ended their fasts, a spokesman says.

At least five other inmates continued not eating or subsisting on a daily diet of a few pieces of fruit.

"Almost all of us have started eating again," said Phillip Millard of Alameda, Calif., at Mexico City's Santa Marta prison.

Millard said the strikers started eating again when it was learned that the Mexican congress would not pass the parole legislation before the current session ends Dec. 31.

About 20 hunger strikers started eating earlier this week when a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy told one prisoner Mexican officials had indicated the legislation would be passed by week's end.

Another prisoner, 38-year-old Jim Otani of Hilo, Hawaii, said he and at least four other prisoners were continuing to fast in hopes the Mexican congress might act or that a special session might be called this month.

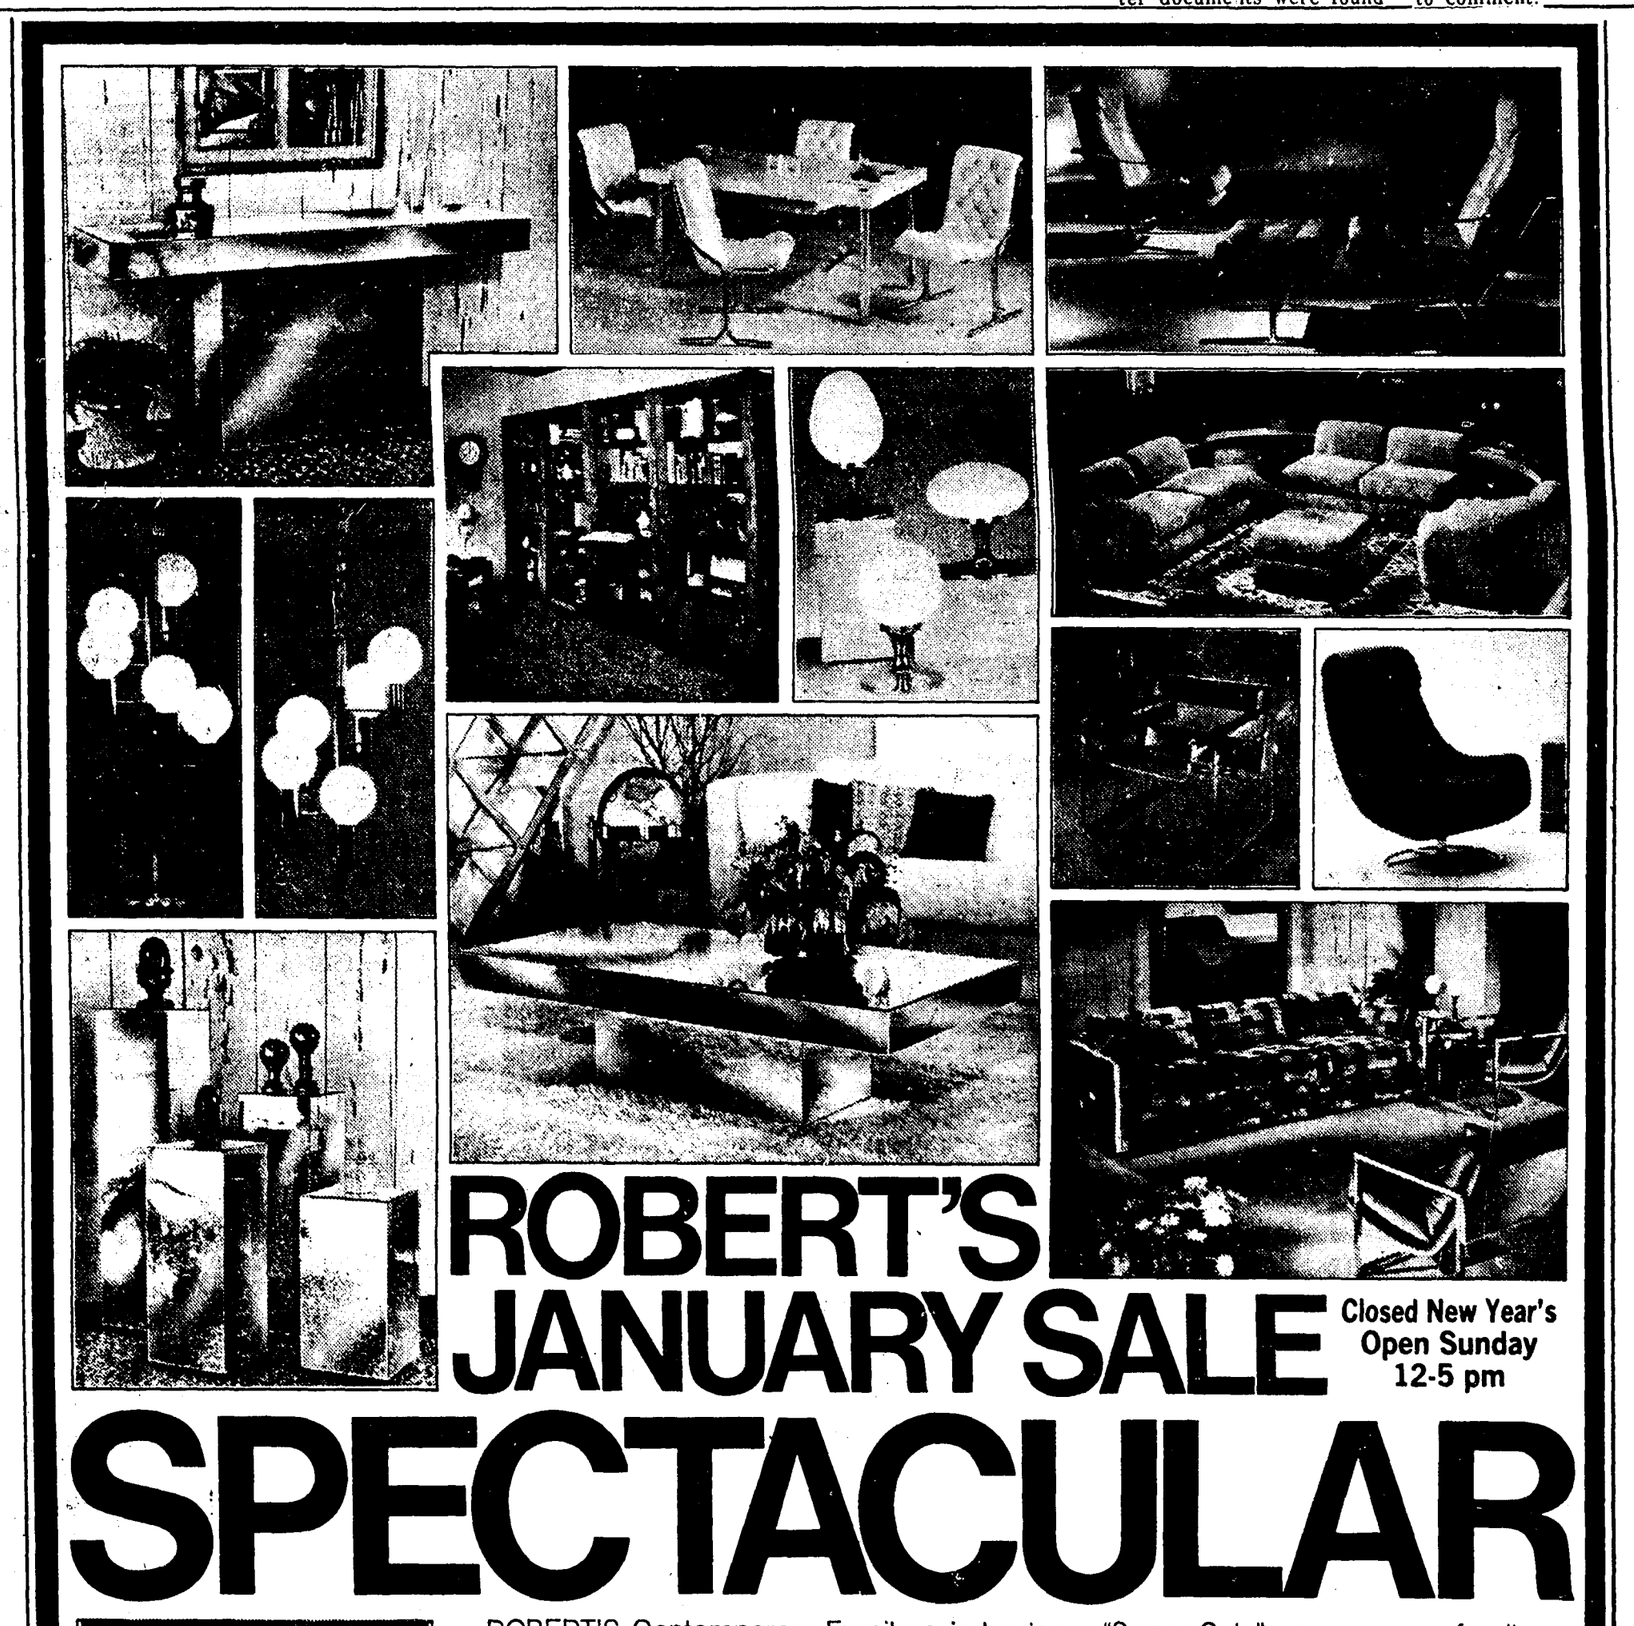

Otani said others he knew to be fasting were Ernie Machado of Los Angeles, Fred Ostikoff of Vancouver, Canada, James Dean Brown of San Francisco, and Robert Fischer of Omaha, Neb.

"There may be others still on the strike, but we haven't checked with everyone yet," Otani said.

Otani, whose skin hangs on his bones, said his weight has fallen from 135 to 95 pounds. He is also breaking out with a rash.

"My bones and my muscles ache all the time, so I've started eating soup and drinking fruit juices," he said. "I'm not a martyr. I'd like to live. But I'm doing this sincerely.

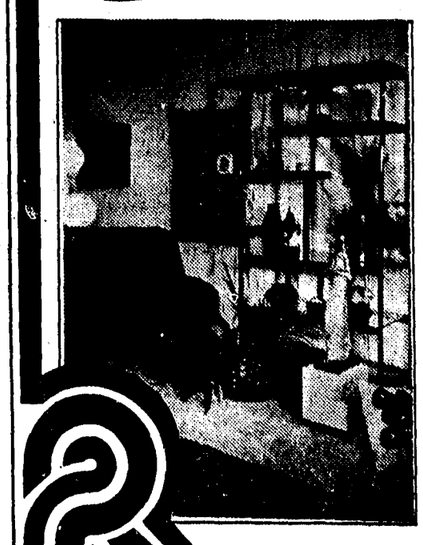

"We've paid for our crimes and now we're just wasting away here and getting farther and farther way from every being able to be normal people out on the street again," he said.

Gas, Oil Under Canada's Arctic Ice, Development But Costly

By PETER ARNETT
Last In A Series

MELVILLE ISLAND, Arctic Sea (AP) – It's down there somewhere, under land permanently frozen half a mile deep: 20 billion barrels of oil, and 40 trillion to 240 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. That is what the geologists claim.

But increasing numbers of Canadians are beginning to realize that their dreams of vast, needed energy resources waiting to be plucked from the barren icelands by modern technology are still largely wishful thinking.

There has been dramatic exploration. Oil rigs have been tussling with 700-foot tall floating ice mountains in "Iceberg Alley" off the Labrador coast. Divers have been on the ocean floor 1,000 feet below the surface of the Arctic Sea to emplace equipment.

There have been some tantilizing finds to justify some of the hundreds of millions of dollars sunk into the search. What is described as one of the best gas wells in the world has been drilled on King Christian Island in the High Arctic. When it is flared for visitors, the flame can be seen from 50 miles away. The Mackenzie River Delta quickly revealed a billion barrels of oil when exploration moved into high gear three years ago.

The unhappy reality for Canadians and the multinational companies financing the work, however, is that the finds so far are nowhere near as significant as fields in the Alaskan North Slope, and the British North Sea. None of the energy resources so far discovered in northern Canada can yet be economically marketed, a situation also disquieting to northern-tier Americans who have grown totally dependent on Canadian natural gas.

The situation could further deteriorate for these reasons, according to oil industry and government officials:

– A money shortage. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent on Canadian arctic exploration so far for no dollar return, and much more capital is required, particularly to build the pipelines to bring it to markets in the south.

– There are serious questions about whether there will be enough oil and gas up there to justify the enormous exploration costs.

– Canadian federal government moves to chop away at foreign ownership of the oil companies with tough new regulations is lessening industry enthusiasm for the energy search.

– Emerging political awareness of the native Indians and Eskimos who populate part of the sparse arctic lands threatens to delay or stop exploration and transportation plans.

"In Canada many people still think that great multinational companies are jostling each other to invest in Canadian energy," U.S. Ambassador Thomas Enders told an Ottawa audience recently. "In fact, the energy opportunities and returns are more attractive elsewhere, including the United States," he said.

Huge costs, staggering even to the multinational corporations, are common in the inhospitable arctic. Drilling in the Beauford Sea off the Mackenzie Delta cost the industry $30 million per hole, the most costly single projects ever drilled, according to the Bank of Montreal.

Dome Petroleum this year began a $500 million project, gambling that oil and gas lie under the Beaufort Sea, but other multinationals have cooled off to the once-golden Mackenzie Delta region, and are considering joining the Canadian government in the High Arctic archipelago.

"Just $100 million more and we could cross our gas threshold of 20 trillion cubic feet needed to justify a pipeline," said Charles Hertherington, president of Panarctic Oil, a consortium of 29 companies that has spent half of the $500 million already invested in High Arctic exploration. Panarctic claims to have tapped 15 trillion feet of gas so far.

Other companies have dropped out of the Arctic Islands. Drilling in 1976 was around 75,000 feet compared to 220,000 feet in 1973. "But the expenditure so far is a mere pittance compared to what future costs are going to be," said I. H. Mackay, oil and gas manager of the Bank of Montreal in Calgary, Alberta.

The Polar Gas pipeline, one of five proposals for transporting oil and gas south from the arctic, would cost $10 billion for the 3,000-mile trip to Canadian and American natural gas markets. Multibillion dollar sums are also mentioned for the other four pipeline proposals, including the once-favored joint Canada-U.S. pipeline down the Mackenzie River Valley that seems to have fallen into disfavor.

Exploration attention is now centered on two arctic regions – the islands, and the eastern coastal waters off Labrador. The Arctic Islands are one of North America's last frontier regions. They sit almost at the top of the world, encased most of the year in ice. Polar bears amble across the generally monotonous landscape of flat and rolling terrain, sometimes attacking man. Four oil workers have been killed by polar bears in the past three years.

White wolves frolic with dogs in the drilling camps.

Musk ox appear on distant ridge lines. One new well on Cameron Island was to be drilled 100 feet from the large bleached skeleton of a whale that a government naturalist said had probably lain undisturbed for 5,000 years.

Cairns of rocks left by explorers dot some of the coves. A Panarctic drilling crew recently found a bottle left on a beach by a French explorer in 1906 containing his last will and testament addressed to his daughter, and a St. Christopher medal.

Seven large gas fields have been discovered so far, and one well on Cameron Island yields around 5,000 barrels of oil a day.

Headquarters for Panarctic exploration is Rea Point on Melville Island, 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The camp is a cluster of mobile homes and house trailers, sealed together to ward off the winter cold of 40 degrees below zero.

For the workers, two weeks of duty in the High Arctic is followed by a week at home. A top equipment operator can make $30,000 a year.

Off the Canadian east coast, exploration has been moving steadily northward after disappointing results off Nova Scotia and the Grand Banks.

Discoveries in the deep and hostile waters in "Iceberg Alley" off Labrador have been more optimistic, and Eastcan Ltd., a consortium, has made two gas strikes from four wells, and hopes for a commercial discovery within the next five years.

The area is aptly named. An estimated 400 icebergs, some a mile long, others up to eight million tons in weight, travel each year down the Labrador coast. One like these sank the Titanic in 1912.

Canadian nationalism has directly affected the oil industry. The government is seeking a major part of the Canadian oil industry, 90 per cent of which is currently owned by foreigners, mainly Americans.

Canadian partners must now be taken to produce newly found fields. Long-term leasing has ended, and royalty payments have been altered. "The government has just pulled the rug from under northern development; drilling on federal land will almost come to a halt," complained one industry observer.

Preferential treatment is being given Petro-Canada, a government-owned energy corporation, that is moving into exploration on a large scale.

The political awareness of the Indians and Eskimos in the Arctic region have been heightened by the energy search. Peace treaties did not give the federal government full title to the land, and now both the Eskimos and Indians have asked for provinces of their own. If both claims were granted, more than a third of Canada would revert to the indigenous peoples.

Water Project Hearings Set

LAGUNA NIGUEL – A series of public hearings will be held Jan. 19 to discuss a supplemental project report and supplemental environmental impact report dealing with construction of the Aliso Water Management Agency (AWMA) regional wastewater treatment project.

The hearings will be held at 3:30, 6, 7:30 and 10 p.m. in Niguel Hills Junior High School, 29071 Paseo Escuela.

The reports outline the pros and cons of the two major alternatives for construction of wastewater facilities.

One of the alternatives calls for centralized treatment facilities and the other outlines plans for a decentralized system.

Recently, AWMA awarded Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Arcadia a $5,285,000 contract for construction of a 48-inch ocean outfall to be located off South Laguna's Aliso Beach. Work is expected to begin soon after the first of the year and take one year to complete.

AWMA members include Los Alisos Water District, El Toro Water District, Moulton Niguel Water District, South Coast County Water District, Laguna Beach, Emerald Bay Service District and Irvine Ranch Water District.

CARING FOR YOUR CAR

Emergency Tools A Motoring Must

By RAY HILL

Emergency tools – most people don't have them. But they should. By carrying just a few basic items in the trunk of your car, you're more likely to be able to take care of a breakdown (or at least rig up a temporary fix that will put you on the road again).

If you don't have these items lying around, you don't have to go out and buy them all at once. You can collect them gradually, say one a week, until you have them all.

First off, locking pliers. You've probably seen these before. Basically it's just a set of pliers with gripping jaws that can be adjusted to varying widths and then locked in position. You can adjust them so that the clamping force exerted by the jaws is very strong.

It's amazing how versatile locking pliers are. They can be used for everything from holding up an exhaust system with a broken hanger to acting as a temporary replacement for a broken pulley bracket in the engine compartment. In cross-country motorcycle competition, where bikes naturally tend to get battered and bent, I've seen locking pliers used for a multitude of purposes, including being a substitute rear brake lever, and as a replacement nut to hold an axle in.

Locking pliers are one of the best investments you can make. Their versatility is unexcelled, both at home and as an emergency tool on the road.

And get a small roll of wire – five or 10 feet – at your local hardware store It costs only a few cents, and can be used for everything from a temporary hose to a temporary replacement for a broken gasoline tank strap, the strap that holds the gas tank up. On older cars it sometimes breaks due to rust.

DUCT-TAPE. This stuff is so versatile that it belongs in any tool kit. It's the silver-color tape used in working with heating ducts. But it probably gets used more for other purposes than that.

It's available at hardware stores and auto-parts stores. You can use it to hold components in place, tape broken glass, hold things closed, temporarily fix a leaking water hose, and so forth. If you use it as a temporary fix for a broken water hose, be sure to loosen the radiator cap so that pressure can't build up and force water through the tape. Remember, if you have to remove the radiator cap to add water and the engine is hot, use a rag to cover the cap, and turn it clockwise slowly until the first click. Wait till all the pressure is released from the system before removing the cap.

REFLECTORS OR FLARES. You want something to warn other motorists that you've broken down. They're not just for nighttime use, either. In daylight, if you happen to be parked just around a blind curve and aren't off the road, you'll want to put them out around the curve to warn other motorists something's wrong ahead, right?

Reflectors or flares are inexpensive. And if you don't think they're a good investment, just look up the statistics on how many people are injured and killed each year because they were pulled off to the side of the road and didn't warn approaching motorists of their presence.

FLASHLIGHT. And in addition to the flashlight, another useful item is one of those clamps that photographers use to hold lights in place. They're available in some photography stores and some department stores. If you can't find one, you can usually use duct tape to hold the light in place (for example, taping the light to the hood or the side of a fender or even to a rock).

Also it's a good idea to include an adjustable wrench, a few screwdrivers (both Phillips and standard), pliers and a first-aid kit. Yes, a first-aid kit. That way you can take care of any little scratches or knicks you may incur while fumbling around in the dark. The first-aid kit can also be useful for small injuries you might receive in minor fender benders.

Old Man Avon

The word "avon" originally meant "river" or "stream" in Celtic. It is today the name of several rivers in England and Scotland, including the one which flows through Stratford, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

Headline Makers Emerge

Unknown When Year Began, They Became Newsworthy In 1976

NEW YORK (AP) – From Peking to Stockholm and from Montreal to Washington, new faces – unknown to most of us on Jan. 1, 1976 – made headlines during the bicentennial year.

Here is a sampling of them – many young and many still newsworthy on Jan. 1, 1977.

A Capitol Hill secretary raised a bigger stir in Washington than anyone else unknown when 1976 began.

Last May, Elizabeth Ray said that Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio was her lover and had fixed her up with a job where she did no typing and took no dictation.

Democrat Hays, one of the most powerful men in Congress, lost the chairmanship of the House Administration Committee, nearly died of a drug overdose and finally retired.

As for Liz, she got $12,500 for a ghost-written, fictionalized version of her experience – "The Washington Fringe Benefit," covered the Republican convention for Genesis and flopped in a Chicago stage revival of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

"1977 has got to be better," she says. "If things don't go well for me in acting, I have no alternatives. I'll starve."

On the international scene, 1976 saw the emergence of Hua Kuo-feng – who met his first American last January – as successor to Mao Tse-tung in the post of chairman of the Chinese Communist party.

Although little known in the West, Hua, 57, had been a longtime protege of Mao who admired his work in improving agriculture in central Hsiangtan county during the 1950's.

Last February he became acting premier upon the death of Chou En-lai and was named last October to succeed Mao who had died the month before.

The youngest new star of 1976 shot over the Iron Curtain at the Montreal Olympics. She's Nadia Comaneci, 15, whose perfect 10 on the opening night of the gymnastics schedule was the first ever awarded in Olympic competition.

The pony-tailed Romanian went on to win three gold medals, one silver and one bronze. Now she's a Heroine of Socialist Labor in her native land and starred here in an hour-long television special about women's gymnastics.

Bruce Jenner used to think it was a good day if 125 people came out to watch him compete in a track meet. But 68,000 were in the Montreal stadium and millions of others watched on television as he won the 1976 Olympics decathlon with a record total of 8,618 points.

The gold medal for the 10 events carried with it the title World's Greatest Athlete, but Jenner, 25, settled down to train for the 11th event – his future.

He and his wife Crystie say they plan to be very careful and not jump too fast on the money-wagon as some other sports stars did.

"I feel I've built up a lot of credibility as an athlete," he said. "I don't want to do anything to tarnish that."

Just a year ago, Dorothy Hamill was on the ice practicing seven hours a day, six days a week.

"On the seventh day I took ballet lessons," said the 19 year-old skater from Riverside, Conn., whose skill and dedication led to the Olympic gold medal and the world championship.

The grueling practice sessions behind her, she's making $2 million a year skating five minutes a show, nine shows a week, 25 weeks a year in the Ice Capades.

Chevy Chase, long a wellknown suburb of Washington, D.C., became a well-known suburb of prime-time television this past year in the person of a 33-year-old comedian known to his friendly tax collector as Cornelius Crane Chase.

The pratfall king, whose philosophy is "nothing is offensive if it's laughable," became the nation's arbiter of bad taste on NBC's "Saturday Night."

As he clowned his way to shine as a top new TV star, he also established a new theory – a lot of people will watch television at midnight on Saturday if there is something worth watching.

From Moscow, Soviet pianist Lazar Berman burst on the American musical scene in 1976 with greater impact than anyone since Vladimir Horowitz.

"He accomplishes his miracles with a minimum of fuss," wrote Harold Schonberg in the New York Times after Berman's first Carnegie Hall concert, "but he has the ability to drive audiences into a frenzy."

Berman, who made his debut in Leningrad in 1934 when he was only 4 years old, came to the United States in January 1976 and was such a sensation that he is already making his third American tour.

Silvia Sommerlath made the most spectacular social leap of the year – from West German commoner to Queen of Sweden.

The 32-year-old dark-haired beauty is the daughter of a retired German businessman and a Spanish noblewoman. Brought up in Brazil, she became fluent in Portugese, Spanish, English and French as well as German.

Her language skills helped get her the job of chief hostess at the 1972 Olympic games in Munich, and indirectly her new rank.

It was at the Olympics that she met King Carl XVI Gustav who wooed her in a jet-set courtship all over Europe. They were married last April.

Broadway discovered during 1976 that black is beautiful at the box office, too, and with seven black shows on the boards – four more open soon – some are calling it "The Great Black Way."

It's a whole new theatrical kingdom and its queen is the high-kicking Vivian Reed who belts out songs in "Bubbling Brown Sugar" with a vim and verve that could shake chandeliers.

A year ago the daughter of a Pittsburgh maintenance worker lived in three small Harlem rooms, eeking out a living singing pop after studying for three years at Juilliard.

Now she's a Broadway star, a guest on television shows, a model for fashion magazines and veteran of a command performance for princess Grace of Monaco.

Up in her 38th floor luxury apartment, she enjoys an ultimate status symbol – reading and rejecting movie scripts.

Residential Units Slated In 'Minster

WESTMINSTER – Commercial development and high density multiple residential units are planned for nearly 19 acres northeast of Westminster Avenue and Edwards Street.

Rezoning 15.6 acres of the property for residential planned development with 19 to 24 units per acre and 3.3 acres to general business has been approved by the city council. The commercial development is planned along Westminster Avenue.

The multiple residential units will be built east of Edwards in the area being rezoned from single family residential and low density multiple units.

Spokesmen for the property owners favoring rezoning said the residences were getting old and dilapidated and the cost to rehabilitate them would be high. The rezoning to high density multiple units would give the owners an opportunity to develop their properties, they said.

The rezoning was initiated by the planning commission which favored a slightly lower density of 15 to 18 units per acre. A petition requesting heavy multiple zoning for their properties had been signed by 34 land owners and presented to the commission.

Orange Okays End To Fire Boundaries

ORANGE – The city council has authorized an agreement between the city and county to eliminate fire jurisdiction boundaries in east Orange.

The agreement will go before the Orange County Board of Supervisors Tuesday where it is expected to be approved, said a city official.

The council vote was 3 – 0 with councilmen Jess Perez and Don Smith absent. Monthly reports on a one – year trial of the program will be made to councilmen.

Dropping the boundary has been discussed since July and approved by council, but it ran into snags in its bid for approval by the board of supervisors.

The boundary elimination is expected to save $500,000 in tax funds the first year by making construction and staffing of a new fire station unnecessary.

Councilman Jim Beam said about $150,000 for operating costs would be saved annually by utilizing the existing county station in east Orange and retaining the Villa Park Volunteer Fire Department.

SA To Eye Adult Show Moratorium

SANTA ANA – A proposed moratorium on expansion or construction of "adult" facilities in the city, including movie theaters, book stores and massage parlors, is scheduled to be considered by city councilmen Monday.

The proposed moratorium would also include hotels and motels that show adult films.

City Attorney Keith Gow said the proposed four-month moratorium is designed to give councilmen time to decide if they want to enact permanent amendments to the zoning code regulating adult uses.

Brea and Buena Park, Gow said, have adopted similar moratoriums but have not yet adopted permanent zoning regulations.

The moratorium stemmed from "indications" from the council that they might be interested in zoning measures adopted in Detroit and Boston, according to Gow.

The Detroit measure imposes distance requirements between adult theaters and adult bookstores, for example, while the Boston measure concentrates adult-type uses in one particular zoning area, Gow said.

The coat of arms was originally a coat of silk or linen used to protect a knight's armor from the heat of the sun or from rust and dirt. It was colorfully embroidered with the distinguishing emblem of the wearer.

Economy Topic Of Conference Set In Tustin

TUSTIN -- The first annual Tustin Economic Outlook Conference, to discuss issues of countywide concern, will be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Jan. 21, at the city hall community center.

Sponsored by the city chamber of commerce, the conference will feature Dr. Elizabeth Lenche, associate professor of economics at Pepperdine University; Donald Bryd, realtor; Richard Cannon, president of the Irvine Industrial Complex; Hans Dybing, manager of the Broadway Store in Anaheim, and W.G. Colbern; formely of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce.

The public, in addition to chamber members, is invited to the conference.

Underground Power Line Budget Set

SAN CLEMENTE — The San Diego Gas & Electric Co. which supplies electricity to a portion of southern Orange County has budgeted $129,887 as 1977 contribution toward undergrounding electric lines in San Clemente, $62,025 for San Juan Capistrano, and $194,830 for adjacent unincorporated areas.

Under procedures approved by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC), city councils and county boards of supervisors determine where they want utilities converted to underground and set priorities for the projects. The electric company and the telephone company do the work while homeowners and businesses pay for the trenching and underground hookups on their own properties.

The total of $386,742 budgeted for Orange County is part of a record $7.3 million budget presented by San Diego Gas & Electric Co. for approval by the PUC for converting overhead lines to underground. The request represents a $947,000 increase over the 1976 budget of $6,350,000.

Santa Ana Okays Attorney Fee Plan

SANTA ANA – Six months after the court order, city councilmen have agreed on a method of paying $125,000 in interim attorney's fees in a hiring discrimination suit.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson ordered the city to pay the interim fees in July but set strict conditions on his ruling to guarantee repayment in case the city wins its appeal.

Ferguson last March ruled the city had discriminated against Mexican-Americans in police and fire personnel hiring.

Should the city lose its appeal of that ruling, it would have to make back pay awards that could total $500,000 in addition to estimated total attorney's fees of $300,000.

Councilmen have approved a method which involves a trust agreement for paying the interim fees. The $125,000 (budgeted in the council emergency fund) will be placed in a savings account from which the money cannot be withdrawn, said City Atty. Keith Gow.

The money will earn seven per cent interest which will go to whomever wins the appeal, Gow said.

Los Angeles-based Center for Law in the Public Interest represented plaintiffs in the suit.

The city's appeal still is in the preliminary stages, Gow said.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JANUARY 2

Your birthday today: Finds you in a relatively quiet developmental phase while you become familiar with the ins and outs of a local system. Late in the year the tempo of daily living picks up as you simplify your approach, focus on whatever you value most. Relationships follow a similar pattern. Today's natives are noted for great and sustained power in politics once motivated to try. Those born this year are guided by intuition and a resolve to meet all challenges. Their education should be well rounded.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Renew acquaintances with those just back from journeys. Keep on the move, but be thrifty. What you hear provokes serious thought. Evening is for romance.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Remnants of holiday activities cause outlays beyond your current budget. Draw the line or else resolve to economize for some time to come.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Friends wait for you to set the pace or will let you modify what they're doing if you speak up. Youngsters need advice and protection. Take several breaks.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Today's influences favor solitary meditation. Later hours offer reconciliation with older people, as well as an inspiring view of an old problem.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Competitive instincts run strong. If you can afford to outspend neighbors, do so on projects that are constructive. If you lack cash, be innovative.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Intuition arrives belatedly. Follow it, contrary to advice you get from friends. It's okay to bend the rules temporarily.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Do what comes naturally, within reason, to the limits of the present situation. Decisions make themselves within the context of current relationships.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Ask good questions, listen carefully to the answers. Experts base opinions on precedents set long ago. Translate them into contemporary terms.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The day goes smoothly, as you conserve energy and take time to consolidate plans. Gather your resources for the greater task ahead.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Pursue a leisurely course. If you've done your work, luxuriate in the preview of what's coming. If you fell down on the job, don't dawdle.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Enjoy vicarious participation at public or sports events. Learn by example. Use a chance to set somebody straight on a story mixup.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Keep life simple. Once you fulfill your usual Sunday responsibilities, enjoy watching the passing scene. Try to improve your perspective.

Nurse Heroine In Saving Of Invalid Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A 55-year-old live-in nurse led her invalid patient onto a narrow 10th-floor ledge outside their burning Santa Monica apartment building and clung there for more than an hour until rescuers arrived.

Firemen termed the nurse's efforts "heroic."

"There's no railing out there," said Battallion Chief Lynn Wallace. "You'd have to see it to appreciate it."

Nurse Kay Cray said afterward that she led 56-year-old Joann Del Mar onto the two-foot-wide ledge of the 19-story oceanfront apartment because "there was nothing else to do."

Miss Del Mar suffers from multiple sclerosis and normally is confined to a wheelchair.

"Flames were coming out all of the windows and sparks were flying all over," Miss Cray said.

When Someone Needs Help, NY Cabbie Simply Has To Get Involved

By SIDNEY FIELDS
New York News

NEW YORK – One midnight, cab driver Solly Reiss heard his radio bark that a cabbie a block away was being held up. Reiss hit the gas pedal, spotted three fleeing men, hopped out to chase them. He pinned one against the wall, while policemen and other cabbies responding to the radio call caught the other two.

"One was freed in a few hours, the second in two days," Reiss says in deep disgust. "The third was extradited to Canada. He was wanted for attempted murder."

Reiss, who's been driving his own cab for 27 years, always seems to be helpfully near the scene of the city's minor or major calamities. He's received ten Police Department commendations. One of his colleagues, Milton Spitzer, says that "Solly is the city's only cabbie who cruises for commendations, not passengers."

"Milt is kidding," says Reiss. "I just happen to be there, but when I am, I don't look the other way. It's not in me."

He's a stocky 59, owns a brown belt in Judo, has four grandchildren and three sons: Paul, 37, a computer programmer in the Yonkers, N.Y., school system; Martin, 35, a driver for United Parcel; Richard, 26, who has two college degrees, served in Vista and is teaching economics in Israel. Reiss is immensely proud of them; he's also proud of being elected to his second term as president of the 5,000-member United Taxi Owners Guild.

His commendations, all ten of them, are framed and hang on the walls of his Bronx apartment. He got the first when he continued giving artificial respiration to a woman who had collapsed on the sidewalk, even though a passerby had told him, "She's finished."

"When the ambulance came she was able to walk to it," Reiss says. "The crowd applauded. That was nice."

He's also played Samaritan to strangers for which there were no commendations. He hauled a man who had put his head in the kitchen oven with the gas on into the street; and once borrowed a scarf and used his pencil to apply a tourniquet around the shattered leg of a woman who had been hit by a bus.

On his way home at 2 one morning on the Cross Bronx Expressway he saw one speeding car crash into the back of a stalled car. It began burning. Reiss raced to pull a woman out.

"She was wedged under the dashboard. I kept pulling until my arms were scorched. I got a fire extinguisher from an interstate bus that stopped. But the contents lasted about 30 seconds. Are they all like that? But nothing could have helped the woman. She was gone."

While hacking at JFK Airport Reiss heard a woman's scream, then saw her running out of the terminal. He rushed to her. She pointed to a man running away. Reiss chased him, and quickly subdued him.

"A peeping Tom. The woman was changing her clothes in the ladies room when she looked up and saw this guy watching her over the top of the booth. She wouldn't press charges because she had to fly off to Colombia. She was a nun."

One day two men, flashing police badges, charged him with blocking the street. Reiss thought the badges weren't quite right. He tightened when the men moved towards him, preparing for a stickup.

"So a prowl car drives into the street, and I began yelling. The cops got both guys for impersonating an officer. One was fined $50 and the other, $25."

In his early days as a cabbie Reiss spotted two men beating up a third in a hallway. He drove until he found a policeman, told him about it, and suggested that the officer summon assistance. But the cop hurried to the scene to break up the fight himself. Reiss used a police call box to get help, then turned to see the three men beating up the cop.

"So I had to join the fight until the other cops got there."

There's no doubt that Reiss is moved by good and kind motives, but being human, when he talks of his deeds they somehow come out a bit larger than life.

Not too long ago he had to fight his way through a crowd to get at a man lying on the street. Reiss assumed it was a heart attack, and roared for someone to call the police emergency, and began pounding on the man's chest. He was credited with saving the man's life.

"He looked me up and thanked me. I went to see him in the hospital a couple of times."

It was one of the rare times that he was thanked.

"But I still wouldn't pass any of them by," Reiss says.

Bandit Pair Robs Five At HB Hostelry

HUNTINGTON BEACH – Two armed bandits robbed four employes and one customer at the Sheraton-Huntington Beach hotel early Friday before taking $1,500 from the firm's safe, police report.

Police said the two armed men, believed to have stolen a car in Anaheim about 11 p.m. Thursday, entered the hotel about 1:30 a.m. demanding money.

The bandits also forced four employes and one customer to lie on the floor and then stole approximately $90 from their wallets.

Police said the two suspects are believed to have stolen a car from John Bastian of Los Angeles earlier in the evening.

Police said Bastian and the two suspects drove together into Orange County before the men took the car at gunpoint.

NB Motorist Slams Into Van; Trapped 1 Hour

COSTA MESA – A Newport Beach man was trapped for an hour inside his small sports car Friday after he smashed into the rear of a parked van, police said.

Taken to Hoag Memorial Hospital with head injuries was Walter E. Sullivan, of 2115 Sharington St. Hospital officials said he was transferred to the intensive care unit following surgery.

Traffic investigators said Sullivan's slow-slung car plowed under the parked van near 16th Street and Irvine Boulevard, spewing gasoline about the area and trapping the driver inside. The impact shoved the dashboard back almost against him.

Fire rescue personnel from Newport Beach were summoned to use their "jaws of life" tool to remove Sullivan from the tangled wreckage.

The crash occurred about 12:40 a.m.

Eight Hunted After 2 Knifed

ANAHEIM – Police Friday were seeking eight male Latins as suspects in a knife attack on three men Thursday night in a bar at 3456 W. Orange Ave.

Reported in critical condition at Anaheim Community Hospital was Stanley E. Porter, 35 of Anaheim. His brother, Lawrence, 38, of Cucamonga, was described as guarded.

Both men were treated at the scene by Anaheim paramedics.

A third man, John G. Bartlett Jr., 23, also of Anaheim, was not injured, according to reports.

Police said they had only sketchy details on the stabbings which occurred about 11 p.m. Thursday.

Cecil Who? New Secretary Of Interior Just an Idaho 'Potato Man'

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer

When Gov. Cecil Andrus of Idaho attended the Celebrity Ski race at Sun Valley, a woman stopped him in the lobby of the resort and said: "I know you. You're somebody; aren't you? Who are you?"

The governor smiled modestly and replied: "I'm Cecil Andrus."

The woman, a newspaper society editor from Detroit, stared at him blankly and said, "Who?"

As Robert Redford passed through the lobby on one side and Joan Kennedy strolled nonchalantly nearby, Andrus repeated his name and, still not gaining recognition, asked if perhaps she had seen him in a TV commercial.

"Of course," she said quickly: "That's it. You're the potato man."

Not the chief executive of Idaho or the future Secretary of the Interior or the chairman of the National Governors Conference.

The potato man.

Andrus, named by President-elect Carter as secretary of interior, has made five nationally broadcast television commercials and too many speeches to count extolling the virtues of his state's No. 1 agricultural product -- Idaho potatoes.

Whether fresh, frozen, processed, potatoes are a $550 million a year industry in Idaho. It's been estimated that as much as 70 per cent of the state's workforce depends on the industry.

"Such a large segment of our population revolves around the potato portion of agriculture that if something's good for the potato farmer it's good for everbody else -- the people who sell automobiles, who sell home appliances -- because that money goes right back into the state's economy," Andrus said in a recent interview in New York.

Andrus, a 45-year-old Democrat who won re-election to a second term in 1974 by the widest margin in state history - 71 per cent of the vote in the gubernatorial contest - has gained nationwide recognition as the Idaho potato salesman.

In 1973, he spent two days taping the TV commercials in an Idaho potato field, in a potato warehouse, in his office, at a farm family picnic and in the kitchen of the governor's mansion.

He had to become a member of the Screen Actors Guild for the filming, and arrangements for payment of his dues were made by the Idaho Potato Commission and the advertising agency.

In the commercial filmed in the kitchen, Andrus appears in a pink, frilly apron, preparing potatoes for dinner.

"I swore I'd quit if they put that one on nationwide TV," he joked, "but I guess they did it anyway, and it's gotten tremendous response."

He said he receives "just bundles and bundles of mail every day" because of the commercials.

"The main thing is that they remember my name, what we're selling, and they can recite a great deal of the words from the commercials," said Andrus, 6-foot-2 and amazingly slim for someone who eats potatoes several times a day.

One of his favorite stories comes from a friend who made a trip to the East and stopped in the bar at his hotel before retiring one night. The bartender paused in his work to watch and Andrus commercial and then said, "Gee, you'd think they'd pay that guy enough to be governor that he wouldn't have to moonlight."

Andrus grinned as he told the story and said, "I really enjoy the TV work, but of course I don't get any monetary compensation for it.

"I was hesitant at first. My only question was would or would it not be helpful to the sales of an agricultural product. I think it's now been proven in three years time that, yes, it's very successful."

In his commercials, network talk show appearances -- he was interviewed on NBC's "Today" show and on ABC's "Good Morning, America" recently - and speeches, Andrus plugs potatoes as nonfattening, nutritious food.

He argues that Idaho potatoes - as opposed to Long Island or Maine potatoes - are fluffy and mealy, not soggy, because "we have a unique environment for raising our potatoes.

"This environment can't be duplicated anywhere in the world - proper elevation which results in warm days and cool nights; high volcanic content in our soil, and the purest, cleanest water."

Idaho produces about one-fourth of the nation's potatoes - eight billion pounds a year. About 70 per cent of the crop is sold as processed or packaged potatoes. The strain is the Russet Burbank, developed by Luther Burbank in the 1870s.

Andrus said he has never felt less a governor because of his salesman's role. In fact, he believes he's done more for his state and his state's economy than he ever could have done hanging around the statehouse signing proclamations.

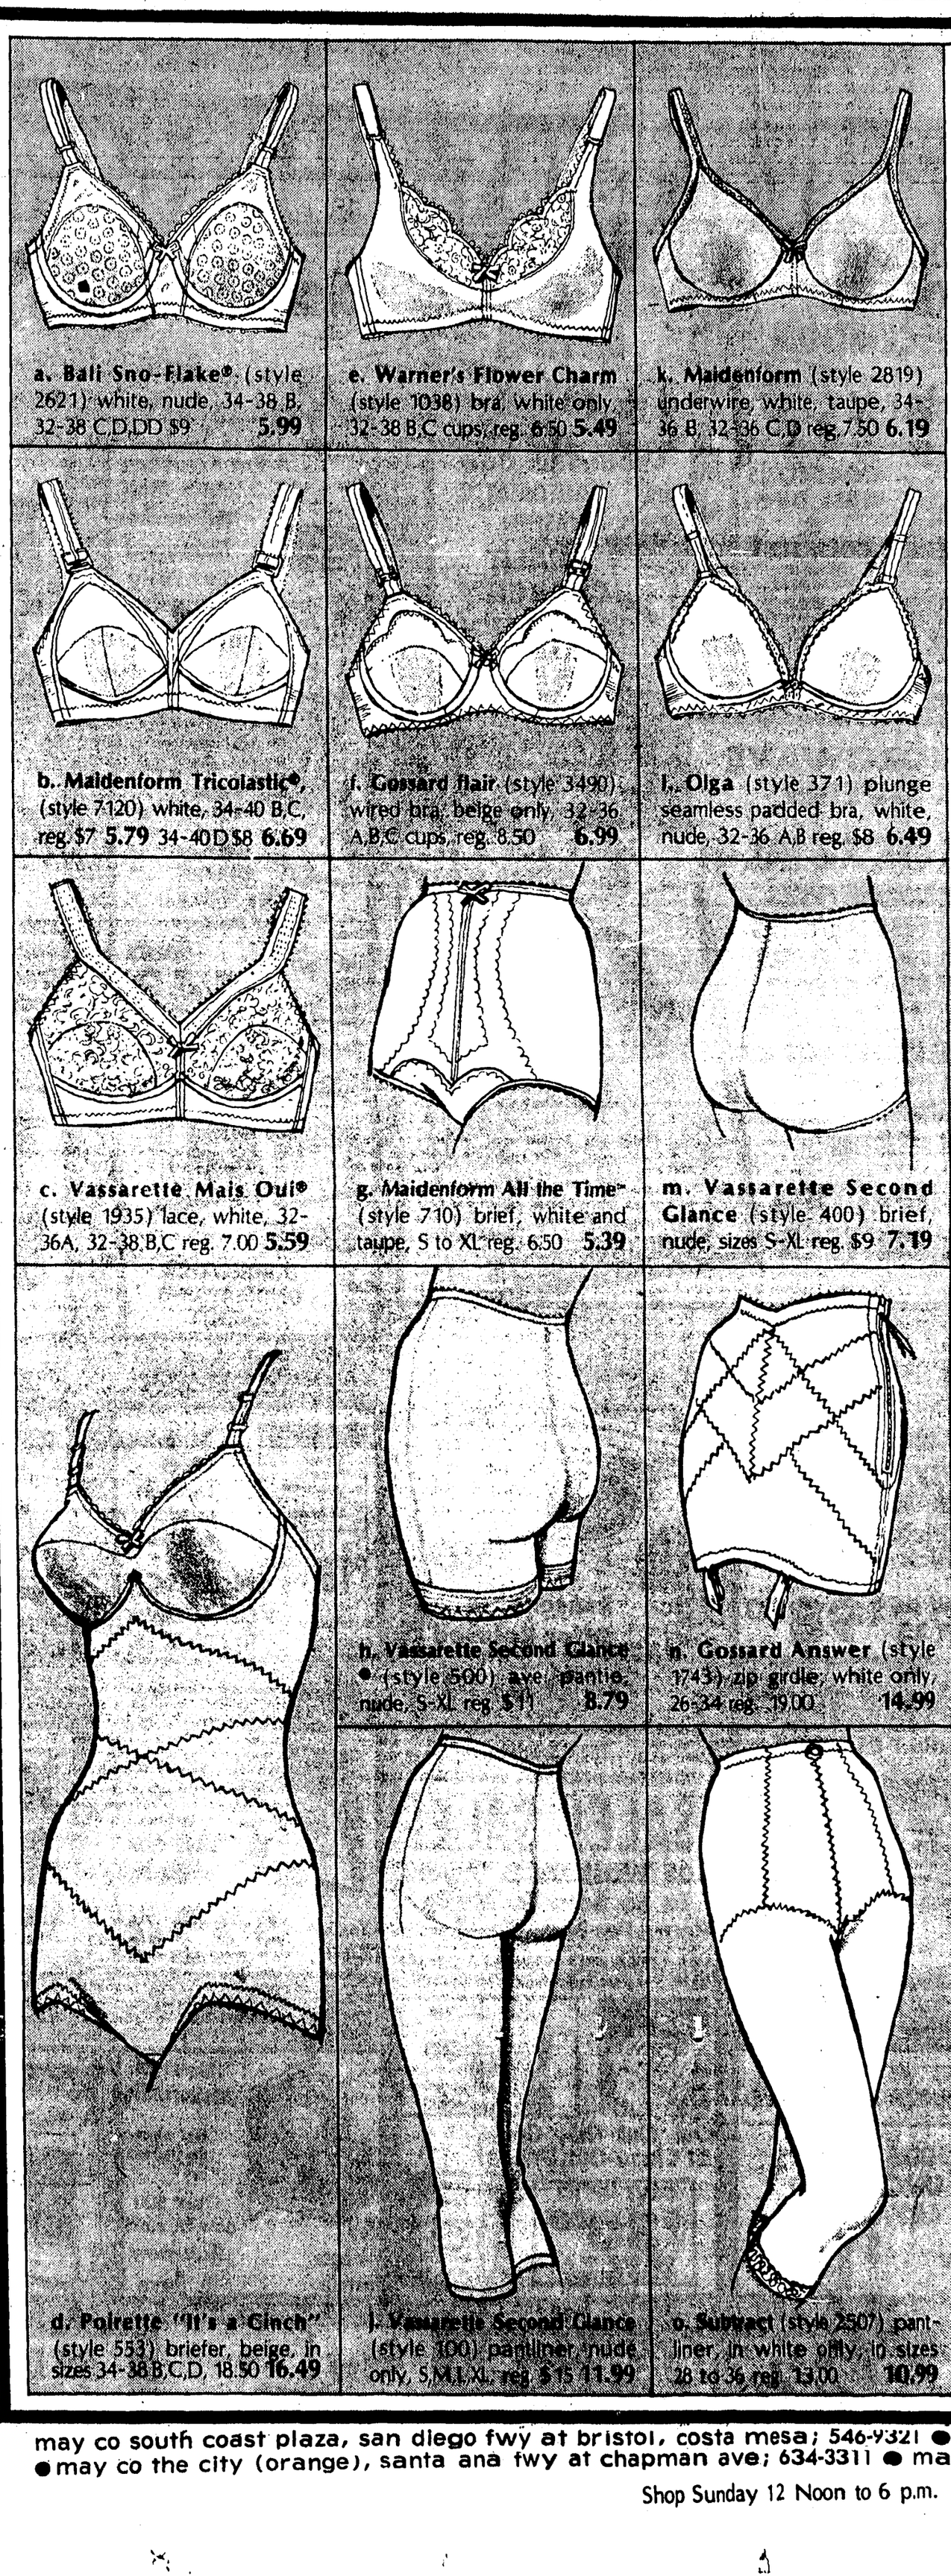

But Andrus has not shunned controversy. During his second term, he opposed plans by the Idaho Power Co. to build an $800 million, coal-fired electrical generating plant 24 miles from Boise, the state's capital and population center.

Andrus acknowledged the project would generate jobs and stimulate the economy, but he said it was the wrong location. The Idaho Public Utilities Commission eventually rejected the proposal.

Andrus, who has appeared to disdain some of the trappings of high office, often traveled alone on state business on commercial airlines, and drove a Chevrolet this year rather than the state's traditional Cadillac limousine.

He is married and has three daughters.

Rhubarb, meaning a noisy argument or quarrel, comes from the custom in the theater, radio and movies of saying "rhubarb" over and over again to stimulate angry and menacing talk in crowd scenes.

Asian Eyes On Carter

But U.S. Watching New Leaderships In Red China, Japan

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) – Once again Asian eyes will turn toward Washington in 1977.

What the administration of Jimmy Carter does – and how it does it – will have a general impact on a politically sensitive region where Americans have fought three major wars in 31 years.

But Asian and U.S. eyes also will be on the new leaderships of Red China and Japan, the area's two most powerful nations, and on South Asia where full representative government has been suspended in India, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, formerly Ceylon.

Insofar as President-elect Carter is concerned, Asians will want to determine whether he intends to continue, or dismantle, the power equilibrium put together by two U.S. Republican administrations and mainland China.

This balance of power formula envisages continued close U.S.-China ties as a counterweight to the massive Soviet military presence on the Chinese-Soviet borders.

Carter has an opportunity to strengthen the Washington-Peking link by extending full diplomatic recognition to China, a move which some analysts say would improve its bargaining position in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Recognition of Peking would entail withdrawal of the U.S. Embassy from nationalist Chinese-governed Taiwan.

Although China reserves the right to use force in settling the Taiwan problem – the island is recognized by both Taipei and Peking as part of China – the Chinese have shown no sign of belligerence since the beginning of Asian detente in 1971.

Taiwan continued to boom economically during the year – showing a $481.2 million trade surplus in the January-November period – and, on the surface at least, remained politically stable through the momentous leadership changes on the mainland.

Another China neighbor, Hong Kong, continued to demonstrate its stability with Chinese relations described by the government as "excellent." One government official said with the change of leadership in China, Hong Kong can look forward to even better relations in the years to come.

American recognition of the still unproven moderate regime in Peking of Hua Kuo-feng would shore it up against party radicals hostile to its policy of rapprochement with Washington.

Closer ties between Peking and Tokyo are seen as a result of the Japanese general election Dec. 5, which left the long - governing Liberal-Democratic party in precarious control.

The outstanding bilateral problem in an otherwise healthy U.S.-Japan relationship is that of fisheries. Japan, which depends heavily on fish protein for its 110 million people, reacted with dismay to U.S. proclamation of a 200-mile limit. Though adjustments may be made to permit continued Japanese fishing, this normally cheap food staple will almost certainly become a more expensive item for the Japanese.

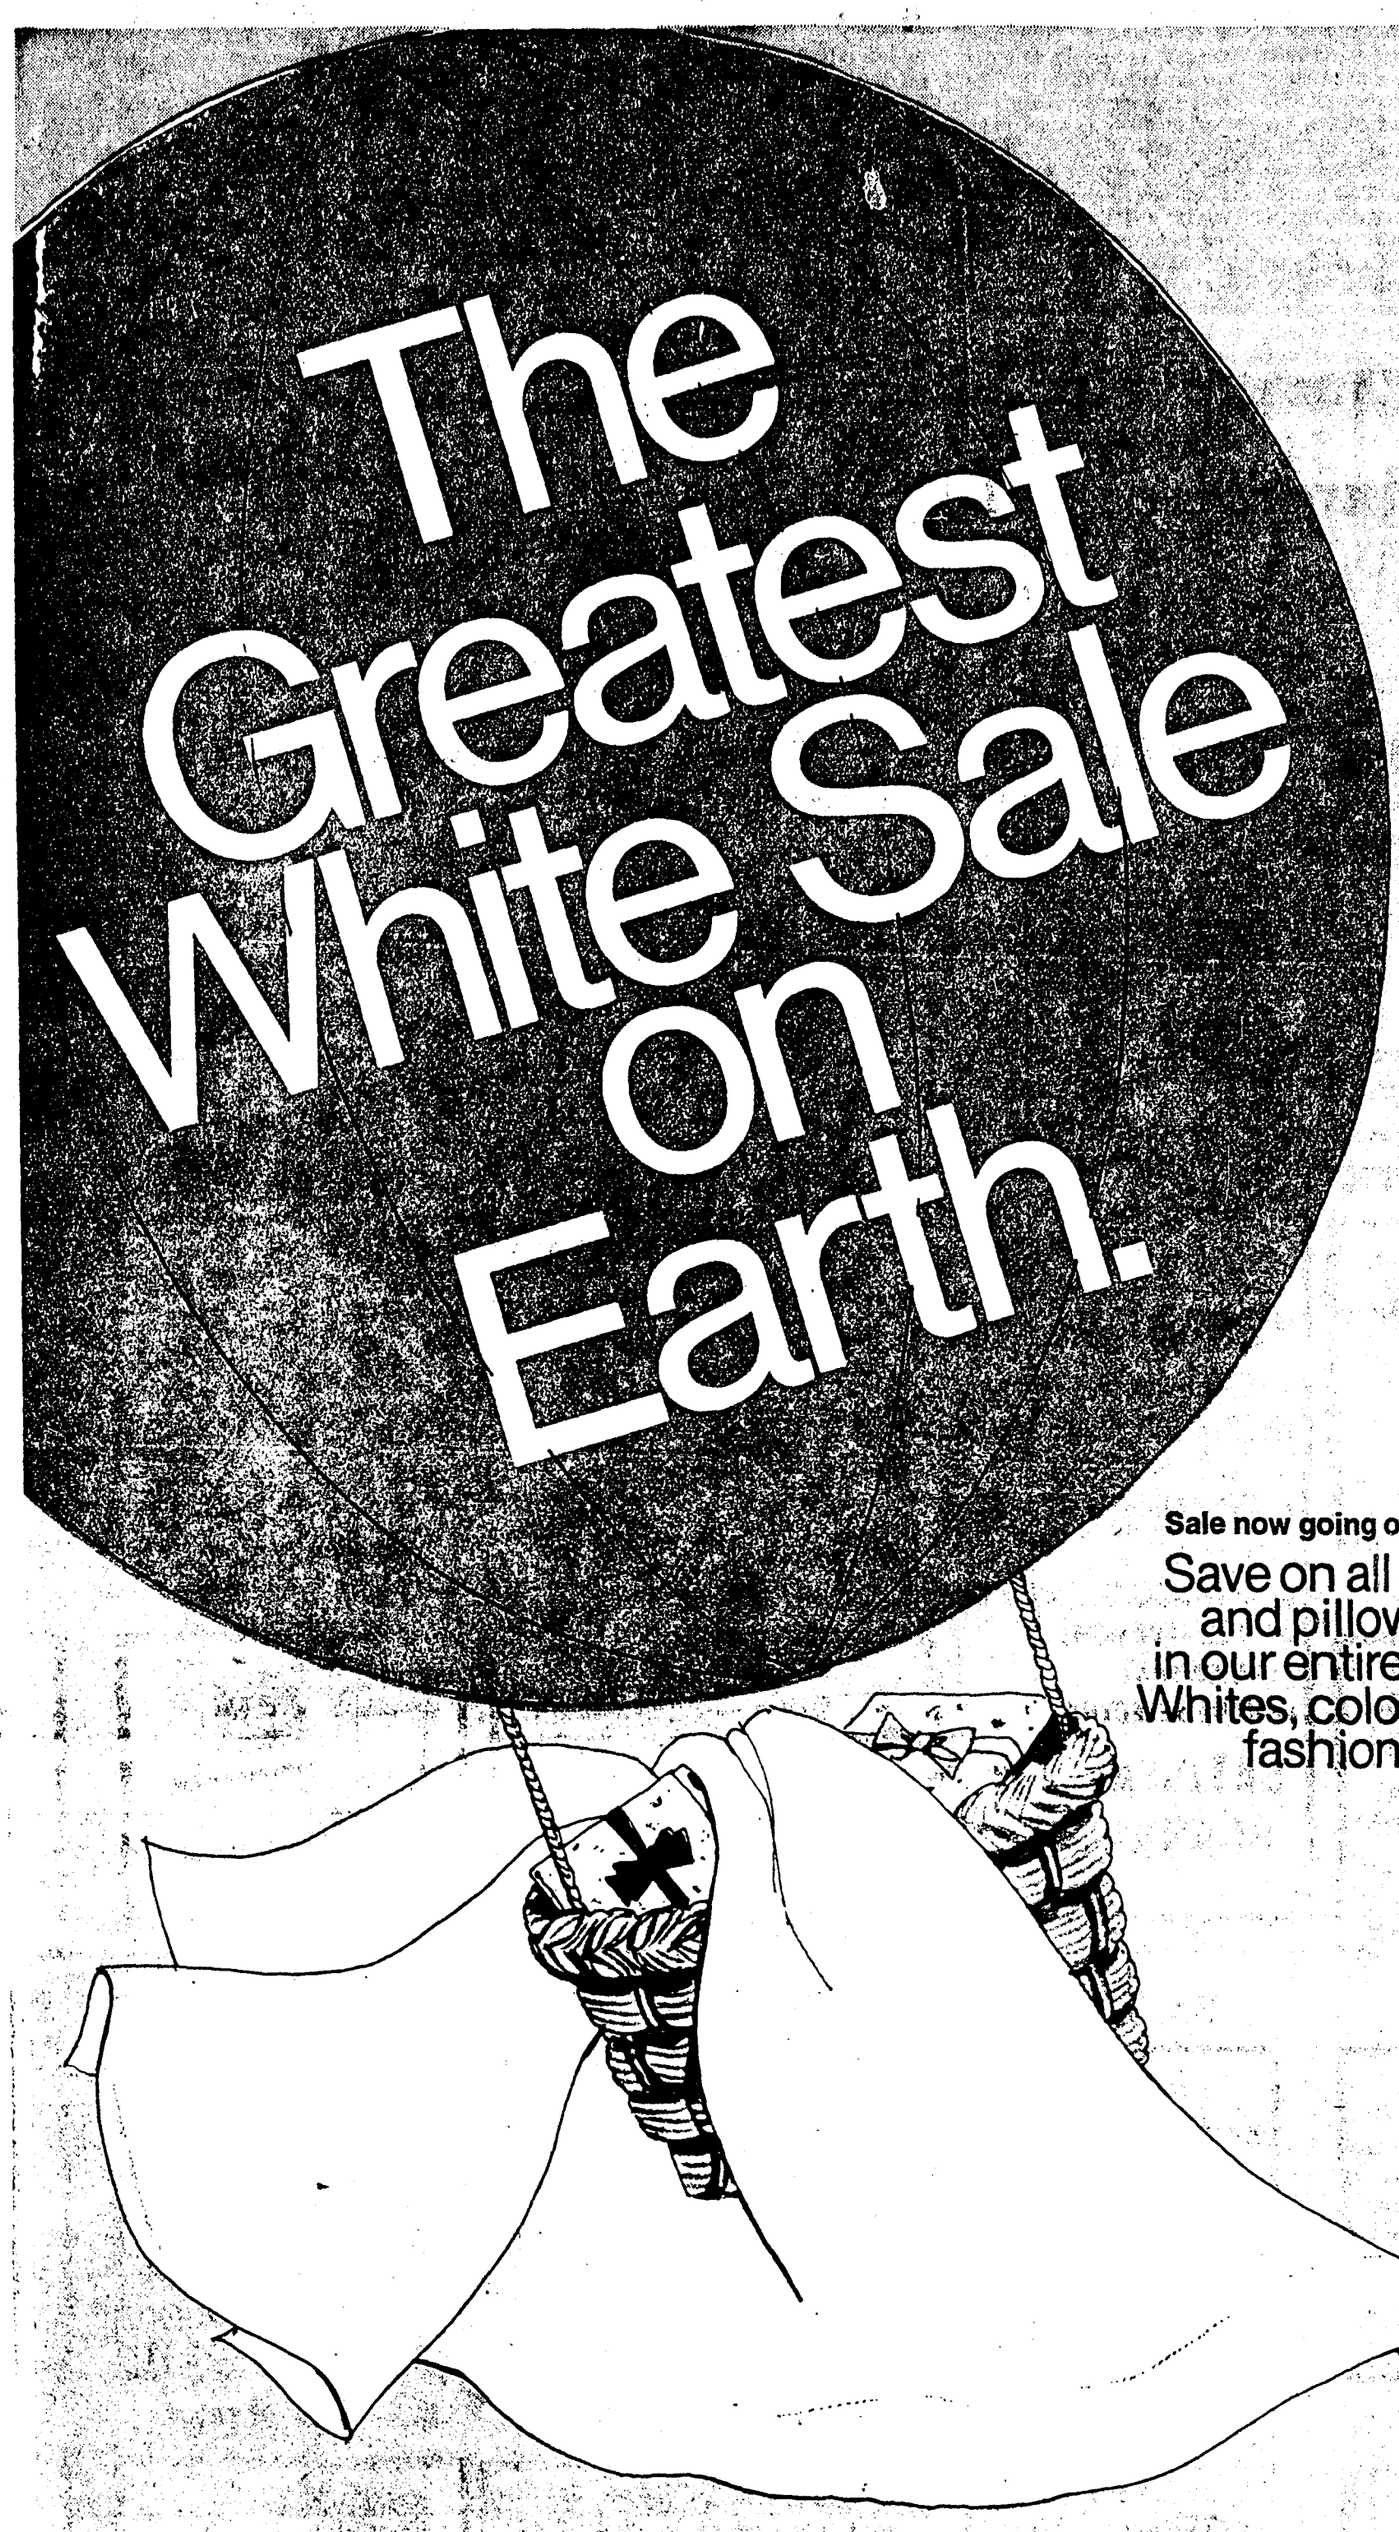

Tokyo also awaits a signal from Washington over the question of withdrawal of the 42,000 U.S. troops in South Korea.

Both Tokyo and Seoul fear a hardening in the U.S. resolve to phase out the American forces by an administration critical of the denial of human rights by South Korean President Park Chung-hee, and, more recently, of South Korean efforts to influence U.S. congressmen.

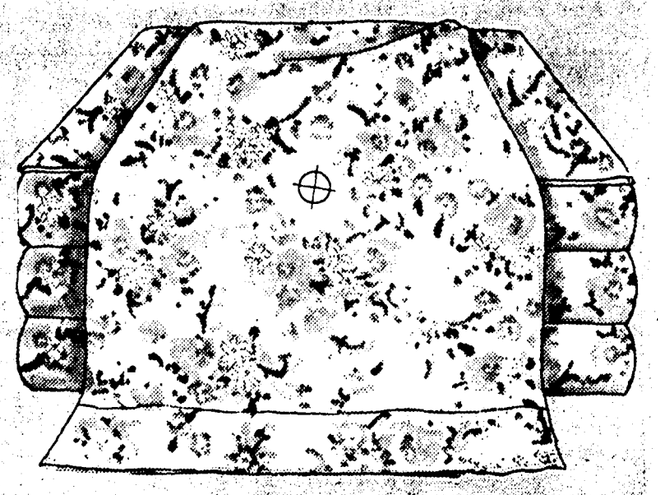

Strained U.S.-Korean relations could have an adverse effect on Park's personal hold on power. His failure to maintain friendly links with Washington could erode his support within the army, his chief pillar of support.

The impact of the Carter administration on events in South Asia can only be guessed at. The India-Pakistan war over Bangladesh turned New Delhi away from Washington and toward Moscow.

Irvine Celebrates Its Fifth Birthday

By ART BARRETT
Register Staff Writer

IRVINE – Councilman John Burton broke out a bottle of champagne and toasted the city's birthday at a council session here this past week while reminding one and all that a state of Camelot had not been achieved by government officials in the past five years.

The regular meeting of the council fell on the same date the city was incorporated in 1971. Burton waived drinking in public regulations by personal fiat to hoist his toast to Irvine's five years and kicked off a round of political, if not eloquent, oratory.

"I remind you," he said, mixing a dash of cold water with the champagne, "that five years ago you could buy a house (in Irvine) for $30,000." Then, he blamed the city's bureaucracy for being a costly obstacle which has prevented developers from building inexpensive homes.

Councilwoman Gabrielle Pryor joined the chorus by jumping on what she called the "liberal progressives" who "just can't stand the low-income category" and who "shout bigot when they see a blue collar" in the city.

Mayor David Sills blamed the county for, among other things, not asking the city for input prior to expanding the housing ban around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station and hoped that it would not lead to the military base becoming a commercial airport.

Despite Burton's reminder of what had not been accomplished in the past five years and Pryor's warnings of corruption in government and bigotry in regard to blue collars, the mayor declared that the city's future will continue to be decided by the council and not, as he said, in a corporate board room in New York or somewhere else.

After Councilwoman Mary Ann Gaido hoped that Irvine wouldn't become a community for persons fleeing Los Angeles and Councilman Bill Vardoulis confessed to nine months of "enlightenment" during his tenure, former councilman Ray Quigley stood to add a final flourish.

"Happy Birthday, Dear Irvine. . . ." sang Quigley.

ONLY GOOD CHARACTERS CAN DRINK

IRVINE – Drinking liquor in the city's tax-supported recreation facilities now will be permitted if the drinker is of "good character."

With the approval of the city police chief, the city council has voted unanimously to expand the uses of the facilities to include drinking.

But, "no such permit shall be issued to a person who is not of good character or reputation in the community in which he resides," according to a staff report.

SA Postpones Changes In EIR

SANTA ANA – Balking at what they say could be added city costs, councilmen have delayed action on changing city environmental impact report (EIR) procedures to conform with new state guidelines.

Councilmen this week were expected to adopt a resolution that would bring city procedure into line with state requirements by the Jan. 1 deadline.

Basically, the state changes would:

– Make EIR's shorter and limited to detailed discussion of significant effects.

– Make negative declarations (statements that a project will have no significant effect and therefore does not require a full EIR) longer.

– Require the city to give public notice, through newspaper ads, of proposed action on negative declarations and draft EIRs.

Councilman David Brandt proposed that the council take no action on the resolution because the new state procedures will cost the city more. He cited the required newspaper advertisements as an example.

"In light of SB 90, which says if state requirements will cost local agencies extra money, the state will pay for it, I think we should disapprove it," Brandt said.

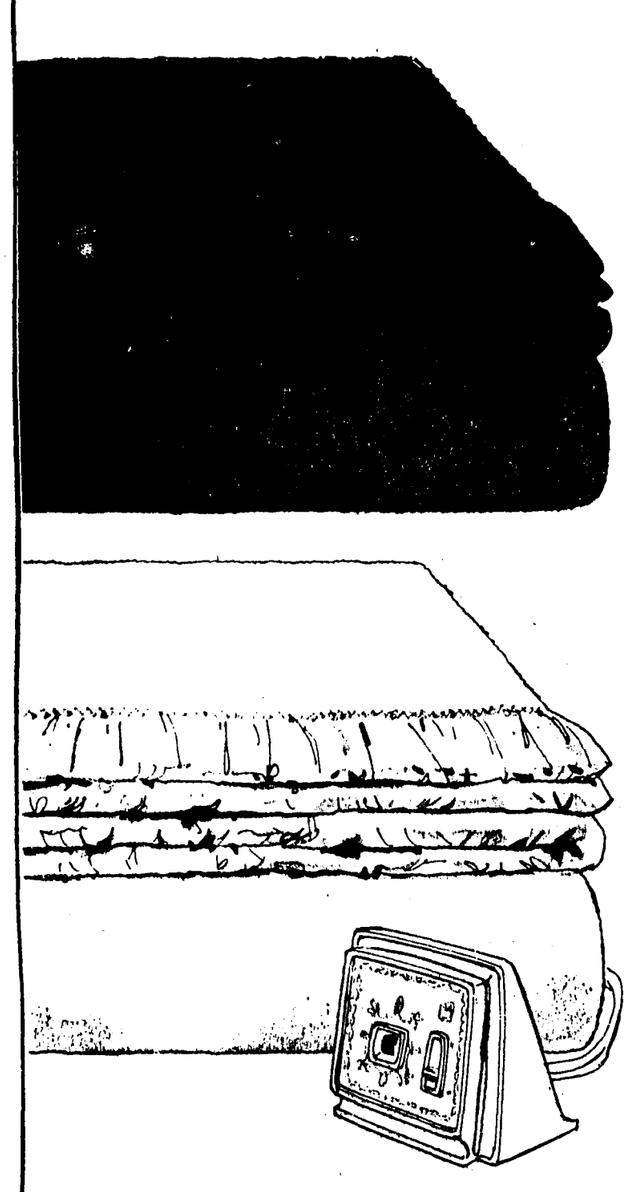

City Manager Bruce Spragg objected, saying that such a move might jeopardize the city's chances of getting tax grant applications funded and said it might be difficult to substantiate claims of actual added costs of the new procedures.

Councilmen decided to continue the matter until Jan. 3 in hopes the staff can gather more information on the proposed changes and their costs.

Councilmen also instructed the city staff to send a letter to the state treasury secretary citing the added costs and copies of the letter to the league of cities.

Now going on.

LATIN NATIONS RELEASE PRISONERS IN GESTURE TO U.S.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) Latin-American governments have freed thousands of prison inmates, ranging from petty thieves to ex-cabinet ministers and top Communists. The amnesties are seen partly as steps by the countries to improve their image and win favor with the new U.S. administration.

A survey by The Associated Press shows amnesties have been declared for at least 3,000 persons in the region in recent proclamations. Some were announced in the year-end period but actually covered several months.

Most of those freed were common criminals doing time for minor crimes, but a significant number were political prisoners.

Diplomatic observers said some of the political releases stem as much from the self-interest of Latin-American governments as from their compassion. A Democratic administration takes over in the White House next Jan. 20 and President-elect Carter has stated that future relations between the United States and other countries will be influenced by how those countries respect human rights.

Such human rights organizations as Amnesty International, with headquarters in London, also keep up foreign pressure for the release of political inmates.

Here is a country-by-country report.

– ARGENTINA. The ruling military government, a target of international criticism for alleged human rights violations since seizing power in a coup last March, announced last week 1,537 political prisoners have been released in the last nine months. It said 559 of them had been freed since the beginning of November.

Political analysts saw the announcement as a goodwill gesture to the Carter administration. Before, the Argentine authorities maintained near-silence about political prisoners.

Security sources say 3,000 political prisoners are still being held, including ousted President Isabel Peron.

– BRAZIL. President Ernesto Geisel, handpicked by the country's military rulers, announced a general Christmas pardon to benefit prisoners serving sentences for various common crimes.

Although thousands reportedly fall within the scope of the pardon, a Justice Ministry official said it was not possible to determine immediately to how many the pardon would apply. Authorities in the State of Rio de Janeiro estimated that 900 prisoners would be released there. The pardon did not include political prisoners.

The Brazilian government does not consider alleged subversives in custody as political prisoners, and numbers are hard to come by.

Amnesty International estimated in its 1976 annual report, however, that 800 political prisoners are currently under detention in Brazil.

– CHILE. In mid-December the ruling military junta announced it had released 300 political prisoners. It also announced the expulsion of 17 others from the country. All were being held without charge.

One of those expelled was Luis Corvalan, 60, secretary-general of the Chilean Communist party. He was arrested during the September, 1973, military coup that toppled the Marxist government of the late President Salvador Allende. Corvalan was freed in exchange for the release by Moscow of Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukowsky, a swap reportedly negotiated with U.S. help.

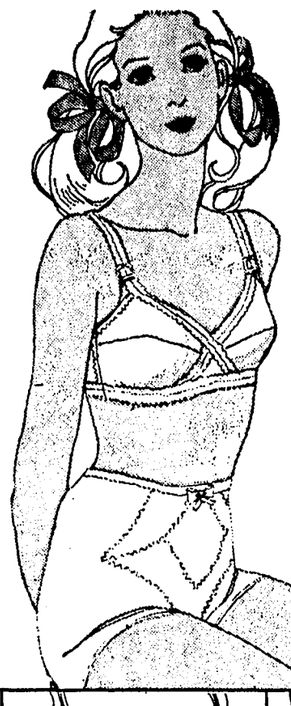

Gen. Augusto Pinochet, president of the Chilean junta, claimed the releases had been planned since September and

FEC Passed Up Probes Of Alleged Violations, Files Show

WASHINGTON (AP) – Newly released documents show the Federal Election Commission passed up opportunities to investigate alleged violations of campaign laws.

The FEC released files on 245 cases of possible election law violations on which it has taken final action.

Eleven cases were referred to the Justice Department, most because the commission lacked jurisdiction. In other cases the commission declined to investigate where violations within its jurisdiction were alleged.

– The FEC decided last February, after making one telephone call, not to investigate allegations published by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Monsanto Co. illegally coerced executives to donate to its $1 million political fund.

– The commission refused to investigate a report last year by New Times magazine that a campaign aide to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, sought an illegal campaign donation from a representative of a foreign country. An FEC memo said the allegation was vague and that an investigation might embarrass Bentsen, who was seeking the Democratic nomination for president at that time.

– The FEC refused on Sept. 23 to investigate a public admission by Armco Steel Corp. that it made about $167,000 in indirect corporate political donations between 1968 and 1974. The FEC said the three-year federal statute of limitations may have expired.

FEC spokesman David Fiske said the commission didn't want to pressure reporters for identities of confidential sources, but also is hesitant to launch wide investigations based only on news reports, especially when they lack specific information.

He also said the commission has relatively few investigators – 11 out of a staff of about 180 – and that the commission's enforcement authority is limited.

Fiske said that in the commission's formative months it was busy defending a Supreme Court suit and writing basic election regulations.

The files on the closed cases, which were released Friday, filled a large cardboard box.

One hundred cases still are under FEC investigation, Fiske said.

The Monsanto allegation came to light in a Post-Dispatch story Aug. 24, 1975. It quoted unnamed Monsanto executives as saying they were pressured into authorizing the company to deduct money from their paychecks for its political fund.

Under federal law, pressured donations are an illegal, indirect use of corporate money for political contributions if the money goes to federal candidates.

The story estimated that the company, which has its headquarters near St. Louis, had deducted $1.25 million from its executives' checks for the political fund since its inception in 1968.

Two days later, the newspaper reported that Republican senatorial candidate Thomas B. Curtis had received $4,240 from 55 Monsanto executives during his unsuccessful 1974 campaign. Curtis, a former congressman, was at the time of the story chairman of the FEC.

Fiske said the donations to Curtis had nothing to do with the commission's later decision not to probe the alleged pressure on company executives.

Commission records show no effort to investigate the stories until Sept. 23, 1975, almost a month after they were published.

The case was closed Feb. 9, 1976, without the FEC making any attempt to contact Monsanto executives directly, Fiske said.

Starts Sunday, January 2.

IN CHURCH THIS SUNDAY . . .

Kallah Retreat Shared by two Jewish Groups

"The Relevance of Ancient Law to Contemporary Jewish Life" was the theme of a Kallah Retreat jointly sponsored last weekend by Israel Academy and Temple Sharon at Camp Malibu.

Eighty people spanning three generations welcomed the Sabbath on Friday evening with candle blessing, worship, blessing of wives by husbands, blessing of children by parents and the kiddoosh over the Sabbath wine goblet. Following a festive Sabbath eve meal, replete with Sabbath table hymns, folk songs and the chanted grace-after-meals.

"WHAT DOES CHURCH HAVE TO OFFER ME?"
Well, would you like a fresh understanding of God, and of yourself, and of your place in His creation?
"Sure, but how is that going to help me?"
It gives you a sense of direction and purpose. And as your knowledge of God grows, this becomes the basis of everything you do.
We'd love to have you share in a Christian Science service with us this Sunday.

Ordination Of Women Top Religion Story

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) – The ordination of women by the Episcopal Church was voted the top religion story of 1976 in a Religion Newswriters Association poll of newspaper, magazine and news service religion reporters.

The story gathered 35 first- or second-place votes from the 45 writers polled. The 2.8 million member Episcopal Church voted last September to allow women to become priests.

The presidential election victory of Jimmy Carter, who describes himself as a "born again" Christian and has long been active in Southern Baptist evangelism, placed second in the top 10 religion stories chosen for the year.

The third-ranked story was an October conference sponsored by the nation's Roman Catholic bishops as a Bicentennial project. The 1,340 delegates to the Detroit meeting urged the church to make major changes in church policies relating to birth control, divorce, the role of women and social activism.

Other stories listed in order of their selection were:

4. The deepening schism in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

5. The controversy surrounding the Rev. Sun Myung Moon and his Unification Church.

6. The International Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia last August.

7. Abortion as a presidential campaign issue.

8. The New Jersey Supreme Court decision allowing comatose Karen Anne Quinlan to be removed from a mechanical respirator.

9.-10. (tie) The Gallop Poll report that more than one-third of all Americans say they have had a "born again" experience and the movement to allow Roman Catholics to divorce and remarry.

Country Western Dance Scheduled

FOUNTAIN VALLEY -- A country western dance will be sponsored by Temple B'Nai Tzedek Social Club and held in the Fountain Valley Recreation Center, 16400 Brookhurst St., Fountain Valley, at 7 p.m. Jan. 16.

Terry Whittaker To Address SB Church

Terry Cole-Whittaker, associate minister of the Whittier Church of Religious Science Sunday, at 11 a.m. her topic will be "How To Get What You Want in 1977".

Executive director of her own firm, Success Plus, Ms. Whittaker serves as a management consultant on human potential development. She conducts many classes on successful living. She is a popular speaker in Southern California and has appeared on numerous television and radio programs.

Appearing at the 9.a.m. service will be the Rev. Theodora Dyrenforth.

The Church has now moved into its own new Sanctuary at 500 Marina Drive. There are two services regularly: 9 a.m. and at 1 a.m. A pre-service meditation is held at 10:45 a.m. conducted by Janet Taylor.

Lutherans Split

CHICAGO (AP) – A new Lutheran denomination has been formed by those called "moderates" who have broken away from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in reistance to its conservative leadership.

The rift had been threatening since 1974, when most of the faculty of the church's leading seminary, Concordia and St. Louis, quit and formed a breakaway seminary in protest against pressures on teaching by the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Preus.

The new denomination, the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, includes initially about 75,000 members in 1,950 congregations from coast to coast. They pledged efforts for unity with two other major Lutheran bodies, the Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church.

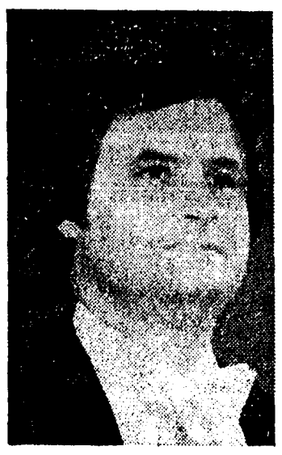

The Rev. Dr. William Kohn of Milwaukee was elected president.

Ripley's Believe It or Not

The Church of Densus in Rumania was constructed by making use of the stone ruins of an ancient Roman town wall.

UNUSUAL GROUNDBREAKING – Unusual groundbreaking services were held for the Cypress Holy Cross Lutheran Church Youth Center. Dimensions of the building were outlined. Teens played games in the recreation room, guest sat in the social lounge, a Christian folk music group performed on the area designated for the stage. Leading these services were (from left) Lowell McMillen, congregational chairman; Dan Ihasz, youth director; Vince Mariner, planning director, and the Rev. Elmer D. Thyr, pastor.

CONDUCTOR – Joseph R. Abston, former member of Anaheim First Baptist Church and music teacher in the Anaheim School District, led a chorus of 200 voices in singing Handel's Messiah on Christmas Day in Jerusalem. The singers were recruited from colleges throughout the Southwestern United States. They were accompanied by the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra in their symphony home in a Jerusalem theater. Abston is now director of music for the Tyler Street Methodist Church in Dallas, Texas, and has his own academy of music with 125 students.

Ask FBI Files

WASHINGTON (AP) – Several religious groups, in the wake of revelations about surveilance and manipulation of organizations by U.S. intelligence agencies, have filed suits under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain files mentioning the religious groups.

They say that several requests for the files had been turned down. The data collected reportedly focuses mainly on church groups active in civil rights causes and in opposition to the Vietnam war.

Among the groups pressing for their files are the U.S. Jesuit Conference, the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), the United Church of Christ, the Mennonites, the Church of Scientology, the Zion Methodist Church and the Mosque of Islam.

Performing Arts Center to Begin Winter Term

Extensive instruction in the arts for children will highlight the classes offered this winter by the Performing Arts Center.

A self-supporting, non-profit organization located on the Garden Grove Community Church campus, the Performing Arts Center begins its winter term the week of Jan. 3. In addition to offering a variety of instruction for children, the center also features classes for adults and year-round, private instruction in vocal and instrumental music.

Highlighting the winter schedule are specialty courses in dance, mime and pantomime for both children and adults.

Registration and complete class scheduling information is available from the Performing Arts Center, 12141 Lewis St.

SEMINARY TEACHER – Dr. G. William (Bill) Schweer will teach a course on "Building An Outreach Church" at the Southern California Extension Center of Golden Baptist Theological Seminary, 12311 Chapman Ave., Garden Grove, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., each Tuesday, beginning Jan. 4. Designed to get stalled churches moving, the class is open primarily to pastors and staff workers but others will be accepted. Dr. Schweer will teach a class on evangelism, from 7 to 10:30 p.m. Mondays, beginning Jan. 3. Call the Center to learn cost or for more information.

JOYCE COTTON

Euclid Baptist Has Center For Pre-Schoolers

The Euclid Street Baptist Church of Anaheim has opened a new preschool at 1408 South Euclid Street under the directorship of Joyce Cotton. Registration is now open for children age 2 to 5 years old. Some classes are already limited.

Hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. for working parents. The preschool provides a "Home away from Home" in a christian atmosphere. Morning Enrichment hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Joyce Cotton has had 6 years of pre-school experience; 3½ years as the director of the Trinity Baptist Church Preschool in Westminister where there were as many as 150 children enrolled with a waiting list. She also served on the preschool advisory committee for the Westminster School District and is active in the "church related nursery director fellowship of Orange County." In addition she is a member of SCAEYC (Southern California Association for Education of Young Children).

The curriculum provides many activities in art, literature, music, dramatic play, motor development, cooking, field trips, and science.

Learning to eat the right food is recognized as a necessary part of every childs education. Balanced hot meals are provided daily. They are served homestyle and children are encouraged to serve themselves and to eat as many servings as they want.

Staff members are mature Christians, qualified to work with young children.

The Church of Christ in Bassendean, Australia, was constructed in a single day. It was built by 120 volunteers on Jan. 4, 1913 and services were held in it the next day.

Dr. Schuller Enters Float In Pasadena Rose Parade

In the Pasadena Rose Parade today will be a float entered by the "Hour of Power," a television program emanating from the Garden Grove Community Church where Dr. Robert Schuller is pastor and minister for the "Hour of Power" broadcast.

Dr. Schuller wanted a float which would visualize his message in a universal and non-denominational manner, he wanted the float to be elegantly beautiful and he wanted it to express this year's parade theme "The Good Life," he said.

Result was an entry entitled "Faith, Hope and Love," measuring 50 feet long, 18 feet wide and 16 feet high – maximum dimensions for any Rose Parade entry. The float will appear to be a vibrant, radiating Cross of Christ. White and orchid rays will seem to emanate outward from a centralized, brilliant white Cross. Bells will ring out loudly as the float glides down the street and past TV cameras, which will beam its message to more than 150 million viewers worldwide.

Since every visible inch of a Rose Parade float must be covered in floral material, and "Hour of Power's" entry will primarily be white, more than 500,000 blossoms will be required for its decoration. The rays – consisting of 48 large, rotating cones and 98 smaller ones – will be covered in petals from white gladiolas and white carnations, plus Vanda orchids, blue iris and coral gladiolas. The Cross itself will be decorated using white Phaleonopsis orchids. And base gardens around the Cross and stretching the entire length and width of the float will consist of white roses, white Cattleya orchids, white chrysanthemums and white carnations.

The float was designed by Don Davidson and made by Festival Artists of Pasadena.

Sinatra Schedules Regular Playdates At Caesars Palace

By SHIRLEY EDER
Knight News Wire

For those who like to keep tabs on Frank Sinatra, it will be nice to know he will be playing one week every other month at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, where he has performed these past few years without ever having signed a contract. A handshake, I'm told, between Sinatra and Sid Gathrid, vice-president in charge of entertainment, was all that was necessary.

I still don't know if there's been a formal contract signed for his new deal there, but Sinatra will play there starting Jan. 6, six times a year, one week (two shows a night) every other month. After January, Sinatra will appear in March, May, July, September and November.

SHIRLEBRITIES: Many newspapers ran the story that Jack Cassidy bequeathed nothing to former wife Shirley Jones and nothing to his eldest son (by a former wife), David Cassidy. There was no reason for Cassidy to leave anything to Jones, since they had been divorced for some time. Also, Jones has been, and still is, a big earner.

An insurance policy for more than $100,000 was all that Cassidy left. His will stipulated that each of his children under the age of 18 was to receive $50,000. David, well past 18, has been self-supporting for several years, and Cassidy knew that he was financially sound. Shaun, his and Jones' eldest son (they have three), recently turned 18. He had not reached that age when his father's will was made, but, just like David, Shaun won't inherit anything.

Since Cassidy was 49 when he died in a fire, I'm sure he felt that he would be able to change that will many times over. Although there were times that he and David had not gotten along well, at the time of his death they had begun to make up their differences. Cassidy had to support himself when he was very young, and possibly he felt that, if at 18 a boy was considered man enough to vote, he was also man enough to fend for himself.

DIDYA KNOW DEPT.: Sidney Sheldon ("Face in the Mirror," "Other Side of Midnight") tossed a regal banquet at a 60-room castle in Rome for the Bill Duftys (Gloria Swanson), James Mason and Linda Wertmuller. Then they all headed for the little town of Licce, Rudolph Valentino's birthplace, to observe the 50th anniversary of Valentino's death.

Talia Shire, who's so good in the movie "Rocky," may turn up on the other side of the camera next. Roger Corman has a film that he would like to have her direct.

Marge Champion will wed "Moneychangers" director Boris Sagal on New Year's Eve. The ceremony, witnessed by family only, will be at 8 p.m. At 10 all the film folk will arrive at the Sagal home for a combination wedding reception-New Year's Eve bash.

Mort Sahl Sees New Conspiracy

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) – There is a general consensus that Mort Sahl, no matter whether or not you agree with his politics, is innately one of the wittiest men of our age.

Still, he says, he can't work where he'd like to work. In his new book, "Heartland," a combination autobiography - philosophy book, he describes the conspiracy which he says has kept him off the network air.

"Almost every author with a new book," he says, "gets a shot on the big talk shows. But I haven't had one. My old friends – Tom Brokaw and Tom Snyder – hem and haw when I ask them about it, and they give me excuses, but they won't put me on."

He's still very active, of course, but his sphere of activity has shifted. Now he performs, mostly at college concerts, and he's turned to writing. There's his book, a few other books he's planning, two screenplays in progress.

Mort Sahl is sad about one thing. He doesn't see any young humorist coming up, doing the things and saying the things that Sahl used to do and say. He says there is no witty spokesman for the present younger generation.

"It seems to me that everything is frozen in the '60s. Comedians are still poking fun at the same things I used to poke fun at 10, 12 years ago.

"I really doubt that I could break in today, doing what I do. I was just talking about this the other day, about how nowadays there's little chance of anyone breaking in with my kind of humor, my sense of justice."

Sahl has been called an intellectual comedian, but he doesn't think that's an appropriate label.

"I don't consider myself an intellectual among comedians," he says. "At least, not compared to someone like Sid Caesar, although maybe compared to Laverne and Shirley."

Stanley Kramer will make what will certainly be one of the most ambitious pictures of 1977. It's "Raise the Titanic," based on Clive Cussler's adventurous book of the same name. And, unless the movie script differs widely from the book, this will be old-fashioned in one respect.

"In my books," Cussler says, "the hero always wins. I think that's the trouble with movies today – too often, the hero loses. The public likes to see the hero win."

Cussler will have nothing to do with the movie – he just sold it for a whopping $450,000 – but he says he did extract a promise from Kramer.

"I made him promise," the author says, "that he would not inject a message into the story. It's strictly an adventure story, solely for the purpose of entertaining."

"Raise the Titanic" – the gimmick in the story is that the Titanic is, indeed, raised – features Cussler's continuing hero, Dirk Pitt.

HERE WE GO AGAIN – Pasadena's historic Rose Bowl will be the site today for the 63rd annual college football classic. This New Year's Day the matchup is Michigan's Big 10 champions and USC's Pacific 8 champions. Michigan is ranked second nationally, USC third. Pittsburgh is No. 1.

10-1 Records Matched

Rose Bowl Day: SC, Michigan Hope It's No. 1

By JACK STEVENSON

Michigan's Wolverines and the Trojans of Southern California, each with a 10-1 record and a possible national college football crown, battle in the 63rd Rose Bowl today at 2 p.m., with the Midwesterners favored.

To make it a national title game, the Rose Bowl will need the cooperation of Georgia in the Sugar Bowl. Unbeaten and top-ranked Pittsburgh faces No. 5 Georgia at New Orleans prior to the Rose Bowl.

"We're bigger and they're quicker," said USC Coach John Robinson in sizing up his game.

Robinson succeeded John McKay this season as Trojan head coach, and not since Chuck Taylor and Stanford 25 years ago has a first-year Pac-8 coach brought a team to the bowl game.

"I don't think there should be a favorite in this game," Robinson said of the six-point advantage accorded Michigan. "I think it should be even."

Coach Bo Schembechler, seeking his first victory after two unsuccessful Rose Bowl tries, also discounts the odds.

Whether the weatherman will cooperate remains to be seen. Weeks of sunny warmth came to a halt Thursday with a rainstorm, and there could be more on game day.

Both teams boast All-American running backs – Rob Lytle for the No. 2 ranked Wolverines and Ricky Bell for the No. 3 Trojans. Lytle, a 195-pounder, can operate at either tailback or fullback. Bell, 218, also can play either position, but he has been working out only at tailback in current preparations.

Bell has been hampered since midseason with an ankle injury, and he admits "it isn't as strong as it was before."

With Vince Evans at quarterback, the Trojans appear to have a stronger passing attack. Evans hit 81 of 157 throws, 10 for touchdowns during the 1976 regular season when USC won its final 10 games after being upset by Missouri in the opener.

Sophomore Rick Leach, a starter as a freshman a year ago, operates at quarterback in the Michigan option offense. He completed 46 of 93 passes with 13 going for touchdowns.

"We try for the big play when we pass," commented Schembechler, who terms his flanker back Jim Smith, also an All-American, as probably the finest receiver in college football.

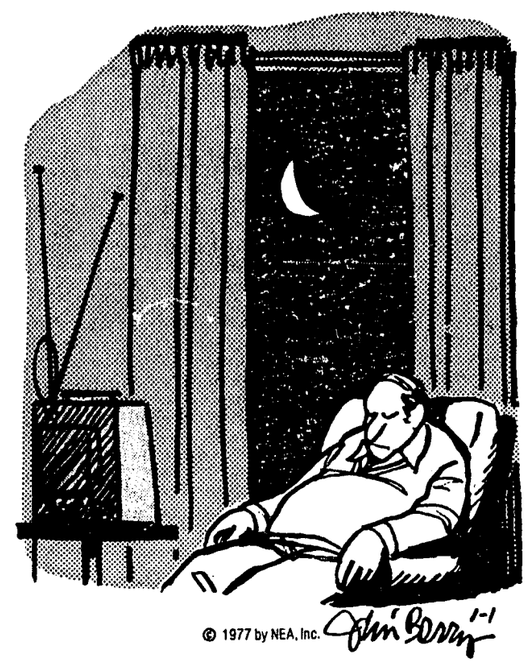

Southern California boasts an All-American on its defensive team – free safety Dennis Thurman. His pass interception return yardage of 170 led the nation.

The Big Ten and the Pac-8 signed their Rose Bowl pact starting with the 1947 game. Of 30 games played, the Big Ten has won 18 and the Pac-8 has won 12, including seven of the past 10. The Pac-8's Stanford beat Michigan 13-12 in 1972 and a Southern Cal beat the Wolverines 10-3 in 1970, the year Schembechler suffered a heart attack just prior to the game.

"I hope this third time is the charm," said Schembechler.

Pittsburgh, Dorsett Risk Top Ranking In Sugar

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – The University of Pittsburgh and all-time rushing king Tony Dorsett put their No. 1 ranking on the line in the Sugar Bowl against fifth-ranked Georgia in a dramatic rags-to-riches bid for college football's national championship.

It will end an era since a dozen starters, including Dorsett, will be playing their final game, and miracle-worker Coach Johnny Majors is leaving for the University of Tennessee.

In the four years since they arrived, Dorsett and Majors revived Pitt from a 1-10 record in 1972 to a 11-0 mark this year. The Panthers are one step from their first national title in 39 years and their first perfect campaign since 1918.

"We have the right to claim the No. 1 ranking at this stage and a final chance to prove it or not to prove it," Majors said Friday after canceling Pitt's final scheduled workout because of windy conditions.

The weather, however, will have no effect Saturday on the second Sugar Bowl game inside the gigantic New Orleans Superdome, and a strike by the stadium's service employes has been limited by law to an area where it won't threaten the nationally televised ABC-TV, 12:30 p.m., EST game.

Dorsett, Majors and the cinderella Panthers have commanded most of the headlines, but Majors said he doesn't plan to make his imminent departure "a big emotional deal. That's not my cup of tea, although I'm a naturally enthusiastic guy. Whether I go out on a winning note is not important. The national championship is the most important thing."

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley thinks his club should be considered for the national championship if it knocks off Pitt. The Bulldogs, 10-1 and champions of the Southeastern Conference, have plenty of weapons of their own.

"We're very similar to Pitt from the standpoint that we're both extremely well-balanced," Dooley said. "We're very close in scoring offense and scoring defense and we both have excellent kicking games.

"The one difference is that they have a Superman and we don't. That's the only description I can find for Dorsett because he's super in every respect."

In setting a single-season NCAA record of 1,948 rushing yards this fall and a career mark of 6,082, Dorsett set or tied 18 NCAA standards. He also won the Heisman Trophy in a landslide.

In the national rushing statistics, Pitt is seventh with 290.7 yards a game while Georgia is 11th at 279.5. Pitt is sixth in scoring with a 32.2-point average and Georgia is 11th at 29.5. And both have solid defense, with Pitt among the top 10 in total defense and rushing defense and Georgia listed among those teams allowing the fewest points.

"Georgia's defense team comes up with a lot of big plays," Majors said, "and that's our biggest concern right now. I think the winner will have to score at least three touchdowns."

Georgia has at least one problem besides trying to stop Dorsett, even though the Bulldogs held him to 101 yards in 1973 – his collegiate debut – and 104 in a 1975 meeting. Dooley is concerned about the Superdome's artifical turf.

"The turf will be a help to Pitt because it tends to make fast backs even faster," he said. "Why doesn't it makes the pursuing defenses faster, too? I don't know. We've only played one game on artificial turf all season. It was Georgia's only loss, 21-17 to Mississippi and there's a difference in the way the ball bounces. You've also got to learn how to fall on the turf because it's different if you're not used to it."

Pitt, on the other hand, played all but three games on artificial turf and practiced on it almost every day.

"We've played well on all surfaces," Majors said, a remark to which an 11-0 coach is entitled. "We try to make as little a deal as possible out of different conditions."

The shot at the national championship caps a rebuilding program Majors began when he brought more than 70 newcomers to Pitt for the 1973 campaign.

"We talked about a national championship, but I don't know if I really believed it," he recalled. "But you've got to have something to shoot for. Pitt had been there before, and that was a base to build on, or I wouldn't have taken the job. But I didn't really start to believe it until last year."

Meanwhile, Majors put in a plug for Georgia and Dooley, an old friend. "Georgia should get due consideration for the No. 1 ranking if they win," he said.

"Pittsburgh has every claim to be No. 1...right now," Dooley replied.

INGLEWOOD – Still trying to snap a slump, the Los Angeles Kings go from one eastern power to another when they host the Boston Bruins tonight at 8 at The Forum.

Los Angeles is 12-16-10 after losing two straight and 2-0 to Philadelphia Thursday night. Boston brings a 23-11-3 record into the New Year's Night contest.

The Bruins, who are on a 16-day road trip, defeated the Kings 4-2 Oct. 23 and have dominated the series by 35-11-3.

'Just Another Game' Could Be Classic

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) – The national collegiate football championship is at stake Saturday in the 63rd Rose Bowl game, head coaches of the competing teams contend, no matter what top-ranked Pittsburgh does in the Sugar Bowl against No. 5 Georgia.

Whether it works out that way in the final poll remains to be seen. But indications are the Rose Bowl matchup between second-ranked Michigan, 10-1, and third-ranked Southern California, 10-1, could be a classic.

And if Pittsburgh happens to lose to the Bulldogs – or even tie or win by a narrow margin – the winner of the Wolverines-TROJANS Tussle in Pasadena could very well determine the mythical national title.

"It's not just another bowl game," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler. "I think the national championship is in the balance."

He said he told his players if Pittsburgh beats Georgia, "It doesn't make any difference. The two best teams in the country are playing in the Rose Bowl.

"I can't hardly believe Pittsburgh can beat Southern Cal," he said. "So if we beat Southern Cal, we'll definitely win the national championship. Southern Cal is one of the great, great teams we ever played against ... If we win, we'll be No. 1 and nobody will ever convince me otherwise."

John Robinson, in his first year as Trojan coach, conceded that the "whole national championship thing is subjective. But I can say if we beat Michigan, we'll be national champion, just like Michigan can say it is the national champion if it wins.

"It's not that big a deal, but I'd be glad to be No. 1," Robinson added.

A record Rose Bowl Stadium crowd of nearly 107,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. PST game, which will be televised nationally.

Michigan is making its first appearance since 1972, when it lost 13-12 to Stanford on a field goal by Rod Garcia in the final 12 seconds. Two years earlier, the Wolverines lost to Southern Cal, 10-3, while Schembechler – former Miami of Ohio coach and then in his first year at Michigan – lay hospitalized with a heart sttack suffered the night before. Defensive coordinator Jim Young ran the team.

The Wolverines own a 4-2 Rose Bowl record, including a 49-0 drubbing of Stanford in the 1902 inaugural game.

The Trojans will be extending their record to 21 appearances. They've won 14 and lost six, the last setback coming in 1974, 42-21 to Ohio State. They won the next year 18-17 over the Buckeyes, Big Ten Conference representatives the past four years.

Ohio State and Michigan tied for the conference title this year with a 7-1 record, but the Wolverines earned the trip by trouncing the Bucks 22-0.

Southern Cal beat out UCLA for the Pacific Eight championship to earn its spot in the "granddaddy" of the bowl games.

The Wolverines left in a snowfall from Ann Arbor and arrived in Pasadena Dec. 20 to begin preparations.

Kentucky Peachy In Second Half

ATLANTA (AP) – Bowl-starved Kentucky, making its first appearance in a post-season classic in 25 years, took charge in the second half behind an aroused defense and three touchdowns by Rod Stewart for a 21-0 victory over North Carolina Friday in the ninth annual Peach Bowl football game.

Stewart, a sophomore fullback from Lancaster, Ohio, snapped a scoreless tie when he plunged over from one yard out early in the third period. He scored again on a 13-yard burst early in the fourth period and added his third TD on a three-yard run with 3:04 left to play.

Mike Voight, North Carolina's running back who gained 1,407 yards this year and was voted the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, missed the contest after spraining an ankle in practice Wednesday.

Without Voight, 19th-ranked North Carolina, 8-3, could generate little offense. The Tar Heels gained only 76 yards and three first downs in the first half.

They gained only five yards in the third period when Kentucky took charge of the contest.

Kentucky, 8-4, was led on defense by linebacker Jim Kovach and defensive end Art Still.

North Carolina Quarterback Matt Kupec, harassed all day by the aroused Wildcats defenders, was intercepted three times and fumbled once.

Kupec's fumble led to Kentucky's first touchdown.

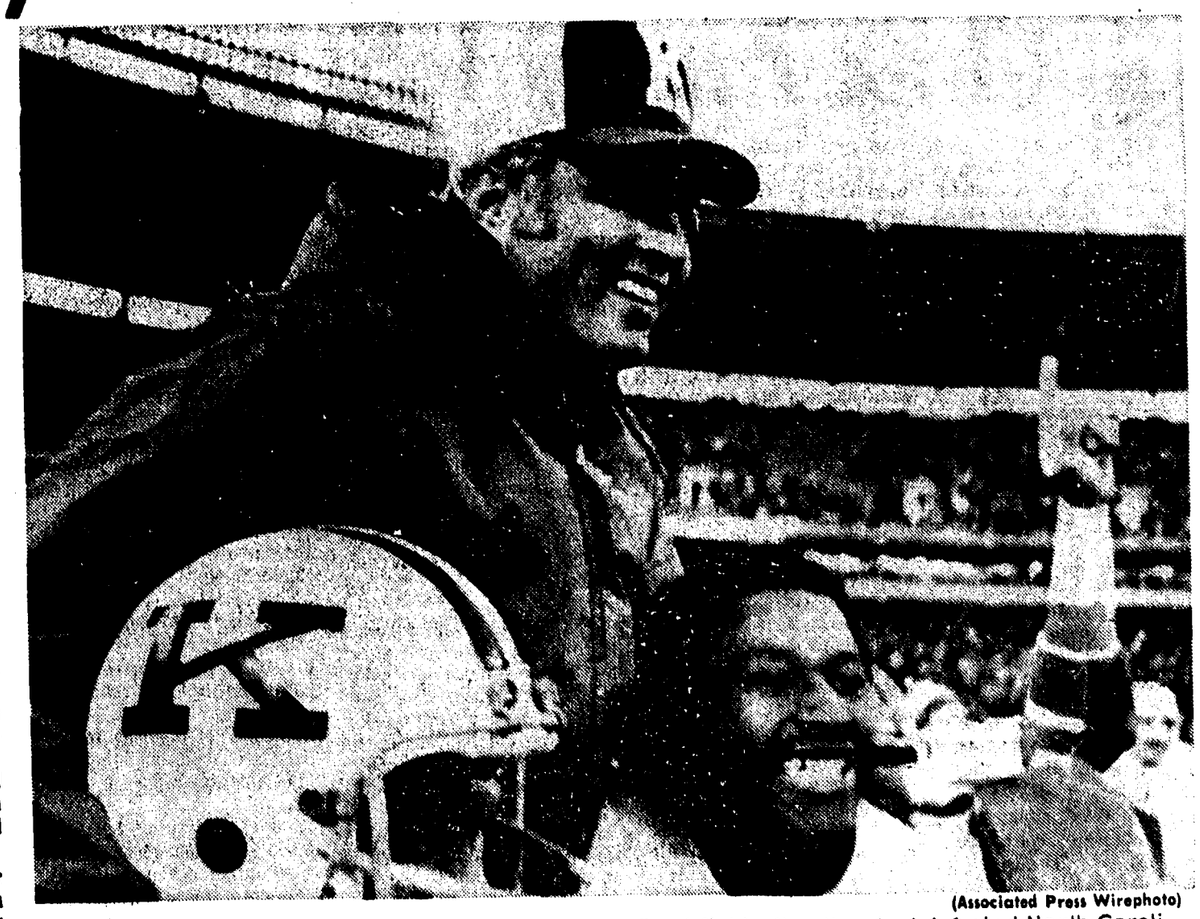

Early in the third period the freshman quarterback fumbled while attempting to pass and defensive tackle James Ramey recovered for the Wildcats on the North Carolina 21.

Seven plays later, Stewart, who was voted the game's outstanding offensive player and led the Wildcats with 104 yards in 19 carries, scored from one yard out after 5:05 of the period.

Kentucky quarterback Derrick Ramsey, who led the nation's quarterbacks in rushing, then engineered a 57-yard scoring drive in nine plays. Stewart blasted through the middle from 13 yards out after 1:59 of the final period.

Stewart scored his third touchdown of the game with 3:04 left as Kentucky moved 47 yards in 10 plays.

Kentucky missed another scoring opportunity early in the last quarter when Greg Woods fumbled on the one-yard line.

Sports Had a Whacky Time During 1976

By FRANK H. ECK
AP Newsfeatures

Sports in 1976 had its wackiest year ever. Professionals played baseball 10 days short of November in a revamped stadium costing $100,000,000 without a roof, hockey went into the merry month of May, basketball barely beat June graduations, pro football began in July, ended in January, and the world's heavyweight boxing champion tangled with a wrestler in a farce and later retired for the fourth time. At year's end the champ talked of unretiring. The Olympics? They were held in Montreal during the United States' bicentennial year.

Most of the year's highlights follow:

JANUARY

Alabama 13, Penn State 6 in Sugar Bowl. Arkansas trims Georgia in Cotton Bowl 31-10. UCLA upsets No. 1 unbeaten Ohio State 23-10 in Rose Bowl. Oklahoma 14, Michigan 6 in Orange Bowl. Coach Paul Brown quits Cincinnati Bengals post, names Bill Johnson coach.

Florida State drops football coach Darrell Mudra. Seattle Seahawks of NFL name Jack Patera coach. Pittsburgh Steelers beat Oakland 16-10, Dallas Cowboys trim Los Angeles 37-7 in NFL playoffs.

Yachtsman Ted Turner buys Atlanta Braves. N.Y. Rangers hire John Ferguson to replace fired GM Emile Francis and Coach Ron Stewart. San Francisco Giants sold for move to Toronto. Dan Ripley raises world indoor pole vault mark to 18 feet 1¼ inches.

Fred Dunlap to coach Colgate football. Star of the Sea takes Tropical Park Derby. Philadelphia Flyers beat Russian Army hockey team, 4-1. John Miller takes third straight Tucson Open. Bobby Bowden to coach Florida State. John Whitehead gets Lehigh coaching job. Monte Clark to coach San Francisco 49ers.

Pittsburgh Steelers retain NFL title, beating Dallas Cowboys 21-17. Bob Gilder wins Phoenix Open. New football coaches: Hank Stram with New Orleans Saints; Homer Rice at Rice and Dean Smith at West Virginia.

Gonzalo Prosper rides six Suffolk winners. George Foreman knocks out Ron Lyle in five rounds. Ben Crenshaw takes Crosby golf. Rodolfo Martinez beats Venice Borkorsor, retains WBC bantamweight title.

FEBRUARY

Peter Gregg and Brian Redman win 24 Hours of Daytona. Crenshaw wins Hawaiian Open. Sheila Young of Detroit wins 500-meters ice skating gold medal in Winter Olympics. American League returns to Seattle for 1977. UCLA's Dick Vermeil to coach Philadelphia Eagles. John Miller wins Bob Hope golf.

North Carolina State's Lou Holtz to coach NY Jets. Jo-Ni's Red Baron of Crofton, a Lakeland terrier, wins best-in-show at 100th Westminister. Giants are sold but will stay in San Francisco. Terry Donohue to coach UCLA football.

Peter Mueller of Mequon, Wis., wins 1,000 meters speed skating title at Innsbruck. Dorothy Hamill, Riverside, Conn., takes Olympic figure skating gold medal. J. C. Snead wins San Diego Open.

David Pearson wins Daytona 500. Robert Rein to coach NC State. Sandy Hawley rides six Santa Anita winners. Muhammad Ali stops Jean-Pierre Coopman in five rounds. Dan Ripley pole vaults 18 feet 3¾ inches; Dwight Stones high-jumps 7 feet 6¼ inches, both world indoor marks.

Hale Irwin takes Los Angeles Open. Ilie Nastase upsets Jimmy Connors for national indoor tennis title. Stones raises high jump mark to 7 feet 6½ inches.

Unbeaten Alfonso Lopez stops WBA flyweight champion Erbito Salavarria in 15th round for title. Honest Pleasure takes Flamingo Stakes. Minnesota joins Denver-Ottawa as a former WHA team.

MARCH

Ron Turcotte rides six Aqueduct winners. Bill Rigney to pilot San Francisco Giants. Irwin takes Cirtrus golf. Willie Shoemaker rides 7,000th winner. Hubert Green wins Doral Open. Hale the Pirates takes Gulfstream Handicap. Green wins Jacksonville Open. John Stracey stops Hedgemon Lewis in 10 rounds, keeps WBC welterweight title.

Labatt's brewery buys Toronto American League franchise for 1977. Rodrigo Valdez retains WBC middleweight crown, stopping Max Cohen in four rounds. Hubert Green takes Heritage golf, his third straight PGA win. Clay Ragazzoni wins US Grand Prix West. An Act takes Santa Anita Derby.

APRIL

Unbeaten Indiana beats Michigan 86-68 for 32nd win and NCAA basketball crown. Oakland trades Reggie Jackson and Ken Holtzman to Baltimore for Don Baylor and Mike Torrez. Victor Galindez stops Harold Skag in third round, keeps WBA light heavy title.

WBA bantamweight champ Alfonso Zamora stops Eusebio Pedroza in two rounds. Honest Pleasure takes Florida Derby. Al Geiberger wins Greensboro Open.

Judy Rankin takes Winner's Circle event. San Francisco 49ers obtain Jim Plunkett from New England. Montreal, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago win NHL divisions. Denver first for ABA regular season. Michigan State names Darryl Rogers football coach, replacing resigned Denny Stolz.

Is Maryland Really 4? Houston Asking

DALLAS (AP) – No matter which tailback is carrying the ball, fullback Tim Wilson will be throwing most of the blocks for fourth-ranked Maryland in today's Cotton Bowl game.

The tailback carries the ball on more than half the running plays in Maryland's Slot-I formation, and Wilson has helped clear the way for four of them to gain a whopping 1,714 yards this season.

But if sixth-ranked Houston ignores Wilson while keying on the tailback, the Cougars could be in for a rude awakening.

Carrying the ball 138 times this season, 56 more attempts than last year, the 215-pound Wilson has gained 610 yards – only 68 fewer than the team leader – and paces the unbeaten Terps with seven touchdowns.

"Of course, I'd like to carry the ball more," said Wilson. "But I look on it like a job. If they tell me to carry, I try to pick up yards. If they tell me to block, I try to get somebody on the ground.

"I'm like an offensive guard, only I touch the ball once in awhile."

Steve Atkins, a sophomore who appears headed for stardom if he can avoid further injury, opened at tailback for Maryland this season.

He gained 517 yards in the first three games, setting a school record with 215 against Syracuse, and was among the national leaders with 621 yards when a knee injury cut him down in the second quarter of the fifth game.

Alvin "Preacher" Maddox, another sophomore, was hustled in to replace Atkins and in the second half of the same game picked up 138 yards.

Maddox went out with a leg injury the following week, opening the way for freshman George Scott to pound out 83 and 96 yards from tailback in the next two games.

Maddox returned later to gain 129 yards against Kentucky and 132 against Clemson before Scott joined the 100-yard club with a 124-yard performance against Virginia in the regular season finale, Tony Black, a sophomore, added 46 yards in a reserve role during the season.

"All three are good runners," Wilson said, "but don't forget to give the offensive line credit. Those guys take as much pride in their blocking as I do. We all feel bad if we miss a block."

"A victory over Houston would help Maryland football a couple of light years," added Maryland quarterback Mark Manges. "For one thing, the Southwest Conference is tougher than the Big Eight Conference. It would be a big boost for Eastern football."

Texas Aggies' Muscle Vs. Florida Speed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) – It's 10th-ranked Texas A&M's muscle against Florida's speed in the 42nd annual Sun Bowl on Sunday.

Florida features a big-play offense out of the Wishbone with a quarterback, Jimmy Fisher, who led the Southeast Conference in passing.

The Aggies rely more on ballcontrol offensively because of an intimidating defense headed by All-American middle linebacker Robert Jackson.

"Florida depends a lot on the big play, and we've got to keep them fenced in," says Aggie Coach Emory Bellard.

Florida Coach Doug Dickey has one word to describe A&M's defense: "Awesome."

Dickey said he sent a delegation of assistant coaches to A&M in the spring to learn something about the Aggie defense.

"I guess they didn't quite tell us everything because our defense hasn't been that good this year," said Dickey. "Maybe it's the people they've got playing for them....They've got a lot of talent on defense."

Bellard said Florida can score from anywhere, anytime.

"Their quarterback does a good job of throwing the ball, and that Wes Chandler is as good a receiver as there is in the country," said Bellard.

The 42nd annual "Fun Bowl," as El Paso officials like to call it, is a sellout with a standing room crowd of some 36,000 expected along with the millions of national television viewers.

Florida was 8-3 overall and 42 in the SEC.

The Texas Aggies finished 9-2 and were 6-2 in the Southwest Conference. Both lost in bowl games last year – Florida to Maryland in the Gator and Texas A&M to Southern California in the Liberty.

The Aggie Wishbone features massive 240-pound fullback George Woodard, something of a human sledgehammer who bulled and bowled his way four and five yards a carry to more than 1,000 yards this season.

Bellard also boasts one of the finest freshmen in the country, halfback Curtis Dickey, a sprinter with tremendous moves.

Dickey says "A&M is probably the best team we've seen since we played Nebraska in the 1974 Sugar Bowl."

The oddsmakers rate the Gators a six-point underdog to the Aggies.

Eddie Edwards Knows About Needy Children

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) – Eddie Edwards, one of several All-Americans who will be playing in Sunday's Shrine East-West Game for the benefit of crippled children, has a houseful of children to take care of at home in Florida.

"This whole thing has had me kind of worried," says Edwards, the All-American defensive tackle whose mother was killed by a hit-and-run driver two months ago.

Now Edwards, the University of Miami star, is the head of a household in Fort Pierce, Fla., composed of six children including his brothers and sisters, nieces and a nephew. They live in a rented two-bedroom house.

"If I make it in pro ball, I'll have enough money to take care of things at home," said Edwards, a 6-foot-4, 248-pounder with good speed who is sure to be high on National Football League teams' draft lists.

Sunny weather has been forecast for the 52nd East-West Game at Stanford Stadium. The all-star clash, with its usual gigantic pregame and halftime pageants, drew a crowd of 76,000 fans last year and the Shriners are hoping for a similar turnout Sunday.

The East, coached by Joe Yukica of Boston College, is expected to rely more on its running game than the West, coached by Grant Teaff of Baylor.

One of the East running backs is Purdue's Scott Dierking, the star of the Boilermakers' upset victory over then top-ranked Michigan in 1976. Blockers include highly regarded linemen Steve Schindler of Boston College, Bill Bryan of Duke and David Garasimchuk of Alabama.

West quarterbacks Joe Roth of California and Mark Jackson of Baylor will be working behind a line including two All-Americans, Ted Albrecht of Cal and John Yarno of Idaho. The pass receivers include Tony Hill of Stanford, and the running back corps is led by Wendell Tyler of UCLA.

Griffin In Bowl Game; Know Any News?

MIAMI (AP) – For the fifth straight season, a Griffin will start in a major college football bowl game today.

Archie Griffin played in the spotlight of a record-shattering tailback and the lone two-time Heisman Trophy winner for Ohio State in four Rose Bowls.

His brother, Ray, will perform in relative obscurity in the Orange Bowl Saturday night. The 5-foot-9, 182-pound junior will start at defensive safety for the Buckeyes.

All but vanished are the dreams – those of his mother, Margaret, and his own – of duplicating Archie's feat, winning a Heisman. Ray is a realist. He knows defensive players just don't get the coveted award these days.

Still, the fifth of seven football-playing sons of a Columbus, Ohio, laborer does not want to return to his old spot at tailback.

"At the time I made the move to defense," recalled Ray, "I felt it was the right move for only one year. I was hesitant to stay on defense. Now there's no question. If I had a chance to go back to the offense, I wouldn't go."

The younger Griffin credits Dick Walker, the team's defensive backfield coach, for his talking him into staying with the defensive platoon.

Walker had good reasons. "Ray is the hardest-hitting safety I've ever had," said the Buckeyes' coach.

Ray said of Walker, "He knew I wanted to play pro ball. He told me about our defensive backs in the pros. He told me they have no ability that I don't have."

The little safety ticked off the names of former Ohio Staters in the National Football League – Jack Tatum, Neal Colzie, Tim Fox, Mike Sensibaugh and Doug Plank.

Why is Griffin so enamored with the defense?

"It's more of a challenge," he said. "As a running back, you know which direction you're going. On defense, you have to react. You never know which way they're going. And when you stick somebody, you feel good inside."

Ray's 1976 statistics are deceiving: 11 tackles per game and only one interception and one fumble recovery all season.

Said George Hill, the team's defensive coordinator, "He doesn't have statistics others do because other teams run away from him. That's a real tribute."

Ray would rather be where the action is. "It was disappointing, frustrating to me," he said of this fall.

Duncan Griffin, a sophomore defensive back, is following in the Ohio State footsteps of Archie and Ray. The other brothers are James Jr., who played at Muskingum College; Daryl (Kent State), Larry (Louisville) and Keith (a ninth grader). The lone daughter is Crystal.

"Did Secretariat race any after his three-year-old year and did he win all three Triple Crown events? What is his complete racing record – races won and money earned?" – George Levinson, Santa Ana.

Secretariat, the ninth horse to sweep all three Triple Crown events – the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes – retired from racing after his easy victory in the Canadian International championship stakes on Oct. 28, 1973. The great son of Bold Ruler started 21 times, winning 16 rces, three seconds, one third and was unplaced but once with earnings of $1,316,808.

"Why is it that whenever an apprentice rider wins a few races the owners and trainers all seem to fight for his services, even over the more experienced jockeys? Is the five-pound apprentice allowance that valuable?" – Lawrence Woods, Buena Park.

It's hard to say what makes some go for the apprentice over more experienced riders but, in my opinion, they will go for the "hot" rider whether he is an apprentice of a journeyman jockey because of his experience and ability to judge pace and conserve a horse's energy better than a less experienced rider.

Personally I believe the light weighted apprentice rider is a boon to a fast-starting sprinter but that older riders with their experience have a definite advantage gained in the longer route races, a factor which may overshadow any weight advantage gained by using an apprentice.

As to how much value the five-pounds is, you will find a difference of opinion among the experts. It's this difference of opinion that makes horse racing and in the long run it's only the results that count so who is to say what advantages the apprentice or journeyman have over each other?

"I recently bet on a horse that broke down soon after leaving the starting gate. Why is it we never hear what happens to a horse when it breaks down unless it happens to be one of the "big name" horses?" – Ralph Selden, Fullerton.

In most cases it is a lack of space that prevents following up any happenings to the average race horse and, just like in all other sports or everyday life, it is the "big names" that get all the headlines.

Majors, Bo Remember When

By Associated Press

Two of the four bowl games on New Year's Day most likely will decide college football's national championship. All the same, two of the four coaches involved can't help but dally a while in the past.

Johnny Majors, whose top-ranked Pitt Panthers face No. 5 Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, and Bo Schembechler, whose No. 2 Michigan meets No. 3 Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, have been there before – one could almost add, "unfortunately."

The last time Majors was involved in the Sugar Bowl was 20 years ago, as a runningback for Tennessee. He had had a brilliant year, finishing second to Notre Dame's Paul Hornung in the Heisman Trophy balloting.

But this day was not to be his.

Tennesse, leading 7-6, was driving for a touchdown in the third quarter when Majors' teammate, guard Bruce Burnham, was kicked in the head.

"It was the last rites on the field," Majors said. "It was the most horrible thing I've ever seen."

In the fourth quarter, Majors dropped a punt deep in Tennessee territory, and Baylor went in for the winning touchdown.

The Sugar Bowl will be Majors' last game with Pittsburgh. He will become head coach at Tennessee next season.

If Pitt, 11-0, loses to Georgia, the winner of the Rose Bowl – Michigan or Southern Cal – probably will be voted national champion.

Michigan's last trips to the Rose Bowl were in 1970 and 1972, both unsuccessful outings. In 1970, Schembechler had guided the Wolverines to a 9-1 record, but on New Year's Eve, he had a heart attack that was termed "mild."

The next day, Michigan lost 10-3 to Southern Cal.

Schembechler went into this season recovering from open heart surgery last May. But he says he doesn't let it worry him.

"Oh, I don't think much about it," he said. "You don't go into retirement today with open heart surgery."

Before deciding on surgery, Schembechler said he "went around to a lot of people and studied this thing. I kept coming back to the same team (of surgeons) in Ann Arbor."

While awaiting the operation, Schembechler says he psyched himself up..

"One of the doctors was making his rounds and I told him, 'Hey, I'm all jacked up for this operation. I hope you are.' He said, 'Coach, I'm ready. I've been practicing all day.'"

In other bowl games Saturday, No. 4 Maryland, 11-0, meets Southwest Conference cochampion Houston, ranked No. 6 with an 8-2 mark, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and No. 11 Ohio State, 8-2-1, faces No. 12 Colorado, Big Eight cochampion with an 8-3 mark, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

On Sunday, No. 10 Texas A&M, 9-2, meets Florida, 8-3, in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. Also, two college all-star games are on tap Sunday.

Bud Tucker's TODAY

For Auld Lang Syne

Should old acquaintance be forgot and never brought to mind? Should old acquaintance be forgot and days of Auld Lang Syne...

As the glasses are raised this New Year's, the toast is to the good guys from the world of fun and games who left us during the 12 months just past. This earth was better off for having known them and their acquaintance will not be soon forgotten.

Should old acquaintance be forgot...

Danny Murtaugh was a dedicated subscriber to theory that one good story deserves another. Whenever you brought him a joke in the dugout, he would lay one on you in return and his was usually the topper.

Danny maraged the Pittsburgh Pirates four or five times, off and on. He was often sick and tired when he came back to game he loved and the people he loved and the people who loved him.

Far more than most, Danny Murtaugh's favorite young man. He was a good pitcher but he was far more. The moose was a fun guy, one of those you like to have around.

A car crash is far too violent a way to end a young life.

Should old acquaintance be forgot...

Teddy Bentham, the old fight trainer, looked after a thousand warriors but still found time to write his own epitaph:

"He did his job and kept his mouthshut."

And days of Auld Lang Syne...

Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom fought a hell of a fight. He went right down to the final bell and kept getting up at the nine count until his passing was a mercy.

Maxie took his sense of humor with him. The last time I saw him, he was in bed terribly ill and said, "I'm lying on my back so you'll recognize me."

For Auld Lang Syne, my dear...

John Korallis operated the press box elevators at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita for 25 years. A delightful man, John had a daily release and damned if it didn't win once in awhile.

John always said all his touts wore guaranteed because "if it doesn't win, I'll give you another one."

For Auld Lang Syne...

Paul Russo, the former Indianapolis race driver was one of the great practical jokers of all time. You can bet me right now that Russo isn't putting starch on the wings of such angels as Jimmy Bryant and Eddie Sachs.

We'll take a cup of kindness yet...

Danny Thompson, the Texas Ranger infielder, was only 29 when the crawling disease took him. He was one of those quiet kids who do not demand a great deal.

Danny just wanted a chance to play baseball and listen to his beloved music and lead a decent life. The box score in this game never shows the tragedy.

The tragedy is shown when a young man goes out like Blenda Gay, senselessly and violently. The search for the proper words is altogether in vain.

For Auld Lang Syne...

New York Jets players who had dealings with the owner said only of Phil Iselin, "he was tough but he was fair and he was honest."

There is a sickness in sports today which might be cured by more attention to such a testimony.

It is of the tough guys and happy guys and gentle guys and sad guys that the legends of sports are made. It is of the good guy who are gone that memories are made.

Should old Acquaintance be forgot? And never brought to mind...

No, not this year. Or any other.

Ohio St. In First Bowl Game (Except Rose)

MIAMI (AP) – Ohio State, ranked 11th nationally and holding a share of the Big Ten championship, makes its first post-season appearance away from the Rose Bowl today night when the Buckeyes tangle with No. 12 Colorado in the Orange Bowl football game.

The 43rd annual event has lost some of its prestige since neither team is in the running for the national championship, but both coaches – Bill Mallory of Colorado and Woody Hayes of Ohio State – contend that aspect has been overplayed.

"We look at it with a lot of respect," Mallory said. "You are going to always find some people downgrading something. We are both cochampions. I think that's a pretty darn good accomplishment in two excellent leagues."

"I second what Bill said," Hayes added.

The Buckeyes, 8-2-1, are a one-touchdown favorite to win the nationally televised battle (NBC, 8 p.m., EST) before an expected sellout crowd of 79,000.

Mallory, a former assistant under Hayes at Ohio State, reported the only casualty. Both teams enter at virtually full strength. Reserve tailback Howard Ballage underwent surgery Thursday and won't be available to relieve Tony Reed, the All-Big Eight tailback who rambled for 1,210 yards in the Buffaloes' 8-3 campaign.

Hayes remained noncommittal concerning his starting quarterback, but Mallory had no doubts, saying, "I think he'll start Jim Pacenta."

Pacenta passed for 400 yards in Ohio State's run-oriented attack. The other quarterback under consideration, Rod Gerald, was the team's No. 3 rusher with 384 yards behind Jeff Logan's 1,169 and injury-plagued Pete Johnson's 698.

Johnson, having scored a school-record 57 career touchdowns, is reported to be back in form after being slowed throughout the year, spraining both ankles in the Missouri game.

Both coaches said the key will be stopping the other team's running game. Hayes added that Colorado was more versatile than his team because of the passing of Jeff Knapple, who threw for just over 900 yards.

Mallory said his team would have to be ready for anything, however, and Hayes quickly quipped, "You may be right, Bill. We may pass you right off the field."

Hayes was in a jovial mood, often smiling as he and Mallory held their final news conference Friday. No one expects a passing show from the man who has won 221 games primarily with a strong running game.

"We've gotten to the place now where neither Bill nor I will tell you much," Hayes said.

Hayes Claims Pitt 'Played Safe'

MIAMI (AP) – Ohio State's Woody Hayes said Friday top-ranked Pittsburgh played it safe in accepting a Sugar Bowl matchup with Georgia rather than an Orange Bowl bid to meet Colorado.

"Pittsburgh had a chance to come here but they backed off," Hayes said at a joint news conference with Colorado Coach Bill Mallory. "That's the reason we're here. We're the second choice. The only question I have is, why?"

Hayes refused to elaborate on his statement. When asked for an opinion on the poll ratings, he said, "I have feelings about everything. But sometimes I find it better if I keep them to myself."

Mallory didn't comment on the poll argument, which heated up Thursday when Bo Schembechler of No. 2 Michigan and John Robinson of No. 3 Southern California claimed that the winner of their Rose Bowl game should be the national champion.

Pittsburgh Coach Johnny Majors called that claim "the most ridiculous farce ever perpetrated."

Mallory did defend the Orange Bowl matchup which will draw a capacity crowd, but he has been criticized because of the low ratings of the teams. Big Eight tri-champion Colorado (8-3) is rated 12th, Big Ten co-champion Ohio State (8-2-1) is 11th.

"I don't care what they say. You're always going to have people downgrading something," said Mallory. "I think it's going to be a heck of a football game. We're both cochampions. I think that's a darn good accomplishment for both teams.

"I think there's undoubtedly prestige involved in the outcome," said Mallory. "We talk in recruiting about our conference being as good as there is. The Big Ten will do the same thing. When we match up, it's important we win."

Indiana's Knight Critical Of His All-American

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) – Bobby Knight, disappointed by his young Indiana team's 5-4 record, has criticized All-American center Kent Benson for not carrying his share of the load.

"Benson has been playing very poorly," Knight said Thursday night after Indiana lost 52-43 to No. 5 Cincinnati in the finals of the Sugar Bowl college basketball tourney. It was the Hoosiers' lowest point total since 1951.

"There's a tremendous burden on his shoulders with all the underclassmen, and he's just not carrying it," the coach said of his 6-foot-11 center.

Benson is the only returning starter from the Hoosiers' unbeaten team which won the NCAA championship last year. This year, Indiana has been dropped from the rankings.

Thursday night, Benson was good for just eight points, 11 under his average entering the game.

Knight's unhappiness with his star player was evident when he benched Benson for 10 minutes, including nine in the second half.

But the perfectionist coach, whose team this year already has lost more games than his past two teams combined, is unhappy about other things as well.

"We're making mistakes again and again. And it's not because of youth. It's because of a lack of concentration," he said. "Until our kids know what's wrong and realize it, we're not going to be good. It's playing as well as we can that concerns me."

To which he added: "We're going to be a very mediocre team the way we've been playing, and I for one don't like being mediocre."

One of Knight's problems has been finding the right starting lineup. He has tried seven combinations in nine games so far, but none has met his expectations.

Freshman guard Bill Cunningham, awarded a rare start against Cincinnati, led the Hoosiers with 16 points, almost all of them on long jumpers over the Bearcats' zone defense. But two of Indiana's starters – Jim Wisman and Derek Holcomb – failed to score.

Smith Boys Battle For Scoring Lead

Orange County's JC basketball scoring derby has turned into a contest between the Smiths.....Steve Smith of Santa Ana College and Dennis Smith of Saddleback College.

Both sophomores, the Smiths look like they may stay at the top of the county's scoring sheets after a hot December. Smith of the Dons has a firm grip on the No. 1 spot with a healthy 25.3 average.

Smith of Saddleback, the defending scoring champ after a sensational frosh start, is averaging 21.9 after 15 starts in his sophomore season.

Tyrone Branyan, a consistent scorer at Cypress College, ranks No. 3 with a 19.3 average followed by freshman Tim Smith of the Gauchos at 18.2.

Bourbon Street 'Out' For Pitt

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – After a week of hard work and some equally intense partying, the Pitt football team settled down for a restful New Year's Eve away from the revelry on Bourbon Street.

"There's a time for fun and a time for football," said 255-pound tackle Don Parrish. "No Bourbon Street tonight. When midnight comes, we'll all be in our beds dreaming."

Dreaming perhaps of the No.1 ranking Pitt has at stake in the Sugar Bowl.

"We all know what this game means. We can do our partying tomorrow night," Tony Dorsett said.

The team did have time to sample the night life earlier this week. There were no curfews Sunday or Monday and post-midnight curfews the next two nights. "Coach (Johnny) Majors treats us like mature individuals, and we respond to that," said end Jim Corbett.

Six years ago, Georgia's players whooped it up the week before the Sugar Bowl and were upset by Arkansas. There was hardly a chance for a encore this time. Coach Vince Dooley put an 11 p.m. curfew on his team for the week.

Majors stressed he was not critical of Dooley's curb on hours. "There are a lot of ways to skin a cat. You have a curfew according to how the situation fits you," he said. "If this were a young team, I'd have to tuck them in, but it's an experienced team and they behave themselves."

Sporting Crowd In Mourning For Phil

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) – It was a sporting crowd, but it was in a mourning mood.

It had come Friday to bury Philip Iselin, president of the New York Jets and Monmouth Park racetrack, who died of a heart attack in New York Wednesday.

"We are all gathered here, friends of Phil Iselin, and instead of grieving I propose we celebrate Phil Iselin and the fact he graced this earth for 74 years," said sportscaster Howard Cosell, who delivered one of two eulogies during a 30-minute service at Temple Beth Miriam.

Cosell said Iselin was a man of "unbounded compassion, warmth and generosity almost to a fault.

"Those of us in the sports world knew of Phil as president of Monmouth racetrack and the New York Jets. At Monmouth Park he was known as the small gentleman with the shock of white hair who would be up at 5 a.m. in the stable area. He was a contemporary man.

"And the New York Jets; I look out at Winston Hill, Randy Rasmussen, and Joe Namath and I remember when he reached the pinnacle. He won the Super Bowl. And now they come because of love.

"Phil Iselin was indeed a great man because he was a man of love."

Among the mourners was National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who before the service described Iselin as a"very caring, warm man."

Wellington Mara, president of the New York Giants; Jets running back Ed Marinaro; former Giants coach Ali Sherman, and racing stable owner James Cox Brady Jr., also were there.

So were a handful of backstretch employes from Monmouth Park.

Rabbi Joseph Goldman said Iselin "was able to provide warmth and nourishment of the spirit," and that the inscription in Iselin's Super Bowl ring was apropos: "Style and execution."

He said that "Phil Iselin loved the sporting event that was life."

Iselin suffered a heart attack Sept. 19 at a football game in Denver. He had been on a reduced work schedule when he died in his office at the Jets' Manhattan headquarters. He is survived by his wife, Betty, a son and a daughter.

Pickets Up But They Won't Stop 'Sugar'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – Pickets were up Friday but though the Superdome might look like a litter-bug nightmare on New Year's Day, officials said a strike would not interfere with the Sugar Bowl football game.

The strike involved the cleanup crew and 75,000 fans of Pittsburgh or Georgia will arrive shortly after the departure of 50,000 music lovers from an Earth, Wind and Fire concert Friday night.

Almost any crowd leaves the $163 million sports palace strewn with paper cups and other debris, and rock concerts leave more than most.

Pre-strike plans by Superdome Services, Inc., the dome's service contractor, were to clean up the mess with an all-out effort during the wee hours and present a fresh face to the football crowd.

Exactly how many of SSI's cleanup and field arrangement crew joined the strike was not known. SSI officials said those who do not show up would be replaced. In any case, officials said the critical moment already had been dealt with.

It came when the walkout began a few hours before crews had to rearrange the moveable stands and lay down the football "turf" after Thursday night's Sugar Bowl basketball final.

The basketball configuration uses just one corner of the field, with stands moved in close from the opposite side.

With National Labor Relations Board directives already issued, pickets were limited to pacing back and forth in front of one out-of-the-way entrance used by personnel employed by Superdome Services Inc. (SSI), the dome's service contractor.

"They got us tied in knots, legally," said Mark Kosterich, a picket-line captain. "We are restricted to picketing this one entrance that nobody but the service employees use."

Thus the strike apparently could not create complications by putting picket lines in front of other unions, including ABC-TV crews setting up to televise the football game.

The walkout was called by the Service Employees International Union, and United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, which have been trying for a year to negotiate a contract with SSI.

SSI handles cleanup, field arrangements, ushering, ticket-taking, security, some maintenance, and other service work. The unions claim about 100 of SSI's 200 full-time employees.

Michigan Announcer Has 'Blue' Blood

PASADENA (AP) – Probably nowhere in the nation is there a more partisan college football announcer than Bob Ufer, who for more than three decades has been broadcasting University of Michigan games.

He is so partisan that it is said he has maize and blue blood. Maybe not, but he does have a maize (that's yellow, folks) and blue telephone, maize and blue rug, maize and blue lamp and a blue car with a maize vinyl roof.

Despite his biases, NBC Radio has asked Ufer to join Stu Nahan of California in handling color and play-by-play of Saturday's Rose Bowl game between the No. 2 maize-and-blue Wolverines and the No. 3 cardinal-and-gold Trojans.

"They told me I'm not just broadcasting to the great state of Michigan," Ufer said. "There are 49 other states that'll be listening. They said I should be impartial and unbiased.

"I said I'd try my best, but after 32 years and 313 consecutive broadcasts of Michigan football games it's going to be hard not to say: 'Bo George Patton Schembechler's disciplined troops did it again!'"

Ufer, 56, often compares Michigan Coach Schembechler to the crusty World War II Army general.

Although this is Ufer's first Rose Bowl broadcast assignment, he said he has worked at every Rose Bowl game Michigan has played since 1948.

"I spotted in 1948 for Bill Stern, in 1951 for Red Barber, in 1965 for Lindsey Nelson on TV and for Curt Gowdy on TV in 1970 and '72," he said.

Last year he broadcast Michigan's Orange Bowl game in Miami against Oklahoma.

Legions of Old Blues – Michigan alumni – wouldn't miss Ufer's broadcasts, not everyone appreciates them.

A recent Detroit newspaper editorial described Ufer as "hysterical, moronic and tasteless. Probably most rabid fans prefer a 'homer,' an announcer who 'lives and dies' with the local heroes, but really, now, shouldn't there be limits to cheerleading in the broadcasting booth?"

Ufer's career began in 1940 at Evanston, Ill., when he was asked to replace an ailing spotter for sportscaster Bill Stern at a Northwestern game.

He was so successful that by 1945, when WPAG first went on the air in Ann Arbor, Mich., he was the broadcast voice of Michigan football. He has been ever since and plans to remain so "Till I die, which a lot of people say will be any Saturday.

"I guess I feel about broadcasting Michigan football like Woody Hayes feels about coaching. I love it so much. If you've got to go you might as well go doing something you like."

Pros Vs. College On TV

NEW YORK (AP) – The battle of the baskets, network-style, begins Sunday with the pros going against the amateurs for supremacy in the ratings.

NBC begins a run of 10 straight national college basketball Sunday telecasts with a doubleheader featuring No. 1 ranked Michigan against South Carolina and Houston against UCLA. CBS counters with a lineup of NBA games that will run through the playoffs. The first two games will be televised nationally and then the network will go with regional games the rest of the way.

It will mark the first time that college sports have been pitted against pro sports on a regular basis on television and will doubtless renew age-old arguments over which version is more fun to watch.

NBC is betting that viewers will prefer the scramble and passion of the collegiates over the more reserved, orchestrated play of the pros. CBS is hoping fans will turn to the more recognizable names and higher level of talent in the pros.

NBC, working in conjunction with the TVS network, made the plunge into a full-time Sunday schedule on the basis of an experiment last season. The network televised two national college games on Sunday last season and outdid the NBA in the ratings both times.

On Jan. 25 Maryland-North Carolina pulled a 23 per cent share, meaning 23 per cent of television sets in the United States that were on were tuned to NBC, as opposed to an 18 share for Buffalo against the Knicks on CBS. On March 7 the Marquette-South Carolina game got a 24 share compared to 18 for the Knicks against Washington.

NBC also points to the fact that seven of the top ten basketball audiences of all time, including the top four, have been for college games, starting with UCLA against Kentucky in the 1975 NCAA championship game.

"We don't look at it as a fight against the NBA," insists TVS President Eddie Einhorn. "The NBA will be there, sure, but we think there is a big enough audience for both of us."

CBS has countered by revising its NBA plans. This time around there will be four regional games most Sundays, giving telecasts a more local flavor, with an occasional national doubleheader game thrown in. "Red On Roundball", a halftime feature in which Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach explains the fine points of the game, returns and the package will be further enhanced by a slam dunk contest to run throughout the season.

The network will have its "Challenge of the Sexes" show as a lead-in every week and telecasts, for the most part, will start the same time every Sunday. "Last year we had games starting at 1 p.m., games starting at 4 and so on. This year, with most of the games starting at the same time and with a solid lead-in, it will work," says Herb Gross, CBS sports director.

Brent Musberger, Don Criqui, Gary Bender and Jerry Gross will announce the four regional games and Mendy Rudolph, Lenny Wilkins, Billy Cunningham and a player to be named later will be the color men.

NBC offers Dick Enberg and Billy Packer, an excellent team, for its college package.

While all of this is going on, ABC will not be showing test patterns. ABC will have its Wide World of Sports, its successful Superstars show, the American Sportsman and a few golf tournaments lined up to lure viewers. The suspicion persists that with NBC and CBS splitting up the basketball audience, ABC could be a big winner

"We could be making a mistake," admits Einhorn. "We could be dividing up the basketball audience, and ABC could get everyone else. I hope not..."

"By God, he'd listen to me 'til I was through with him." – Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, joking about what he would do as a sports writer interviewing Ohio State's cantankerous football coach, Woody Hayes. – – –

"We talked about life and what God can do for you. We never discussed basketball. I kind of think it takes the pressure off the players." –

Coliseum Sets Concessions

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Volume Services Co. of California has won the snack concession for 15 years at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, a spokesman has announced.

The Coliseum Commission, which accepted the company's bid Thursday, will receive 35.1 per cent of the firm's sale and $1.75 million to improve the sports facility's concession services.

The action is subject to approval by city, county and state agencies. Last week, Los Angeles County supervisors said they planned to give the concession award close scrutiny. A letter from Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp said a background check had disclosed nothing negative about Volume Services.

Saban Selects 4 Assistants

MIAMI (AP) – Lou Saban, recently named University of Miami football coach, picked four assistant coaches Friday,including two already on the Miami staff.

Saban, hired earlier this month, named Buffalo Bills assistant coach Ed Cavanaugh as offensive line coach. Cavanaugh, 48, had been with Buffalo since 1972.

Berry's World

"Frank is still unhappy that the Dallas Cowboys didn't go all the way to the Super Bowl. He likes their cheerleaders best!"

Dogs Vs. Dorsett:

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Some dogs chase mailmen. Some chase cars. But Georgia's Junkyard Dogs will be chasing Tony Dorsett in the Sugar Bowl.

"The Dogs vs. Dorsett. You can't help but be excited," said Georgia linebacker Ben Zambiasi, holding back the yelps while pointing toward Saturday's college football game against top-ranked Pittsburgh.

"You can expect a real physical, real intense game," said Dorsett, a top dog himself with 18 NCAA records and one Heisman Trophy. "When you're hit by one of the Junkyard Dogs, I'm quite sure you realize you're in a football game."

The biggest Georgia defender is lineman Ronnie Swoopes, a 245-pounder who outweighs any other member of the pack by at least 20 pounds.

Despite that relative lack of size on defense, Georgia allowed an average of only 10.7 points per game this season.

"Georgia will have the most intense, intent defense we've played all year," said Pitt offensive coach Joe Avezzano. "They're always at an emotional peak, jumping up and down, patting each other on the back."

"They're not the biggest, but they're the chasing-est defense we've seen," said Pitt tight end Jim Corbett

Georgia's defensive alignment amounts to what coaches call an eight-man front, bunching four linebackers at the line with four linemen.

Pitt had problems running on that defense this season against Duke and Penn State, but it found two solutions.

Against Duke, quarterback Matt Cavanaugh threw five touchdown passes.

Against Penn State, Pitt moved Dorsett to fullback in the second half, setting him closer to the line for quick openers up the middle, including a 40-yard touchdown run.

"Pitt is a running team first, and you have to stop that," said 190-pound Georgia defensive end Dicky Clark.

My Juliet, winner of an Eclipse award as the nation's top thorougbred sprinter of 1976, heads the field for today's $40,000-added Las Flores Stakes at Santa Anita.

She will carry 128 pounds, including jockey Tony Black, in the six-furlong test for fillies and mares 4-year-olds and older. Just A Kick, who won this event last year at a $71 payoff, and Modus Vivendi are among the top contenders. Laffit Pincay Jr. has the mount on Just A Kick and Jerry Lambert rides Modus Vivendi.

My Juliet, who turns 5-years-old on Saturday, won six of eight starts in 1976, including the last five.

The new year also will usher in Chicago's refurbished Washington Park, which will present thoroughbred racing for the first time since 1970. The $10,000-added New Year's Handicap will head the card.

Victorian Prince carries top weight of 122 in heading the field of 12 for the $75,000-added W.L. McKnight Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at Calder. Visier is second high weight at 120 and Hall of Reason is next at 119 in the about 1 1/8 mile turf course event.

Pistol White, winner of five straight, totes 120 pounds in topping the field for the $34,600 Germantown Handicap at Keystone. Eleven are scheduled to go in the 1 1/16 mile test for 4-year-olds and older.

Tijuana To Tax Races, Jai Alai

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) – A proposed city tax would take up to 5 per cent of the winnings of bettors at Agua Caliente racetrack and the jai alai palace in Tijuana.

Mayor Fernando Marquez Arce said Mexico's treasury secretary is expected to rule on the tax within two weeks.

If approved in Mexico City, Marquez Arce said it would be the first municipal tax on a Mexican race track. It would produce $1 Million annually, he said.

The tax would apply to horse and greyhound racing, foreign book and jai alai events but not to the national lottery, raffles or other charity fund-raising events. Tijuana's city treasury has suffered under the recent peso devaluations.

Marquez Arce said a federal study indicates the tax would be feasible, but the president of the Baja California legislature said it might deter tourists.

No discussion of the proposal was held with California or jai alai officials before he submitted it to Mexico City this week, the mayor said Thursday.

The thoroughbred track, which is owned by 10 stockholders, is reported to be in debt by $15.5 million as a result of a 1971 fire and subsequent rebuilding program. A spokesman said its gross profits reach $1.5 million weekly with 80 per cent of that returning to bottors in winnings. Another 4 per cent goes to the federal government and 10 per cent to the track owners for expenses and profit, the spokesman said.

Fighting Saints Meet Payroll

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) – The Minnesota Fighting Saints have met their payroll and the World Hockey Association club will continue to operate on a regular basis, President Bob Brown said Friday.

"We considered several options and the one that was most obvious was the one that was overlooked," Brown said. "That was simply to make the payroll ourselves, which we did."

Venezuelan Jockey Ace Joins 'Anita Colony'

An international aspect will be injected into the already seemingly boiling competition for riding honors at Santa Anita with the arrival Tuesday of Venezuelan champion Jose Luis Vargas to free-lance.

Vargas was the leading apprentice of 1969 at Caracas and annually was at or near the top of the journeyman list until five months ago, when he came to the United States to try new challenges. He has ridden more than 50 winners on the East Coast since his arrival, his two most noteworthy efforts being in the Marlboro Cup and Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park – two great stakes in which he failed because as he puts it, "too much Forego."

Vargas, 28, has had 11 years of experience and has ridden as Venezuela's representative in Panama, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Puerto Rico.

Dubbed a "natural athlete" by his countrymen in South America, Vargas decided at age eight he would become a baseball player. He was pronounced good, but too small. He next turned to bull fighting, with the same verdict – promising, but too small.

His friends advised him that the race track was a natural for his talents and size (currently 109 pounds), and after a year's apprenticeship he became an almost instantaneous success.

The son of a carpenter, Vargas has a "racing" family in his two younger brothers. One is a successful trainer in Caracas, the other a veterinary student at the University of Minnesota.

Five months ago Vargas left Venezuela for New York to ride a horse as a favor to a trainer friend, but in the race another horse fell in front of him, and he went down in the tangle. Chagrined at his debut, he decided to stay on to prove to Americans that he was a top rider.

He engaged Mario Ignacio Velasquez, who has handled such as Eddie Belmonte and Fernando Alvarez, as his agent and decided on a Santa Anita winter campaign.

Market On High Note

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-- The stock market came on strong in the last week of 1976, inspired by growing optimism about economic prospects for the new year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 19.03 to 1,004.65, extending its gain for the yearend rally that began Nov. 10 to 80.61 points.

Thanks to a 5.56-point rise on Friday, the average stood above 1,000 at New Year's for only the second time in market history.

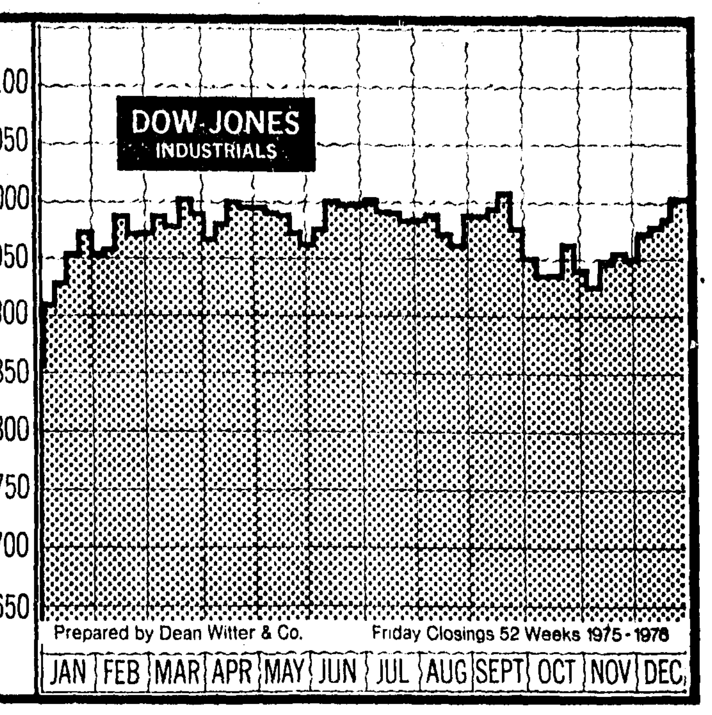

The first came four years ago, when it finished at 1,020.02 as it approached the record closing high of 1,051.70 set on Jan. 11 of 1973.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index picked up 2.62 to 107.46, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 1.39 to 57.88.

The one missing element in the market's New Year's celebration was the heavy trading volume that usually accompanies significant rallies.

Turnover on the NYSE averaged 22.14 million shares, down from 24.15 million in the previous week and the slowest pace set all month.

Since Friday's prices are to be used as a base for figuring taxable capital gains in estates from now on, the rally of the past several weeks amounted to something of a tax break for many heirs of the future.

They won't have to pay capital gains taxes on whatever ground their stocks gained before Dec. 31. Estate taxes, of course, are not affected.

The belief seemed to grow on Wall Street during the week that the economy was gathering momentum heading into 1977, after a sluggish spell since last summer.

The government reported at mid-week that its index of leading economic indicators rose 1 per cent in November for its strongest showing since June.

Investors apppeared satisfied ith the restrained pace of inflation of late, and with the relatively low level of interest rates.

And Wall Street was assuminghat President-elect Carter would push for whatever stimulus the economy might need from Washington in the months ahead.

For the year the market fell well short of matching its spectacular 1975 showing, when the Dow soared 38.3 per cent.

But te average did manage to gain 152.24 points, or 17.9 per cent, and many of the secondary stocks not represented by the Dow did exceptionally well in the closing stages of the year.

Meat Animals Jump In Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices for meat animals rose an average of 7 per cent on the government's latest monthly farm price report, heralding increases for consumers in meat prices over current levels.

The prices received by farmers were up 3 per cent between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday. Higher prices for cattle and hogs helped increase the average, which had dropped in four of the five previous months.

The department said Thursday that prices of beef cattle were up $1 to an average of $32.10 a hundredweight, and hogs rose $5.20 to $36.30 a hundredweight.

Despite those increases, livestock prices still were 11 per cent below a year ago. Including all commodities, farm prices were down 4 per cent from Dec. 15, 1975.

Higher cattle prices mean beef will cost consumers more next year. Anticipating the increase, the department last month predicted that beef will average 10 cents a pound more in 1977 than in 1976.

Despite the increase in live hog prices, they still are well below levels of a year ago. According to the department, consumers can expect pork prices in 1977 to average about five cents a pound less than in 1976.

Today's Stock List A Document

For estate purposes, today's New York and American stock lists become a document valuable for filing with currently owned stock certificates that is likely to be passed on to future heirs.

By terms of the "Tax Reform Act of 1976," an average of the high and low prices during Friday's transactions becomes the basis for computing the profit on future stock sales by heirs.

For example, if 1,000 shares of a corporation traded Friday at a high of $10.375 per share and a low of $10.125, the average would be $10.25. In the future, should an heir sell the stock, the profit on the sale will be computed by using the $10.25 figure as the basic price of acquisition.

For that reason, The Register's stock list today includes Friday's high and low prices instead of the usual week's high and low.

This provision of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 applies only to marketable securities acquired before 1977 and inherited after 1976. Other provisions of the new law apply to other estate situations.

Heileman Acquires Rainier Brew

LA CROSSE, WIS. (AP) — G. Heileman Brewery Co., Inc., of La Crosse, has completed its agreement to acquire the Rainier Brewing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

Heileman President Russell B. Cleary and Edwin S. Coombs Jr., president of The Rainier Companies, Inc., announced Friday that a definitive purchase agreement had been signed and ratified by directors of both firms. Tentative agreement was announced Nov. 29.

The agreement, scheduled for completion in late February, will be presented to Rainier shareholders for approval. The transaction involves the brewing company and certain real estate and other assets related to brewery operations.

The agreement provides a purchase price of $6.3 million, plus an estimated $1.7 million in working capital for a total of $8 million.

Rainier has a capacity of over one million barrels a year, and its sales for the fiscal year ended last March 31 totaled over $42 million. The company has 119 independent wholesalers selling in Washington, Oregon, California, Alaska, Idaho, Montana and Hawaii. Cleary and Coombs said the Rainier Brewery would continune to operate in Seattle as a separate entity.

Heileman, which through a series of acquisitions in recent years has become the nation's eighth largest brewery, had sales of $197.5 million for the first nine months of 1976, a 22 per cent increase. Earnings were $9.2 million, a 116 per cent increase. i

Heileman, founded in 1853, has breweries at La Crosse, Newport, Ky., Evansville, Ind. and St. Paul, Minn. It also owns six bakeries selling principally in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois, and owns Machine Products Co., Inc., a manufactuer of precision jet engine parts.

British Pound Unchanged At Close

LONDON (AP) — The pound closed unchanged from Thursday in year-end trading Friday on the London foreign exchange market.

Trading was at a virtual standstill in the pre-holiday lull.

Sterling closed at $1.7020, unchanged from its London overnight level.

Although the pound has risen fairly steadily since it plunged to a historic low of less than $1.57 on Oct. 28, it remains over 30 cents below the $2.03 mark prevailing at the beginning of 1976.

One dealer at a major British bank was bullish for sterling over the near-term, predicting the pound would hold steady for a few months before firming to about $1.75-$1.80 by late spring.

In other trading Friday, the dollar:

–Rose against the West German mark to 2.36 marks to the dollar from Thursday's 2.3555.

–Gained against the Swiss franc from 2.4457 Thursday to 2.4505.

–Was up against the French franc from 4.9615 to 4.9650.

–Edged up against the Japanese yen from 292.80 to 293.17.

Year-End Stock Tables Monday

Monday's financial section of The Register will carry a complete listing of the New York, American and National Over-The Counter stocks' price ranges over the past year. The tables will include, in addition to the high and low for the year, the price-earnings ratio, closing price and last change. The section will also carry other indicies concerning stock market activity.

Steel Cleanup Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel company, formally signed a $600-million, seven-year agreement Thursday to clean the air belching from its massive Clairton Coke Works.

The Register BUSINESS-FINANCE

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Economy Perks Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The American economy showed new signs of life in the last week of 1976.

There were a number of encouraging reports on sales and production in key industries and business leaders seemed hopeful that President-elect Jimmy Carter's economic proposals would be sound.

Among developments:

–The Commerce Department's index of leading economic indicators rose a strong 1 per cent in November to 127.5 per cent of the 1967 average. The index, considered an important forecast of business trends, had gained 0.6 per cent in October, an upward revision from 0.2 per cent.

–November contracts for new construction throughout the nation rose 37 per cent in November to $7.69 billion, according to McGraw-Hill's F.W. Dodge unit. There was a big increase in apartment building, which had been down.

George Christie, Dodge's chief economist, said, "It appears that the recovery of the construction industry is back on the track."

–Some of the nation's retailers said their Christmas business exceeded the strong totals of the 1975 holiday season.

–Detroit's automakers said that production in January will exceed the year-earlier month by 21 per cent.

–The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, a barometer of stock market activity, broke the 1,000 barrier again in the past week.

–Democrats in the House of Representatives said President-elect Carter was partial to a plan to double or triple the $2 billion public-works program enacted last fall.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said the nation's basic money supply rose $700 million in the week ended Dec. 22 to $311.1 billion. Some money market analysts had expected a large drop in the supply of cash in circulation and in checking accounts.

Illegal Aliens Get Blame For Job Scarcity

HOUSTON (AP) — Some 80,000 jobs in southwest Texas that could be filled by American citizens currently are held by illegal aliens, a district director of the U.S Immigration and Naturalization Service says.

If employers would stop hiring the illegal aliens, "we could create about 30,000 jobs in the Houston area and up to 80,000 in the 30 counties in our district," G. W. Heston said.

He said he agrees with Labor Secretary-designate F. Ray Marshall that businessmen should be discouraged from hiring foreign laborers and that those who do should be penalized.

"We could create jobs for the unemployed and maybe even create better jobs for some who are underemployed," Heston said.

Lear Siegler Pact

SANTA MONICA — Lear Siegler, Inc. has received a $25.2 million air force contract for production of digital naviation/weapon delivery systems for Phantom jets.

The award is the first production contract for the advanced airborne system, which was developed by Lear Siegler for the Air Force to improve guidance and weapon delivery capabilities of military aircraft. It will be installed on RF-4D and F-4E Phantom jets in the Air Force's inventory.

EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

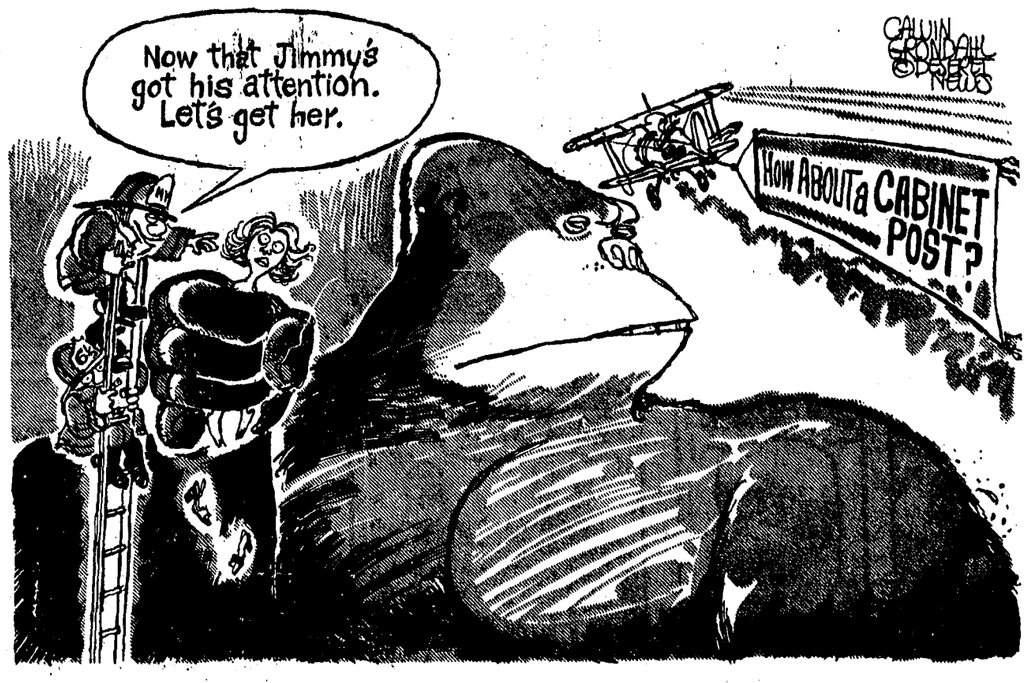

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Smile

So closes the bicentennial year, when Jefferson's clarion to the world was noted with a remarkable sense of American community; when, despite the homages to liberty, a miniscule segment of the voters prepared the way for an administration impervious to the spirit of minimal government; when some rain and snow came in time to be recorded in California's annals.

Trite to say, an eventful year. Mao Tse-tung, the greatest butcher of the modern age, and probably of all ages, died, leaving the largest country to turmoil and Western political leaders and journalists pronouncing the most inane sentimentalities over his mortal bones. The New Man promised by the 1948 communist revolution? He was as permanent as a wall poster; as starved, as ignorant and as shabbily sheltered and clothed as any peasants from time immemorial.

The Soviet Union, except for its party elite, is poor still; its barbarism is not terribly distinguishable form the reign of Ivan the Terrible. Party boss Leonard Brezhnev appears destined to the same fate he engineered against Nikita Krushchev. Popular faith in the Kremlin is at a low ebb; dissidents are emboldened as never before.

In Southern Africa the ancestral home of Anglican settlers is about to be upheaved, owing to American diplomatic hypocrisy, in time for a black mobocracy. That is not, we hasten to say, a racist judgment, but an assessment of political values. In Mozambique the black Marxist dictatorship sends its guerrillas to machine-gun to death some 20 black workers for the simple crime of working on a farm across the southern border. There are more black prisoners, under the "poet" dictator Machel, than before the Portuguese exited. So much for Bob Dylan's cherry ditty, its historical reference unclear, about Mozambique.

In Cambodia the genocide continues. In America the silence, with few exceptions, continues. In Vietnam brutality is the rule, with "re-education camps" an unsuccessful euphemism for concentration camps. The Saigon of Ky and Thieu was corrupt. "Ho Chi Minh City," Hanoi South, is totalitarian. The Rev. Andrew Young, the ambassador-designate to the UN, thinks America should nurture a "strong Vietnam." So much for the consciences of Christendom.

In New York 90 erstwhile anti-war activists – Joan Baez, Roger Baldwin, Allen Ginsberg among them – condemn the new communist government of Vietnam for its brutal practices. The temptation is to wonder why they didn't support America's clumsy attempt to rescue Vietnam, in the sixties, from its fate. And yet there is an admirable consistency about their communique. The "Baez faction," for lack of a better description, has always opposed military might and political repression. Now the singer takes her cause to Ireland, where she joins a peace mavement – one of the noblest and most hopeful developments of the year.

The American business community is uneasy about the Carter team's awful misapprehensions of how an economy works. The Wall Street Journal reports predictions that food prices will hold about the same in 1977; Colonel Sanders announced a roll-back of the price of a bucket of fried chicken.

The Liberian tanker Sansinena blew up, sending a ball of red flame 10 stories above Los Angeles harbor, killing four crewmen and shattering windows throughout San Pedro. The Liberian tanker Argo Merchant fouled the waters off Nantuckett, killing birds. The incontinent supership, Olympic Games, did the same in the Deleware River. Politicians and the sages of Times-Mirror Square have called for mandatory shipboard inspections on boats about to be retired anyway, while dragging their feet on nuclear energy – the speedy development of which would assign oil tankers to the natural history museums.

In California the governor and his creative finance director have teased property taxpayers with a revolutionary plan to subsidize some of them. Surely Jefferson didn't anticipate such brilliant revolutions each generation anew? In the Orange County Jail there has been no perceptible detente among partiaans in the nightly slugfest, and the Sheriff-Poet has not acted exactly lightning fast to correct the situation.

OCTD has doubled its bus service, and Freedom House estimates there are fewer countries, since it began making these estimates three decades or so ago, enjoying liberty and civility.

Smile. There's rain this New Year's.

The Chimes Of Justice

Griffin Bell, named by Jimmy Carter to be the new attorney general, casts additional doubt over the new cabinet. A law partner of the president-elect's closest palitical advisor, Atlanta's Charles Kirbo, Bell scarcely reassures those Americans with fresh memories of two attorneys general convicted of cronyism-related felonies. Some cleanup.

Possibly a radical change from the old years is precisely what Carter wanted to avoid, it may be argued in his defense. Richard Nixon, campaigning in 1968 for "a new attorney general" to replace the ultra-liberal Ramsey Clark, used great hooplah in announcing as his choice a two-fisted law-and-order advocate. What we got was John Mitchell, another law partner; he turned criminal. And so did Richard Kleindienst, Mitchell's hapless replacement.

Did Carter suppose starting with suspicion would prevent the same kind of comparisons? We mean: comparisons of promise with fulfillment. Were Americans to lower their expectations of the appointee? Probably nothing so Machiavellian.

Alas, the selection of Griffin Bell was, precisely, unclever. It is time – even now, even before Jan. 20 – to stop thinking of Jimmy Carter as some sort of political genius. There will be plenty more mistakes, of nuance as well as of strategy and morality, to come from this bankrupt administration.

Today In History

Today is Saturday, January 1, the first day of 1977. There are 364 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

On this date:

In 1531, the Brazilian city of Rio de Janeiro was established.

In 1735, the American patriot Paul Revere was born in Boston.

In 1863, the Homestead Act went into effect. A soldier in the Union Army staked out the first claim to a tract of land near Beatrice, Neb.

In 1901, the Commonwealth of Australia was proclaimed.

In 1959, the Cuban revolution led by Fidel Castro triumphed. Dictator Fulgencio Batista fled the island.

In 1970, Israeli jets were striking Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: Kurt Kiesinger succeeded Ludwig Erhard as West German Chancellor.

Five years ago: The United States began its 12th year in the Indochina conflict with troop cutbacks and heavy air strikes.

One year ago: A Lebanese airliner crashed in the desert in Saudi Arabia, killing the 82 passengers and crew members.

Today's birthday: Republican Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is 66.

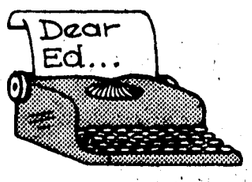

Thought for today: Years, as they come, bring blessings in their train. Years, as they go, take blessings back again. – Horace, poet and satirist of ancient Rome.

Volunteering

"An individual favors a war only if he will volunteer to risk his own life in it. He favors going to the moon only if he would freely invest in the venture. He favors paying farmers not to farm only if he would make such payments out of his own pocket. Otherwise, pay no heed to what anyone says he favors; it is double talk!

"Focus" On Assessor

I noted with interest the Dec. 26 Focus section of The Register re-capping the Orange County ten top stories of the year. Regrettably, seven of the stories deal with outright criminals. This is in keeping with the news media's obsession with, and aggrandizing of criminals and the macabre.

I think that, perhaps, high on the list of "top ten stories" should have been the O.C. tax hastle. Total coverage of which, and intensity of interest thereof, exceeded some of the stories included in the list.

Also, in the same issue of The Register, quite a spread was devoted to our dazzling O.C. assessor, Bradley Jacobs. I could not determine which staff was dazzled: The Register staff, or the assessor's staff.

In either case, I myself was bedazzled, bedimmed, bedevilled, befuddled and bedraggled, (the latter as a result of my confiscatorial tax burden).

There are some revealing facets of Mr. Jacobs tenure as assessor. (I commend Sandi Moseley for an excellent job of reporting, and no way, no how, do I cast any aspersions her way regarding Mr. Jacobs as he appears under her illuminating by-line).

1. "Jacobs says he didn't know much more than the average taxpayer about property assessments when he took the job a little over a year ago." Join the club, good buddy; and since my taxes are indeed placing me in a bind, would you like an equally innocent tyro as an assistant to help with your department's ball of wax?

2. "Mr. Jacobs was surprised when he received his card in the mail." But which way surprised? Was it pleasant? After all, in the small community of Mission Viejo, some homeowners experienced increases of 40 per cent or so, while Mr. Jacobs' was up 25-1/4 per cent. Dear, dear, Mr. Jacobs. The average increase county-wide was a "record" 18-plus per cent. The increase in my assessment is 47 per cent. Mr. Jacobs' appraisal was up 14 per cent plus; my appraisal is up 35 per cent plus.

3. Besides, the above figures, when applied to Mr. Jacobs' concern for equity, are cause for more bedazzlement when he says: "Under the plan (to freeze assessments until property is resold) a homeowner might wind up paying twice the taxes that his neighbor pays, because the latter has lived there longer." The article also points out that Mr. Jacobs is the only government official fighting any property tax reform measure that would freeze assessments.

Obviously, the way to get around the inequity that Mr. Jacobs stresses in the foregoing is to increase taxes for everyone, leave no one trailing behind. And on the basis of his 25-1/4 per cent increase, as compared to others in his community of 40 per cent increase, and my own of 47 per cent, his solution is to hold down some, while raising others: the unequal equalizer.

4. Though Mr. Jacobs claims not to have known what his tax assessment was until he was told by his wife, nevertheless he did say, as reported in the Sept. 17 Register, that "the taxpayers would have the hell scared out of them" when they received their tax notices. It's hard to believe that Mr. Jacobs didn't know what was going on. Anyway, I'm still "scared" at his attitude in the above quote.

5. The article, excellently written, winds up with Mr. Jacobs declaiming, "I took the job because I wanted to see if things that work in all the rest of the world can work here." He adds, "They do." What, and where, in the world, do you use as a frame of reference? England? Italy? France? Timbuktu? The rest of the world?

6. And for the rest? Mr. Jacobs says he doesn't know if he will seek election in 1978. "I'm a novice when it comes to politics. I wouldn't know how to start, but I wouldn't want to see anybody undo the good things I've done here."

That merits a good belly-laugh, if it wasn't for the spectre of my spring of '77 tax payment rising up to take the joy out of Mr. Jacobs' success story.

On Defending KKK

No one ever has, or should ever dare, suggest a relationship with, an admiration for, an iota of anything but disgust by our organization for the Grand Exalted Cyclops and his pathetic gang at Camp Pendleton.

Few of us can, after any soul searching, see any justifiable reason for the existence of the Ku Klux Klan and the depraved minds supporting it. The basic tenets of the organization remind us of Bergen-Belsen, Auschwitz-Birkenau, Babii Yar and Wounded Knee. We would simply be a far finer society were we rid of them. Then why defend them?

It has been our unfortunate history to be the refuge of last resort for all those in our society who legitimately enjoy the protection of the Constitution, from the deprived unfortunates of minority races and creeds to the depriving miserables of such as the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party. I say unfortunate history because, despite the legitimacy of those Constitutional guarantees, it never fails to steep us in divisive controversy. High school civics classes simply didn't do the trick. And why do we insist on defending the rights of both ends of the spectrum? It should be obvious enough to stop the ridiculous dispute now smoldering in our midst. Free speech for all is the law, not the exception!

Ramona Ripston's response to the San Diego/Ku Klux Klan debacle was dead accurate about one point – our past defenses of other such bigots as George Lincoln Rockwell were no less controversial and no less correct.

Our organization's strength, indeed our country's strength, is based on a concept of no exceptions to the laws embodied in the Bill of Rights. That we've occasionally fallen short is lamentable; that we've constantly striven to correct our shortcomings is laudible. Our shibboleth is civil liberties for all. Any exceptions to that rule will lead us down the broad path to more Bergen-Belsens, Auschwitz-Birkenaus, Babii Yars and Wounded Knees, or to paraphrase George Santayana's proverbial statement: those of us who refuse to learn from history are surely doomed to repeat it.

War Declared?

Have the Liberians declared war on the United States?? If so they sure have a "slick" way of going abour it!!

Like most Americans I can understand the need for the import of foreign oil in this country. But how much of our environmental standards must we give up to satisfy our needs?I don't know whether Liberians think they're doing us a good deed by placing their oil directly on our shores, but we as Americans would rather have it placed in storage tanks.

Its about time our government took another look at our maritime rules and regulations regarding oil tankers of foreign registry shipping oil to U.S. ports.

ACCURACY IN MEDIA

Enemy Espionage Gets Little Attention

By REED IRVINE

WASHINGTON – American news media for some time have had an obsession for revealing secret deeds and misdeeds of the CIA and FBI. More recently a great deal of attention has been focused on the South Korean CIA, and the intelligence services of Chile and Iran have also come under media investigation.

What is striking is the almost total lack of interest in the activities of intelligence services of countries hostile to the United States.

For example, on Dec. 20, the Anderson-Whitten column came up with some very interesting information bearing on the activities of Fidel Castro intelligence operatives in this country. The story seemed to be particularly newsworthy since it involved very sensitive documents found in the attache case of Orlando Letelier, the former Chilean ambassador and cabinet officer who was killed by a bomb in Washington, D.C., last September.

Police took Letelier's attache case from his bombed automobile and made photocopies of the contents. The documents have not been made public, but a few of them have been leaked to Jack Anderson.

One is a letter to Letelier from Beatrice Allende, daughter of the late Marxist president of Chile, who is married to Luis Fernandez Ona, the No. 2 man in Castro's spy agency, the DGI. The letter, dated May 8, 1975, informed Letelier that he would be getting $5,000 to support his work, to be followed by monthly payments of $1,000. The money was to be channeled through the East Berlin headquarters of the Chilean Socialist Party. The letter did not say who was providing the money, but Anderson said that intelligence sources said it could not have been transmitted without the approval of the Cuban government.

Who was paying Letelier? Was it the DGI? What services was he performing for his $1,000 a month? This cries out for investigation. Anderson could get no satisfactory answers from either Mrs. Letelier or from Beatrice Allende. He tried, but neither the AP nor the UPI picked up the story. The media organs that had given such extensive coverage to Letelier's murder showed no interest at all in the embarrassing contents of his attache case.

Another document in the case was a letter written by one of his associates addressed to Emilio Brito, a Cuban intelligence functionary. The letter thanked Brito for "scholarly material" received from Julian Rizo. Rizo is the first secretary of the Cuban mission to the United Nations, but he is actually one of Castro's top intelligence officers in this country. The writer of the letter, whose identity was protected by Anderson, promised to send "academic information" to Brito through Rizo. Letelier was to leave for Cuba the day he was killed. He evidently planned to deliver this letter to Brito personally.

Anderson said that the author of the letter denied knowing that Brito and Rizo were intelligence officers. But again there are unanswered questions. What was the academic material that was being exchanged? Why did it have to go through the Cuban UN mission rather than through the mail? Why was a letter mentioning this exchange so sensitive that it had to be hand-carried rather than entrusted to the mails?

These are but two of the many documents found in Letelier's attache case. They are being held by the Justice Department. We have seen no demands in the press that all the documents be made public or that the Cuban DGI activity in this country be investigated. Indeed, the wire services and the leading papers have not even carried news stories about Anderson's revelations. They have shown little interest in digging deeper into the case themselves. Now if Letelier had been getting the money from the South Korean entrepreneur, Tongsun Park, that would be different.

INSIDE LABOR

A Boycott Of South Africa?

By VICTOR RIESEL

UNITED NATIONS – Strong foreign Socialist and Communist labor leaders, many of whom personally control powerful nations, are whipping up a global whirlwind of selective indignation against the Republic of South Africa.

This unprecedented campaign crackles at this very critical moment when African racial conflicts finally have an outside chance of settlement without the bloodletting of razor-edged pangas, machetes and international proletarian Cuban-wielded, Soviet-Skoda-made machine guns.

This new drive is no mere outpouring of mimeographed anti-apartheid rhetoric. This is the real thing – the grounding of South African commercial aircraft, the ban on turning around Pretoria's ocean-spanning freighters and tankers in world harbors, the refusal to move cargo on land, sea or in the air to or from southern Africa and the call for worldwide strikes against the Republic of South Africa.

The summons for a full hemisphere by hemisphere boycott of the Afrikaan government, its industry, mining and transcontinental commerce, was launched a few weeks ago by the high command of the Brussels-based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions (ICFTU). This powerful supra-labor government is about as known in the U.S. as is orchid-growing in Alaska.

But this ICFTU can be powerful. If has networks within networks of labor organizations, the leaders of which are prime ministers, chancellors or chiefs of runner-up opposition parties.

It's this network which now has called a week-long "full action" and consumer boycott of the Republic of South Africa beginning Jan. 17.

Though ostensibly opposed to the Soviets' own secret-police controlled global labor network, known as the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) headquartered in Prague, the Socialist and organized labor chiefs appear to have parlayed concerted action with the Communists.

First the ICFTU met late in November in Brussels and called for the crippling action. This socialist high command was aware that the Stalinist-controlled WFTU was set to meet two weeks later in New Delhi. Of course, with the Socialists on record, it was a simple matter for the Communist bloc to fall into line. Thus, the global boycott, which will whip up anger and rip up the peaceful interracial Geneva conference, is ostensibly not Communist-tainted.

So, the global central labor organization in Brussels (speaking for such unions as the German DGB, the British TUC, etc.) is coordinated in this week of action against the Republic of South Africa with the Soviets and their client army, the Cuban expeditionary force, now killing villagers in southern Africa.

This is harsh, but true. Bloodily so.

But one powerful organized labor force will be missing. The AFL-CIO, led by George Meany, rejected an invitation to join with the ICFTU, which it bolted in 1969. Most American organized labor repudiates selective indignation.

It wants action against the Soviet Union, which has now acknowledged by its release on Dec. 19 of the world famous dissenter, biologist Vladimir Bukovsky, that it runs slave labor camps and imprisons freedom fighters in insane asylums.

When the former German labor union chief, Otto Kersten, now ICFTU general secretary, cabled Meany an urgent appeal to join in the worldwide boycott, the American organized labor leader replied last week:

"Reference, your cable concerning Human Rights Day and a week of trade union activity against South Africa, please be adivsed that the AFL-CIO will continue its public and long-standing opposition to the apartheid policy of the governments of Rhodesia and South Africa.

"However, the AFL-CIO will not join in any momentary activity which indicates the misconception of, or blindness to, the double standard of selecting certain repressive regimes for attack and others for currying favor.

"The AFL-CIO will support measures which apply sanctions against regressive regimes when those actions are taken with the full understanding that coercive and brutal political systems are indivisible in the eyes of free working men and women the world over. Any other position mocks the grave and perilous conditions of millions of workers in bondage to dictatorial and minority regimes on every continent and would aid and encourage oppressors not the oppressed." Signed George Meany, president.

What the Socialists seek is to pressure the world in general, and specifically the International Labor Organization (ILO) and its parent United Nations, into "an embargo of all economic, social, cultural and sporting contacts with South Africa." There isn't a whisper about boycotting the world Olympics because it's being held in Moscow in August 1980.

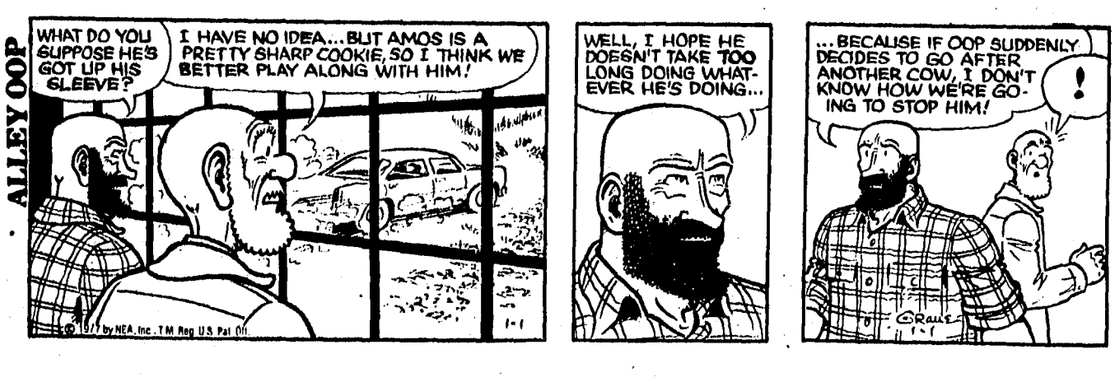

Nor is there recognition of the pragmatic fact that the Republic of South Africa deals commercially with 19 black African nations – all the way from Angola to the Malagsy Republic. And points north and south.

And, grounding South African scheduled and chartered airplanes would affect airports in at least five black African lands. South Africa's exports to the rest of Africa came to over $493 million in 1975. This increased in 1976. Further, black African nations sold the Republic of South Africa some $133 million worth of exports during the first five months of 1976

Boat homes of river people lie along banks of China's Lichiang River. AP Newsfeatures.

Small tug boats like this one ply Lichiang, taking tourists on six-hour rides.

The Enchanting Lichiang

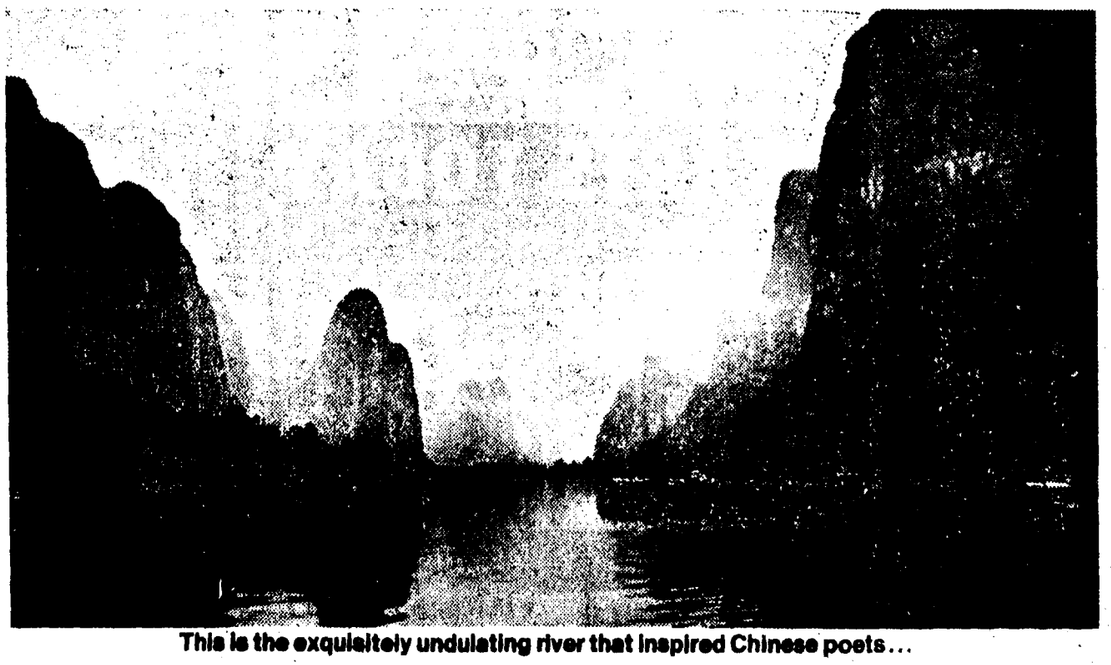

To go for a boat ride down the Lichiang River between Kweilin and Yangshuo is to float into the exquisite world of a Chinese landscape painting. This is a region of Kwangsi province in southern China that's long been famous for its beauty. The limpid river curves between soaring, jade green mountain peaks that cluster dramatically along its banks. Elegant spires, rocky precipices and caves come together in an astonishing poetry of form flung mistily up toward heaven, mirrored in the crystal waters below.

These marvelous views have, in fact, inspired generations of Chinese poets and painters. You can read about them in the country's literature and you can see them reflected in many a painting. The views have attracted sightseers and tourists, too, since ancient times, and they still do. Nowadays you can take a six-hour excursion down the river on a comfortable boat, towed by a little steam boat and helped through difficult shallows by boatmen wielding oars.

Glimpsed through trees: tranquil charm of curving river in China's Kwangsi province.

This is the exquisitely undulating river that inspired Chinese poets...

...and painters, whose landscapes often show these jade green mountains, soaring into misty heights.

The Register ENTERTAINMENT

HOT POTATO – Gene Wilder, right, acts like gun being handed to him by Richard Pryor is a hot item in this scene from "Silver Streak." The 20th Century-Fox film, currently playing in Orange County, has large doses of romance, adventure and comedy served aboard a Los Angeles to Chicago train. The climax of the film features a spectacular train crash at the Chicago station.

'Silver Streak' Director Calls For American Locales

LOS ANGELES (AP) – Ever hear of an express train that made the run from Los Angeles to Chicago via the Canadian Rockies?

That's what happened with the production of the new 20th Century-Fox film, "Silver Streak," and its makers are distressed by the roundabout route. Says director Arthur Hiller, "I think it's terrible when, at a time when the film industry is trying to keep production in this country, other industries help send production elsewhere."

"Silver Streak" concerns intrigue and murder aboard a crack Los Angeles-Chicago train, and it climaxes when the runaway engine crashes into the Chicago terminal. The obvious place to film it would have been along the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe route. But Santa Fe said no thanks.

"Maybe they didn't like the script," suggested Hiller. "I also heard the Santa Fe had a serious accident during the filming of a movie a few years ago and was leery of any more film connections.

"Amtrak was agreeable for cooperation, but it only owns trains, not roadbeds. We couldn't find any railroad that offered the locales we needed: mountains, desert, prairies and Illinois farmland. So we had to go to Canada."

For Hiller, that wasn't a sacrifice. He was born in Edmonton, Canada, got his start as a director with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation; he enjoyed working with Canadian actors and set workers, who comprised one-third of the crew.

"It was fun in that respect," said Hiller. But he added that it meant loss of money to American film workers and suppliers who would have had a bigger share of the film's $6-million budget. Hiller filmed scenes of the Silver Streak leaving the Los Angeles Union Station and arriving in Chicago, but the journey between was shot in Calgary, Toronto and along the route of the Canadian Pacific.

The climactic scene of the locomotive plowing through the terminal was filmed at Burbank's Lockheed Aircraft plant, of all places.

"That was entirely the work of the production designer, Al Sweeney," said Hiller, 53. "We had talked about using miniatures or matte shots, but Al said, 'Why not go full-scale)' We laughed, but Al was serious. He built portions of the station and the gift shop in two hangars at Lockheed, then constructed a full-scale mockup of the engine, just the front itself, nothing on the other side.

"The mockup was placed on a truck bed, and a stunt man crashed it through the set, driving without seeing where he was going. All the angles were worked out with a half-dozen cameras. Fortunately, we only had to do it once."

Hiller, whose credits include "The Americanization of Emily," "Love Story," "The Hospital, "Plaza Suite" and "Man of La Mancha," remarked that "Silver Streak" proved his toughest film. Not because of the actors, who included Gene Wilder, Jill Clayburgh, Richard Pryor, Patrick McGoohan, Ray Walston and Ned Beatty. The hard part was directing the trains, which could take hours to be turned around for another take.

"Silver Streak" was Fox's holiday attraction and will continue in release around the country into January.

Hiller said initial reviews have been disappointing. "I'm depressed," said the director.

Billie Jean Seeks More Work On TV

NEW YORK – Billie Jean King, the tennis pro, is now volleying with the TV networks about a new contract as a sports commentator. Her two-year contract with ABC expires Friday and there is some doubt that it will be renewed, although negotiations are continuing. So far, Miss King's dynamic accomplishments on the tennis courts have not led to similar stardom as a TV commentator, although it is not necessarily her fault (no pun intended).

In December 1974, ABC announced with great fanfare the signing of Billie Jean King. Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports, fronted a press conference at the 21 Club where was gathered a large contingent from the Fourth Estate, especially women who were aware of Billie Jean's work in women's lib.

Discussing her new ABC job at upwards of $125,000 a year, Billie Jean said: "If I don't have what it takes, I'll get out." Well, Miss King so far has not displayed as a TV sports commentator that she has what it takes but neither is she ready to get out. Billie Jean was never a quitter.

It's understood that in the King-ABC negotiations for a renewal of contract, the ball is now in Billie Jean's court. This could mean that ABC has no real enthusiasm for a renewal, but has made a limited offer with the attitude of take-it-or-leave-it.

Meanwhile, Barry Frank, vice president of CBS Sports, said he was scheduled to meet with Billie Jean or her representatives early next month.

SUCCESS OF 'COUSIN, COUSINE'

By JERRY OSTER
New York News

NEW YORK – In a Plaza Hotel room 16 floors above the Paris Theater, where "Cousin, Cousine" is on its way to becoming the most popular foreign film ever shown in this country, Victor Lanoux said that the movie's success was "a miracle."

Lanoux, a 40-year-old dolefull-looking motorcycle buff and mushroom expert whose portrayal of Ludovic has made him a star here and in France, was paying brief respects to New York on the way back to Paris from a tour to promote 'Cousin, Cousine" in the Midwest and South.

In an interview conducted in equal parts execrable English (his) and execrable French (mine), he speculated for probably the hundredth time in the past few days on the reasons for the movie's popularity.

"Nobody expects this phenomenon," said Lanoux, whose 11 films before "Cousin, Cousine" cast him in secondary roles. "Not because we don't think it's a good movie, but because it is, well, foreign. Still, there are some qualities in the film that all publics can see. There is the quality of freedom. There is the quality of rapport between two lovers that is very sympathetic."

The fact that he, Marie-Christine Barrault, Marie-France Pisier and Guy Marchand were all little known worked in the picture's behalf in several ways, Lanoux said.

"When you have big stars in a picture, the work is not the same. I just finished a big production – I even had a double – and we only worked when we were acting. In "Cousin, Cousine," which was, how you say, a cheap budget – Ah, low budget – there was a climate, a rapport among the players and the technicians.

"We were happy to make this film. We were not happy – because they were making no money and we were very uncomfortable, but we were also happy. Maybe an audience feels that."

PARKCENTER Cabrillo Park SOPHISTICATED APARTMENTS The Happy Alternative

Imagine—garden grounds with streams and ponds, a great swimming pool, two therapeutic pools, barbeques, sand volleyball court, billiards—and you don't have to lift a finger to keep it all up!

Picture—bright, airy apartments with patios and balconies, fireplaces, airconditioning, color-coordinated shag carpeting and drapes, lots of closets and storage space; and gas kitchens with dishwashers, continuous cleaning ovens (gas and water included in rent!)

Plus—attentive management, eager to help you, to assume responsibility for all the upkeep.

All this and prime location—seconds-close to Santa Ana and Newport Freeways, the routes to everywhere!

Move to Cabrillo Park—The Happy Alternative!

Two bedrooms and two bedroom townhouses.

Rents start at $285.
